PAIR OFFERS PROOF

Army Life? It's 'Not Bad'

By STEVE SWENSON

Michael B. Speegle, 22, rides a motorcycle and has his own apartment back East equipped with stop-the-war, end-the-draft and peace signs, black lights and beer in the refrigerator.

There is nothing unusual about Speegle's situation — many young men ride motorcycles and condemn the war and the draft — but Speegle is a specialist fourth class in the Army and his apartment is checked regularly by Army officers.

Speegle of Denver and Sp. 4 Douglas W. Reitmeyer, 22, of San Jose, are touring the country on Harley Davidson motorcycles trying to convince people that the Army is changing and they offer their experience in the Army as proof.

"The Army has a real bad image," Reitmeyer asserted yesterday in the Federal Building in San Rafael. Both men said their goal is to let people know what is happening in the Army — both good and bad. They were appearing today at Terra Linda and San Rafael high schools.

The two, who for the past month have been in more than 20 cities in 15 states, are participating in a cross-country campaign to show and to inform people what changes the Army has made through the efforts of the Modern Volunteer Army (MVA).

They explained that the MVA is a group in the Pentagon hoping to save a completely professional and volunteer Army by July, 1973. To achieve that, Reitmeyer said, the MVA is going to have to make the Army as attractive to job seekers as a large corporation.

It is somewhat ironical that the two men are campaigning for the Army because Reitmeyer said he had wanted to go to Canada escape the Army and Speegle said he tried for a conscientious objector exemption.

But both ended up "draft motivated volunteers," according to Reitmeyer, because they thought they should at least give the Army a try.

After they joined the Army last October, they said they found guaranteed schooling of their choice, no kitchen patrol or work details, no unnecessary formations (such as lining up at 4 a.m. on the whim of an officer), a regular 7 a.m. to 4 p.m. job, an opportunity for training and travel, and they could have beer in their barracks.

Both men took a 26-week course in electronics (equivalent to 30 units of college credit) and they said they can live on or off the base and have their hair long providing it doesn't hang over the back of their ears or collar.

Neither man has been in Vietnam and both say they don't want to go kill anybody. Reitmeyer said unless there is a national emergency, he and Speegle won't have to go into combat. He added, "There are plenty of guys in the Army against killing."

In remaking itself into a professional organization, Speegle said, the Army is approaching the potential soldier in much the same way business and industrial firms recruit their employees. Modeling itself on the private corporations, it seeks to make itself attractive.

Dead, according to Speegle, is the old Army of the joke that went something like this:

First soldier: "How come you're a mechanic in the motor pool?"

Second soldier: "I was a clerk-typist in civilian life."

A man can enlist for a guaranteed job training course in the place of his choice only if he qualifies and space is available, Speegle said.

If a man is accepted, he has to go through basic training for eight weeks and then attend a training school, Reitmeyer said.

The pair's tour was the brainstorm of Reitmeyer. In April, after he had been in the Army at a camp in Alabama for only six months, Reitmeyer suggested to a lieutenant-colonel that two men on motorcycles could do a better job promoting the modernization of the Army better than impersonal television advertisements.

Five days later, Reitmeyer said he found himself in the Pentagon rapping with Lt. Gen. George Forsythe, head of the MVA, about his idea.

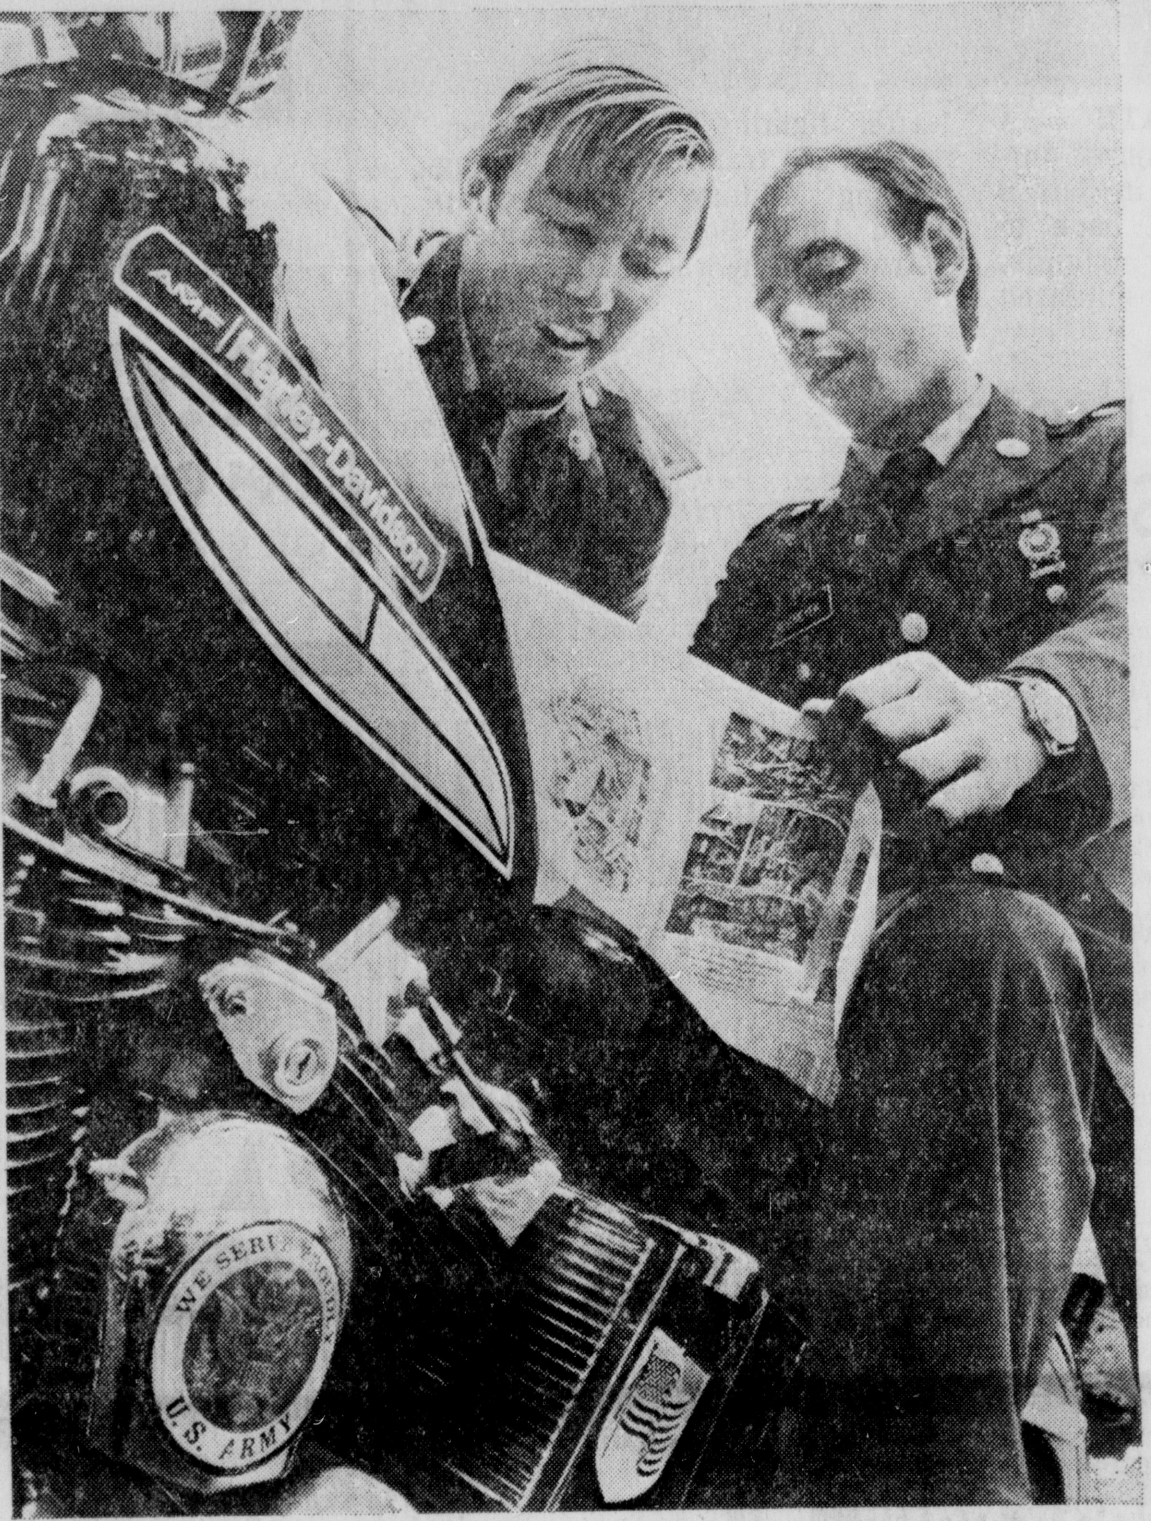
Five months later, after he got Speegle to join him and Harley Davidson Co. donated a Super-Glide and a Sportster motorcycles, the two left New York City for a 90-day, 9,000-mile tour.

Reitmeyer said they talk to people in high schools, colleges, the media and just about any other place they can reach young men. "We go out to pool halls and any other place young men might hang out."

"We usually walk in with our motorcycle jackets on," Reitmeyer said, "and people are surprised by our uniforms when we take them off." He said the Army gave them no briefing except to "tell it like it is" including the good and bad.

Speegle added that they are not out to recruit anyone and they don't even ask anyone to join the military. He said the purpose of the tour is just to tell people what is happening in the Army.

Speegle said, "Many people are awestruck when they find out about the changes in the Army, but they can't be skeptical because we have a couple of Harleys."



EASY RIDERS — Mike Speegle (left) and Doug Reitmeyer are Army specialists with a lot in common with today's young civilians: they hate war and are against killing. They also think a strong professional Army can help prevent all that. They were in San Rafael today to tell students at Terra Linda and San Rafael high schools about their country's new-look Army.

Angela Attorney Claims Prejudice

By MARY LEYDECKER

One of Angela Davis's lawyers, Margaret Burnham, today characterized Marin County residents as having a "longstanding prejudice and deep-seated fear of black people, especially black militants" and "ignorant fear of Communists."

Miss Burnham made the remarks during an argument before visiting Judge Richard E. Arnason in Marin Superior Court on a motion that Miss Davis's trial be moved to San Francisco.

Miss Burnham claimed that the former instructor's "already meager chance for a fair trial has been eroded by a hostile press and government."

The attorney described Marin County as a "largely white, upper middle class, tightly knit community with a small town atmosphere." She also said that people take out their resentments over increased costs at the Civic Center against Miss Davis.

The prosecutor, Albert W. Harris Jr., is opposing Miss Davis's request for a specific county, although he has not so far argued against a change of venue to a county to be named by the judge.

Another defense attorney, Howard Moore Jr., yesterday read aloud in court a long list of events beginning on Aug. 7, 1970, which he said contributed to an unfavorable climate of opinion in Marin County against Miss Davis.

Harris agreed to have the list received into the record to save court time.

Harris said, however, that although he agreed that witnesses could be called who would testify about the events he would not agree that they had the effect Moore claimed.

The list began with an account of the shoot-out in which Judge Harold J. Haley died. Moore called the judge a "well respected" community leader and said his "fellow citizens were outraged and shocked" by his death.

(Miss Davis, accused of providing the guns used in the shootout, is charged with mur-

Personal Income Growth Reflects Economic Policy

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The personal income of Americans rose by only $3.25 billion in September compared to $8.5 billion the previous month, in a sharp reflection of President Nixon's wage price freeze.

Reporting today on the third economic indicator for a full month since the freeze went into effect Aug. 16 the Commerce Department said wages and salaries totaled $580.9 billion in September for a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $870.8 billion.

The seasonally adjusted increase in income for the first nine months of this year was $851.6 billion, compared to $799.3 billion during the same period of 1970.

Earlier, the Federal Reserve Board reported a modest rise in industrial production in September aftdr three consecutive months of decline. And the Labor Department reported that unemployment dropped in September to 6 per cent from 6.1 per cent in August.

A fourth key indicator of how the freeze is working —the consumer price index —is due out Friday.

Choices For Court Are Set

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The White House announced today President Nixon had made his selections for two Supreme Court vacancies and was to announce them today in a nationwide radio-television appearance.

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said the nominations for vacancies caused by the resignations of Justice Hugo L. Black, who died eight days after his retirement, and John M. Harlan, suffering from spinal cancer, would be submitted to the Senate Tuesday.

Ziegler said that in order that he not give any inadvertent hint of who the nominees would be, he was not told himself who they were prior to telling reporters of the impending statement.

An Arkansas lawyer and a California woman judge have been most frequently mentioned as possible appointees.

Some Democratic senators as well as others, including a group of Harvard law faculty members, have criticized prospective nominees who have been mentioned in public speculation. Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott said after the White House mid-day announcement:

"I would hope that would-be critics would at least withhold their criticisms until they know who the nominees are."

Ziegler refused to comment on reports that the American Bar Association's judiciary committee had declared unqualified both Mildred L. Lillie of Los Angeles and Herschel H. Friday of Little Rock, Arkansas.

They had been frequently mentioned as the leading prospects for the two seats.

The Washington Post reported that the ABA group voted 11 to 1 against Mrs. Lillie and 7 to 5 against Friday.

Theirs were among six names submitted to the ABA last week, according to reliable sources. The qualifications of the other four apparently were not immediately scruntized by the bar group.

While refusing to discuss reports on the ABA votes, Ziegler did hint that the administration was not entirely satisfied with the committee actions.

"The Senate of the United States has the responsibility under the Constitution to give its advice and consent (to court nominations)," Ziegler said.

"The Constitution does not require the consent of the ABA; their advice is welcome, of course, but they do not have a veto power."

Ziegler said Nixon conferred frequently both Wednesday night and this morning with Attorney General John N. Mitchell.

Ziegler said Nixon has not talked personally with any of the individuals who were under consideration for the court. But he said Mitchell informed the candidates of the outcome of the President's consideration.

Ziegler said, "He has not talked to any individual who is under consideration. He has not talked to any member of the Senate about the names."

Nor, Ziegler said, had Nixon discussed the matter directly with other persons, including the ABA.

Ziegler said both nominations would be sent to the Senate Tuesday when Congress reconvenes following a Veterans Day holiday weekend recess.

Asked if the President thought the nominees would be confirmed Ziegler replied, "he would not be sending the nominations to the Senate if he felt otherwise."

Since widely published reports that the administration had submitted six names to the ABA last week, officials have insisted repeatedly that this did not mean others were not under consideration. As recently as Wednesday, Zieglerleft open the possibility Nixon might name some one without seeking ABA study.

NOBEL IN LITERATURE GOES TO CHILEAN POET

Prize Winner Is Also A Marxist Politican And A Paris Diplomat

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — Pablo Neruda, Chilean poet, Marxist politician and diplomat, today won the 1971 Nobel Literature Prize, the Swedish Academy announced.

The 67-year-old poet, who serves as President Salvador Allende's ambassador to Paris, won the prize for "his poetry that with the action of an elemental force brings alive a continent's destiny and dreams."

The award is worth $90,000 this year.

Neruda told newsmen in the Chilean Embassy in Paris that "sometimes we poets wait for miracles and here it seems that one has happened."

Neruda's wife, Mathilde, was with him as well as his longtime friend and fellow poet Frenchman Louis Aragon. "I hope he (Aragonv) does not feel I stole the prize from him," Neruda joked.

Neruda said he became a Communist at the age of 23 when he was serving as a diplomat in Madrid during the Spanish Civil War.

In recent years he has been very critical of U.S. foreign policy and has criticized U.S. policy in Latin America and the U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

When the American Academy of Arts and Letters and the National Institute of Arts and Letters elected him an honorary member in 1968, Neruda refused to receive the insignia and diplomas from the U.S. ambassador in Santiago in protest against the Vietnam War.

Nerudj, who always writes his poems with pen and green ink, has been married three times.

Neruda, considered by many to be the greatest poet ever produced by the Latin American continent, had been a candidate for many years.

Arthur Lundqvist, a Swedish Marxist poet and novelist and member of the 18-member academy, has had Neruda as his candidate for a decade, academy sources said.

The Nobel Prize winner is best known for his gigantic poem "Canto General" (general song), published in 1950. The poem, which runs into several hundred pages, describes the volcanic geography and history of Latin America from ancient times up until today.

Neruda began his career as a diplomat.

He joined the Chilean Communist Party in 1945 and became the Communist presidential candidate last year before Allende formed his Popular Front, which also includes the Communists.

Neruda, a burly man with dark eyebrows, has been credited with changing the language, meter, rhythm and rhyme of Spanish poetry.

PABLO NERUDA
Nobel literature winner

His works include "Twenty Love Poems and One Song of Desperation" (Veinte Poemas de Amor y Una Cancion Desperada) in 1924, "Earthly Residence" (Tercera Residencia) in 1943, "Song of Gesture" (Cancion de Gesta) in 1961 and his "Canto General."

He has also written poetry to his revolutionary heroes such as Mao Tse-tung, Ho Chi-minh and Fidel Castro.

When he ran for the presidency, Neruda said there would be nothing wrong with a poet as president. "After all," he said, "Chairman Mao and Ho Chi-minh were both poets."

Neruda won the lenin peace prize in 1953. In spite of his criticism of Stalinism and the Moscow-led invasion of Czechoslovakia in 1968, Neruda remains a firm supporter of Moscow's ideological line.

I-J Seeking Damage Suit Against ITU

The Independent-Journal sought today to file a $12 million damage suit in connection with a violent strike against the newspaper begun in January 1970 by San Francisco Typographical Union 21.

In addition to the typographical union, the suit names five other labor organizations, 28 individuals and 200 John Does.

Judge Thomas F. Keating of Marin Superior Court took under submission a request by I-J attorney Gary T. Giacomini that he be allowed to add the damage suit to a court case containing an injunction against violence. The injunction was obtained by the I-J shortly after the strike began.

Giacomini said he wanted the damage suit in the file because the older case would have precedence on court calendars and because the fact that the union and three labor leaders violated the injunction has already been established in that case.

If his request is denied, Giacomini said, he will file the damage suit as a new action.

The suit seeks $10,604 in actual damages; $653,039 for costs to the I-J for security equipment and personnel during the strike; $532,000 to compensate for business lost during the strike; $1 million in general damages, and $12 million in punitive damages.

The union withdrew its pickets last month after a National Labor Relations Board election in which I-J employees voted 35-0 to decertify the union as their bargaining agent with the newspaper.

The five other labor organizations named in the suit are accused of urging people to attend a mass demonstration

Soldiers Refuse Patrol, Then Go

FIRE BASE PACE, Vietnam (UPI)—Another group of GI's here refused to go on patrol last week—the same thing the men they were sent to replace did—until the defense commander explained why the patrol was necessary, the soldiers involved said Thursday.

The second "refusal" in a week at this artillery support base on the Cambodian frontier lasted only an hour on Oct. 12 and involved 20 members of a 28-man infantry platoon that was part of Delta Company, 1st Battalion, 1st Air Cavalry Division.

The defense commander, Maj. Joseph D. Dye of Beaverton, Ore., told UPI the refusal was now a "dead incident" and no charges would be brought.

Delta was sent to replace Bravo Company, which was pulled out after six men refused to go on patrol Oct. 9.

Men from Delta told UPI they did carry out the mission after confrontations with the platoon leader, their company commander and the base defense commander.

Members of the 2nd Squad, 3rd Platoon of Delta Company said they knew about the Bravo incident and had decided not to take unnecessary chances.

"We were told to go on patrol and we said no," Spec. 4 Ralph Newman, 22, of Hammond, Ind., said.

After the soldiers, mostly draftees, refused, Dye, the senior officer on the base that day, was summoned. He explained the mission and its function, and said he would go with them if that was what it would take to make them go out, the men said.

Dye told UPI he explained that patrols were needed to keep down Communist pressure on the artillery battery.

Dye said the patrol went out a short time later, and that Delta Company has carried out frequent patrols since that time without problems and without casualties.

"Before we come here we were told we were not going out on any offensive patrols," said Spec. 4 Dennis Van Order, 20, of Ocean City, N.J.

"We are here for the defense of the artillery," Pfc. David Scott, 19, of San Diego, Calif., said. "We're not going to take advantage of the Army, but we're going to slow them down from taking advantage of us."

"It's not that we're scared, but every one figures the war is going to be over soon and who wants to be the last one to get

Japanese Antiwar Portestors March

TOKYO (UPI)—More than 320,000 Japanese workers, students and leftists took part in 720 rallies throughout the country to mark the annual antiwar day today, the national police said.

The rallies followed by demonstration marches were generally peaceful except in parts of the capital, the radical students' major target.

GLASGOW, Scotland (UPI)—An explosion ripped through stores in a busy shopping area today, collapsing roofs and burying customers and shop assistants under tonsof masonry and rubble.

Initial police reports said at least six persons were killed and scores were injured in the blast which devastated shops along Clarkson Toll Road in the city.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

China Talks

BUDAPEST (UPI) — A Hungarian correspondent reported from Peking today that Chinese leaders are discussing political problems — and particularly Vietnam — with presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger.

The correspondent, Dnes Baracs, said Kissinger and Premier Chou En-lai talked not only about "technical details" of President Nixon's forthcoming visit to the China mainland but also "the political questions connected with it."

The New China News Agency (NCNA) said Kissinger conferred today with Chou, Vice Chairman of the Chinese Military Commission Yeh Chienying and Cinese acting Foreign Minister Chi Peng-fei.

After the talks, Kissinger and his entourage attended a banquet given by the three Communist leaders, the NCNA said.

Ban Upheld

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A U.S. district court panel, in a split decision, has upheld as constitutional the law which banned cigarette commercials on radio and television last Jan. 2.

Judge J. Skelly Wright issued the dissenting opinion Wednesday saying the law violated the first amendment freedom of speech even though "the overwhelming scientific evidence makes plain that the Salem girl was in fact a merchant of death, that the real Marlboro country is the graveyard."

Lawyers for six radio stations which filed the suit said they would consider appealing to the Supreme Court.

Rumor Of War

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Egyptian Vice President Hussein Shafei said Wednesday that 800,000 Egyptian troops stand ready to embark on a "battle of destiny" by the end of the year to liberate Arab territories occupied by Israel.

"I cannot disclose our military plans, but I can say that Egypt is today fundamentally different from Egypt of 1967," Shafei said in an interview published by the Tehran newspaper Kayhan. Israel was a clear winner in the 1967 war.

"Our military budget has increased five-fold and our antiaircraft defense system makes sure that the Nile Delta can no longer be attacked by the enemy with impunity," he said.

Case Rested

FT. MEADE, Md. (UPI) — The Army has rested its case in the court-martial of Col. Oran K. Henderson, the highest ranking officer to be charged in connection with the My Lai massacre of 1968.

The defense is expected to begin its arguments about Nov. 4 when motions will be made to dismiss the four counts against Henderson, a former brigade commander in the American Division.

After presenting 62 witnesses in the past two months, the Army's chief prosecutor, Maj. Carroll J. Tiechenor, announced Wednesday the government's case was complete.

Spock To Get Liberty Award

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI)—Ramsey Clark, the U.S. attorney general who initiated the prosecution of Dr. Benjamin Spock for counseling draft resistance, will present the pediatrician and peace activist with a civil liberties award this month, it was announced Wednesday.

The New Jersey chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union said Spock would be one of four persons honored at its awards dinner here Oct. 30.

Spock was convicted of conspiring to counsel evasion of the draft and was sentenced in 1968 to a two-year prison term.

A year later, after Clark had left office, a federal appeals court overturned the convictions.

Bomb Does Damage To Playboy Club

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—An incendiary bomb exploded against the door of the Playboy Club in San Francisco on Wednesday but did little damage.

Police said it was made of aerosol cans and highway flares and burned a carpet outside the door.

Tax Cut Gains

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Finance Committee has agreed to go along with the House in cutting individual income taxes for 1971 — about $20 or $30 for the average family.

The committee also approved for floor action next week a provision in the House tax bill which would increase the low income allowance for 1971 from $1,050 to $1,300. The allowance — a deduction allowed poverty level families — is designed to make certain that families living in poverty need not pay federal income tax.

The tax cut and the low income provision, in a move to speed up their passage, were removed Wednesday from a House — passed bill extending for another year permission for service men to send home duty free gifts.

Prayer Showdown

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Opponents of a proposed constitutional amendment to put prayer back in the schools, beaten on their first test in the House and for a time about to surrender, now believe they have a fair chance to beat it.

"We are encouraged," said Rep. Fred Schwengel, R-Iowa, a devout Baptist who joins many of his denomination's top leaders in opposing the amendment. "People are beginning to have second thoughts. I can see now 100 votes against the amendment. We want 150."

After a long campaign by pro-prayer forces, 218 members — a majority of the House membership — recently signed a petition discharging the amendment from the Judiciary Committee and forcing it to the floor of the House. It comes up for a vote Nov. 8.

Killer Craft

LONDON (UPI) — Soviet scientists for more than three years have been testing an earth satellite which stalks other spacecraft and destroys them, "Jane's All The World's Aircraft" said today.

In its latest edition, the authoritative manual on world aircraft listed a series of launchings of Soviet spacecraft and satellites, calling some of the flights "orbital intercept tests."

John W. R. Taylor, Jane's editor, said early launches in the interceptor program included Cosmos 249 and 252 in mid-1968.

He said other interceptors were Cosmos 374 and 375. Cosmos 397, launched Feb. 25 this year, passed near Cosmos 394 launched 16 days earlier and "was subsequently destroyed," Taylor said.

Cosmos 400, launched March 19, was "intercepted" by Cosmos 404 on April 3, the day it was launched, the editor said.

Police Foil Protest By Saigon Students

SAIGON (UPI) — Police thwarted an attempt by high school students to set fire to American automobiles today in what protest leaders said was a demonstration against the forthcoming inauguration of President Nguyen Van Thieu.

The demonstration failed not only because police moved in quickly but because plastic bags broke open, spilling the gasoline with which the students planned to ignite the cars.

It was the fourth consecutive day of anti-Thieu and anti-American protests. Police arrested two students and although newsmen said the air was thick with tear gas, police denied using gas.

As the students approached, a number of American cars were driven away as a precaution against the threatened firebombings.

In battlefront action, more than 2,500 South Vietnamese troops continued a sweep of a Cambodian rubber plantation without encountering resistance but further south inside South Vietnam two paratroop companies clashed with North Vietnamese units on Wednesday.

Four North Vietnamese and three ARVN troops were killed in the fighting four miles south of U.S. Fire Base Pace, astride the Cambodian border.

American GIs at Pace told UPI correspondent Donald A. Davis today that troops ordered to replace other Americans who nearly two weeks ago refused to go on a patrol also declined to go into battle until their commander lectured them on why the mission was necessary.

The GIs said the second refusal to fight lasted only an hour at Pace. It involved 20 members of Delta Company of the 1st Battalion of the 1st Air Cavalry Division. Delta was sent in to replace Bravo Company, which was withdrawn after six of its GIs refused to go on patrol Oct. 9.

There were two ways among the early Nebraska Indians by which a man could gain esteem. One was success in war or on the hunt; the other was by giving away his possessions.

Young Vandals Damage Seven Buses In City

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The Municipal Railway reported Wednesday seven of its buses were heavily damaged in an outbreak of juvenile vandalism this week.

Officials said groups of youths swung from upright poles inside the buses, smashed windows with their heels, then ripped out seats and threw them to the street.

A spokesman said in each case the bus drivers followed orders to stop and radio for help, but the vandals fled the scene before police arrived.

"The drivers have been instructed not to try to be heroes," the spokesman said. "Their main concern is the safety of the other passengers."

As part of an effort to combat vandalism, two-man teams will go to junior high schools next week to talk to students about vandalism.

Employee Art On Display

Macrames, paintings, a wind chime, needlework, woodcarvings photography and ink sketches, created by the San Rafael city employees and their relatives, are being displayed through tomorrow in city hall.

Most of the attention at the display's opening yesterday centered around an ink drawing entitled "Life" by Barbara Russell, daughter of Joan Hendrickson of the city manager's office, and a college, entitled "Venus and Vincent" by Rita Bernardi, wife of David Barnardi in public works.

"Life" first place winner in the ink drawing category, depicts a man hugging a tree resembling a woman.

"Venus and Vincent," first in the craft-collage category, is a drawing that when looked at from the right portrays Venus and from the left Vincent Van Gogh.

Other winners include:

Crafts — A wind chime by Howard Chucke in the park department.

Floral Art — Contrived flowers by Regina Buchanan in the park department.

Needlework — A flower-shaped table center by Narjorio Alford, mother of Christine Rossi in the park department.

Woodwork — A diamond-patterned serving tray by William Harrington in the Park department.

Wood Sculpture — A "Mother Nature" carving by Melvin Anderson in public works.

Black and White Photography — A picture of a black puppy biting on a rag by Daniel L. Nuebel in public works.

Color Photography — A sea scape by Thomas L. Stephenson, assistant police chief.

Decorative Needlework — An embroidered picture of a bird in a pear tree by Barbara Morehouse in the building department.

U.S. Envoy Says Reds' Ultimatums Hurting Talks

PARIS (UPI)—The Vietnam peace talks lasted two hours and 45 minutes today, one of the shortest sessions since the stalemated talks began 2 1-2 years ago. And in a very brief statement the U.S. negotiator said there would be no progress unless the Communists reassess their stand.

U.S. Ambassador William J. Porter told North Vietnam and the Viet Cong they would get nowhere with their "ultimatums" and "preconditions".

"As matters stand, you apparently are not even authorized to explain and clarify your own proposals," Porter told the Communists at today's 133rd session.

"No progress is possible here if you continue to deliver ultimatums, to pose preconditions to negotiations and to insist that your version of the conflict should be adopted as the sole basis for settlement."

South Vietnamese Ambassador Pham Dang Lam joined in with a warning that the Vietnamese Communists through their refusal to negotiate in Paris would be universally condemned for keeping the war alive.

Today the Communists accused the Nixon administration of planning new military ventures in Indochina and said President Nixon's withdrawal promises were "sheer fallacy." were "sheer fallacy.

The charge was made by deputy Hanoi delegate Nguyen Minh Vy, who also warned — possibly with an eye toward Peking and Moscow —that the war can be settled only if the United States accepts the Vietnamese Communists' latest negotiating offers.

He told the conference that "the Vietnamese and other Indochinese peoples will never tolerate the presence of" residual armed forces, which President Nixon intends to maintain in the area.

Heavy Gross

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — During 1970, Northern California farms and ranches grossed $167.8 million, the Security Pacific National Bank said Wednesday.

Philippines Support Two-Chinas

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—Foreign Minister Carlos P. Romulo of the Philippines said today expulsion of Nationalist China would cause "substantial erosion of confidence" in the United Nations.

In addition, Romulo said expulsion of Chiang Kai-shek's government would have "unforeseeable and dangerous consequences in the hopeful, buc delicate" understanding developing in the Far East.

Romulo is a cosponsor of the U.S. move to save an assembly seat for Nationalist China while also seating the Chinese Communists in both the assembly and the Security Council.

He spoke as U.S. Ambassador George Bush, while scenting victory at the halfway mark in the assembly's great China debate, warned that it is not "all wrapped up and tied with a pretty pink ribbon."

Assembly President Adam Malik of Indonesia, with 37 speakers still to be heard, hoped to end the debate by Friday night and vote Monday or Tuesday.

Bush, asked about corridor reports that the United States had lined up enough solid votes for the retention of Nationalist China in the Assembly and that the debate now was academic, told UPI:

"I wouldn't want to go that far. Certainly I am very much encouraged. But I wouldn't say it's all wrapped up and tied with with a pretty pink ribbon. There is still a hard fight ahead of us."

Dance Programs Top The List

Marin Concert Association volunteer workers have indicated in a poll that dance groups are their first preference for programs in this year's concert series at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building.

The first production in the series, Nov. 22, will feature such a group — Frula, from Yogoslavia.

Other preferences indicated by the volunteers in order of choice were: piano soloists, vocal groups, chamber orchestra, symphony orchestra, violin and piano duos and vocal soloists, with sopranos, mezzos, tenors and baritones ranking equally.

H. RAP BROWN MYSTERY DEEPENS

Although police in New York claim they have in custody H. Rap Brown, who had been on the FBI's most wanted list, the man says he is not Brown but Roy Williams. A state supreme court justice went to a New York hospital room yesterday and arraigned the man — shown at left in a drawing by Richard Tomlinson of WNEW-TV, New York — on charges of attempted murder, robbery and illegal weapons possession. The man, wounded in a bar holdup Saturday, was identified as Brown by police through his fingerprints. At right is a 1968 photo of Brown. (UPI Telephoto)

Berkeley Taxes Remain Highest Of Large Cities

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Berkeley continues to have the highest property tax rate among California's 12 largest cities, a citizens' group reported Wednesday.

Figures from the Governmental Research Bureau put the university city's rate at $16.058 per $100 of assessed valuation.

Others: Sacramento $14.105, Fresno $13,609, Pasadena $13.37. Oakland $13,495, Los Angeles $13.1562. San Francisco $12.73. Long Beach $12.2352. San Jose $11.909, Glendale $10.9222. San Diego $10.179, Santa Ana $10.0843.

Rates can vary in some parts of some cities because of special district taxes.

Center Design Plan Approved

Designs for a community center were approved last night by directors of the Muir Beach Community Services District, chairman Bruce E. Harlow reported.

Harlow said the center, designed by San Francisco architect Tom Murphy, a Muir Beach resident. will include facilities for meetings, dinners and special events.

The structure will be built by members of the community, he said. adding that the district will purchase some materials and seek donations of others. Harlow said the district hopes to have a foundation poured before winter rains begin.

The center has been in the planning stages for about four months.

In other business, he said the board also voted to hire a full-time manager for the district.

Equipment Taken From Car

Camera equipment valued at about $500 was stolen yesterday from the auto of a San Rafael police sergeant, Corte Madera police said today.

Officers said Sft. Charles Steward Brobeck told them he had left his car for only minutes to pay a bill at a Corte Madera Shopping Center store.

When he returned at about 12:30 p.m. he discovered a wing window forced open and the camera equipment missing.

'Free Youth' Newspaper Published

The first issue of "Free Youth," a newspaper sponsored by the Marin County Youth Commission. was distributed at various high school campuses in Marin today.

The newspaper is a mimeographed single sheet printed on both sides.

The paper's statement of purpose says in part:

" 'Free Youth' has been created because most kids really get screwed over, if they get pregnant, ripped off, bored. strung out on drugs, in need of draft counseling etc., etc. It was also felt that kids needed a countywide outlet into which they could put their own ideas, uncensored on any subject. This paper is dedicated to young people and it should become their organizational and informational tool . . ."

The first issue includes articles on the teen clinic. which provides birth control information and services; pregnancy testing and counseling service; the names and telephone numbers where youth can get draft counseling; Economic Opportunity Council programs; YMCA programs; and youth counseling services such as Reach Out and a clearinghouse for youth.

Paul M. Cohen, chairman of the youth commission, said all articles should be submitted to the youth commission office in Room 163 of the Marin Hall of Justice.

Shots Fired Into Soviet Mission

NEW YORK (UPI)—Four shots were fired through a window of the Soviet Mission to the United Nations Wednesday night. The bullets slammed into the wall of a room where four children reportedly were sleeping.

Police said the shots were fired from a 14th floor parapet of Hunter College. 700 feet from the 11th floor window at the mission building on east 67th st. They recovered a high-powered Remington .243-caliber semi-automatic rifle from a 15th floor airshaft in the college building.

Four spent shells were found on the parapet and a black cello case also was found in the college building. Police said the cello case apparently had been used to smuggle the rifle into the building, where a music class was in progress at the time the shots were fired.

Newman and other members of Delta Company are being considered for decorations for heroism on Oct. 11, the day before the "refusal" incident.

Just as the company arrived at Pace on Chinook helicopters, an escort gunship was shot down. It crashed in the woods east of the base.

Several of the men dropped their packs in their helicopter as it landed and leaped to the ground to try to rescue the gunship crewmen. Newman and an unarmed medic, E4 Greg A. Cowles, 20, of Tucson, Ariz., dashed toward the burning gunship.

Other members of the company reinforced them while others set up a defensive postion as men from medical evacauation helicopters pulled the wounded crewmen to safety.

Altercation In Sausalito Bar Brings Arrest

A 27-year-old Mill Valley man was booked into Marin County Jail yesterday on suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon after he allegedly pulled a gun on a Sausalito man in Rico's Restaurant in Sausalito.

Police officers said they were called to the bar of the restaurant, at 1219 Bridgeway, at 9:55 p.m. on a complaint that a patron was brandishing a gun. Witnesses told police that Louis Ismael Alderete. of 110 Reed Street, had pulled a gun and threatened Paul O'Callaghan. 33. of 221 Richardson Street after a verbal altercation at the bar. According to witnesses, Alderete had pushed the weapon against the man's abdomen.

Alderete, who was still in the bar. was arrested by police who said he had thrown the gun under a table. According to officers, the gun was unloaded when they found it. They said O'Callaghan had left Rico's shortly after the incident. without difficulty.

Alderete was held in lieu of $1,000 bail to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Marinite Picked To Lead Panel

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Hans Schiller of Mill Valley has been named vice chairman for Northern California of the state Democratic Commission on Platform and Policy.

The membership also includes Elizabeth Gatov of Kentfield.

The commission was formed by the state central committee to develop issues for the 1972 national campaign. It was asked to write a state platform by next March for submission to the National Convention Platform Committee.

Contract Awarded For Sewer Work

Directors of the Richardson Bay Sanitary District have awarded a contract for construction of the district's Bel-Aire interceptor sewer to the Everson Construction Co. secretary Beverly Wheeler reported.

The firm's low bid, accepted at the board's Tuesday meeting, was $48,292, Mrs. Wheeler said.

Three Teens Arrested In Pot Probe

Three Novato teen-agers were arrested today on suspicion of possession of marijuana, possession of marijuana for sale and petty theft, Novato police reported.

Robert Daniel Percy, 18, of 1344 Cambridge Street; Eric Winfield Alford, 18, of 1314 Leafwood Drive, Apt. 4, and Paul Joseph Clausen, 19, of 1703 Center Road were booked into Marin County Jail with bail not set. They were scheduled to appear this afternoon in Marin Municipal Court.

A patrolman said the three tried to pry open the oil rack at Bill's San Marin Texaco at 200 San Marin Drive about 1:10 a.m. The three sped away in a 1962 model car upon noticing police approach and were caught at Novato Boulevard and Tamalpais Avenue by police.

In the car, police found 19 quart cans of oil and a 15-ounce bag of green vegetable matter in the trunk. They also fund a 1.5 ounce bag of similar material inside the car, according to reports.

After the three were booked into Marin County Jail, police found a one-ounce packet of green vegetable matter left in the patrol car.

Officer Says Policemen Are Taking Payoffs

NEW YORK (UPI)—A policeman who admitted taking payoffs until he became an undercover agent told the Knapp Commission Wednesday that plainclothesmen in New York City receive from $400 to $1,500 a month in illicit money.

The figures cited by patrolman William Phillips could amount to as much as $4 million a year for the plainclotes force.

Police Commissioner Patrick V. Murphy, in his first news conference since the commission began public hearings Monday, said the charges were "absurd" and called Phillips a "rogue cop — a corrupt policeman, a man on the hook squirming to get the best possible deal for himself."

Embezzlement Booking Made

A 22-year-old Richmond man was brought to Marin County Jail yesterday after being arrested in Oakland on a Marin warrant, charging him with embezzlement.

Harold Richmond was held at the jail in lieu of $3.750 bail to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

He was arrested yesterday by Oakland police on a Marin warrant charging he took a 1967 Volkswagen camper for a test drive from Mill Valley Volkswagen on Jan. 18, 1970, and never returned.

Details of the arrest in Oakland were not available today.

der, kidnapping and conspiracy.)

Moore went on to chronicle Miss Davis's arrest in New York as well as the Oct. 8, 1970, bombing of a courtroom at the Hall of Justice. He noted the increased security at the Civic Center since Miss Davis's arrest, reading aloud an article in the Independent-Journal describing changes there since the shoot-out.

Moore also quoted from newspaper articles discussing costs of the case in an effort to show that Marin residents "feel doubly abused having witnessed the debacle of Aug. 7 in their own Civic Center and now being required to bear the costs of the trial."

Moore mentioned the Aug. 21 violence at San Quentin in which George Jackson died, saying the Soledad Brother had been widely linked in the press with Miss Davis.

The events since Aug. 7. 1970, the widespread publicity, the costs and the fact that Miss Davis is a Communist and a "militant fighter for her people" make for a climate of opinion unfavorable to her in Marin. Moore said.

Election Slated For Chamber

The Corte Madera Chamber of Commerce yesterday set Nov. 17 at 8 a.m. at the Edgewater Inn for election of new officers.

Nominated yesterday for board offices were: Janice Valk of Pingree and Co. Realtors, president; G. M. Thomason of Bank of America, vice president; Robert F. Vogel of Apothecary-Corte Madera, second vice president: B. A. Sill of Crocker Bank. treasurer: and Barbara Packard. chamber manager, secretary.

The chamber also nominated 18 other members to serve on the board of directors next year.

According to Mrs. Packard. the chamber also agreed to take an active part in citizen studies to get greater fire protection in the town.

Bill To Require Labeling Eyed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Richard S. Schweiker, R-Pa. planned to introduce a bill today to require labeling of nutritional value on all food commodities.

Food industry leaders have favored such labeling on a voluntary basis. but want the government to set the standards.

Schweiker's bill would make it mandatory.

"Without nutritional labeling, very few homemakers would know that one wedge of cheese pizza contains as much protein as an egg and far less calories than a quarter-pound of hamburger." Schweiker said.

Loudest Prolonged Sound Made By Moon Rocket

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—The launch of a Saturn 5 moon rocket produces the loudest prolonged sound ever created by man.

The five engines on the rocket's first stage generate a sound level of 174 decibels 30 feet away when they reach full thrust about two seconds before liftoff, according to a space agency report.

Wilson R. Timmons, chief of the test analysis section at the Kennedy Space Center, said the only man made sounds louder than the Saturn 5 blastoff come from nuclear explosions and they are not sustained like the roar of the Saturn.

He said sound waves from the Saturn would cause enough physical damage to kill a man standing at the foot of the towering rocket, discounting the effects of the blast itself and the tremendous heat generated by the engines.

A human might withstand the sound wave level of the Saturn blastoff if it were only a single, split-second blast. A 12-gauge shotgun, for example, produces 165 decibels when fired.

Timmons said a more difficult sound for a human to withstand at close range without protection might be that of a powerful jet aircraft running at full power. Jets can produce up to 160 decibels on takeoff.

Sound from a pneumatic hammer reaches the 125 decibel level and a loud automobile horn might produce 115 decibels a yard away.

There is a buffer zone around the Saturn launch pad and the persons closest to the pad without protection are located at a press observation area 3.2 miles away. The average noise level there during a launch is 124 decibels.

From that site, the Saturn's rumbling roar sounds like prolonged thunder. The noise begins when the engines are ignited 8.9 seconds before liftoff and it tapers off after the rocket clears its umbilical tower, 12 seconds after liftoff.

Timmons reported that the Saturn 5 causes a tremendous variation in atmospheric pressure at the launch site—more than one pound per square inch. This is about the same as the change noted during the passage of a hurricane. The difference is that the storm pressure changes slowly while the blastoff pressure produces an immediate change that causes a vibrating effect in the atmosphere and this creates sound.

The noise decreases as distance increases and field stations showed that a Saturn 5 launch subjects residents of Titusville, 12 miles away, to about 113 decibels. Reading of 108 decibels have been recorded at Cape Canaveral beach 15 miles from the pad and a 105 decibel level has been recorded in Cocoa Beach, 19 miles away.

The sound waves produced by Saturn 5 launchings also have been recorded at the Lamont-Doherty Geological Observatory at Palisades, N.Y., 900 miles away. The sound waves recorded there were inaudible.

Dr. William Donn, a senior researcher at the observatory, said only two natural sounds recorded exceeded the intensity of the Saturn launch—the 1883 eruption of a volcano in the East Indies and the fall of the great Siberian meteorite in 1908.

WASHINGTON (UPI) —R. Stuart Moore of Oakland Wednesday was re-elected treasurer of American Trucking Associations (ATA) at its annual convention.

Waterways Watchdog Is Approved

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON — The House has passed legislation giving the Coast Guard full authority over ship traffic on congested waterways just as federal control towers direct airplane traffic in and out of airports.

The legislation, which now goes to the Senate, is a result of the Jan. 18 collision of two oil tankers under the fog-shrouded Golden Gate Bridge.

The resulting oil spill which damaged beaches and wildlife drew strong pressure from conservation groups for laws to prevent tanker collisions.

Congressional hearings in San Francisco in February brought out that although Coast Guard radio and radar stations around the bay saw the collision coming, it lacked the authority and technical ability to prevent it.

A spokesman for the Coast Guard said traffic control systems would go into effect step by step. Ships will be required to install special radio equipment to communicate with Coast Guard controllers.

The law, for which violation is subject to fines up to $10,000 and 10 years in prison, also gives the Coast Guard authority to establish procedures for the loading, shipping and unloading of explosives and other dangerous substances. A Coast Guard spokesman said this would include oil.

Among the sponsors of the legislation is Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-First District, a ranking member of the House Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee.

Nixon Considering Middle East Visit?

JERUSALEM (UPI)——President Nixon is considering visiting the Middle East next year, the Jerusalem Post said today.

The English language newspaper said in a front page report the Middle East visit is actively under study by a group of White House experts.

Behind The Sports Scene

As with all photographic subjects, what separates the striking from the ordinary in sports pictures is a different point of view, a new way of seeing.

If you want to catch the feeling of a football game in a fresh way, look for human interest. Chances are the usual shots of cheerleaders leaping into the air, runners running, lines piling up in a tangle of arms and legs, offer little chance for new angles.

So consider the pictures that haven't been taken over and over. Examples . . . The tension of waiting in the locker room before the game . . . . That shocked moment of suspense when a player does not rise from the pile. The slumped fatigue of the big tackle on the bench waiting to go back in. The coach, pacing before the bench, glaring out at the field. Or even spend a game watching the officials perform on your film.

You don't have to have color for great impact in sports. Black and white film has a strong journalistic feeling. Either way, take plenty of film to the game, and see us for your supplies, as well as expert developing and printing. Helping you get the best from your picture is our business.

More War I Medals For Service In Italy

Two other Marin County men have been awarded veterans' medals by the Italian government for service to their country during World War I.

The men, Luigi Maggiora of Sausalito and Steve Franzini of San Rafael, were awarded the 50th Anniversary victory medal and the Cross of the Cavaliere Di Vittorio Veneto during simple ceremonies at the Italian Consulate in San Francisco.

Dominic George Vescovi of San Rafael also received the medals. (A story of that award appeared in the Independent-Journal Oct. 12)

A spokesman for the consulate said yesterday between 800 and 1,000 such awards have been given to Bay Area residents in recent months.

Maggiora, 78, of 519 Spring Street, served during the war in a special unit which was a cross between federal police and militia. He entered the service in 1915, receiving a slight wound in 1917.

He moved to the United States in 1920, and has lived in Sausalito for 48 years.

While the awards entitle him to a pension, Maggiora, a retired construction worker, said he needs no support from the Italian government.

Franzini, also 78, of 100 Clark Street, entered the Italian Army in 1913 and served six years.

During the war, he was a member of the Italian Alpine Corps which distinguished itself in fighting in the mountains between Italy and Austria.

He was on the front lines for 26 months and suffered two wounds, the last hospitalizing him for 14 months.

Born in Northern Italy, he came to this country in 1920 and worked with the Marin Municipal Water District after moving to Marin in 1927.

He applied for his medals three years ago when they were first authorized by the government but only received them last month.

The delay was caused by a shortage of the decorations and lengthy records checks by the military.

Tunney Sees Berryessa As A Nation Rec Area

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON — California Sen. John V. Tunney has recommended that Lake Berryessa be designated a National Recreation Area, a move that would take development of the lake away from Napa County.

Tunney said he will introduce legislation within two weeks to give the Department of the Interior full control over development.

However, an aide to the Democratic Senator said it is not likely that the bill could be passed before the current session of Congress adjourns.

Therefore, Tunney may request Interior Secretary Rogers Morton to take certain steps to protect the lake until legislation can be enacted, the aide said. He declined, however, to say what the steps might be.

The National Park Service, an agency within the Interior Department, previously had urged making Lake Berryessa a National Recreation Area.

Yugoslavia Gets Two More Does

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Agricuture Department and the state of Maryland have shipped two young white-tailed does to Yugoslavia as part of a move to develop deer herds on public lands in that nation.

The does will join two white-tailed bucks and two other does shipped to Yugoslavia last year by the federal government and the commonwealth of Virginia.

Marin Housing Needs Debated

By JEFF GREER

Marin's planning director and an attorney who has represented those resisting special developments for the poor or the elderly disagreed yesterday as to whether there is a need for low-income housing in Marin.

Werner Von Gundell, head of the planning department envisioned any failure to scatter such housing in the community as leading inevitably to a uniformity of population, which he called "deadly."

Attorney Joseph E. Sheeks, taking another tack at a luncheon meeting of the Citizens for Adequate Shelter (CASA) in the Depot in San Rafael, said there was plenty such low-income housing scattered about the Bay Area and hence no need to produce it locally.

"A lot of people want to live in Marin, but do they need to?" Sheeks asked. "Are we obligated to honor their wants or their needs?"

He cited surveys by the Association of Bay Area Governments which, he said, indicated a surplus of private and public low-rent housing is available in the Bay Area, if not in Marin. "I'm not sure this (provision of low-cost housing) should be done on a county-by-county basis," said the former Mill Valley city councilman and former Golden Gate Bridge District director.

He said that neighbors cannot help but fear the "impact" of low or moderate-income housing built in any residential area, in terms of lowered property values, increased traffic, more children and other problems.

Sheeks responded to a Novato woman's claim that there are rental units in any neighborhood with a declaration that no matter what rules or contracts are imposed on low-rent housing, there is no guarantee it will be kept up to neighborhood standards.

"By and large, Marin County residents of single-family neighborhood have an out-and-out antagonism to apartments," Sheeks declared. "Their emotional outpouring is hard to describe unless you've been there," said the attorney, who recently represented neighbors in a battle against more than 100 apartments for senior citizens on Laurel Grove Avenue in Kentfield.

Sheeks said he and his wife had decided to sell their own Tiburon Peninsula home, perhaps to move outside the county. He said many Marinites seem to favor a mixture of housing classes justified by desire to "promote social interaction, whatever that is. Are we feeling guilty because we live in Marin County?"

Von Gundell stressed that low-income housing was needed in Marin. Between 1960 and 1970, the number of households living on an income of less than $300 a month increased to 15 per cent of the total, he said.

He admitted that established neighborhoods fear low-income housing and listed several reasons: Crime, the risk of overcrowding, race and poverty, "to which we attach stigma."

He said Marin's relatively short experience with low-rent housing tends to prove that "where there is no panic" in the neighborhood, "property values do not decline."

The planning director particularly urged mixing housing for the elderly among other neighbors because "the deadliest thing in the world is to get into a community all the same age."

Sheeks declared that "by and large, if properly educated, the people in Marin are as generous and as willing to accept different neighbors as anywhere in the country."

Sheeks and Von Gundell agreed that key to achieving a distribution of low-income housing among established neighborhoods was "education — consistent and very patient" by groups such as CASA.

"It's the unfamiliar, the strange which causes most of the problems in these situations," Sheeks added.

Christmas Mailing Tips Come Again

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. postal service may be new, but it trotted out an old problem today —Christmas mail.

The service urged that parcels to distant states be mailed by Dec. 1 —Dec. 10 for nearby areas —and cards be mailed by Dec. 15. Airmail parcels should be sent by Dec. 15 and air mail cards by Dec. 22.

A Bookmaking Operation Hit

OAKLAND (UPI) — Local, county and state authorities said Wednesday they had smashed a $3,000-a-day bookmaking operation in seven East Bay cities and arrested 23 persons.

A series of coordinated raids, on warrants issued in Contra Costa and Alameda Counties, were aimed principally at bars where bartenders were taking bets, according to Contra Costa County District Attorney William A. O'Malley.

Arrests were made in Albany, El Cerrito, Berkeley, Richmond, Pinole, San Leandro and San Pablo, O'Malley said. Most of the suspects were charged with bookmaking although seven also were accused of conspiracy.

LBJ Reviews Struggle On Vote Rights

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Former President Lyndon B. Johnson says the "critical turning point" in the Negroes' struggle for voting rights came in 1965 when Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama asked for federal troops to protect Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.'s marchers.

Johnson said Wallace flew to Washington from Montgomery, Ala., to ask the President to federalize the Alabama National Guard because the state did not have the funds to pay for protection of the marchers from Selma-to-Montgomery.

"The meeting with Wallace proved to be the critical turning point in the voting rights struggle," Johnson wrote in his forthcoming book "The Vantage Point: Perspectives of the Presidency 1963-1969." Excerpts were published today in The Washington Post.

"So the troops went in after all. They went in by order of the President, because the governor said Alabama couldn't afford them financially. But they were not intruders forcing their way in; they were citizens of Alabama. That made all the difference in the world."

Johnson said the most disturbing thing about the April, 1968 riots "was the fact that so many of us almost instinctively expected them to happen as soon as the news of Dr. King's death was made known. Were we becoming conditioned to the violence? That prospect disturbed me far more than the initial shock of Watts or Detroit."

Johnson revealed that he first became sensitive to discrimination against Negroes when he was a U.S. senator from Texas.

Water Treatment

NEW YORK (UPI)—Chemical industry sales to the water treatment sector of the environmental market will reach $495 million by 1975, up from $320 million in 1970, according to a study of chemical companies by the research and management consulting firm of Arthur D. Little.

Criticism Follows Land Deannexation

The Larkspur City Council last night released a parcel of land, provoking accusations of piecemeal giving away of revenue-producing property and setting an unhealthy precedent.

The deannexation of the 63,518 square-foot John Oglesby property on Lucky Street came at a joint meeting of the council and the planning commission. Protests came from Planning Commissioner Leonard S. Rubin and his wife. The Rubin home at 164 Riviera Circle is opposite the property.

The council and commission were meeting to iron out matters of mutual concern and discuss ways to pep up their efficiency.

The council was prepared to vote on the land transfer after 15 minutes of discussion but protests from the Rubins stretched the discussion another half hour.

Rubin complained first about the tax loss. "Here we are giving away future tax dollars to the town of Corte Madera." His wife agreed saying she didn't want her taxes raised to help Corte Madera.

Mrs. Rubin charged realtor Frank H. Deimel, Oglesby's representative, with preferring Corte Madera over Larkspur because of the former's "lax supervision." She did not explain the accusation.

Rubin said he was fearful that this might be the first in a series of deannexations for Larkspur.

"Isn't this an opening wedge so that when other property presents itself for development it will logically be annexed to Corte Madera?" he asked.

Councilmen repeatedly reminded the couple that the parcel — which is surrounded by county owned land —already receives essential services (sewer service, for example) from Corte Madera.

Having ended their one-item agenda, the council began a 90-minute "letting our hair down" session with the commission.

Commissioner Otto Hoefler, hospitalized at Marin General, sent a complaint via Mayor Earl J. O'Grady that he felt planning commission meetings were too long "because of nit-picking by commissioners." Commission Chairman Robert H. Lee agreed and said the commission would have to seek ways to tighten up presentations made before the group and discussions afterwards.

"We've had ten-minute presentations that stretched into an hour and a half," he said.

Councilman Neil Brixon suggested that both the council and the commission set stringent time limits. "When you're arguing first amendment rights before the Supreme Court you only get 15 minutes to a half hour," he said. He added that Larkspur could surely be as rigid.

The council was told by Lee that the city's Architectural Review Commission had helped to remove the bottleneck from the planning commission's workload.

Foreign Owned

MANILA (UPI)—Of the top 200 corporations in the Philippines, 67 are foreign-owned or controlled, according to a business survey by the Manila Chronicle. Total annual sales of these companies reach more than 6 billion pesos ($1 billion).

Leave Granted Ailing Officer

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The city's retirement board granted a year's paid disability leave Wednesday to a policeman whose psychiatrist said he was suffering from "oliceman's syndrome."

Dr. Martin G. Blinder said patrolman William L. Owens, 30, "complains of unaccustomed and irrational anxiety associated with any aspect of police work."

Owens has been on the force six years, almost three of them as an undercover narcotics agent.

Reforming Divorce Law Is Defeated

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI)—The Pennsylvania House of Delegates Wednesday defeated 112-75 the first proposal to reform the state's divorce laws to reach the House floor in 50 years.

The bill would have added consentual separation for one year as a new ground for divorce.

Does the fact that we're guaranteed twice as long, mean we're twice as good?

We can't prove it, but one thing's sure: We're twice as confident.

When you buy a new car from Volkswagen, you get a new car warranty for 24 months or 24,000 miles, whichever comes first.*

When you buy a new car from any other known company in the world (unless you're interested in a Rolls-Royce), you receive a warranty for only 12 months or 12,000 miles.

You see, we're the only ones who've stuck with one car model for 24 years. (A gutsy decision when you think we only sold 2 in 1949.)

But thanks to that one decision, we've had a chance to make over 2,200 improvements. (29 improvements on our 1972 model alone.)

And once a VW leaves the factory, we still don't stop caring.

For only an authorized VW dealer offers VW Diagnosis. A series of 4 free checkups with special diagnostic equipment so advanced, it can tell you'll have a car problem before it becomes a big problem.

And if the problem is found (and covered) during the warranty period, we'll solve it for you free of charge.

Even when it comes time to sell, we still won't let you down.

For over the years, two cars have consistently retained more of their original value than others: An old Volkswagen. And an old Cadillac.

Finally, consider price:

We're not the lowest-priced economy car you can buy. But once you thoroughly check into what you get for what you pay, you'll find very few car companies who, in reality, end up with their prices lower.

And none who start out with their standards higher.

*If an owner maintains and services his vehicle in accordance with the Volkswagen maintenance schedule any factory part found to be defective in material or workmanship within 24 months or 24,000 miles, whichever comes first, will be repaired or replaced by any U.S. or Canadian Volkswagen Dealer. And this will be done free of charge.

Inmates Granted Session

A Marin Superior Court judge yesterday granted a request by six San Quentin inmates charged in connection with the Aug. 21 violence at the prison for a conference among themselves to be attended by four attorneys as well.

The conference had been requested by the convicts during a court session last Friday.

Judge E. Warren McGuire ordered that the conference be allowed from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. Wednesday at the prison.

The attorneys are Charles Garry, John Thorne, Richard Silver and G. Douglas Vaughn.

McGuire also ordered that the attorneys may inspect the transcript of the grand jury proceedings in which the inmates were indicted.

The transcript has been sealed on McGuire's order at least until 10 days after attorneys for the inmates have appeared in court. None of the inmates has yet obtained an attorney, and McGuire warned the four that they may not publicly disclose the contents of the grand jury transcript.

On Monday, McGuire denied a request by John Larry Spain, one of the accused inmates, that Garry be appointed to represent him. Garry is representing Black Panther Party leader Huey Newton in an Oakland manslaughter trial.

John Thorne represented inmate George Jackson in another case until Jackson's death in the Aug. 21 San Quentin uprising in which two other convicts and three prison guards were also killed.

Vaughn and Silver represent two other of the accused inmates. Louis N. Talamantez and Fleeta Drumgo, in other cases.

Spain, Talamantez and Drumgo, as well as Hugo A. Pinell, David Johnson and Willie Tate, are charged, along with missing East Bay attorney Stephen M. Bingham, with murder, conspiracy and assault in connection with the prison violence.

Marnell Denies Anarchist Label

Dennis Marnell, former Corte Madera resident charged with assault with intent to murder an undercover agent in Fort Worth, Tex., said yesterday he is no longer a member of the White Panther Party.

Marnell also said he now lives in San Geronimo and that an Independent-Journal story identifying him as a "self--proclaimed anarchist" was inaccurate.

He said that he once had "anarchist leanings" but that he is a Communist, not an anarchist.

Marnell is hospitalized in San Francisco where he is undergoing evaluation and treatment of wounds suffered in Vietnam.

He had been due to go to trial in Texas on the assault charge, as well as one of illegally possessing a pistol earlier this month.

Officials Debate Court Attitudes

By WAT TAKESHITA

Two judges and several other public officials disagreed yesterday on whether the Marin judiciary is soft on criminals.

The panel discussion at the Holiday Inn in San Rafael was sponsored by the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce Court Watchers, with Rev. Charles Boman of the Christian Church of San Rafael as moderator.

Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales said in his opinion, a key factor in combatting crime is sterner sentences. "I would hope that the judges will take a tougher stance."

Lt. Albert Howenstein, juvenile officer in San Anselmo, backed Bales' "tougher stance" request. "I have heard many drug users and pushers say that Marin County is the place to be busted because of the leniency in sentencing."

Toughness alone is not the answer to combatting crime, said Probation Officer John W. Brewer and Buford L. Toney, assistant public defender. They explained that rehabilitation of a criminal is accomplished from follow-through work during probation and not from tough sentences.

Judge Samuel W. Gardiner of Marin Superior Court and Judge Peter Allen Smith of Marin Municipal Court said they believe sentencing in Marin courts is realistic and effective.

Judge Gardiner declared that Marin judges make a distinction between drug users and pushers. "There are probably 25,000 marijuana users in Marin today," said Gardiner. "We're not going to crucify all of these. But the dealers and pushers — every single one has gone to San Quentin."

The judge added that lockup is not the answer to rehabilitation because convicts locked up in prison often come out worse than before.

All panelists agreed that the system of "plea bargaining," whereby the defense agrees to plead guilty to certain charges if other charges are dropped by the prosecution, is a necessary evil.

Without the plea-bargaining negotiation, every one of the 7,000 misdemeanor charges could theoretically end up in jury trials, creating impossible court congestion, Bales explained.

Judge Gardiner said the process saves time and money, and the results are usually the same because a man would get a similar sentence whether he pleaded guilty to one count of kidnapping or two counts.

One question which went unanswered was: Is there a better method of selecting judges than through appointment by the governor.

There may be a better way, said the panelists, but they do not know of one.

Paul Ciampi, president of the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce, welcomed the panelists and the group of about 50 who attended the luncheon.

Activities Set For Halloween

Maddox Views Peking Exchange

PITTSBURG, Kan. (UPI)— Lt. Gov. Lester Maddox of Georgia said Wednesday that possible negotiations between the United States and mainland China should be held on the moon.

"Any talks between Red China and the United States should be conducted in a neutral place —like the moon," the former Georgia governor told an audience at Kansas State College.

Maddox said he was against the United States doing anything to strengthen China economically or diplomatically.

Mariner Right On Mars Path

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI)— Scientists have canceled plans for a second midcourse correction for America's Mariner 9 spacecraft bound for Mars because the first corrective rocket firing was so precise.

"Months of tracking revealed the first midcourse correction performed last June 4 was so precise that a second midcourse would only yield a negligible increase in the accuracy of the insertion aiming point," said officials at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory, controllers of the project.

The spacecraft, only 22 days from arrival in Mars orbit, was launched from Cape Kennedy May 3. It is traveling at 54,056 miles per hour and is expected to go into orbit around Mars Nov. 13.

Spring water has been sold in flasks or bottles since ancient times, principally for its reputed curatives powers, says the National Geographic Society.

Heavy Rain Leaves Six Dead In Texas

DALLAS (UPI) — Ten-foot-high floods caused by monsoon-like rains the past four days have left six persons drowned in Texas, which only last summer suffered through one of the worst droughts of the century.

The storms whipped the state with 12-inch rains and at least three tornadoes before subsiding Wednesday. Damage was estimated in the millions of dollars.

HATS OFF TO POLICE ASSOCIATION

Belvedere Police Chief John W. Jaeger, surrounded by police hats from foreign countries, reads a letter from a British policeman who is coming to visit the U.S. this month. Jaeger, who collects hats, badges and other police memorabilia, obtained both the hats and the letter through his membership in the International Police Association. Jaeger has founded a chapter, or "region," of the association, with members stretching from central California to Alaska. Headquarters of the new region is Novato.

College Trustees Turn Down New Sir Francis Drake Plans

Marin Community College District Trustees, long at loggerheads with the Marin County Public Works Department on the widening of Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, last night turned down the latest proposal of the county for the intersection at College Avenue.

Lawrence H. Lader of the Marin County Public Works Department explained the latest plan of the county to have two left turn lanes from Sir Francis Drake Boulevard onto College Avenue.

Dist. Supt. John A. Grasham countered that no other intersection on that portion of Sir Francis Drake had a double left turn lane, which he said would funnel more traffic by the college.

He said the college has 1,400 parking spaces which were not all filled, so the traffic now on College Avenue was not all generated by the college.

Trustee Theodore C. Wellman said that the department of public works was using the college to start the controversial Highway 17 to connect Highway 101 and West Marin.

Diane Wickstrom, president of the College's academic senate, said that diverting the traffic down College Avenue would encircle the college in traffic.

"We don't want that kind of traffic around the college," she said, explaining that much of it would be traffic from Larkspur and Kent Woodlands.

The board voted to ask the county to come up with an alternate plan for only one left turn lane on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

Marin Community College Trustees Also:

AUDIO-VISUAL — Approved the purchase of $1,200 in audiovisual material for Indian Valley Colleges.

CLASSES — Authorized the addition of two new adult education classes, off-shore navigation for yachtsmen and environmental crisis.

CENTER — Approved renting central School in Sausalito for $600 for an adult education center.

PLANS — Approved preliminary plans for an outdoor physical education facility. These were presented to the board Sept. 15. Complete plans will be approved by the campus planning committee, the budget and finance committee and college cabinet prior to being submitted to the board.

PARKING — Accepted the $8,500 improvements to Parking Lot 15.

TRAFFIC — Adopted a resolution changing motorcycle parking from the data processing building to the area between the service road and Corte Madera Creek; requiring permits for parking Lot 15 and opening Parking Lot 1 underneath the science center.

DELEGATES — Named Trustee Martin J. Dean to represent the College of Marin and Frances Compton the Indian Valley Colleges on the California Junior College Association.

POSITIONS — Authorized positions for a laboratory clerk at $596 to $726 per month, an administrative secretary at $640 per month, a biology laboratory technician each at $706 per month.

FREEZE — Discussed how the national wage freeze had affected school districts in the state and agreed to wait for further action. There are 20 certificated, 10 classified and all part time faculty members affected by the freeze.

RETIREMENT — Authorized Grasham to write Gov. Ronald Reagan that the board supports Senate Bill 543 on the state teachers retirement fund.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned to 7 p.m. Nov. 2 at the board room on the Kentfield campus for discussion on future building plans.

Students Play Big Retail Sales Part

EAST LANSING, Mich. (UPI)—College and university students are assets rather than liabilities in the communities where they are located as shown by the fact that the 40,000 students at Michigan State University are expected to spend $10 million on food in the coming school year. That accounts for 8 per cent of area food store sales.

In all, MSU students will spend approximately $132 million during the current fiscal year over and above tuition, on campus room and board and other fees. In that figure is $1 million in liquor and party stores, an average of about $30 per student.

'Uppers' And 'Downers' Are Most Abused Drugs

NEW YORK (UPI)—"Uppers"—or amphetamines—and "downers" & or barbiturates — will be the most frequently abused drugs of the 1970s unless possession of them in large quantities is made a serious crime, the chairman of a state commission evaluating drug laws said Wednesday.

Commission Chairman Chester B. Hardt said although the drugs can be sold legally, criminals often get hold of a large quantity of them and sell them illegally.

Hardt, a Republican state assemblyman from Williamsville, N.Y., said the commission had drafted legislation to make possession of 300 or more pills a felony punishable by a minimum of four years in prison and the possession of 600 or more punishable by a possible seven-year sentence.

The commission also has drafted new laws which would reduce the severity of the penalty for possession of less than a quarter ounce of marijuana.

Michigan leads the states in salt production.

Harbor Plan Is Advanced In Sausalito

After nearly four months of study and considerable discussion and revision, the Sausalito Planning Commission last night approved, in principle, a far-reaching development plan for the Sausalito Yacht Harbor, commission chairman Robert L. Nissen reported.

The complex development proposal, by Architect Roland Mays, includes expansion of the existing yacht harbor from 425 to 826 berths, Nissen said.

Also in the plan are a hotel-boatel complex in the vicinity of Humboldt and Johnson streets, a boatyard and repair shop, additional boat storage areas and three commercial and office buildings. The plan includes expanded yachts sales and chandlery operations, public restrooms, harbor offices and maintenance and storage facilites.

For public use harbor owner Herbert Madden Sr. plans a series of boardwalks, a variety of observation points along the bay, a mini-park and several public plazas.

The development plan also calls for 207 additional parking spaces for harbor support and a parking area under the hotel-boatel. It will require about one quarter-acre of fill to widen Humboldt Street near the bay.

Nissen said the proposal now will be submitted to the Sausalito City Council and Bay Conservation and Development Commission for their approval.

Beer In Finland

HELSINKI (UPI)—More than 100 million quarts of beer—80 quarts for every Finn—were consumed in Finland in 1970, according to the Breweries Association. The sales increased by 8 per cent over 1969.

Snow Tread Tires Due Winter Tests

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Passenger cars and light trucks equipped with snow-tread tires will be permitted on all mountain state highways this winter on a trial basis, the Division of Highways announced today.

However, the division said each snow-tired vehicle must carry conventional tire chains for use in case road conditions change due to storms.

The division said that when chain controls are in effect, these three conditions must be met at chain control points before drivers relying solely on snow tires will be permitted to proceed:

—Snow tires must be in good condition with tread deep enough to provide good traction.

—Snow tires must be mounted on drive wheels.

—Tire chains must be carried.

Motorists using such tires will be required to drive at reduced speeds.

Deputy State Highway Engineer Sam Helwer said storm conditions suddenly could make it necessary to require chains on snow-tired vehicles.

A 'Singing' Contest

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (UPI) — Seventy-two turtle-doves recently fought it out in a singing contest organized by the Aquarists and Aviarists Society on Penang, an island city 210 miles north of here. The winning burd was imported from Bali by policeman Leiw Eng Peow, at a cost of $1,300.

MAKING ONE THING PERFECTLY CLEAR

Lines painted down the center of the road are there to guide motorists, right? That's what everyone in Schenedtady, N.Y., thought, but complaints were pouring in to the city on the curvy and somewhat confusing lines on this major thoroughfare. So, city officials decided to clear up the confusion — at least as far as they're concerned — by straightening the center line and x-ing out the old one. As far as the motorists are concerned, though, the new markings are worse than the old ones. (UPI Telephoto)

Foster City Man Booked; Drug Probe

A 24-year-old Foster City man was arrested yesterday on suspicion of possessing dangerous drugs after Larkspur police stopped him on a routine traffic stop.

Officers said Ronald Gregory Wiggins was arrested at about 10 p.m. last night in the 500 block of Magnolia Avenue.

Their investigation began, officers said, when Wiggins became reluctant to open a strange looking container lying on the floorboard.

Inside the container, officers said, they discovered a quantity of suspected LSD, speed, heroin and methamphetamine.

He was booked into Marin County Jail where a search located a ring which contained a powdery substance and a bullet casing which contained a spoon.

Wiggins remained in jail in lieu of $2,500 bail and was scheduled to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Eight out of 10 people living in mainland Southeast Asia are villagers.

Suspect In Heroin Sales Arrested In Pot Case

A Los Ranchitos man, out on bail on a heroin sales charge, was arrested again yesterday on suspicion of possessing marijuana and dangerous drugs.

Donald Gilliam, 27, of 50 Merrydale Road, Apt. 17, was held at Marin County Jail in lieu of $3,500 to appear in Municipal Court today.

County drug abuse agents said Gilliam was arrested about 4 p.m. yesterday when a county agent and two state agents went to his residence on a routine investigation.

When the door of Gilliam's apartment was opened, the agents said, they saw a package of suspected marijuana on a table next to the door.

Gilliam was outraged by their presence, agents said, grabbed a knife and told an agent who had drawn his gun to "go ahead, shoot me."

The knife was taken away and Gilliam placed under arrest.

Agents said they found four plastic bags of suspected marijuana and 42 capsules containing an unidentified substance at the residence.

Gilliam has a charge of selling heroin pending against him in Marin Superior Court stemming from alleged sales of the drug to a narcotics agent on March 9 and 15.

Identical Twins Of The Future

FRESNO, Calif. (UPI)—Within 20 years science might make commonplace a technique of non-natural birth resulting in exact duplicates of individuals, according to an embryologist.

Through a process called cloning, "a piece of skin tissue will be taken from a man, the cells will be isolated and allowed to grow, and they will develop into an identical twin, minus the man's age," Dr. Robert T. Francourer told a college audience Tuesday.

Francouer, professor of experimental embryology at Fairleigh Dickinson University in New Jersey, said cloning will be occurring regularly within two decades and warned of the resultant social danger.

Attack On Remap By Behr

Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, said today the current Democratic plan to redistrict state Senate boundaries probably couldn't withstand a court test.

He said the plan, which would force an election between Behr and Sen. Fred W. Marler, R-Redding, minority leader in the upper house, probably is illegal because it fails to meet state constitution reqirements that districts be contiguous in all parts.

Under the Democratic proposal for reapportionment in the wake of the 1970 census — the second redistricting plan by the majority party in two weeks — Behr's Furth District would run from the Tiburon Peninsula, where the former Marin supervisor lives, up the eastern portion of Marin and stretch all the way to Shasta County, Marler's home base.

Red Rock, in San Francisco Bay, would serve as the axis for two other Senate districts, Behr explained, and Vallejo would be carved off from the present Fourth District to join a district to the west.

"For imagination and derring-do," Behr said on radio KTIM's "Marin Sounding Board," "it exceeds the wildest dreams of the drawers of lines on maps."

The senator, attacking the plan as implausible and an insult to Marinites, said he was pledged to keep the county "as much intact as possible." He noted that whatever redistricting plan finally is approved, it is bound to have long-range effect because of easing of the population growth in the state.

Noting that Marler represented his district well and was close to Gov. Ronald Reagan, Behr said he would be "hard-pressed to take him one, even with a speedboat." The reference was to the expanse of water separating Marin from the rest of the proposed Fourth District.

The possibility was raised during the program that Behr could move back to Mill Valley, where he formerly resided, and run against Sen. Milton Marks, R-San Francisco, in a district which would include, under the Democratic plan, ty rest of Marin, western San Francisco and part of San Mateo County.

While Behr declined to close the door on that option, he saw little agreement in "life-style" among Marinites, San Franciscans and San Mateo residents.

The program, moderated by Kitty Oppenheimer, will be repeated at 10:05 a.m. Sunday.

Weather Satellite Falls From Orbit

VANDENBERG AFB (UPI)—A weather satellite which cost the United States $10 million was launched from this Southern California coastal air base today, but failed to go into orbit.

The third in a series of Improved TIROS Operational Satellites (ITOS-B), which would have been named NOAA 2, achieved preliminary orbit but its small control jets failed to maintain stability while coasting in preparation to restart its upper stage engine.

Strike View In Daly City Supported

A resolution supporting a Daly City School District in its stand against striking teachers was introduced by a trustee at Tuesday night's meeting of the Reed School District Board, Supt. Ralph Giovanniello reported.

The board agreed to consider Trustee Kenneth G. Wells's resolution at its Nov. 2 meeting.

In the document, Wells commended the Jefferson Elementary School District in Daly City for it "courageous stand" in the recent teacher strike in that city. "Your . . . action has done much to preserve the rights and powers of school boards the country over," the resolution states.

It also commended the district for "accepting a disruptive teacher walkout" rather than an employment contract which would have "subjected your board and community to the shackles of binding arbitration."

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Fire raced through two apartments Wednesday, inflicting $50,000 damage. Two women in adjoining flats were rescued by firemen.

Mills Calls Gianelli Remarks Derogatory

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Senate leader James R. Mills has accused state Water Resources Director William Gianelli of making "derogatory, sarcastic and destructive" statements about him.

Gianelli denied the remarks were personally directed at Mills and added that his comments were misinterpreted by the San Diego Democrat.

The outburst came yesterday during a hearing before the Senate Rules Committee on Gianelli's reappointment by Gov. Ronald Reagan to the top water job. Mills is chairman of the panel, which must recommend full Senate confirmation or rejection of Gianelli.

"You've got some problems coming into a member's district and attacking him in the public press and then when he defends himself you attack him again," Mills said.

"I considered it derogatory, sarcastic and destructive of my position in my district," the lawmaker added.

Mills said the comments were related to his support of legislation to declare three North Coast rivers as wild rivers which cannot be dammed. The bill was defeated.

Gianelli has maintained that the rivers—the Eel, Klamath and Trinity—may be necessary as sources for the State Water Project.

Mills recommended the hearing be delayed a week and then both he and Gianelli present correspondence they sent each other to fellow members of the committee.

Mills told newsmen after the hearing that he intends to vote against Gianelli's reappointment.

"He's a man who suffers from beaver fever," Mills said. "He sees a river and wants to dam it."

Gianelli told newsmen his remarks came during last August's meeting in San Diego of the state Water Commission and did not mention Mills by name.

"I said I was very surprised that senators from Southern California would vote for the wild rivers bill because of its effect on the integrity of the State Water Project," he said.

"I think the reason he's upset is that the senator did get some criticism from water people down there (San Diego County)," Gianelli added.

"I think I should be able to talk about legislation that vitally affects our department," Gianelli told newsmen.

Embargo Lifted On Non-Priority Pacific Mail

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Postal Service said Wednesday it was lifting its embargo on transportation of non-priority surface mail across the Pacific.

Such mail still is embargoed from shipment to Europe, Africa, Central and South America.

The embargo was placed in effect Oct. 1 after East Coast dock workers went on strike. West coast longshoremen already were on strike, but since have been ordered back to work under a Taft-Hartley court injunction.

The embargo affects mainly civilian bulk mail. Unaffected is all mail for North American points, and all military mail, airmail, and air parcel post.

Concert Organizer's Job A 'Way Of Life'

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

Alma Lauritzen is a San Francisco business woman who may have a big impact on the cultural life of Marin if the membership drive conducted this week for the new Marin Concert Association she has organized is successful.

It can mean that Marin will have its own concert series of top musical artists and productions presented in the theater of the Veterans Memorial Building and the creation of one of the largest performing arts organizations in the county. Potential membership of the group is 2,088, the capacity of the theater.

The white-haired Miss Lauritzen is the proprietor of the Lauritzen Concert Service, which she started in 1956 in San Francisco and has operated since then with the help of one secretary.

"I go into communities where there is a desire for top quality music, set up the organizational structure, instruct volunteers on how to conduct the drive to create memberships and audiences. Then I provide a list of artists and productions available, and after the board of directors has made a selection, I engage the artists and deliver them and see that all details, such as printing of programs, are taken care of. It is a complete concert service.

"You may be surprised to hear that 80 per cent of the concerts presented in this country are handled in this manner.

"No," she explained, "I'm not an impresario, because my interest is in creating audiences and a permanent organization that members themselves run. The money is all collected and deposited in a local bank, and expenses paid before artists are engaged. In that way there are no deficits."

HER OWN fee, Miss Lauritzen noted, is paid by the artists, so that she has the double function of creating audiences while also in a sense serving as an agent for performers.

At present Miss Lauritzen is serving 11 cities, from Pacific Grove in the south to Napa in the north, with the largest association in Richmond having 3,500 members and the smallest in Hollister with 500 members.

Is the new association likely to be successful in Marin?

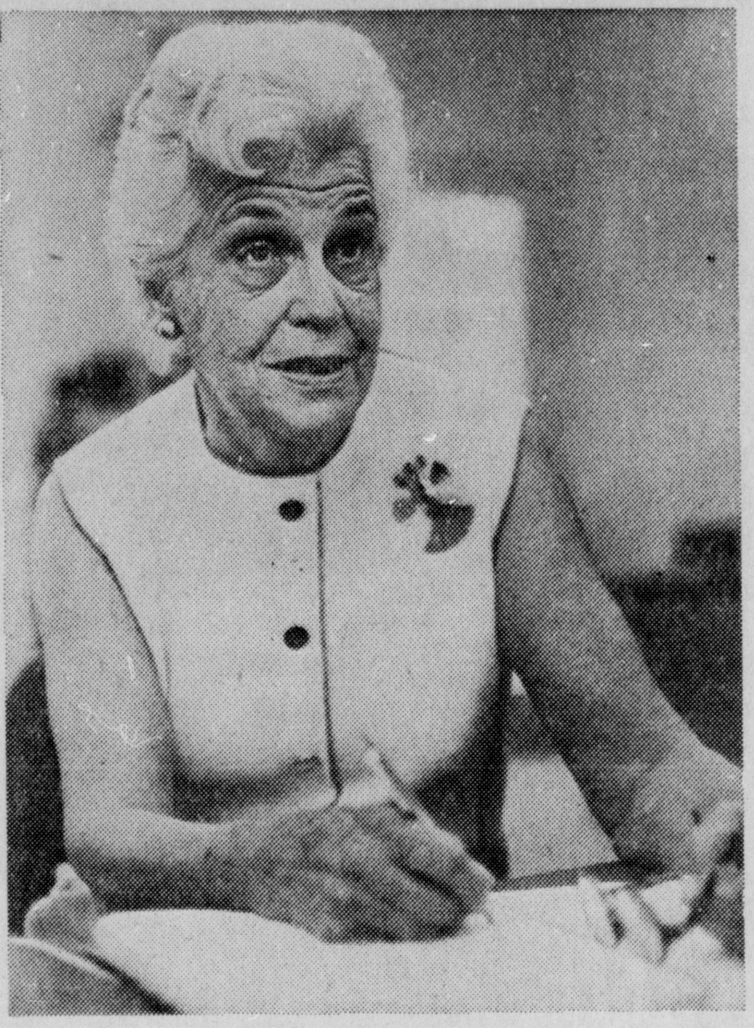
Miss Lauritzen thinks so. She said that the plan usually is a success where fine teachers and music teaching exist in the schools and community, and where there are many local performing groups whose members appreciate hearing top performers in their field.

Marin meets these conditions, she believes.

"Oh, I know," she says, "that people in areas near big cities say they will go there for the big names, but the fact is they don't."

With traffic congestion and parking problems being what they are today, they are all the more likely to patronize events locally if they are really good, she said.

Audiences she analyzes into four kinds:. "the esoterics who go to everything and take it or leave it; the hypochondriacs who tear everything apart (fortunately disappearing, she thinks), the musicians who may be analytical but enjoy the concerts; and the lay public who just come to enjoy themselves and make up about 75 per cent of the audiences.



ALMA LAURITZEN organizer of the new Marin Concert Association works on records in connection with the membership campaign being conducted by 146 volunteers this week throughout Marin. Concerts will be in the new Veterans Memorial Building with the first one, "Frula," a Yugoslavian dance production set for Nov. 22.

"This is the group to aim toward and I think there are a great many of them in Marin."

MISS LAURITZEN herself grew up in a small town where there was no good music.

"I was born in the little town of Wood Island near Rio Vista," she said, "and I actually had to go to school by boat. I had always loved music, but I had never even heard a concert until I was a grown woman teaching junior high school in Oakland. (She had graduated from San Francisco State Normal School before it became San Francisco State College.)

"After I heard that first concert," she continued, "one of the great string quartets, I became a crusader for music, and my interest grew to include all the arts."

Miss Lauritzen's first step in her lifelong career came when on a visit to New York she was offered a position with the Columbia Artists Management, the largest concert booking agency in the world. She worked in the community concerts division of Columbia and spent 13 years organizing concert associations in the towns around New York and in New Jersey.

The concerts organizer does not claim any special business acumen.

"YOU HAVE to have a sense of business and ability to work with figures," she says, "but I never feel I'm a business woman.

"High powered sales techniques are not involved," she says." Though you do have to love people and have the ability to persuade them, sincerity is the highest form of persuasion," she insists.

Qualifications for success in the field, she believes, are "a lot of courage and physical energy because of extensive traveling and long hours, a love of music and the performing arts arts and considerable knowledge about them.

"It helps too, she admits, "if you have the feeling of a crusader. My work is not just a job to me — it's a way of life."

THE SPOUSE GAP

Mating Game Is Explored Further

(Condensed from the book, "The Spouse Gap")
By ROBERT LEE
and MARJORIE CASEBIER

The patterns of interaction developed in marriages are, of course, many and varied. Our interviews have revealed at least four types of middle-aged marriages which can be described as having arrived at the climax point of deadlock. We call these forms of the mating game Cellmates, Checkmates, Roommates, and Stalemates.

We invite you to consider whether or not you and your spouse have entered into a variation of one of the mating games described in these four portraits. If your marriage is troubled, we hope you will face it like it is, and then imagine it like it might be if pressed to the kind of deadlock these situations exemplify.

CELLMATES: Howard and Rosie have been married for 20 years, but both confess that their marriage is meaningless. Both reason, however, that since they have been together this long, they might just as well stick it out. At least they know what to expect from one another and have made peace with their situation.

Besides, they feel that their situation leaves them little choice. Howard is pastor of a conservative Lutheran church and thinks that his congregation would be shocked if they suspected that all is not well in the parsonage. Surely they would not condone a divorce. Howard presumes it would mean his leaving the ministry if he and his wife ever separated.

Rosie does not really care what the church would think, since she never really wanted Howard to become a clergyman in the first place. Rosie prefers to turn her efforts toward her own world of art and music, and is an accomplsihed pianist. She has decided to have a life of her own in which she can find satisfaction. She takes music lessons from a highly gifted concert pianist and, in turn, gives private instruction to six or eight advanced pupils. At the same time, however, she is fearful about her ability to support herself entirely without Howard, so she has no plans to leave him.

Howard and Rosie are resigned to being cellmates, locked in their "morbidity marriage," condemned to each other for the rest of their lives.

CHECKMATES: Gloria and Peter have two teen-age children, a boy anda girl. Their marriage seems held together by a constant contest of wills in which each antagonizes the other. Yet there is also a deep affectionate bond, and nearly every quarrel is followed by torrid lovemaking.

Both are strong willed and reluctant to give in or compromise. Each, it seems, is out to score debating points on the other. They argue over everything. The name of their game is one-upmanship.

For the most part, however, their incessant arguments are over trifling matters. If he accuses her of not being a good mother, she charges that he is a lousy provider, "a penny-pinching miser." If he nags her to balance the checkbook stubs, she purposely lets it go until their checks start bouncing. If he gives the son a bad time, she is likely to pick on the daughter.

Gloria's and Peter's arguments are the talk of the neighborhood. Several times the neighbors have called in the police to quiet things down when noise from the shouting and bickering became excessive.

Outside observers may think that Gloria's and Peter's marriage is ripping apart at the seams. Yet they are bound closely together in their "lovers' quarrel." There is a checkmate relationship. Locked in combat, their marriage amounts to a competitive arms race with neither one winning or losing.

ROOMMATES: Bill and Donna have a marriage of convenience characterized by little more than simply living together in the samesplit-level suburban house. They are fairly formal and cool with one another. However, their relationship was not always this distant.

Beginning during a long, three-year engagement period while Bill was finishing medical school, the two were accomplished lovers and indulged their passions frequently. The big change came when Bill discovered Donna was keeping company with other men. He suddenly lost interest in sex and threw himself ever more intensively into his medical practice. Bill is vaguely aware of the fact that Donna is satisfying her sex needs elsewhere and doesn't seem to mind.

Bill and Donna have developed a tolerable division of labor: she keeps house, cooks the meals, provides him with clean shirts and socks, and he "brings home the bacon" in ample supply. They have both agreed to care for and nurture their four children as best they can.

Bill and Donna have not openly said so, but one suspects that when the children grow up and become independent Bill and Donna will end their marriage of convenience as roommates and seek more satisfying relationships.

STALEMATES: Jean's and Walter's marriage is downright dull and tedious. Walter is 45 and drives a bakery truck six days a week. He is dog-tired when he comes home from work. Nearly every night after dinner he plops in front of the TV set and watches one program after another until he dozes off to sleep.

awhile. Then it's off to bed they go for a night's sleep, to be followed by the same repetitive work-eat-TV-sleep routine, day in and day out.

It frightens Jean somewhat to think of rocking her marriage boat, since she has little self-esteem. For the most part, neither Jean nor Walter dares comment on the other's behavior or the nature of their marriage. Each is afraid of what the other might do or say in response to criticism. Both Walter and Jean are caught in a lockstep — stalemated. In their marriage they are like two robots going through the motions of life in a habitual, senseless pattern.

There are other forms of the mating game, but these will serve as examples of the deadlock which can arise when genuine communication is lost in marriage.

The Neat Look For Spring

By PATRICIA MC CORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI)—Designer Mollie Parnis, a kind of fashion weathervane in the nation's garment diatrict, Tuesday showed a spring collection chock full of pretty and neat clothes.

The pretty touches included bows on daytime costumes and dresses, bare backs and floral prints for evening. The neat was underlined in a group of navy and black suits and costumes, many with white collars and cuffs. Small gold buttons adorned some of these outfits.

THE ANKLE-LENGHT dress is the big surprise for spring, according to Miss Parnis.

This is "for those occasions when the hostess says, 'don't dress'," Miss Parnis said.

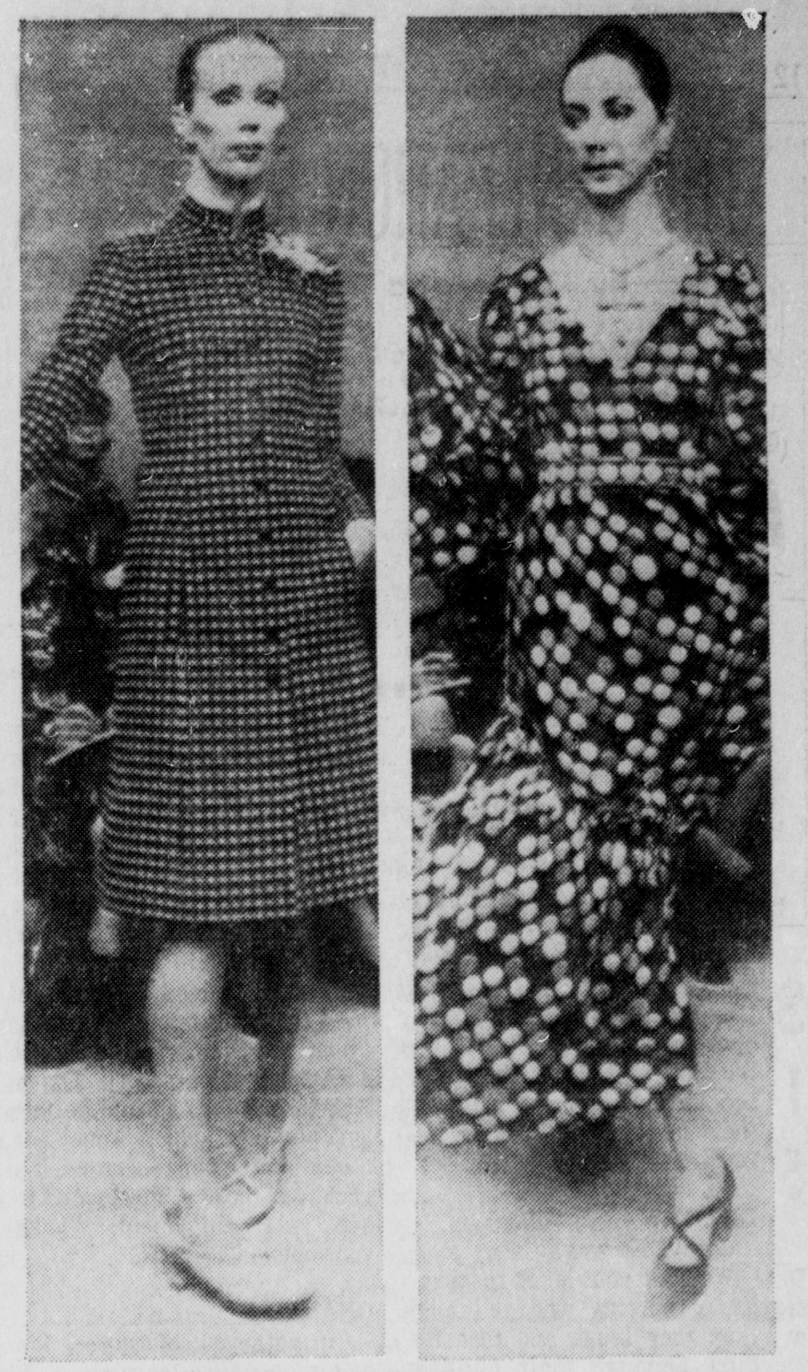
She showed many in floaty floral printed chiffons with portrait necklines, long sleeves and soft ruffling at hem and writs.

The Parnis retail price range, from $200 to $600, also must be right. The clothes are selling.

"The ladies seem to like the clothes we're making," she said. "They wanted to stop dressing like their children. Suddenly, they want complete outfits —the dress with its jacket, the dress with its matching coat."

SHE FAVORED the princess silhouette for dresses, almost all of them having long sleeves and high necklines, accented by a Buster Brown bow.

Aside from the chiffon floral prints in the ankle lengths, Miss Parnis liked clingy jersey dresses in hot colors such as shocking pink or orange, the skirts slit up the sides to the thigh.



IF DESIGNER Mollie Parnis has her way spring clothes will be pretty and neat for next spring. From her collection previewed in New York come (left) a neat daytime costume with white at the neck and wrist and a Mandarin collar. For evening (right) Parnis did a floating floral print ankle-length gown with portrait neckline and long soft ruffles at the hem and wrist.

(UPI Telephoto)

PARTICULARLY PRETTY were long taffeta dresses, puffed out to below the elbow and jackets bordered with stiff ruffling almost a foot wide. One in light purple was a vision of the old fashioned girl in a romantic era. It seemed transported from a plantation of the old South party.

A twin of that one, in red, had a matching floor length cape, that billowed out from a tightly-tucked yoke.

Miss Parnis said some of the chiffon prints, ankle to floor length, were hand painted.

Jewelry for wearing with the after-five clothes was massive. Earrings dangled to the collarbone. And one pendant looked like a breastplate studded with a couple of handfuls of the crown jewels.

The Butterfly Print Is Big

The butterfly print in bold pastels has edged out last fall's elephant, according to Women's Wear Daily.

While the elephant was a popular design on fall fashions the spring butterfly will compete with sailboats, anchors and just about anything nautical, the ready-to-wear-trade newspaper predicts.

A Wrench Into Fashion Shows

For the first time New York and Italian ready-to-wear fashion showings are going on at the same time, and, according to Women's Wear Daily, the New York spring openings have thrown a monkey wrench into the showings in Rome.

Buying teams from the large stores are split between the simultaneous presentations, causing Italian designer Irene Galitzine, who presented her spring collection last week, to remark, "Everyone is delayed in coming here because of the Seventh Avenue showings. It's too spread out. I'm going to have to show my collection to individual stores over the next month.

"What a bore . . ."

THE GENERATION RAP

—by Helen and Sue Bottel

Parents Who Yell All The Time Ought To Try Laughing More

DEAR GENERATION RAP:

This is probably the corniest letter you ever got, but here goes:

My parents yell at each other a lot, but I love them anyway. I even think they love each other under their shouting and grumbling. It's just that sometimes they don't think they love each other.

You see, we kids know our folks a little better than they think we do. We watch and wonder why they don't smile or laugh more when it's easier to be nice than to always try for the last and meanest word. If they gave compliments instead of slams and tried not to look at the dark side of life, they might see us and how we feel. And they might stop shouting! — ANN

DEAR ANN:

Corny? No way!

We hope your letter reaches a lot of parents who yell more than they laugh and then feel hurt because their children would rather be anywhere else but with them. — SUE

NOTE FROM HELEN:

Battling parents often don't realize that screamers breed screamers or the reverse, quiet mouse types. They may be setting lifelong patterns in their children.

And that's a pity, for a smile takes so much less effort.

DEAR HELEN AND SUE:

I'm 14 and disgusted.

In school, we're constantly being drummed about the "evil" of drugs and how disappointed our folks would be if we turned on. At home, the same.

Today I overheard my mother talking about the grass that goes around at their parties. Then she started in about how one of my adult cousins (her age) had freaked out on dope.

Why don't older generation members start living up to their sermons? — DISAPPOINTED TEEN

DEAR TEEN:

Some do. But most can't live up to the "perfect" image children expect of parents. After all, your mother only talked of being where grass is, and knowing others who use dope. You could probably say the same.

Isn't it kind of comforting to know she's human? — SUE

DEAR TEEN:

. . .And maybe you can be more honest with each other, if she knows you know. — HELEN

DEAR HELEN:

This is for you because you're a parent.

Mine are too much. They expect me to get straight A's in school, do three or four hours of homework every night, and if I don't make valedictorian they'll probably die of shame. What chills me is they don't care how much I know, just what I make on my grade card.

I'd rather spend some of my time reading and learning things that interest me — not necessarily school work. That's REAL learning. I could do this and pull B's, which would get me into any college. But no, it's grind out those A marks and to heck with enjoyment. What's your opinion? — A.R.

DEAR A.:

I'm with you, of course. It's better to enjoy learning at B level than take the A-train, fueled by quickly-forgotten memory work, leading to resentment.

Consider this: I was pushed into straight A's in school. Sue has never been overly pushed. I became a syndicated columnist after 40. Sue made it at age 16.

Let's hope your parents relax . . . but they won't! — HELEN

The sister of Gary and Allison Smith of Corte Madera, Dianne is a Terra Linda High School graduate and attends San Jose State College.

Donald is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Perkins of San Diego and the brother of Thomas J. Perkins and Mrs. Travis L. Price. Mrs. Eloise Perkins of Piedmont is his local grandparent.

Donald is a graudate of Piedmont High School and attended San Jose State College. He is employed by the Pepsi-Cola Co. in Santa Clara.

The couple plans to be married Nov. 27 and will live in Santa Clara.

Girl Scouts Encampment On Weekend

Girl Scouts of Marin County are having a Cadette Encampment Friday, Saturday and Sunday at the Bothin Youth Center in Fairfax.

Chairman Dee Rodatre and committee members Mmes. Frank Klarkowski, Kenneth Brown, Alton Fountain, Robert Hielbelm, Jack Kirkwood, Raynor Kollgaard, Charles Lavaroni, Wesley Page, Joseph Purcell, Walter Smith and Robert Tanner have planned 19 workshops.

Workshops include art, cooking and guitar, and there will be volleyball and softball tournaments, swimming and water games.

Scouts will present programs and songs at the campfires, and the participants in the Girl Scout Wider Opportunities program held during the summer will report on their adventures.

The final day of the encampment is United Nations Day, and each troop will represent a country.

Survival Center At College

By DYANNE FORTNER

Ten years ago most college coeds concerned themselves with little more than sororities, student government and finding an eligible mate. Drugs, unmarried women with children and male roommates were not unheard of but ignored. Those who participated in such activities were usually shunned.

At Sonoma State College a handful of women has acknowledged these situations exist as do others for the liberated woman and they have formed a Women's Survival Center, a rather dramatic title for what the student director and student assistants refer to simply as a switchboard or referral source.

MRS. PAT AGNEW, a divorcee in her 30s, is the center's director and makes her office in a cubicle loaned by the sociology department in Stevenson Hall. She is a senior, majoring in sociology, and is aided in her efforts by other students.

The center's tasks are directing women to available information and assistance in such specific areas as child care, family planning, natural child birth, women's health advice, free schools, abortion, and exchange skills.

A male research assistant is seeking funds to enable the women to relocate their office off campus to better assist the entire community. Already the center can count 13 women referred to them by the Sonoma County Welfare Department for assistance in divorce, since the center opened a month ago.

Mrs. Agnew emphasized that she cannot represent any woman in the courts but will assist in paper work and help the person seek legal advice should there be children and/or property involved.

THE INSPIRATION for this project is Ann Neel, a sociology instructor at Santa Rosa Junior College. Miss Neel is also in the doctorial program at the University of California at Berkeley.

She and Mrs. Agnew met during a summer class the former was teaching entitled "Women and Social Change in the United States."

"When the class ended it was inevitable that the instructor would throw out the challenge, 'O.K., where do we go from here,'" said Mrs. Agnew. "I picked it up from that point and began setting up the center. There's no limit to what women can do."

Acknowledging there are hassels for today's women, those present felt the women studies program at the college is another step that will lead to a greater understanding of the female species. The survival center is open to anyone, men included, and encourages rap sessions of a wide diversity.

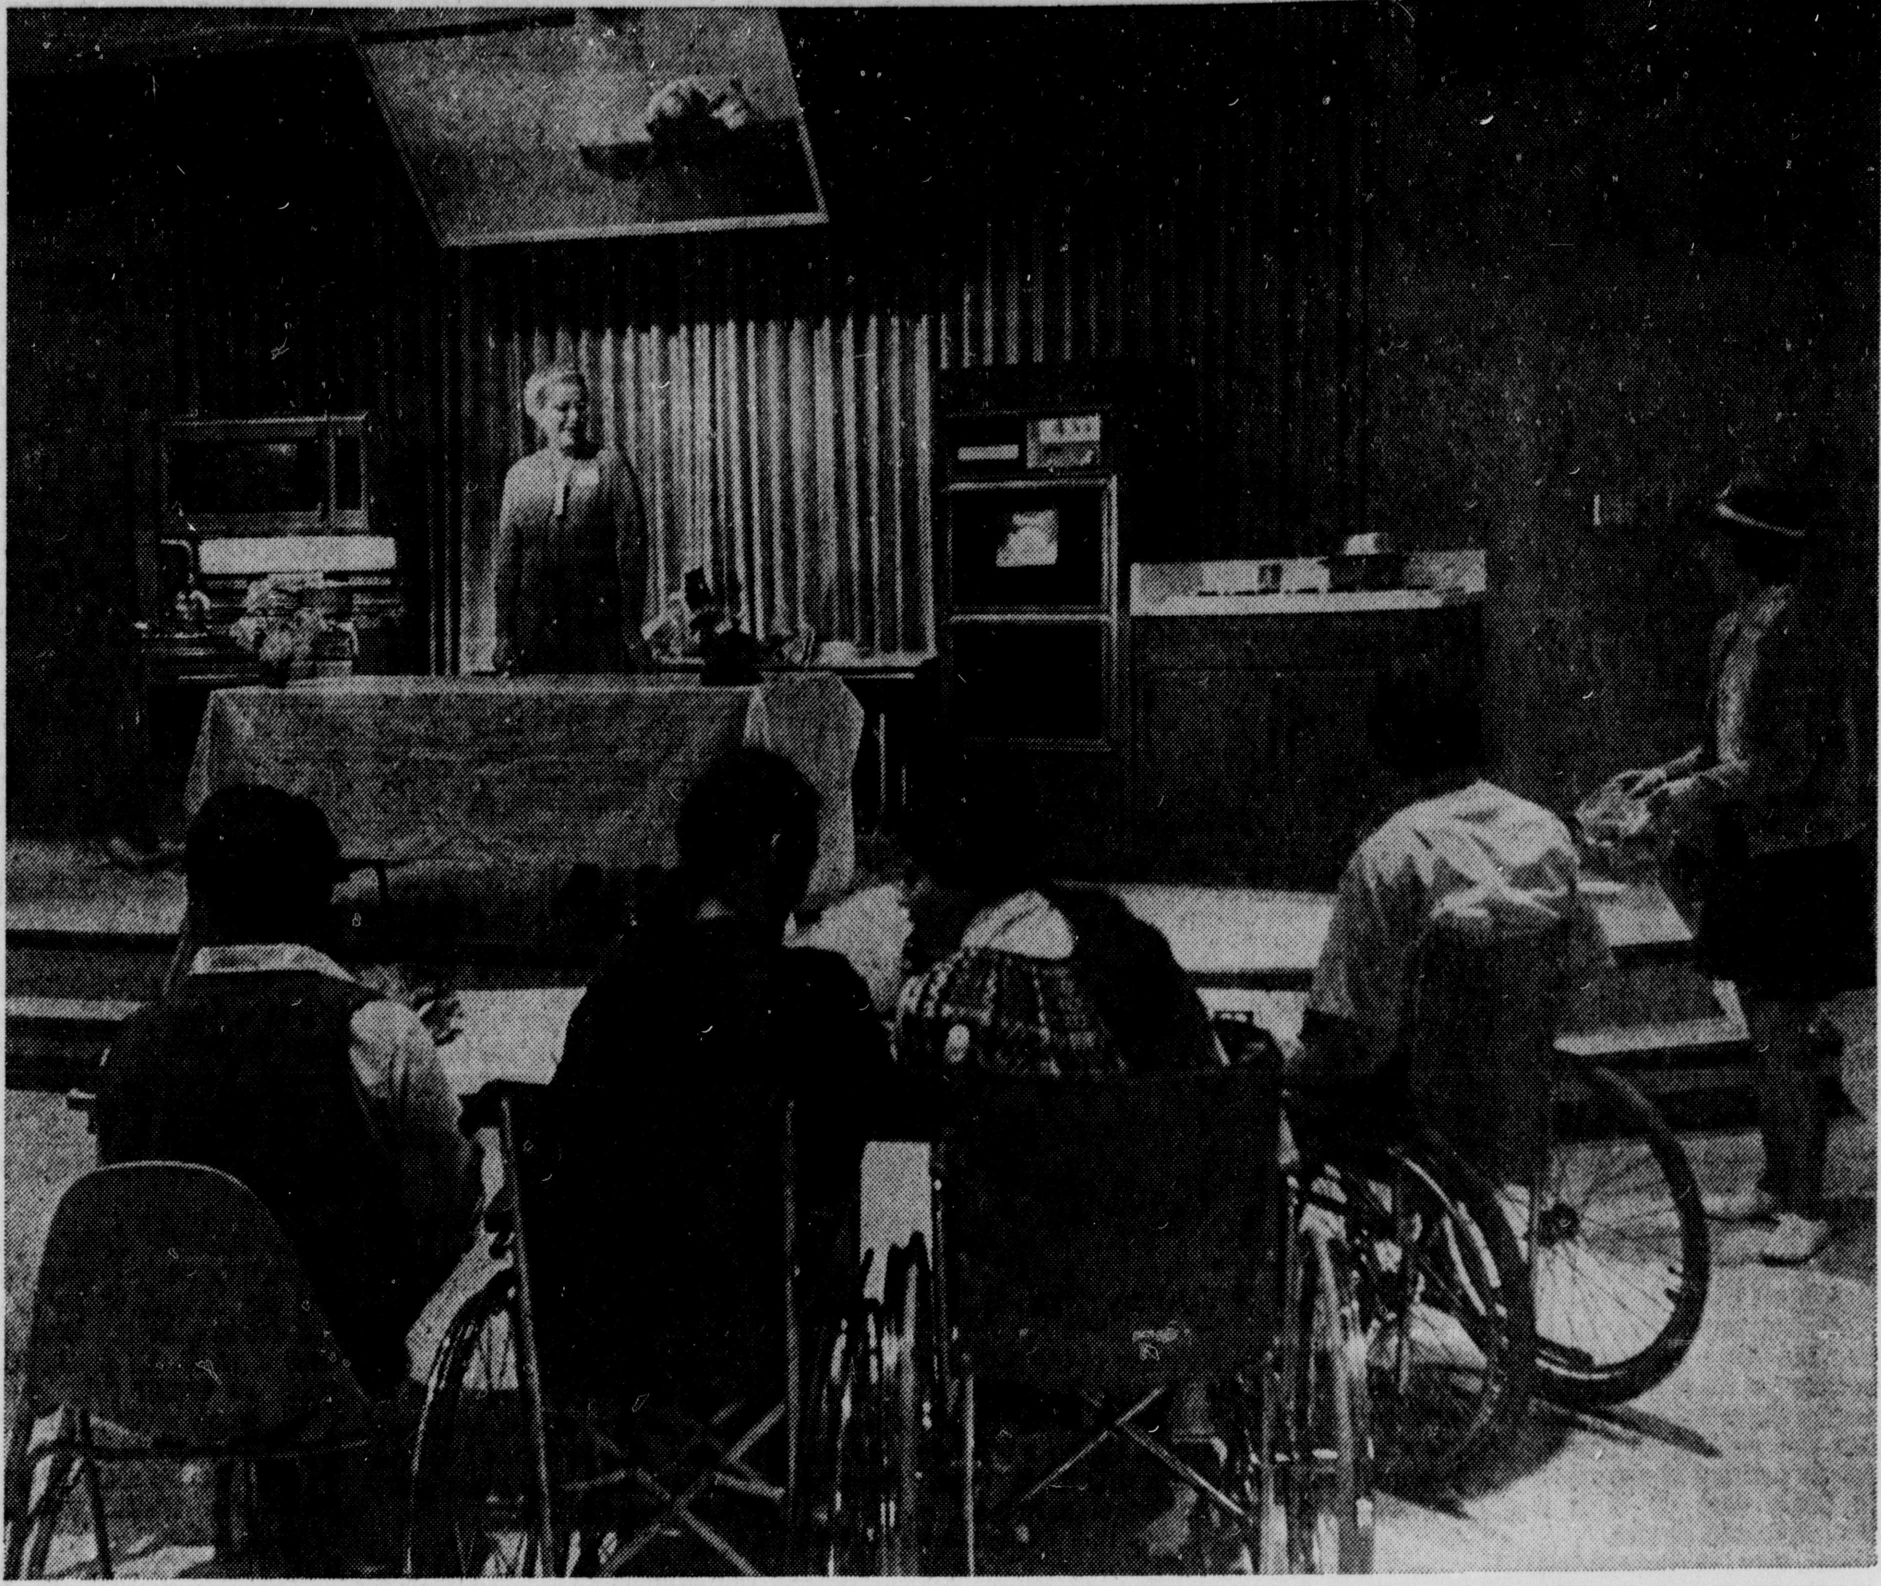
"THERE SHOULD be no party line," said Miss Nell, yet there is a larger than life size protrait of Angela Davis hanging on the opposite wall. "We want to allow for diversity and develop the concept of discovering each woman's needs," Miss Neel said.

Without funding, the center manages to print a newsletter to keep the campus' female population aware of what is available to them through the office. Distribution of the publication is made at the weekly meetings of the study program.

9 Pct. Of Doctors In U.S. Are Women

The Independent-Journal erred yesterday in quoting Dr. A. Lois Scully saying that 19 per cent of American doctors are women.

Dr. Scully, in a talk Tuesday at Dominican College, said that 9 per cent of American doctors are women.



BEING HONORED by the American Gas Association at its annual meeting in Boston is Mrs. Peggy Hopkins of San Rafael, home economist at the Pacific Gas and Electric Company office in Marin. Mrs. Hopkins is shown conducting a demonstration lecture for physically handicapped persons for which she received the award.

Couple Wed At Church In Fairfax

Gary Louis Pfaff wed Lauren Diane Wilson Saturday at St. Rita's Catholic Church in Fairfax. A reception followed at the San Geronimo Golf and Country Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Wilson of Fairfax are the bride's parents, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Pfaff, also of Fairfax.

Matron of honor for her sister was Sherry Huffman of Pleasant Hill, and bridesmaids were Sue Hageman and Jean Kopfer of San Francisco, Gail Gittseson of Sausalito and Marie Vervals of Sacramento.

Best man for his brother was Glenn Pfaff of Fairfax, and guests were ushered to their seats by Dick Hageman of San Francisco. Al Huffman of Pleasant Hill and Mark Bernel and Dennis Drislane of Sacramento.

Following a wedding trip to Hawaii the couple will live in San Francisco.

Lauren was graduated from Sir Francis Drake High School, College of Marin and San Francisco State College. She is employed at I. Magnin's in San Francisco. Mrs. Vera Wilson of San Rafael and Mrs. Mae Boyce of Fairfax are her grandmothers.

Honors For Peggy Hopkins

(I-J Special Report)

BOSTON, MASS. — Peggy Hopkins of San Rafael, home economist for the Pacific Gas and Electric Company in Marin, is one of five home economists honored yesterday at the annual meeting of the American Gas Association in Boston.

Mrs. Hopkins received an award for the series of lectures she conducted instructing handicapped persons how to cook. The demonstrations were given in the company's North Bay division headquarters in San Rafael and were co-sponsored by the Easter Seal Society of Marin County and community volunteers.

Included in the programs were cooking and shopping hints for the physically handicapped instructions on how to prepare low-cost main dishes, deserts and some Chinese meals. Part of the luncheon served at each session included items prepared by the participants, who ranged in age from young adult to 88. Two blind men also participated. Assisting the 23 handicapped persons was a volunteer occupational therapist.

Mrs. Hopkins joined P.G. and E in 1963 and has been on the staff of the North Bay Division since 1967. The division also serves customers in Sonoma, Mendocino, Lake, Napa and Solano Counties.

She is a graduate of the University of Massachusetts and has studied extensively in the United States and in the Far East. She has a diploma from St. Benedictine's School of Chinese Cooking, in Tokyo and is a member of the American Dietetic Association, the American Home Economics Association, the Bay Area Home Economists in Business, the Marin Inter-Agency Nutrition Council and the Business and Professional Women's Club of Marin County.

ITALIAN DESIGNER Emilio Pucci offers the classic swimsuit with cutout areas. The one-piece suit, shown at Pucci's spring collection showing in Florence, Italy, this week, has a shoestring strap at the back.

Bikinis Taken Out Of The Water And Put To Use On The Dry Land

By BRENDA W. ROTZOLL

FLORENCE, Italy (UPI)— The bikini appears to be on the way out as swimwear in the Italian ready-to-wear collections for next spring and summer, but Emilio Pucci has moved it into nonswimming uses.

Both knitwear houses and the Marchese Pucci Monday showed classic one-piece bathing suits with moderate V or scooped necks and not-so-low backs—the type you really wear into the water.

PUCCI, SHOWING his once-a-year high fashion collection in the family palace, also had heaps of bikinis. But the bottoms were appearing in lieu of underware beneath waist-slit dressed, and the tops were substituting for dress bodices. All were of sturdy enough fabric in which to jump into the pool, but that was not the basic idea.

The leisure look was the theme of his collection, which he said was designed to provide a complete change of pace for women when they leave their office or factory jobs.

Everything was soft and clinging or drifting, with shoulders bared by shoestring straps in most cases. Many dresses had bikini tops attached to the skirts by more shoestring straps.

PET FABRICS were silk jersey and a print terrycloth sheared to look just like velveteen but tough enough for sportswear. Green, brown and violet were the favorite Pucci colors.

He put his geometric prints onto terry velvets cut into blazers, for beach or city wear, and onto hugely full-hooded cloaks that could top a bikini or a ballgown with equal ease.

A few silk jersey and organza gowns had drifting skirts, but in most Pucci suspended skinny tubes of jersey from shoestring straps for a look both soft and slinky. For presidential balls and the like, the print evening gowns were solidly embroidered with mock jewels, a time-consuming work that boosted their price to $2,500.

READY-TO-WEAR collections from the high fashion houses were largely adaptations of earlier collections for private buyers. Most designers agreed — you had to have a white suit for spring, preferably in double faced wool, with a pleated skirt ending near the top of the knee.

There also was unusual unanimity about hats. Nearly everyone showed them and nearly all hats were fine-weave straws with huge brims, some tilted up all around, like the bowl of a radar station.

Mrs. Sinna Elected As President

An 11-year member of the Social Service Auxiliary of Marin, Mrs. Thomas J. Sinna of San Rafael is the group's new president. She has served as both first and third vice-president.

Primary purpose of the auxiliary is to raise funds for the programs sponsored by the Catholic Social Service Agency of Marin County and to perform services such as agency clerical assistance and providcng transportation, according to Joan Sinna.

Fund-raising activities and social events planned by the auxiliary include the annual Christmas tea, a day at the races in March and a theater party in May.

Membership is open to any person interested in the programs sponsored by the Catholic Social Service Agency, according to the new president.

Mrs. Sinna is a native San Franciscan and a graduate of Convent of the Sacred Heart in San Francisco and San Jose State College. She is a member of the Sacred Heart alumnae, Alpha Phi alumnae and the Little Children's Aid Junior Auxiliary of San Francisco. Her husband is the controller at Marin General Hospital. Twelve-year-residents of Marin, the Sinnas are parents of Jennifer, 9, and Elizabeth, 6. Reading and sewing are her hobbies.

Other officers are Mmes. Robert Patoccki, first vice-president; Constantine Bricca, second vice-president; Louis Bernardoni, and Vincent Sullivan third vice-president; William Flinn, treasurer; Lawrence Arntz, recording secretary; Michaels Collins, corresponding secretary; John H. Bruns, financial secretary; William Losee Jr., parliamentarian; and Albert Scott, public relations.

Ecological Fashion

One fashion in ecology: Giving furniture, clothing and appliance to Goodwill Industries instead of assigning them to the trash heap. The old things add to pollution when you throw them out. By donating them to Goodwill you not only provide work for the handicapped, who recondition them like new at Goodwill workshops, but you can claim their estimated value as an income tax deduction.

HOW TO PLAY
WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Make A Note On Your Calendar — Bridge Tourney In Bermuda

If you're the kind of bridge player who plans ahead, make a note on your calendar of the regional tournament at the Bermudiana Hotel in Bermuda next January 22-30. The people are friendly, the climate is delightfully mild, and the quality of the bridge may be seen from today's hand, played in last year's regional by Tony Saunders, chairman of the tournament committee.

EASY TO SEE

It's easy to see how the hand would be played by the average experienced player. He would win the first heart, cash the king of clubs, draw one round of trumps "for safety" and then would cash the other top heart and try to ruff a heart.

East would overruff, of course, and then a trump or a spade return would force declarer to give up a total of two hearts and two spades. Down two.

Not very distinguished when the contract is actually unbeatable. See if you can find the way Saunders played the hand before you read on.

SAME START

Saunders began just as any experienced player would. He took the king of hearts and the king of clubs. Then he cashed the ace of hearts and led a third heart.

West covered with the nine, and Saunders discarded a spade from dummy instead of vainly trying to ruff the heart. West returned a trump, and Saunders promptly led his last heart and discarded another spade from dummy.

West returned another trump, vainly trying to reduce dummy's ruffing power. Now declarer cashed the ace of spades, ruffed a spade in dummy and discarded his last spade on dummy's ace of clubs. Five diamonds bid and made.

It's interesting to note that leading one round of trumps is far from safe. This would lose if West had three trumps, since he would manage to get all of the trumps out of the dummy before South could ruff a spade.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with 1-NT (16 to 18 points) and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ - Q 8 3
♥ - Q J 10 9 4
♦ - 6 4
♣ - Q 7 2.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two hearts.

Partner will probably pass, and you should have an easy time at your part-score contract. If partner has a good fit for hearts and 17 or 18 points, he will rebid; and then you can go to game.

Leontyne Price Set In Verdi Opera

By JAMES E. WILLIAMS

Soprano Leontyne Price, one of the opera world's most popular singers, returns to the San Francisco Opera House on Saturday night as Leonora in Verdi's "Il Trovatore."

Miss Price will be joined by tenor James King as Manrico.

The popular opera will be performed seven times with Miss Price in the first four performances and King in the first five.

In the final three performances Ljiljana Monar-Talajic will take the role of Leonora and tenor James McCracken, a San Francisco Opera Company favorite, will sing Manrico in the last two performances.

DRAMA

The celebrated Black Light Theater of Prague, a company of 18, will perform Friday and Saturday nights at Zellerbach Auditorium on the University of California campus at Berkeley. Formed in 1961, the company, which combines mime, movement and music into an evening's entertainment, is currently making its North American debut.

ART

"Dough in Bronze" a cast relief sculpture of mermaids by Ruth Asawa, is one of the new works to be seen in the Rental Gallery Fall 1971 exhibit at the San Francisco Museum of Art.

Approximately 170 recent paintings, sculptures, graphics and drawings by both young and established Bay Area artists comprise the collection.

Other attractions:

Little Fox — "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest," Tuesday through Friday, 8:30 p.m.; Saturday, 7 and 10:30 p.m.; Sunday, 7:30 p.m.

Berkeley Repertory Theater — "The Alchemist," Tuesday through Friday, 8 p.m.; Saturday, 7 and 9:30 p.m.

Friends and Relations Hall — "Tommy," Tuesday through Saturday, 8:30 p.m. (five-week return engagement).

New Committee Theater — "The Trial of the Catonsville Nine," Monday through Friday, 8:30 p.m.; Saturdays, 7 and 10:30 p.m.; Sundays, 7:30 p.m.

M. H. de Young Memorial Museum — "British Art," through Nov. 28.

San Francisco Museum of Art — "Alberto Giacometti: The Complete Graphics," through Nov. 11; Four Americans in Paris: The Collection of Gertrude Stein and Her Family," through October.

University Art Museum (Berkeley) — "The Television Environment," through October.

Oakland Museum — "The Tropical Show," a collection of 40 oils, watercolors and pastels by 19th Century artists, continuing.

Rockefeller And Lindsay Friends

NEW YORK (UPI)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and Mayor John V. Lindsay smiled and said nice things about each other Wednesday. Then they shook hands.

The unusual harmony occurred at the 26th annual Alfred E. Smith memorial dinner, a yearly banquet named after the late governor and held for the purpose of raising money for about 20 hospitals.

Rockefeller, a Republican, and Lindsay, a Democrat since this summer after being a lifelong Republican, have often been political enemies, battling over the relationship between the city and the state.

A Kandinsky Oil Brings $300,000

NEW YORK (UPI)—An early abstract painting by Vasily Kandinsky, the Russian artist who fled the young Soviet Union's demands for artistic realism in 1922, brought $300,000 Wednesday night — setting a new world auction record for nonobjective art.

The painting, a swirl of dramatic color entitled "Picture with Three Spots," was bought by an unidentified Swiss dealer at a $2 million ParkeBernet Galleries Inc. sale of 68 works by Kandinsky and two other modern artists. Its price was second only to the auction record set several years ago for a work by a 20th Century artist — $520,000 for a Picasso.

Los Angeles industrialist Norton Simon jumped an early bid on the painting from $80,000 to $200,000, but he failed to carry off the prize. He and his wife, actress Jennifer Jones, had to be content with a $155,000 Kandinsky oil, "Open Green" painted in 1929.

The 47 Kandinsky oils and water colors in the sale were placed on the block by New York's Guggenhiem Museum to week out its vast collection of the Russian master's works. An unidentified Milan, Italy, dealer paid $140,000 for a 1921 painting titled "White Oval" and Heinz Berggruen, a French dealer paid $105,000 for a 1926 painting, "Loose Dense."

Berggruen bought 11 Kandinskys for a total of $235,000.

The sale brought $500,000 more than the highest estimate of the auction gallery's experts.

Symphony Auction Set On Saturday

Have you always wanted to conduct a symphony orchestra? Or do you think having the Guckenheimer Sourkraute Band play for a party would be fun?

You will have an opportunity to satisfy these ambitions if you are a high bidder at the Marin Symphony Association's Whole Works Auction Saturday at the Forest Farm Camp, Forest Knolls. Gates open at 4 p.m.

The chance to be guest conductor in the Marin Symphony Orchestra's pops concert in the spring and the band performance are among a wide variety of musical programs and services up for grabs in the auction.

Other services offered are the performance at a wedding by the symphony orchestra's assistant conductor and concertmaster Charles Meacham, violinist; an evening of Scandinavian music in costume by a trio composed of Mabel Pittenger playing the Norwegian hardanger fele with flutist Jean Chandler and pianist Dorothy Nordstrand; a program by the Lydian Trio consisting of Elizabeth Birnbaum, viola; Beverly Bellows, harp, and Jean Chandler, flute, and an evening of "you name it — I'll play it" of music from the 1930s and '40s played on the piano by Mrs. Robert L. Schultz, symphony association manager.

Also offered are a "ragtime gig" by pianist Fae McNally, founder of the Inverness Festival; vocal concerts by James Gettys and the husband-wife team of Marian Marsh and David Wade; a classical guitar program by Philip DeFremery, and many kinds of music lessons.

Finch Takes Prison Passes

CHINO, Calif. (UPI)—Dr. Bernard Finch, who has served 12 years in jail for the love triangle slaying of his socialite wife, has taken two 72-hour passes from prison as a prelude to his formal parole Dec. 6.

Finch, who returns from his second pass today, was allowed the liberties under a new state law which provides that inmates are eligible to leave prison to arrange details for life after parole.

Finch and his voluptuous red-haired nurse, Carole Tregoff, were tried three times—the first two trials ending in hung juries—before they were found guilty of shooting Mrs. Barbara Jean Finch in 1959 ;in one of the most sensational murder cases of the century.

Miss Tregoff, now 34, was paroled in May, 1969 after serving 10 years in prison.

Series of College Tests Holding Promise Of Cutting School Costs

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Under an experimental program at San Francisco State College, 280 entering freshmen have earned the equivalent of an entire year of college credit by taking a series of summer tests.

The experimental tests, if successful and widely used, hold the promise of saving considerable time and money for students, parents and taxpayers.

The series of five tests, known as the College Level Examination Program (CLEP), was sponsored jointly by the College Entrance Examination Board and the California State College system.

Of 873 students who took the tests in English composition, history-social science, humanities, mathematics and natural science, 331 passed all five tests. Of those, 280 enrolled at the college.

The students earned six units of credit for each test they passed, or a total of 30 units—one year of college—for all five tests.

"We are naturally pleased with the results," said Dr. Urban Whitaker, dean of undergraduate studies and in charge of the program. But he cautioned that it was too early to draw conclusions from the experiment.

Whitaker said studies are under way to determine the value of the tests and whether such credit by examination tests might be used in other colleges.

"There is a potential for considerable savings to students and taxpayers," said Donald L. Garrity, academic vice president.

"If CLEP and other types of tests are widely used and students can accomplish the same amount of academic work in less time, the cost of college education will be less for individuals and the colleges can serve large numbers of people over a span of several years."

The tests "further confirm that many students enter our state colleges with greatly dissimilar backgrounds," said Glenn S. Dumke, chancellor of the California State Colleges, whose office inaugurated the experimental program.

"There are indications that certain courses, typically required of all students, may, instead, be applicable to only some students."

Dumke said the state colleges would continue to explore "a variety of approaches that challenge traditional time serving, lock-step requirements for higher education."

Rail Wants To Close Berkeley Agency Station

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Southern Pacific has asked for permission to close its agency station at Berkeley because it no longer provides passenger service to the East Bay city.

SP told the California Public Utilities Commission yesterday it wanted to discontinue the agency station, remove it from public service and maintain it as a non-agency station starting next Jan. 1, or as soon thereafter as permitted by its labor contracts.

The firm's petition said Berkeley area customers could be adequately served at an agency station in neighboring Oakland.

Youth Commission Chairman Selected

Aline Beban has been elected chairman of the Fairfax Youth Commission and Julie McDermott, secretary.

The commissioners have decided to decorate the Fairfax Women's Clubhouse as a haunted house for a Halloween party Oct. 30, and to charge 25 cents admission.

Extension Of Moratorium On Land Is Urged

The Petaluma Planning Commission has called for a three-month extension of the moratorium on land use changes to allow more time for development of a city environmental design plan.

Planning Director William C. McGivern said the commission recommended the city council extend the moratorium to at least Jan. 24 at its meeting Tuesday. He said chairmen of committees working on the design plan reported that work was progressing well but slower than anticipated. All said more time would be needed before the city resumes consideration of rezonings, subdivisions and annexations.

The design plan under study by citizen groups and professional planners will update the city's 1972 general plan.

Brown Jr. Does Bit For Election Purity

Ever since 1913, there have been laws on the books in California requiring that candidates for public office file statements of campaign expenditures. The present law, specifying what the statements must contain and making failure to file a misdemeanor, dates back to 1961.

Until this year, however, many who ran for election unsuccessfully ignored the law. And successive secretaries of state also ignored it except for those elected — who could not take office until the statement was filed.

SECY. OF STATE Edmund G. Brown Jr. has changed all that. From now on, candidates will know they have to file their statements or face prosecution — at least as long as Brown is in office.

This week "Pat" Brown Jr. filed suit against nine candidates in last year's primaries who had filed no statements of campaign expenditures despite repeated warnings. It asks for superior court injunctions against them, with jail for contempt if they ignore the injunctions — probably a more feasible route than misdemeanor prosecutions under Section 12054 of the Election Code.

The suits climax a campaign to require filing of the statements that Brown started immediately after taking office (he filed his own expense statements for primary and general elections, you may be sure).

WHAT GOOD ARE the campagin expense statements?

Well, they let the public know how much the candidates spent trying to get elected, and how much came out of their own pockets. They don't go far beyond that, as contributions can be concealed behind dummy committee names or even reported as anonymous.

But, as Brown noted, reports filed by 118 office seekers as result of his pressure showed contributions of $434,131.58 which "was never disclosed or even hinted at before" plus a much larger amount — over $2 million — previously reported to his office but not officially recorded so it would be open for public inspection.

For one example, Raymond H. Shone, who unsuccessfully sought the Republican nomination for state senator from Marin, Napa and Solano counties last year, filed a statement as result of Brown's pressure showing expenditures of some $65,000 in his primary campaign.

"The reports," said the secretary of state, "show that candidates who spent substantial amounts of money believed they could hide behind a wall of financial secrecy and evade our election laws with impunity. They now know this will no longer be allowed."

IT SEEMS PRETTY unsavory for a man to seek public office and then fail to comply with laws governing candidacy for such office. The nine against whom Brown filed suit may find, even if they avoid going to jail for defying court injunctions, that voters are not likely to regard them with complete trust if they should ever want to run for office again.

Purity of elections may be unobtainable. But at least the junior "Pat" Brown's effort is a step in that direction.

BY RUS WALTON:

Time Has Come To Test Voucher Plan In Schools

SACRAMENTO — When you want a physician, you look for the best one around. Same thing when you need an attorney. Or, an accountant, or a mechanic, or whatever. Right?

But, when you want to educate your kids what happens?

Unless you have a bundle and can afford a private school you take what there is at the public school. No shopping around. No freedom of choice. You pay your taxes. Plenty of taxes. And then you take your chances.

That's because public education, at least from kindergarten through high school, is a closed shop. A monopoly.

Add to that the impact of the recent State Supreme Court decision that there must be a change in the financing and funding of public education.

WHAT DOES IT ALL say? That now is the time to get moving on the school voucher plan. At least, to give it a test.

Briefly, the voucher plan would subsidize the student rather than the system. It would put the dynamics of customer-producer relationship into the process of education, K through 12.

The parents of a school child would receive a voucher worth a set amount of dollars. The face amount of the voucher would cover the cost of education. The parents could "spend" that voucher at the school of their choice.

If one school seemed to be doing a sounder job of educating students, that's where the parents could spend their voucher and send their child. Other parents might prefer another school for different reasons.

Faced with the give-and-take of such an open market school boards, administrators and teachers might try harder for excellence. That is the theory, at least.

THE VOUCHER PLAN is controversial. No one knows for sure whether it is as good as supporters promise or as bad as its detractors contend. And, that's the point at issue right now: why not test the plan and see if it works?

AB 150, by Assemblyman Leo J. Ryan D-South San Francisco, would do that. It would permit up to four school districts in the state to test the voucher plan — using federal OEO funds for the experiment. School districts in San Diego, San Francisco and San Jose have applied for funds and approval to make the tests.

Where are the long-winded reformers in this move for an innovative experiment? Faded in the heat of debate, . As Plunkett of Tammany Hall once said, "they is only morning glories."

THE STAUNCHEST supporters of the voucher test are so-called "traditionalists": State Sen. John Harmer, Assemblymen Bill Campbell and John Stull, and Congressman Vic Veysey.

And, the source of its stiffest opposition? The California Teachers Association. The CTA contends the plan would violate the First Amendment. What they really mean, and will not say, is that it might jeopardize tenure for incompetent teachers. It might shake up the education empire.

The promise of the voucher plan is not to make private schools public but to give public schools some of the zing and the zest of competitive private institutions.

Ryan's bill has passed the Assembly and the State Senate Education Committee. It is now before Senate Finance. Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka, is chairman. Since the rise of "Ecology Now," he has been working to change his image. Known as the "father of the freeways" he wants to become the "father of public schools."

If he really means it, he can unlock the schoolhouse door and let in the air of innovation and improvement by working to see that AB 150 is passed by his committee.

Illegality Alleged In Ballot Measure

It appears that Measure B (MMWD contract approval measure) will be on the November ballot illegally.

Election code Section 3784 requires that the county clerk publish notice of the date for submission of arguments. This the county clerk refused to do.

Why? Could it be because the whole thing smells bad? Investigate, Marinites, why you should vote no on B!

China Switch Major UN Charter Change

Referring to the proposal to remove Nationalist China, one of the five permanent members, from the UN Security Council, this is a major change in the UN charter.

The UN charter was established by agreement among nations. For the United States this means a treaty, negotiated and signed by or for the President and ratified by the Senate. Any basic change should be by the same process.

Is the United States prepared to surrender its basic rights as a permanent member of the UN Security Council to a majority vote in the General Assembly? We could be next — except that they will probably keep the U.S. taxpayer to pay all the bills as in the past.

Newcomer Finds Fair Disappointing

As a relative newcomer (one year) to Marin County I want to express my disappointment with the Marin County Fair. I had heard so many good things about the old Art and Garden Shows in Ross, and the article in your paper last Saturday sounded so glowing that even with the change in location I expected something outstanding. Instead it was a terrible letdown.

The fair people did a fine job preparing the site from scratch, but where were all the exhibits and activities? One tent full of flower and fruit arrangements and one art-photography display, and I counted exactly two operating art-in-action booths. The rest was a dreary array of commercialism, the kind of stuff a fair needs to produce some income but no one really wants to look at, as well as a minimum amount of edible food, some uninspired folk dancers and the deadly dull NASA display — a total waste of a dollar and 45 minutes of our time.

The Marin County Fair looked especially bad in comparison with the Mill Valley Art Festival, which was not only delightful in every respect but showed what can be done with less pretentiousness and more imagination. Just because there are no trees, does that mean the show itself has to be dismal and boring? I'm afraid many people who came this year will find something better to do next year.

Renaissance Faire Finds A Supporter

The Renaissance Pleasure Faire is something I look forward to each year. The entire experience is a thorough delight, and I believe that Marin County is far the better for having it happen here. I am amazed that there is so much opposition to the fair's purchase of the land in Lucas Valley for a permanent location for the fair.

I hate the thought of Lucas Valley Road being widened and made into a four-lane highway, but it's going to happen, whether there's a Renaissance Cultural Center up the valley or not. As a matter of fact, we're already battling, in our Mont Marin area, a county plan to straddle Miller Creek with a four-lane Lucas Valley Road.

It seems to me that if a Renaissance Cultural Center, with 900 acres left natural, goes into Lucas Valley, this is going to reduce the number of new houses that will be built in the valley, and automatically reduce the year-round traffic. The traffic for the four or five week ends of the fair itself could easily be handled by having all the parking at the Civic Center or some other easily accessible location and using busses to carry people to the fair site. I wonder whether a lot of traffic for four or five week ends a year would be worse than a lot of traffic every day from hundreds or thousands of new houses in the same area.

I hope the board of supervisors, when they are deciding on the rezoning application, will consider the opinions of people through out the county regarding the fair. I believe the people of the county love the fair and what it stands for.

Claims Many Horses Kept In San Rafael

I resent your inference that we want the City to prosecute other horse owners. That is not true. If anything, I would like to see the city change that ridiculous ordinance. It is lousy, and the city is fully aware of it. Furthermore, I question the right of the city to use our testimony in court to now go after Mr. Scettrini.

I brought to court a list of 26 corrals, all within the city limits (which by the way does not include Los Ranchitos, which is loaded with horses). The list is in no way complete. It lists only corrals perfectly visible from the street. Judging from the horse trailors and droppings of manure, I believe the number of corrals to be at least twice as large, but since I have no authority to trepass on peoples property, I have no way to know for certain. It would not surprise me, if the number of horses in this town well exceded 500.

Repeatedly you neglect to mention, that we did in fact have a permit. First under the old ordinance and twice we were given a permit by the planning commission under the new ordinance, only to have it revoked by the city council.

Mr. Hotchner's testimony that he only prosecuted us because there was a complaint is sheer nonsense. He cannot tell me that none of the other horse owners have had complaints. It is absolutely impossible to keep horses without some kook, possibly in the other end of town even, complaining. I happen to know for a fact that our next door neighbors, who have since left this miserable town, had complaints that were reported to the city, but they were never prosecuted. . .

This procedure by the city council is not unlike the witch trials in Massachusetts or the Spanish Inquisition, when the individual was found guilty merely by an unfounded and malicious accusation, with no way to prove his innocence. This kind of procedure is barbaric and unbecoming of a democratic society.

MARQUIS CHILDS

Rockefeller Reportedly Seeking Escape From Troubled New York

NEW YORK — The legend both here in New York and in Washington is that Gov. Nelson Rockefeller is looking for an escape hatch. The nation's only fourth-term governor's troubles are piling up with a state deficit of $470 million and a bigger deficit for this harassed, troubled city

He would like to be secretary of state (the office is currently filled) and he is hopeful of second place on the Republican ticket in 1972, so the legend goes. The governor squares his stubborn jaw and says that nothing outside the state would interest him until after 1972

ATTICA, WHERE a prison rebellion was put down with an armed attack costing the lives of 40 prisoners and guards, was a grievous blow Rockefeller was widely criticized for failing to go to the prison to confront the rebels face to face. His associates insist that his presence would have made no difference and might even have further inflamed the prisoners who held guards as hostages.

It comes down to ancient prisons and a penal system that is hardly more than penning men up like animals in a stockade. It would take, by. the governor's estimate, $200 million to replace overcrowded dungeons with modern prisons. A subsidy of $50 million a year is essential for programs to raise the level of the correctional system above mere armed custody.

That money is nowhere in sight. A certain amount of aid comes from the federal government under the heading of correctional reform. But none of this is for capital construction and so 41-year-old Attica, the state's newest prison. The noisome Tombs in New York City, and the other miserable schools for crime and violence will go on trying to repress what ultimately, as Attica showed, is irrepressible.

For child day-care centers, hospitals, nursing homes, and schools for retarded children there is constant agitation by concerned citizens. But for those who fall afoul of the law and are shut up out of sight there is no lobby.

ROCKEFELLER SEES the dilemma of the big-city states as deeply rooted in the New Deal era. The formula of federal aid was based on rural states where millions of farm workers had been dispossessed. Since then many of these millions have migrated to the cities where the relief load constantly grows and the ghettos continually decline

The federal government takes out of New York state $22 billion a year by way of the federal income tax In various forms of federal help the state gets back 11 cents out of each dollar In contrast Arkansas, where, incidentally, Winthrop Rockefeller was governor for two terms gets back 29 cents out of every dollar that goes to the federal treasury That is the New Deal formula that is now outmoded by the cities with their burden of poverty

Rockefeller is just now concentrating on putting over at the next election a $2.5 billion bond issue It would go for mass transit to try to ease the fearful congestion in the metropolitan area, for upstate transit, and for highways A considerable part of the money spent in this way would be matched by federal funds

But the bond issue is snarled in the fierce in-fighting between city and state. New York City Controller Abraham Beame, a candidate for mayor, wants most of the proceeds to go to save the 30-cent subway fare. Without a subsidy it would go to 40 cents or more, and that would stir the wrath of the millions who each day jam into subways badly in need of repair and modernization

FROM THE PERSPECTIVE of the governor's office, the whole system of state governments has a precarious look. This state has a graduated income tax up to 14 per cent and a stiff corporate tax. Adjoining Connecticut and New Jersey have no income tax. So industry and business are lured away and the tax base goes down. New York City has a 3.6 per cent income tax. Sales taxes are near the top. There is little confidence here that the Nixon revenue-sharing proposal will get through Congress or that, if it does, the big-city states will receive sums of any magnitude.

When the governors held their annual conference recently in San Juan, Puerto Rick (Rockefeller was absent as the Attica rebellion moved to a fearful climax), the feeling was one of powerlessness. A governor pleading with Washington for help is not exactly a commanding figure.

WINDOW ON THE WORLD

Peking Driving Wedge Between U.S. And Japan

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

More than any fear the Communist Chinese may have of the United States is their concern over Japan.

Some China students believe this concern may be the real reason behind the Communist regime's invitation to President Nixon to visit Peking. According to this theory the Chinese hope to drive a wedge between the United States and Japan and reverse what they believe is a growing Japanese trend toward militarism.

A COMMUNIQUE signed by the Chinese and a visiting group of Japanese legislators went into unusual detail in outlining the kind of relationship the Chinese would like to have with Japan.

The communique demanded that Japan break relations with the Natio alist Chinese on Formosa and sign a new peace treaty with Peking.

It declared that the "United States must withdraw its armed forces and military installations from Indochina and other areas in the Far East."

It expressed the hope the Japanese people would establish an "independent, democratic, peaceful, neutral and prosperous Japan."

It rejected the "two China" concept and expressed "deep regret" that the government of Japanese Premier Eisaku Sato had agreed to co-sponsor U.S. resolutions in the United Nations which would preserve a U.N. seat for the Nationalists while at the same time seating the Peking regime and giving Peking China's seat in the security council.

THE COMMUNIQUE will be the subject of careful study in Tokyo.

The makeup of the Japanese delegation included members of Sato's own Liberal Democratic party, pointing up a deep split involving not only Sato's future but also selection of his successor. The demand that the United States dismantle all its Far Eastern military installations goes farther than the Red Chinese had gone in past declarations outlining their conditions for establishing diplomatic relations with the United States.

Those conditions demanded total U.S. withdrawal from Indochina and Taiwan (Formosa) but made no mention of Japan.

The conditions set forth for Japan apparently also include American bases on both Japan and Korea, and presumably the Philippines as well.

The communique made no mention of Japanese war reparations to be paid to Peking, but the Chinese themselves have said they simply are waiting to prefent the bill. The Chinese Nationalists asked no reparations.

THE JAPANESE have good relations with the Nationalists and do not want to see them lose their seat in the United Nations. On the other hand, Japanese trade with the mainland came to $825 million in 1970 and Japanese businessmen are eager to expand it.

Historically, China has reason to fear an aggressive militaristic Japan.

But there is a real irony in the Chinese insistance on total U.S. military withdrawal from the area.

A Japan standing alone certainly would be more tempted to develop military muscle than now under her mutual defense treaty with the United States.

Final 1950 census figures gave Marin County a population of 85,619, up from 52,907 in 1940.

Male Chauvinist Sexist Pigs Plot Answer To Women's Lib

NEW YORK — A group of male chauvinist sexist pigs met here recently at a black-tie stag dinner to see if they could do anything about stopping the Women's Lib movement.

As the only newspaperman present I was sworn not to reveal the names of the participants. But I was told that I could print anything I wanted regarding the discussion.

The men, all in their early forties and mostly in the communications and financial fields, felt the only chance that they had of reversing what they considered this country's "permissive" attitude toward women was to repeal the 19th Amendment — which gives the female sex the right to vote.

They said all the problems now confronting the United States could be traced to the 19th Amendment, and there was no sense trying to reverse the direction of the country unless the country came to its senses and took the vote away from women.

THE MALE CHAUVINIST sexist pigs said they had nothing against women personally (a few even admitted to living with one) but it was their opinion that giving females the vote had engendered false hopes in their breasts which had led to unrest and even violence in the home.

In a fervent speech, given after cigars and port were served, an advertising man said:

"We fought in 1776 for liberty, in 1861 for freedom, in 1917 for democracy. . . then women got the vote, and every war since then has been lousy!

"Women have no judgment in such matters. If we are ever to get out of Indochina, the men must take over again."

There were cheers from the partisan all-male audience.

A BANKER who had just returned from Liechtenstein reported that women in that country did not have the vote, and he found them to be the happiest people in Europe.

"All the women smiled at me as they churned their butter," he reported. "They laughed as they milked the cows and sang as they dumped grapes into the huge wine vats. And the men — from their mountain vastnesses to their fertile valleys, from their sun-dappled sloopes or wherever they lived, the men of Lichtenstein stood fast. We're bigger than Liechtenstein, stronger, more easily spelled. Surely our women deserve to be as happy as their women. They can be, providing they don't vote."

An art director held up a poster he had just designed which read "Stop and Think — What would Thomas Jefferson, Abraham Lincoln and Rutherford B. Hayes have thought about entering a political dialogue with Bella Abzug? Makes you wonder, doesn't it?. . . Could Bella have happened back in the days when we had only 18 amendments? or better still, 17?. . . 'Let 'em vote,' they said. 'What harm can it do? . . Well, now we know!"

The entire room rose as one to toast the poster.

FINALLY, A MAN who identified himself only as general secretary of the Bull Moose Party got on his feet. "We are not opposed to Women's Lib," he said as everyone gasped. "We say equal pay for equal work. . . unconstrained bosoms, if that's the way they want them. . . day care centers for every child in America. . . free beer for ladies at the men's bar at the Biltmore — they can have 'em all and tiparillos, too. . . but not the vote!

"Political thinking is peculiarly masculine. It involves game plans, southern strategies and Phases I and II through God knows what. Women are not up to understanding these things. What's happening to the Supreme Court could happen to all of us. Stop the rot."

Allocation Of Special Job Fund Angers No. State Congressmen

By BENJAMIN SHORE
I-J Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Seven Northern California congressmen — all Democrats — are accusing Labor Secretary J. D. Hodgson of possible political motives in allocating all of California's special job-producing funds to Southern California areas.

They say Hodgson ignored his own guidelines in earmarking the entire $50 million state share for Southern California high-unemployment areas.

The Labor Department declined immediate comment.

Signing a joint letter to Hodgson and a similar telegram to Gov. Ronald Reagan were Reps. Robert L. Leggett of Vallejo, Don Edwards of San Jose, Jerome R. Waldie of Antioch, John E. Moss of Sacramento, John J. McFall of Manteca, Harold (Bizz) Johnson of Roseville and B. F. Sisk of Fresno.

Hodgson last week announced that the Riverside, San Bernardino and San Diego areas would receive $30 million in special Emergency Employment Act funds to establish quick demonstration job program to show the impact of the recession-fighting plan.

In addition, Los Angeles and Orange counties will receive $20 million to demonstrate the effect of the job program on welfare recipients.

The total $50 million is in addition to the job funds allocated to the entire state by the recently passed legislation.

In the joint letter, the congressmen point out that Hodgson previously announced that the $50 million would have wide geographic distribution, go to isolated areas of high unemployment, go to small- and medium-sized areas where the funds would have major impact, and favor areas with large welfare rolls.

"By concentrating all projects in the tight area of San Diego, Orange County, Los Angeles County and the Riverside-San Bernardino area, it is difficult to understand how meaningful test results could be obtained," the congressmen wrote.

"There are many areas throughout the state which, if selected, would more appropriately meet the ground rules for allocation which you have announced."

"Failure of the Department of Labot to explain the criteria for allocation of funds raises suspicions that the decision was made for political pruposes," they said.

They also urged Reagan to direct the state Department of Human Resources to overrule the federal plan and allocate some of the $50 million to Northern California.

Comedienne's Son Arrested

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Perry Diller, 21, son of comedienne Phyllis Diller, was arrested on suspicion of felony drunken driving following a traffic collision in which a teen-ager was seriously injured.

Police said Paul Weisman, 16, was hurt when his car collided late Tuesday with an auto driven by Diller at a Brentwood intersection.

Weisman was taken to Los Angeles County-USC Medical Center with head injuries. A passenger in Diller's car, Christiane Eden, suffered minor injuries. Diller was not hurt.

Chivalry Still Around In '70s

SARASOTA, Fla. (UPI)—If you think chivalry is dead, ask the lady teller who was robbed by a young gunman Wednesday.

Lorraine Butler said the man entered the branch office of a savings and loan association, handed her a paper bag and a note demanding money.

She filled the bag with money and gave it to the gunman.

He kissed her hand and walked from the building.

Environmental Panel Sets Hearing On Aqueduct

I- J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — The controversial Marin-Sonoma Aqueduct will be examined by the state Environmental Quality Study Council in a special hearing Wednesday in the Marin Civic Center.

The council, the state's environmental watchdogs, announced the hearing was called "to explore all aspects of the controversial water project."

The hearing, to be conducted by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, will run from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Behr's office previously reported incorrectly that the hearing would be next Tuesday.

Orange County Supervisor David L. Baker, chairman of the council, said the hearing will give citizens and officials a chance to testify "on the need for the project and the environmental changes which may result."

The 17-member state council, appointed by the governor and the Legislature, was created in 1968.

The hearing comes only six days before the Nov. 2 election in which Marin Municipal Water District is seeking voter approval for the project.

The National Wildlife Federation has offered a reward of $500 for "information leading to the conviction of anyone shooting a bald eagle anywhere in the U.S."

California Approves A 'Chemical Cowboy'

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A chemical cowboy to round up oil spills has been licensed for use in California.

The chemical could mean that San Francisco Bay never again will suffer a recurrence of the severe environmental damage it did in last January's oil spill.

Its use has been licensed by the State Water Resources Control Board after tests by the Department of Fish and Game verified that it caused no environmental harm if used properly.

The chemical, trademarked Oil Herder by the Shell Chemical Co., would cost less than $25 to treat a spill one mile in circumference, according to Shell.

Oil spills spread like wildfire on water because the surface tension of water is roughly twice that of oil. Oil Herder, however, spreading in a layer one molecule thick over the water, has a very low surface tension.

The interaction of the oil on the surface thus reverses, and the oil recoalesces like balls of mercury joining to make one large globule.

Once the oil is herded together into an area hundreds of times smaller than the full spill, it can be soaked up by polyurethane foam, which soaks up 50 times its own weight. The foam then can be reused like a sponge after the oil is squeezed out.

The conventional method of picking up spilled oil has been to throw hay on it, but hay can soak up only six times its own weight, can be used only once, and sinks in a few hours if not raked up.

The chemical, except in very small spills, also can replace booms, mechanical barriers to contain oil on water. Booms often prove worthless in rough water.

Rough water, extremely cold water and high winds also can limit the effectiveness of Oil Herder, Shell acknowledged in a press statement announcing its state license.

The chemical was developed a year ago in Shell's Pipe Line Corporation's research and development laboratories in Houston, Tex., and then tested to show it was harmless to fish, shrimp, oysters and water fowl.

Shell stressed that the chemical also was fully biodegradable, breaking down into simple compounds, and does not sink or disperse oil.

It also can be used to protect marinas and harbors and beaches by pushing back approaching oil slicks.

Shell said Oil Herder was the first oil spill clean-up chemical to be approved by California. The state barred use of chemicals in the January spill on the bay because of a history of bad effects from toxic dispersant chemicals, which merely hide oil by emulsifying it.

The state license requires that use of Oil Herder be supervised by the Department of Fish and Game.

An Invitation To Hirohito?

TOKYO (UPI)—A Tokyo newspaper said today that California Gov. Ronald Reagan delivered an invitation from President Nixon for a visit to the United States by Emperor Hirohito next year.

"I can confirm that Governor Reagan gave Prime Minister Eisaku Sato a letter from President Nixon," Reagan's new secretary, Paul Beck, said. "The contents of it are private. We are in no position to say one thing or another."

The financial newspaper Nikkan Kogyo, in a page one report attributed to "government sources," said that Reagan sounded out the Japanese government on an exchange of official visits by the American and Japanese chiefs of state.

Little Cairo Wins $20,000 Settlement

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Little Cairo has won 20,000 green backs to salve her hip pains that reduced her from a toprate belly dancer to a go-go girl.

Little Cairo, whose real name is Elaine Kranidiotis, 26, won the $20,000 judgment in U.S. District Court Wednesday. The jury awarded the payment for injuries sustained in an auto accident.

Breakdown Of Dollar In Tax Bills

More than 75,000 Marin County tax bills mailed out last week show for the first time a detailed breakdown of taxes paid to each government entity such as schools, county, cities, and special districts.

County Tax Collector-Treasurer Stanley J. Fontez said the first installment laxes are payable now and will become delinquent on Dec. 10. The second installment will become delinquent on April 10 next year.

Because of the detailed breakdown this year, Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell said the county is getting an unprecedented number of telephone calls and letters.

"We certainly encourage any taxpayer to ask questions," said Mitchell. He explained that questions on tax rates and budget information should be addressed to him. Questions concerning the tax bill should be directed to the tax collector-treasurer, while uestions on assessed valuations or homeowners and veterans exemptions should be addressed to the county assessor.

Among the earliest attempts at home air-conditioning was the Egyptian practice of soaking the walls with water. As dry desert winds evaporated the moisture, the houses grew cooler.

National City Bank Is Honored By Stamp

MANILA (UPI)—The Philippine Bureau of Posts has issued a special stamp series commemorating the 70th year of the first National City Bank, the oldest foreign commercial bank in the Philippines. The American bank opened business in 1902 in Manila.

The special issue totals 5 million units in 10 and 30 centavos and one peso denominations, printed in four colors.

Four Seeking Positions As Tam Valley Fire Panelists

(One of a series of articles to be published this week and next by the Independent-Journal, outlining the issues and presenting the candidates in the local elections Nov. 2)

Four persons — including two women — will be on the ballot Nov. 2 for two vacant seats in the Tamalpais Valley Fire Protection District.

The seats are held by Commissioner William K. Gealey, whose term is expiring but who has not filed for reelection, and Commissioner Byron O. Boulware, seeking his third term on the board.

The polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. for the district's 3,983 registered voters to cast their ballots.

Boulware, 61, is chairman of the district board.

He and his wife, Mildred, live at 412 Shoreline Highway. They have no children. A native of Perry, Mo., Boulware retired as a Navy Reserve commander after nearly 13 years of service throughout the world, including command of an attack transport ship during World War II. He later was head of heavy construction for a major grocery chain and inspected building programs for the Marin County and Oakland housing authorities.

Boulware wrote in a campaign statement that "it is my desire . . . to achieve a very high degree of fire protection in this district. The taxes . . . required to reach this goal are pretty well balanced by . . . lower insurance rates."

Jeanne M. Creemer, who served from last October through June as Marin County's only woman volunteer fireman, resigned from the department and as secretary of the Tamalpais Volunteer Firemen's Association to run for the district board.

Mrs. Creemer, a grandmother, is active with the League of Women Voters of Southern Marin, the Babe Ruth League and other groups. She is the wife of J. Lloyd Creemer, a lumber firm manager. They live at 351 Jean Street.

Mrs. Creemer said she became involved in Tam fire district problems in mid-1970, when directors expressed concern over a dearth of volunteers. She proposed that women be allowed to join the volunteers. She was accepted for training, and answered fire calls along with the men volunteers.

"I would like to see more women in politics at all levels," she reported.

Wendell Marten Joost Jr. will be on the election ballot for the second time. He also ran for the fire board in 1969, but failed to win election. The 30-year-old funeral home manager is past president and vice president of the Tamalpais Volunteer Firemen's Association. Joost lives at 808 Smith Road. He is divorced, and he and his former wife have two children.

He has been involved with volunteer firefighting for 12 years, since his days as a College of Marin student. He is a member of the California State Firemen's Association, Native Sons of the Golden West and American Red Cross.

Enola Walls will be the other woman candidate on the fire district ballot. Mrs. Walls has lived at 311 Robin Road since 1960. She is 64, the youngest of nine children in a pioneer Centralia, Wash., farming family. She is a great-grandmother.

Mrs. Walls is a member of Tamalpais Valley United Methodist Church, church women's groups, Tamalpais Valley Improvement Club and Blythedale Rebekah Lodge 305 of the Odd Fellows.

Mrs. Walls said that "with the rapid growth of the fire district, I believe that upgrading the fire equipment is an important factor, and the cost should be shared by developers."

She also is on the ballot for a seat on the Tamalpais Community Services District.

Aqueduct Is Issue In Board Race

(One of a series of articles to be published this week and next in the Independent-Journal, outlining the issues and presenting the candidates in the local elections Nov. 2)

With two veteran directors retiring and a $1.6 million bond proposal before voters, a field of nine candidates is competing for three seats on the North Marin County Water District board at the Nov. 2 elections.

The bond proposal to finance facilities to import water, either through the proposed Sonoma-Marin Aqueduct or a separate line, has become a major issue in the directors' race.

(The $1.6 million, together with $1.3 million in previously authorized bonds, would finance additional transmission lines from the Russian River. The bond proposal is Measure C on the ballot.)

One candidate, an ecologist, has claimed additional water will bring more growth than the public wants, while another has said growth is here and the water is needed.

Two of the openings were created by the resignation of Directors Emil Renati, after 16 years, and Arnold Heise, with 14 years' service. The third seat is occupied by Franklin Gustafson, a rancher, who is seeking reelection.

The candidates are:

Robert R. Bergis, 48, a real estate dealer who lives at 177 Crest Road, Novato. Educated in engineering and engineering sales, he now owns a real estate business in San Rafael.

Gustafson, 67, of 1970 Indian Valley Road, Novato, who has been on the board for 13 years.

Patrick Heffernan, 28, of 44 Hillside Terrace, Black Point, a director of the Marin Ecology Center and founder and director of the Regional Institute for Environmental Research.

Louis I. Larson, 40, of 422 Via Herbosa, Loma Verde, an educator in Oakland.

Edward H. Levine, 30, of 7 Hune Court, Novato, a sales account executive.

Wallace R. Lonsway, 35, of 15 Stirrup Lane, Novato, an electrical engineer at Mare Island Shipyard, Vallejo.

M.E. (Babe) Silva, 64, of 837 Sweetser Avenue, Novato, a retired field representative for Borden Milk Co. and former Novato mayor.

Lawrence J. Walters of 65 Via del Vista, Inverness, engaged in land management.

William W. Wright, 42, of 100 Black John Road, Novato, an engineering geologist with Cooper Clerk and Associates in Novato.

Strongest criticism of the water agency has come from Heffernan, who said, "District directors, born in another age with another philosophy, and in some cases an interest in spurring more growth, refuse to consider the public outcry for less growth and lower taxes."

The board should reconsider its plans to join the Sonoma-Marin Aqueduct — a project to bring Russian River water to Marin — before committing taxpayers money, Heffernan said. Furthermore, he said, "Water use is an environmental question and at least one member of the district should be representative of the environment of the North County area." Heffernan is running as a Marin Alternative candidate.

An opposite view is held by Silva, who believed that "the district is run in a very good manner and there doesn't appear to be any real issues in this campaign."

Silva said he favored the bond measure. "I think water is essential and many people think it is essential for growth and development, and growth is here," he said.

Levine saw a need for the district to keep the public informed of every aspect of important actions. The current bond measure "was hurriedly put on the ballot without the full facts on the issue being made clear to the public," he declared.

He said the "bond issue is urged with vague claims of a water crisis in the near future and increased population figures."

Levine believed the district has "adequate facilities to expand to meet any water crisis or population boom if these facilities are used properly and planning with foresight occurs."

Larson said the population of North Marin is expanding "by leaps and bounds," and cited the need to plan for more water and improve engineering and services without financial burden on consumers.

Wright, son of a former district director and former Marin County supervisor, said the "major problem facing our district is potential lack of water."

"The idea that no more water means no more people isn't valid and can be compared with saying no more maternity wards mean no more babies," Wright said.

"Growth can only be limited by proper planning," Wright said. He backed continuation of the district's policies and foresaw eventual recycling of waste water and one or two combined water and sanitary districts for all of Marin.

Said Gustafson, "We have had good management and good engineering in the district." Except for a lack of mains in Black Point, he said, the district is in "good shape."

"I favor the bond issue because it is just following through on a commitment we made in 1960 with Sonoma County," Gustafson added.

"The present board is doing a good job and if elected I will continue their policies," said Bergis, who also supports the bond issue.

Neither Lonsway nor Wallace could be reached by the Independent-Journal for comments on the campaign, and neither responded to written requests for remarks on the issues.

Home Care Director Paints A Bleak Picture Over Finances

The executive director of Marin Home Care Inc. nursing service has warned that unless immediate financing is found the agency may fold.

According to Patricia Ferjancsik, "it is very doubtful" that the nonprofit agency in San Rafael will be able to meet its payroll next month without outside financing.

Directors of the agency will meet Nov. 9 at the Marin General Hospital to discuss the agency's plight and chart some course of action to relieve its financial crisis.

The agency, created in 1965, offers nursing service to both private and publicly supported patients who require acute, post-hospital care and those suffering long-term illnesses.

Basically, it operates at a loss throughout the year but is reimbursed each January byhhe federal government for losses incurred on Medicare patients.

According to Ray K. Bolinger, first vice president on the agency board, the nursing service has operated with reserve funds reimbursed at the end of each year.

However, he said, this year the reserve has been depleted due to inflation and increased costs in operation. Thus the agency is broke until January when the government will reimburse it for its loses on Medicare patients.

He said about $25,000 is expected in January but there is no way of getting it before.

Mrs. Ferjancsik added that expenses have been "cut in every way" including the laying off of an employee and field work by the nursing supervisor.

"We knew it was coming," she said, adding that the agency had to reach a poor financial position before asking for help with any hope of getting it.

"I'm sure we will," she said.

The options open to it are a loan, if anyone will give it based on the $25,000 of expected income, a fund drive or private grant, or through backing by the county board of supervisors, she said.

Adding to the agency's problems, she said, is the federal government's cutback of the Medicare program.

She said the government last year drastically reduced the number and kinds of patients it will support through home nursing services. The result has been a drop in the number of patients and closing of 48 similar agencies in the state.

Marin's two other nursing agencies — Clarke Home Nursing Service and Kaiser Home Nursing — could not be reached yesterday for comment on their financial status.

Novatan Injured; Auto Strikes Deer

A 43-year-old Novato man was slightly injured, but refused hospital treatment, when his car struck a deer last night northbound on Highway 101, north of San Pedro Road, the California Highway Patrol, reported.

Officers said Robert B. Hanna, of 76 Orchard Way, complained of pain following the accident which occurred at 10:50 p.m. when the animal jumped into the road in front of his auto.

An Early Start For Youngsters

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — A few of the state's youngsters may be starting school just a little earlier from now on, thanks to a new law signed by the governor this month.

The bill, AB 1965, authored by Assemblyman Leroy F. Greene, D-Sacramento, will allow admission of pupils to the first grade regardless of age if the pupil has completed a year of kindergarten and is determined to be ready for first grade work.

It also allows admission into the first grade of pupils who have completed a year of kindergarten at either a private or a public school, rather than only at a public school.

Plea For Angela Fund Bill

An Assembly bill to get the state to pay for the costs of the Angela Davis-Ruchell Magee cases is stalled in Sacramento and needs individual support from citizens of Marin County, Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell said today.

He suggested that citizens write to the governor, asking him to keep the bill, AB 644, moving.

The bill was introduced June 18 by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, and coauthored by Sens. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael; Milton Marks, R-San Francisco, and Fred W. Marler, R-Redding.

The bill would amend a State Penal Code section to require state reimbursement to Marin for the costs stemming from the Aug. 7, 1970 shoot-out at the Marin Hall of Justice.

"We're talking about a million-dollar cost," said Mitchell. "What is needed is continuing pressure on the governor to keep the bill moving." Mitchell suggested that citizens also write to friends and relatives in other California counties, asking support for AB 644 from their legislators.

Examination Of Suspect Ordered

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — A psychiatric examination was ordered yesterday in Sonoma County superior court for Mark D. Souza, 32, accused of attempting to murder his estranged wife.

Judge Joseph P. Murphy Jr. directed Souza to be examined by two psychiatrists and scheduled a report for Oct. 29. Souza was arrested Oct. 11 after allegedly stabbing his wife, Carolyn, 21, with a knife during an argument at her home at 101 Burlington Drive, Petaluma.

Garry Claims U.S. Courts Biased Against Minorities

By MARY LEYDECKER

Charles Garry, the San Francisco attorney who represents the Black Panther Party, last night answered a resounding "no" to the question of whether justice is possible in American courts.

Speaking before a largely white crowd of more than 200 persons at the First Presbyterian Church in San Anselmo, Garry said that it is not possible "under our present setup with our establishment and economic setup" for people in ghettoes to receive justice.

Garry, repeatedly demonstrating the hard-hitting advocacy which has made him a famous defender of radical causes, said that he has no faith in the adversary system in courts today.

"The adversary system is a fiction," he said, because the state has more power than the defense, particularly in its ability to grant immunity to witnesses who testify for the prosecution.

"Ascertainment of the truth" should be the goal in the courtroom, he said, with both sides also having the same economic strength.

"With the prosecution spending $1 million, why should the Angela Davis defense have to beg, borrow and steal all over the country to get money," Garry asked.

Garry called American society racist, saying two-thirds of Americans are "overt racists" who say in effect, "I don't want no niggers around here."

The other third, according to Garry are "subjective racists," who say, 'I'm for Negroes, but they've got to make it on their own.' "

"People who say they are not racists are either lying or fools," Garry said.

He added that in a racist society, "What chance does a black man or a brown man or a yellow man have to get a fair judge and a fair jury?"

The attorney, a hollow-eyed gray-haired man, saw social problems as the basis for much crime, saying that the fictional character Jean Valjean (who went to prison for stealing a loaf of bread when he was hungry) "is my hero."

"The absolute standard of 'guilty or not guilty' is no standard," he said, explaining his view that the ghetto resident who can't get a job "resorts to self-help" and moves from "the minimum security of the ghetto to the maximum security of the prison."

Garry also attacked judges who belong to "that blatant racist club," the Elks Club. "How can any judge who belongs to any all-white organization expect to have the confidence of black, brown, red or yellow defendants?" he asked.

"Plea bargaining" he condemned as a practice that "sells 60 million Americans down the river." Garry said that many persons plead guilty to lesser charges rather than go to trial because of lack of money and then later find "that little deal can be a real problem" on their record.

"I am not saying, however," he added that "people who have violated the law cannot find plea bargaining helpful to them."

As for his own clients, Garry said he had not received "one dime" from the Black Panthers or others he has defended for the past four years.

For this reason, he said, he will not take cases of those accused of crimes stemming from the Aug. 21 violence at San Quentin unless he receives a court appointment.

He condemned a Marin judge (E. Warren McGuire) who earlier this week refused to appoint him to represent one of the convicts, saying, "If they don't get lawyers of their own choosing, they're not going to have any lawyers."

"Then there will be more chaos in the courtroom and who is going to be responsible?" he asked.

Garry, a man of Armenian descent who said he grew up in Selma without "ever seeing a black man," concluded that until "a way is found to feed 16 million hungry Americans it doesn't matter who the judge is."

County Tax Rates Compared

Of 58 counties in California, 35 have tax rates that are higher than Marin's $2.89 per $100 assessed valuation, and 22 have lower rates.

Marin County Auditor--Controller Michael Mitchell said the tax rate comparisons are made in a report received from the state controller's office.

In the Bay Area, only San Mateo County with a rate of $2.069 is lower than Marin's. The tax rates in other counties are $3.19 in Alameda; $3.026 in Contra Costa; $2.92 in Napa; and $3.85 in Sonoma County. In San Francisco, the combined city and country rate is $12.73 which means that the county rate comes to about $3.50, said Mitchell.

Kol Shofar Sets Two Special Events

Congregation Kol Shofar, which meets in the Marin Jewish Community Center on North San Pedro Road, will host a group from Dominican College at tomorrow's regular 8:15 p.m. Shaboth service.

On Saturday the congregation will hold a "get acquainted" reception for new members, beginning at 8 p.m.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Many Women Don't Know How To Prepare A Balanced Meal

Most women know that a balanced diet is essential to health. However, surveys show that many homemakers believe this is accomplished by serving a variety of foods.

According to an article in the Journal of the American Dietetic Association, when a number of women were asked to define nutritionally balanced meals, only 50 per cent came close. Dr. Howard Bauman, quoted in the article, believes that much of the trouble stems from lack of consumer education.

Knowledge of foods usually comes from custom, newspapers and what the mother learned in grade school or high school. Ten plausible, but not quite accurate, ideas are mentioned. The first is that milk contains calcium and builds bones and teeth. No mention is made of the fact that milk is an excellent source of protein. Second, that protein comes from meat and poultry. What about cereals and vegetables?

THE THIRD is that orange juice contains the vitamin that prevents colds. Another false notion is that potatoes and bakery goods are filling and fattening. The next involves sugar — a source of quick energy, but a food that is fattening and bad for the teeth. The sixth is that iron is a blood builder, but sources other than liver are not known.

Seventh on the list is that fats are bad for you and cause heart disease. This is only half the story and at best, controversial. Next is that breakfast cereals are full of vitamins and should only be eaten at breakfast. And the ninth centers on vitamins. All the women surveyed agreed that vitamins were necessary to good health. However, the only specific actions of these substances centered on vitamin C in orange juice to prevent colds and vitamin A in carrots to improve the vision.

AND LAST on the list was the statement that calories contribute to overweight. To the ladies all calories were bad and these women knew very little about the relationship of calories to nutrition and energy requirements.

Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.

FACIAL BUTTERFLY

L. S. writes: My son has a butterfly design across the bridge of his nose and upper cheeks. Our doctor says it is lupus erythematosus. Is this condition due to infection?

REPLY

We do not know. The collagen disease has followed infection, injury, or exposure to the sun. The connective tissue is affected and symptoms include the butterfly lesion on the face that you describe, as well as fever, loss of appetite and weight, and fast pulse. Send stamped, addressed envelope for our leaflet on this disorder.

DETECTING LUNG CANCER

H. U. writes: How is lung cancer detected?

REPLY

The initial indication comes from the chest X-ray. Definite proof is obtained by searching the sputum for cancer cells, removing certain neck glands, or obtaining a biopsy of the tumor with a special tube — the bronchoscope. Coughing is a common symptom but is seldom recognized as such because most of the victims have a smoker's cough.

CONVERTIBLE AND PREGNANCY

Mrs. T.writes: Is it harmful for a pregnant woman to ride in a convertible with the top down?

REPLY

No, including the trip to the hospital for delivery.

DIABETES INSIPIDUS

G.S. writes: Can diabetes insipidus be cured?

REPLY

No, but it can be controlled with a pituitary hormone that curtails the manufacture of urine. Several products are available; some are administered hypodermically and others are inserted into the nose or mouth. This form of diabetes is a disorder of the pituitary gland in which two or three times the normal amount of urine is passed daily.

RELIEF FOR ITCH

F.T. writes: What takes the itch out of insect bites?

REPLY

Apply baking soda, household ammonia, cold compresses, or very hot water. Applications of an antihistaminic or cortisone cream will help. If the discomfort is severe, it may be advisable to take a tablet containing an antihistamine.

CRACKLING IN EARS

I.M. writes: What causes one or both ears to crackle and crunch when I swallow?

REPLY

The muscles used in swallowing open up the eustachian tubes that lead to the ears. Crackling sounds follow movements of the eardrums due to changes in pressure.

DISTORTED IMAGE

A.R. writes: How does astigmatism affect the eyes?

REPLY

In this condition vision may not be reduced but the image lacks sharpness in both near and distant vision. The distortion varies with the severity of involvement.

DILUTING BEER

A reader writes: Is it true that diluting beer or soda pop with water can be harmful?

REPLY

No, If anything, dilution may delay the absorption of the alcohol in beer. Regardless of this possibility, both will dilute after they reach the stomach.

Today's Health Hint — Glare of any kind is irritating to the eyes.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

Death Blow Given Property Tax Bills

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislative leaders today pronounced the death of property tax relief for the 1971 session, acknowledging it is far tougher to change the tax system than to control welfare.

"All you have in welfare reform is the taxpayers vs. the poor," shrugged one veteran Republican. Tax reform, he added, pits the taxpayers against each other.

With the Legislature's killing Wednesday of two major property tax relief bills — one sponsored by Democrats and the other by Republicans — welfare reform remained the 1971 session's major accomplishment.

It appeared certain the legislature again would fail to provide the property tax relief both political parties have been promising voters since 1964.

"For the last seven years you've been going to the people of this state telling them how you're going to Sacramento and do something about property tax relief," Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, D-Van Nuys, admonished his colleagues during floor debate.

"Well, you lied. You know who you are protecting. You're protecting the people who gave you the big campaign contributions ... the banks, the corporations, the oil companies and the tremendously wealthy."

Moretti's angriest words were reserved for the man he hopes someday to succeed.

"There is only one man killing tax relief in this legislature today and that man is Gov. Ronald Reagan," the Democrat charged.

Senate leader James R. Mills, D-San Diego, later told a newsman "the most we now could pass would be enough to cover the budget deficit—and we might not be able to do that."

Both legislative houses figured in Wednesday's doubleheader tax killing.

In the most dramatic action, Assembly Republicans voted in a bloc against a $1.1 billion Democrat plan. The bill needed 54 votes—a two-thirds majority—for passage. It went down to defeat 37-27 in the legislature's first major floor fight of the session over taxes.

Later, the Senate Revenue and Taxation Committee rejected by one vote a $1 billion tax shift program carried with Reagan's blessing by Senate Republican Caucus Chairman John L. Harmer of Glendale.

Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, announced he will ask the same senate committee next Wednesday to approve his "mini-package" — a half-billion dollar program designed primarily to balance the state's budget and resolve an acute cash flow problem through income tax withholding.

"It's now time to be realistic and balance the budget—not affect major social policy," said Bagley.

It was Bagley, a veteran of both tax and welfare negotiations, who candidly spelled out the difference between the two.

"Tax reform is much more difficult than welfare reform," he said during floor debate. "All you have in welfare reform is the taxpayers vs. the poor." In tax fights, he continued, the issue boils down to this: "To whom do you give relief and from whom do you extract the money to finance it?"

He added, "It's sort of a cruel hoax to give (tax) relief on the one hand and take (taxes) away on the other."

Democrats said 90 per cent of California's citizens would have benefitted from their plan.

It would have generated $460 million for homeowner property tax relief, erased a $330 million deficit in the $6.8 billion state budget, financed $265 million in capital outlay and provided an extra $316 million for schools next year. It also would have raised income, sales and business taxes and enacted a withholding feature that initially would have required double income tax payments.

Reagan's office had opposed the measure as a "monstrous tax increase" and said it failed to provide permanent property tax relief.

Bishop Hits Greed Of Businesses

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—A Canadian bishop assailed international business giants today for monopolistic and greedy practice in poor countries and called for Vatican diplomatic pressure as one way of curbing them.

Bishop Alexander Carter told the third International Synod of Bishops that multi national corporations operate in poor and weak nations in an unjust way —"...taking too much and leaving too little, crushing local competition and gaining monopolistic power."

He called for the Vatican to order its diplomatic corps to exert political pressure on governments to curb business abuses. He also said an international authority—"representing both capitalist and socialist nations" —should set up a review board to hear complaints from poor countries and draw up a code of business conduct.

Carter, one of 18 speakers at the synod session on justice in the world, said the history of foreign corporations was filled with injustice, with efficiency, profits and loyalty to the home country taking priority over needs and aspirations of local people.

Cardinal John J. Carberry of St. Louis asked the synod to take action on abortion, racial discrimination, prison inmates and prisoners of war.

"We ought to urge justice towards prisoners of war," he said. "Both sides in a war treat these prisoners unjustly and cruelly."

He did not cite any specific examples.

He scored injustices in penal systems, where he said human dignity was crushed out of a desire to avenge the crime rather than to correct and rehabilitate the criminal.

Carberry also said there were "very frequent" racial injustices in the United States and elsewhere in the world and he deplored this.

Closure Asked

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Southern Pacific Co. asked the State Public Utilities Commission for permission Wednesday to close its station at Berkeley, where it no longer provides passenger service.

PORNOGRAPHY

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—A bill to excuse California developers of obscene movie film from state pornography laws has been vetoed by Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke.

In rejecting the measure Wednesday, Reinecke cited a "marked increase" in the number of film developers "whose entire business is that of developing and producing pornographic films."

The bill. by Sen. George Moscone. D-San Francisco, would have freed the developers from prosecution if they have no financial interest in the film.

WELFARE

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke says the Reagan Administration is responsible for the continuing decline in the number of Californians on welfare.

The acting governor said Wednesday that administrative reforms put into effect by Reagan prior to the legislature's enactment of a welfare reform law are reflected in the six month drop.

Reinecke, serving as acting governor during Reagan's trip to the Far East, released figures showing there were 2,178,569 persons on the state's welfare rolls in September, about 10,000 less than in August.

"I want to emphasize that the six-month drop in the number of welfare recipients reflects only the administrative reforms we put into effect," Reinecke said.

"The impact of California's new welfare reform law will not be felt until November or December."

He told a news conference the federal, state and county governments saved $18 million in August alone and have saved $60 million since the decline began six months ago.

BEACHES

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation to help preserve public access to California beaches was signed Wednesday by Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke.

The measure prohibits the sale or lease of property owned by local agencies which lies between the ocean and the nearest street unless the public is guaranteed access through the property to the ocean.

The bill was authored by Assemblyman Kenneth Cory, D-Garden Grove.

SMOG DEVICES

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke Wednesday signed a bill increasing the maximum cost that can be charged in California for motor vehicle smog control devices from $65 to $85.

Backers of the measure by Assemblyman W. Craig Biddle, R-Riverside, said the price boost was needed because of inflation.

The proposals will be publicly opened and read in the office of the Finance Director on the date and at the time mentioned above. Plans and Specifications (but not including City Standard Specifications or other documents included by reference) and proposal forms may be obtained at the office of the City Engineer upon payment of a printing and service charge in the amount of five dollars ($5.00) which amount shall not be refunded. All checks shall be made payable to the City of Novato and should be mailed to the City of Novato, Public Works Department, P. O. Box 578, Novato, California 94947.

The work to be done includes, but is not necessarily limited to: construction of a play area, Project No. 69-008, and all appurtenances necessary for the successful completion of the projects as shown on the plans and specifications.

Notice is hereby given that on December 8, 1970,the City Council adopted a resolution determining the general prevailing rate of wages applicable to the work to be done, which shall be the minimum rates paid on this project, a copy of which wage scale is attached hereto.

The City reserves the right to reject any or all bids, to waive any informality in a bid, and to make award as the interests of the City may require. This notice is given by order of the Council of the City of Novato, California.

No bid will be received unless it is made on proposal form furnished by the City Engineer. Each proposal must be accompanied by a certified or cashier's check or bid bond in the amount of ten percent (10%) of the estimated aggregate amount of the bid as a guarantee that the bidder, if the award is made to him in accordance with the terms of his proposal, will promptly execute a contract in the required form, secure payment of workmen's compensation insurance, and furnish a satisfactory faithful performance bond and a labor and material bond. Each of said bonds shall be in the sum of not less than one hundred percent (100%) of the estimated aggregate amount of the payments to be made under the contract, computed on the basis of the price stated in the proposal. In addition to the above, and if requested by the City, the bidder shall furnish a financial statement of recent date. Failure to comply with this requirement will render a bid informal and shall be sufficient cause for rejection.

The contractor shall complete the construction of the total project within thirty (30) working days, the first day of which shall be the date of the City Engineer's Notice to Proceed.

SHE WANTS TO BE A SERGEANT

Flying in the face of tradition, 19-year-old Rosa Mar, a co-ed at the University of California at Davis, is applying for a job as a sergeant-at-arms in the California legislature. If she's hired, she'd be the first female to hold such a job. Miss Mar drew support yesterday from Sen. Mervyn M. Dymally, D-Los Angeles, who "could use some beauty." No decision has been made on her application.

Ecumenical Association Will Administer Housing

The Ecumenical Association for Housing in Marin probably will administer 21 units of low and moderate income housing planned at the 136-unit townhouse development at Miller Creek gardens in Marinwood.

Martin Mackey, executive director of the ecumenical association, made this announcement at last night's meeting of the association board of directors at Pilgrim Park community center at Merrydale Road and North San Pedro Road, San Rafael.

The townhouse development, by Kaiser Aetna Co., will be built on 18 acres at the corner of Miller Creek Road and Las Gallinas Road. The Marin County Planning Commission approved 136 units on Oct. 11, with 21 of the units to be low to moderate income housing to be administered by a nonprofit organization like the ecumenical association.

The Ecumenical Association for Housing in Marin also:

REVOLVING FUND — Heard from Richard Rosenberg that $24,000 had been pledged toward the $50,000 revolving fund to be created to help finance low and moderate income housing.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE — Elected Hazen Goddard of Terra Linda to the executive committee to replace Douglas P. Ferguson, who resigned because of pressure of work. Ferguson remains on the board of directors.

BY LAWS — Named Ferguson and Kay Scheaffer of Mill Valley to review the association bylaws for possible revision.

NEW DELEGATE — Welcomed Richard Enos as delegate reprsenting Our Lady of Mt. Carmel Church in Mill Valley. He succeeded Charles P. Semple, who moved away from Mill Valley.

NEXT MEETING — Set the next meeting for 8 p.m. Nov. 17 at the Pilgrim Park community center.

Board To Eye Other Financing

Trustees of the Marin Community College District, responding to concern that the $16.7 million bond proposal Nov. 2 amounted to voter "blackmail," decided last night to explore all school financing avenues in the event the bond issue failed.

Previously, the board had said voters would certainly be faced with pay-as-you-go taxes if the bond proposal — designed to complete the College of Marin campus and help construct the new north campus in Novato — was defeated.

But last night the board unanimously passed a resolution giving it a variety of financing options. A pay-as-you-go tax was included, the others being: another bond issue before next July 1 and if that failed, still another next November; a higher tax rate or discontinuing programs and services.

The resolution was in answer to an editorial in the Independent-Journal Tuesday, calling for the board to examine all other possible courses of finance if the bond issue failed.

Board President Donald K. Felt said the Independent-Journal had done the district a service in bringing out in the open at this time. He said that the same questions had been asked at various meetings. He said that the board had no intention of imposing "an undue burden on the taxpayers."

Betty Machado of 1424 Dawes Street, Novato, termed the resolution "blackmail" because the board was telling the voters either to pass a bond issue or they would be taxed higher for the construction of the colleges.

"You have a lot of angry citizens in Novato," she said.

Trustee Charles Best, who has worked on the bond committee, gave a glowing account of the endorsement of the bond issue by 50 organizations and many individuals.

He said that approximately $13 million of the $16.7 million bond issue is slated for construction of the Indian Valley Colleges. This would be matched by state funds bringing the total to $20 million for the construction of the campus in Novato.

The board then set 7 p.m. Nov. 2 for a workshop on planning future buildings. The workshop will be held at the board room on the Kentfield campus. The board then will go to the bond headquarters at Third Street and Tamalpais Avenue in San Rafael to hear the election results.

War Toll At Six-Year Low

SAIGON (UPI)—The U.S. military command said today five Americans were killed in the Vietnam war last week for the lowest weekly combat toll in more than six years.

It was the second consecutive week in which less than 10 GIs were killed with eight killed the previous week.

It brought to 45,577 the number of Americans killed in fighting in Indochina since Jan. 1, 1961. The toll last week was the lowest since Aug. 7, 1965 when three Americans died in combat.

FIRE CALLS

YESTERDAY:

9:15 a.m., Tiburon — Check of hissing sound near fire extinguisher at the Lodge; found to be vacuum cleaner suction receptacle.

1:39 p.m., Petaluma — Smoke check in Bank of America parking lot on Petaluma Boulevard; found to be broken transmission line in auto owned by Mrs. T. J. Ellis, 107 Bodega Avenue.

Radio Hinges On Foot Patrol

The Marin County Housing Authority board last night agreed to purchase an expensive piece of radio equipment for the Marin City sheriff's substation in exchange for a foot patrol in the community, authority deputy director Keith Kelly reported.

He said the board asked the authority staff to request the foot patrol from the Marin sheriff's department with the understanding that, if the patrol is approved, the housing authority will buy an $1,800 walkie-talkie system for the substation.

A foot patrol through the community, to improve police protection for residents, has been a long-time dream of many Marin City people.

Purchase of the radio transmitter-receiver system would guarantee that such a system was always available in the community, according to Kelly. He said the walkie-talkie system now used at the substation is often called out for use in other areas of the county.

Marin County Housing Authority Board Also:

CLOSED SESSION — Met in closed session for about 30 minutes to discuss hiring a senior accounting assistant.

EMPLOYMENT — Voted to hire Mrs. Betty Gray as senior accounting assistant at a salary of $717 per month. Mrs. Gray, a former employee of the Department of Housing and Urban Development in Washington, D.C. will assist the authority's comptroller in general accounting work.

REMODELING — Heard a detailed report on plans for remodeling of administrative offices in Marin City to centralize administrative and maintenance staff now working out of offices around the county. The remodeling, which must be approved by the Department of Housing and Urban Development, has already won endorsement from the housing authority board.

MODERNIZATION — Authorized purchase of $5,200 worth of playground equipment as part of the first phase of improving the community's nine small playgrounds.

BUDGET HEARING — Set a special hearing for a budget for the low-rent and leased housing program for Wednesday at 8 p.m. in Manzanita Center.

Oldster Dies

LOS BANOS (UPI)—Esther Hollister Gould, 103, the oldest resident of this Merced County community, died Wednesday in a local convalescent home.

Board Sets Tax Election For January

Lagunitas School District trustees decided last night to add a tax rate election to the trustee ballot scheduled for Jan. 11, 1972.

The district's voters will be asked to approve a two-year extension of the special 90-cent tax rate that is due to expire June 3, 1972.

The district's general purpose maximum tax rate is $2.65 per $100 assessed valuation. Voters in 1970 approved the additional 90-cent rate that will expire next year unless extended. Bond repayments and overrides brought the total rate to $4.40 per $100 assessed valuation this year.

The district already had scheduled a special election Jan. 11 to fill the seat from which Trustee Eugene Di Basilio has resigned. The trustees voted 4-0 to combine the tax election and trustee ballot to save taxpayers' expense, according to the office of Supt. William E. Johnson.

The special tax extension is needed to continue the present educational program, the trustees declared last night.

Ransom Paid In Viet Accident

DA NANG, Vietnam (UPI)—Vietnamese slum dwellers, angered when a 5-year-old boy was hit by a U.S. Army vehicle, held two American soldiers and their truck for ransom Wednesday in the second incident of its kind in 10 days.

The two GIs were held for three hours then released unharmed. But the Vietnamese refused to move barbed wire ringing the truck until U.S. authorities paid 250,000 piasters — equal to $900-compensation 5½ hours later.

The incident occurred where Highway 1 runs through a huge slum area known as "Dogpatch" beside the sprawling Da Nang air base. It involved a truck belong to the U.S. Army's 196th Light Infantry Brigade, American Division.

Stinson Fire Board Reelects Chief

Stinson Beach Fire District directors elected George H. White as chief for another year, at their meeting last night. The board will elect officers at its November meeting.

Directors also voted to buy a portable resuscitator for the community, using volunteer and donated funds, White reported.

You are looking at Robert Musel, UPI correspondent for the I-J, who is looking at the familiar London scene. London today has been called the "swinging-est" city in the world. But it also swings with significant news which is Musel's forte as a correspondent.

Musel owns London

BUT HE'S MORE THAN WILLING TO SHARE IT

Robert Musel, our man in London, seems to have a mortgage on everything that happens of great moment in Britain's mother city. Which means not much will happen which you, in turn, won't know about by reading the I-J.

As UPI's senior editor there he has covered three wars. He was one of the first World War II correspondents to ride into combat with fighter pilots. He came under fire in two Arab-Israeli wars.

Inquisitive, aggressive, Musel has reported from every European country and most of the Middle East and Africa. He covered the German blitz of London in World War II, war crimes trials at Darmstadt, the Berlin airlift, the death of King George, the coronation of Queen Elizabeth. He has interviewed George Bernard Shaw and Albert Einstein, even the stripteasers of the Folies Bergere.

A confidante of entertainment personalities, Musel is also a top song writer. His "Band of Gold" ballad sold over one million records, and he did the background music of "To Paris With Love," starring Alex Guinness.

A man of many sides, Musel has unerring direction in homing in on matters of interest and concern to our readers. For news "Made in London", we suggest you turn to the I-J.

Kent State Probe Asked In Petitions

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Two Kent State University students went to the White House Wednesday with petitions signed by more than 10,000 students and faculty at the school. They asked President Nixon to order a federal grand jury to investigate the slaying of four students by National Guard troops at the university in 1970.

They met with a Nixon aide and said they asked for a decision before Dec. 1. Attorney General John N. Mitchell already has said there would be no such investigation.

Magee Petition Is Back In Lower Court

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The state Supreme Court yesterday bounced back to a lower court Ruchell Magee's latest effort to act as his own lawyer in his murder, kidnapping and conspiracy case.

Chief Justice Donald Wright sent Magee's petition for a writ of mandamus or prohibition to the state Court of Appeal for further action without giving a reason for his action. The court of appeal last year rejected a similar petition.

Magee filed an appeal by mail Monday from San Quentin Prison. He long has sought to serve as his own attorney, blaming lawyers for his imprisonment.

He was turned down on his request early in the case but Magee said the denial "was contrary to established law."

He currently has a court-appointed lawyer, Ernest L. Graves of Los Angeles.

Billy Casper's Golf Game Problems Perplexing

NAPA, Calif. (UPI)—Billy Casper can't explain what has happened to his game, except that it has gone sour.

Casper, who has won his share of tourney titles since turning pro way back in 1959, is working on a shutout for 1971. He didn't plan it that way but that's the way things have gone.

"I can't put my hand on exactly what is wrong," Casper said Wednesday on the eve of the $150,000 Kaiser International Open. "It seems that every week that I've played something else has gone bad. One week it's been my short game and another it's been my putting."

Casper, who won $200,000 two years ago to join Arnold Palmer as the only golfing millionaires, has picked up "only" $77,072 thus far this year. He has yet to win a tourney title and if he fails in the two or three remaining events he is scheduled to play in, it will be the first time that has happened to him since his rookie year on the tour.

The closest Billy has come to winning this year was in the very first tourney—the Los Angeles Open way back in January. He finished in a tie for the lead after the regulation 72 holes and then lost out to Bobby Lunn on the fourth extra hole. Casper turned up for the Kaiser by shooting a two under par 37-33—70 over Silverado's North course in Wednesday's pro-am prelude and that encouraged him.

"I made some pretty good shots" Casper said. "Maybe I can keep it going."

Ken Still is the Kaiser defending champion and he's back to see if he can make it two in a row as the PGA tour picks up after a two-week layoff. Still and Casper are among a big field of 154 shooting for a winners prize of $30,000.

Lee Trevino winner this year of the US, British and Canadian opens, did not pick up a single dollar in official money since rejoining the tour following an apendectomy this summer. However, the self-styled "Merry Mexican" says he is ready to pick up now where he left off in June.

"I've regained my strength and shooting eye," said Trevino, "and I hope to do well this week. I've never won the Kaiser although I've always played well in theis tourney. Maybe this is the year I win it."

Trevino is shooting for the 1971 money winning title and he has a good shot at the lead if he can finish in the first three here.

As of the moment, Jack Nicklaus leads with $207,080 to $197,219 for Trevino.

Nicklaus has passed up the Kaiser this year to play in a series of tournaments in Australia. Palmer too is missing. He won the Lancome tourney—an event limited to eight players—at Paris last Sunday and is home resting this week.

Because of the big Kaiser field, play today and Friday will be from both the North and South courses at Silverado and from both the first and 10th tees. After Friday's second round the field will be cut to the low 70 and ties for the final two rounds which will be played over the North course only. Of the top 20 money winners this year missing from the Kaiser event in addition to Nicklaus and Palmer are Gary Player, Bruce Crampton, Gene Littler and Dave Stockton.

DALTON IN LINE

Angels Dismiss General Manager

ANAHEIM (UPI)—To the surprise of no one, the California Angels have fired general manager Dick Walsh and seek as his replacement Harry Dalton, director of player personnel for the Baltimore Orioles.

If Dalton is lured from the American League champion Orioles, it was indicated he will have a large role in selection of a field manager.

Harold "Lefty" Phillips was fired Oct. 7 after holding the manager's job for almost three full seasons. He replaced Bill Rigney May 27, 1969.

Walsh, 45, has four years remaining on a seven-year contract as general manager and will be paid in full, according to board chairman Gene Autry and president Bob Reynolds who announced his dismissal.

Autry and Reynolds acknowledged that "exploratory talks" have taken place with Dalton who is credited with numerous trades and development of young players in the rise of the Orioles to championship status.

One report said Dalton would bring along his own choice as manager—Billy Hunter, a Baltimore coach.

There were several known candidates for the job of field manager. These include Hank Bauer, former manager at Baltimore, Kansas City and Oakland; and Del Rice, former Angel catcher and successful farm club manager at Salt Lake City.

It was rumored also that Leo Durocher would not be averse to leaving the Chicago Cubs and taking the Angel job. Another report said Dick Williams, Oakland manager, might be available. Williams was publicly chastized by owner Charles Finley when the A's lost to Baltimore in the American League playoffs.

The Angels finished fourth in the American League West in 1971 after third place finishes the previous two years.

Wilson To Cover 49er End Sunday

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—If Gene Washington, the San Francisco 49ers all-pro wide receiver, is able to play Sunday against St. Louis, he will get special attention from the Cardinals' free safety Larry Wilson.

Wilson has been tabbed by many football observers as the best in the business when it comes to defense. He has been in the Pro Bowl eight of the last nine years, has been named the Cardinals' most valuable player twice, and holds the St. Louis record for interceptions, return yardage and longest return.

A Washington - Wilson matchup would be a classic battle, but the San Francisco pass receiver has been hampered with a deep thigh bruise and may miss the contest.

"He could play, but I won't know for a couple of days," said San Francisco coach Dick Nolan.

Without Washington, the 49ers still have two top receivers in Ted Kwalick and Bob Windsor, but St. Louis also has another top defender in cornerback Roger Wehrli.

Raiders To Face Rookie Quarterback Anderson

OAKLAND (UPI)—The Oakland Raiders will be facing a rookie Cincinnati quarterback Sunday, but they will be unusually careful.

Two years ago the Bengals went with a rookie quarterback (Greg Cook) and beat Oakland.

"I don't think we'll be taking the rookie quarterback too lightly," said Raiders defensive end Ben Davidson. "Not after what happened in Boston against a rookie quarterback (Jim Plunkett)."

The Cincinnati rookie—Ken Anderson—has done a creditable job since taking over for the injured Virgil Carter, completing 33 of 62 passes for 400 yards and two touchdowns.

Davidson and Raider coach John Madden compared Anderson to Pittsburgh's Terry Bradshaw.

"He runs a 4.7 40," Madden said, "which is running back or receiver speed. They have some plays designed for him to run and others where he takes off on his own."

The Raiders spent much of Wednesday working on a defense to contain Anderson's running and passing with backup quarterback Ken Stabler playing the role of the rookie Bengal quarterback.

A REBOUND FOR NATE

Golden State Warriors' Nate Thurmond pulls in a rebound between Cleveland Cavaliers John Johnson (32) and Steve Patterson (50) while Warrior Joe Ellis watches. The Warriors won last night's game in Cleveland, 115-98, and wound up the road trip with a 2-2 record. See story on page 34.

Indians Regain Shockley

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

STANFORD — Stanford coach John Ralston was wearing a smile after the Indians' workout Wednesday because veteran fullback Hillary Shockley returned to action.

Shockley has been out for the last two games.

"He was running as hard as he ever was," Ralston said.

The Indians emphasized their goal line offense and defense as they prepared for Saturday's game against Washington State.

California

BERKELEY — The California showed up in an earlier film session as they prepared for their contest Saturday night against UCLA in Los Angeles.

Coach Ray Willsey said the Bears will be as healthy as they have been all season for the game against the Bruins, but said he was still undecided about who will start in a few of the offensive line positions.

Oregon State

CORVALLIS, Ore. — Oregon State drilled on field goals and extra point conversions. Wednesday in the last full workout before Saturday's game at Seattle against Washington that could upset the Beavers' bid for the Rose Bowl.

While the Beaver defense drilled against Husky pass formations, the offense worked on its passing game and then ended the workout with a goal line scrimmage.

OSU will hold a workout Friday afternoon at Highline Community College in Seattle.

Southern California

LOS ANGELES — The University of Southern California Trojans concentrated on passing Wednesday for the second day in a row but coach John McKay said this does not mean they will not try to run on Notre Dame Saturday at South Bend.

"We're going to have to have a balanced attack," said McKay. "They're too big to just run on. We can't neglect our running attack, however, because if it should rain we won't be able to do much passing."

McKay said the shortest Irish lineman on defense rises to a height of 6 feet 4 inches. The best lineman, he said, is Walt Patulski who stands 6-5 and is listed at 235 pounds in Irish publicity.

Washington State

PULLMAN, Wash. — Pass protection offense and overall recognition of Stanford's offensive sets were stressed by the Washington State University Cougars in Wednesday's practice session.

Coach Jim Sweeney said his offensive line worked hard on pass protection in hopes of maintaining Stanford's famous "Thunder Chickens" at Palo Alto Saturday.

"Quarterback Don Bunce poses the biggest threat the Cougars have faced this year because he is dangerous as a passer and a runner," Sweeney said. "If we allow him operating room, we're in for a long afternoon."

New Hockey League Plans 1972 Start

CHICAGO (UPI)—The World Hockey Association expects to begin operations in the 1972-73 season with major league programs in pension, insurance and medical treatment, president Gary Davidson said Wednesday.

Davidson said that the league would announce final plans, including location and owners of franchises, in New York Nov. 1. He said the league would not have a reserve or option clause in player contracts and that it would hold a draft of all potential players within 90 days.

Davidson said the league would not attempt to sign National Hockey League players under contract after the current season.

Franchise holders must post a performance bond of $1.2 million at the time of organization in New York, Davidson said.

He said options for 11 locations for franchises had been granted covering New York, Chicago, Miami, St. aul, Milwaukee, Ohio, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Calgary, Edmonton and Winnipeg, and that six cities, Providence, Hackensack, N.J., Greensboro, N.C., Atlanta, Indianapolis and Louisville, were under consideration for the 12th franchise.

Santa Clara To Play Florida A & M Nov. 6

SANTA CLARA, Calif. (UPI)—The University of Santa Clara will face Florida A&M University in a football game Nov. 6 in the Oakland Coliseum in place of Southern University, it was announced Wednesday by Oakland promoter Henry Winston.

It will mark the first meeting ever in any sports competition between Santa Clara and Florida A&M of Tallahassee, a perennial small college football power that produced Dallas Cowboys star Bob Hayes.

Poly-Turf Firm Acts On Field

MIAMI (UPI) — American Biltrite has four representatives in Miami scraping and steaming the Orange Bowl's slippery poly-turf and trying to soothe nettled public officials.

Movies of the last two Miami Dolphins football games have shown 114 slips and falls on the synthetic surface manufactured by American Biltrite and sold to Miami for $200,000, resulting in a rash of demands that they repair it.

Officials said they would.

"We will guarantee that this field will be playable for the rest of the season," said Fred Piermattei, vice president and manager of the Boston firm after meeting with Miami City Manager Melvin Reese.

"By Monday of next week, we will be on our program to rejuvenate the field," he said. "We feel very confident."

The dismay over the slippery condition of the field resulted in a court suit filed Wednesday by Miami Beach attorney Ellis Rubin and Mrs. Brownell Harrell.

The suit, filed in circuit court, asks the court to demand that the field be either repaired or replaced by real grass. It asked that if the firm does not take action, the city be told to stop making its $4,750 monthly payments on the surface.

The suit said the surface is in a "poor, disintegrating, matted down, slippery and worn out condition."

STILL WINLESS

Seals Bow 4-2 To Montreal

By DAVID DIETZ

OAKLAND — Burly Vic Stasiuk has been coach of the California Golden Seals for less than a week, but you don't have to tell him who the Montreal Canadiens are.

As a National Hockey League player for 13 years and later as coach of the Philadelphia Flyers, Stasiuk is as familiar with the Stanley Cup champions as Charles O. Finley is with money.

"Man, they got speed and then some," Stasiuk enthused in the dressing room last night after his Seals had lost to Montreal, 4-2. "You're not going to catch many Canadiens."

Until the third period at least, the Seals indeed were left behind as Montreal built a 3-0 lead on two goals by Frank Mahovlich and one by his brother, Pete. Speed certainly helped, but the Canadiens also checked vigorously and passed crisply.

The Seals, meanwhile, were having difficulty getting out of their own end of the rink, and Montreal goalie Ken Dryden, hero of the 1971 Stanley Cup playoffs, often struck his characteristic pose of leisurely resting on his hockey stick. When the Seals did clear their own ice, passes that should have been converted into goals went under, over — and what sometimes appeared through — waiting sticks.

During the break before the final period, Stasiuk had — well, a little talk — with his squad. "I told them," he said innocently, "that I was damn disappointed."

His disgust apparently made an impression. The Seals came out hustling, knocking in two goals — by Gary Croteau and Ernie Hicke — to the Canadiens' one and outshooting Montreal, 12-5.

Stasiuk, however, wants a 60-minute hockey team, and he made it clear last night he planned extra work for his squad. "Let's face it, there are quite a few guys who are not in shape," he said.

One who is in shape is Lyle Carter, the rookie goaltender who prevented the Canadiens from running out of the rink with the game in the first two

Cleveland Site Of Davis Cup Net

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Bob Malaga, executive director of the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association (USLTA) announced today the American zone finals of the Davis Cup competition will be held here next July, marking the 13th consecutive year international tennis will be played in Cleveland.

"We gambled in 1968 when we scheduled the inter-zone finals here with Spain and everything worked out," Malga said. "I'm confident again this time."

The Davis Cup format changes next year when the defending champion will compete in every round instead of standing by until the challenge round. In its quest to retain the Davis Cup, the U.S. will start from scratch.

Earlier in the challenge round at Charlotte, N.C., the U.S. defeated Romania, 3-2, over the three-day plus one match with rain plaguing the matches throughout the weekend. It forced the postponement of one singles match.

Stan Malless, secretary of the USLTA, announced Wednesday in Indianapolis the site for the American zone finals of the Davis Cup have not yet been set—but that it would not be held at Harold T. Clark Stadium here as has been in the past.

Malles said the city of Indianapolis has purchased all AIS, electric scoreboards, press box and fencing of the Vlagk Stadium for an undisclosed five-figure amount.

Facilities from Clark Stadium will be incorporated into a new $250,000 indoor-outdoor tennis complex planned for completion in time for the U.S. Clay Court Open in Aug., 1972.

OLYMPIC FUSS

French Ski Team May Withdraw

GRENOBLE, France (UPI)—Jean Beranger, France's Olympic alpine ski team manager, said Wednesday his whole squad would drop out of the Winter Olympics if a single member was banned for not being an "amateur."

Beranger's tough stand over the amateur status rule came in the wake of the latest flareup between Avery Brundage, head of the International Olympic Committee (IOC) and the International Ski Federation (FIS).

Brundage has written to the FIS making clear that any skier who does not conform to the IOC's strict rules governing amateur status will not be allowed to take part in the games at Sapporo, Japan, FIS sources said.

The letter dashed hopes of a compromise between the two bodies over the question of professionalism in skiing, they indicated.

"Either they take everybody or nobody at all," Beranger said in an interview with L'Equipe newspaper, adding he hoped other skiing nations would join his stand.

"But I am worried because I fear some federations will be ready to send their reserve teams for the sake of appearances," added Beranger.

Mark Holder, the FIS president, said its members would be consulted before a reply is given to Brundage's letter.

Beranger said there was now much uncertainty and confusion among skiers about what the outcome of the latest clash would be.

The FIS last summer passed rules at its meeting in Yugoslavia cutting down on the amount of publicity skiers could give in an effort to find a compromise solution with the IOC, which has maintained, among other things, that the pay skiers get from advertising classes them as professionals.

Brundage's letter, written from the Mediterranean Games at Izmir 10 days ago, was a concrete sign there was trouble ahead for the Winter Olympics.

FIS sources said the problems created for the Japanese organizers will now depend upon just how strictly Brundage and his IOC committee intend to enforce the amateur status and whether national ski federations will agree to the possible banning of some of their members without pulling out completely, as already threatened by Beranger.

SPORT NOTES

Sullivan, Cerrudo In Kaiser Tourney

By RALPH CHATOIAN

The long golfing weekend for those nomads in brightly colored alpaca sweaters got started today at the Silverado Country Club in Napa.

The Kaiser International Golf Tournament is always a big draw for the North Bay area and pulls in golf fans from throughout the Bay Area and parts north and south.

A UNITED PRESS International story in yesterday's I-J left out a key word in announcing that four Northern California golfers were competing in the Kaiser. The story should have said four Northern California TOUR golfers were competing. That way we wouldn't have been leaving out the likes of Buddy Sullivan, the pro at Marin Country Club in Novato. Although not a tour regular, Sullivan qualified for the tourney for his consistent showings on the Northern California pro golf circuit.

Marin County's other "local angle" to the tournament is Ron Cerrudo. Ron lived in San Rafael a short time after graduation from San Jose Sate College, and his mother, Mrs. John Cerrudo, still lives in San Rafael.

Cerrudo is one of three golfers who will be playing out of their back doors in the tourney. Cerrudo, Johnny Miller and Jimmy Wiechers all live at the Silverado Country Club, their homes overlooking the fairways. They just might know that course fairly well and if the pace slows down they might even stop off for lunch at home. ("I'll have a hot lunch, honey, but make it quick. I'm third off the No. 4 tee.")

Getting most of the ink in tournament advance stories have been slumping Billy Casper, Lee Trevino and defending champ Ken Still. Not entered this year are Silverado crowd favorites of past years, Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus. It's too bad, because any tournament is lacking when these two superstars don't show up.

And if you're worried abut tickets, you don't have to have advance ones. You can buy them at the golf club entrance at $5 each.

IT IS SELDOM hard to find a clear cut favorite in the Marin County Athletic League football race three weeks into the campaign but it's tough to do this year. Between Novato, Redwood, San Rafael and Terra Linda high schools, there is no solid choice. It's going to be extremely tough, darn-near impossible, for any of the teams to go through the league slate undefeated. My guess is that there will be two, maybe three, or even four co-champion teams this year.

ONE OF THE really old-time western football rivalries will be resumed this weekend when St. Mary's and University of San Francisco clash Saturday at Moraga. The series dates back to 1919.

Jim Peters, who did his high school playing at Redwood High and then played at College of Marin, received a few kind words in the latest news release from St. Mary's.

"Peters has shown well in drills during the past week and is expected to share more time at quarterback with Jerry Murphy," said the release. "Peters appears more at home with the Gael offense and has been right on target with his passing.

THE GOLDEN State Warriors will be opening their home schedule Saturday night against the Detroit Pistons in Oakland Coliseum Arena. It will be a good game to see, but you stay-at-homes can listen to the game on KTIM-FM, beginning at 7:45 p.m.

Caz Russell Sizzles In Golden State Win

CLEVELAND (UPI) —It doesn't take Cazzie Russell very long to adjust to his new team.

Russell, who was obtained by the Golden State Warriors in an off-season trade with the New York Knicks, pumped in 29 points Wednesday night to lead the National Basketball Association club to a 115-98 victory over the Cleveland Cavaliers.

The Warriors now return to the San Francisco Bay area with a 2-2 mark in the new season and play their home opener Saturday night in the Oakland coliseum against Detroit.

In sparking Wednesday's victory, Russell was helped by Jeff Mullins and guard Ron Williams. Mullins chipped in 27 points and Williams, who scored only 23 points in the Warriors' first three games, poured in 13 of his game-total of 23 in the first period as the Warriors moved to a 35-27 lead.

Russell and Mullins combined for 14 second-period points to lead the Warriors to a 60-51 halftime advantage.

Three quick baskets by Cleveland guard Charlie Davis after intermission cut the Golden State lead to 60-57, but the Warriors outscored the Cavaliers, 12-2, in the next three minutes and Cleveland never caught up.

Tim Rossovich Shaves Mustache Under Orders

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Tim Rossovich without a mustache?

That's like seeing Tiny Tim with a crew cut, or Yul Brynner in shoulder-length locks.

But that's exactly what the New York Giants will see on Sunday when they face Rossovich and the new hairless Philadelphia Eagles.

Ed Khayat, who has coached the Eagles to their fourth and fifth straight losses since taking over for Jerry Williams three weeks ago, ordered all players with mustaches to shave them off "or else."

No one waited to find out what the "or else" meant. On Wednesday, Rossovich showed up at practice without his bushy Fu Manchu, and more than a dozen other players were also clean shaven.

"Good grooming is one of the many facets of discipline," said Khayat.

GOLF NOTES

Janusch Gets Ace At Peacock

John H. Janusch lives right off the Peacock Gap golf course at 64 Peacock Drive in San Rafael, so doesn't have to go too far to play a round of golf.

Next time he plays he might take only his nine iron. That's the club he used to score a hole-in-one on Peacock Gap's 140-yard 10th hole last Sunday.

Scores from the past week of Marin County golf action:

Mat Snell At Crossroads

NEW YORK (UPI) — Matt Snell knows the time is rapidly approaching when he must make a decision on his future as a professional football player.

The last two years have not been good ones for the 30-year-old fullback of the New York Jets. His magnificent body, which has rushed for 4,285 yards and dealt an infinite number of punishing blocks in seven seasons, has begun to let him down.

Last year Snell missed virtually the entire season with a ruptured achilles tendon. This year, determined to make a comeback, he was off to a fine start in training camp when he was whacked in the knee by Willie Lanier's helmet during a pre-season game with Kansas City. The injury caused a separation of two bones resulting in skin splints and an inflammation of the knee joint.

It was at first thought Snell would miss only three weeks, or four at the most, but it has now been seven and he has yet to play a regular season game. He is not certain when he will be ready to play again.

"I just have to wait. Yesterday was the first day in seven weeks that it hasn't hurt," Snell said Wednesday prior to the Jets' afternoon workout. But then this morning it was sore again. It wasn't throbbing like it did before, but it was sore. Maybe if it feels all right this week and I can get some practice taking handoffs, I could play Sunday. But I'm playing it by ear. If a running back can't go all out, what good is he?"

There has been some speculation Snell should have undergone surgery on the knee the day he injured it, and that he might be back in the lineup now if he had. However, Snell doesn't feel an operation was necessary.

"Dr. (James) Nicholas is a great one for operating right away, and if he thought something should be done I'm sure he would have ordered an operation," said Snell. "But there was no damage to the cartilage or ligaments. The knee didn't even swell up until the next day."

While Snell has watched from the sidelines his place in the lineup has been taken by John Riggins, a rookie from Kansas, who has been one of the bright spots for the Jets in an otherwise depressing season. Riggins is only 22 and the Jets are tabbing him for great things. So, where does that leave Snell in the team's future plans?

"Weeb (Ewbank) and I have an understanding," said Snell. "We talks things straight out. If I didn't fit into their future plans he would tell me. He wouldn't drop subtle hints.

"I like to see John play well. Before I had to do all the work. He's got to help me if I can ever get healthy again. We're not competing against each other. I been playing eight years. John is a guy with his future ahead of him."

But as the pain in his knee persists, there are the nagging fears in Snell's mind that this might be his last year. He wants desperately to play but wonders if it is really worth it anymore. He would like very much to reach the 5,000 yards rushing plateau — a figure that has been reached by only 15 players in history — but he is 715 yards short and that's a full season's work.

"I'm not saying I'm not coming back next year, but there's always a possibility," said Snell. "You don't always have control over those things. I would like to make those 5,000 yards, though. With the speed of the game like it is today and the injury rate as high as it is, there aren't going to be many guys around that will do that."

Big Tennis Facility Move Set

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) —Indianapolis soon will have the nation's second-largest tennis facility, according to the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association.

Officials of the association said Wednesday that the 6,300 seat Harold T. Clark Stadium in Cleveland will be dismantled and shipped here in plenty of time for the 1972 U.S. Open Clay Courts Championships.

The stadium, which can be expanded to seat 8,000, is second only to Forest Hills, N.Y., site of the U. S. National Championships, which can accomodate about 13,000 fans.

The facility, to be composed of eight or nine courts, will eventually be the site of some Davis competition, Malless said. He said dismantling and trucking the stadium 300 miles to its new home would cost about one-third of what a new facility would cost.

The stadium at Cleveland is seven years old and must be moved because it is located on school board property. Cleveland plans to build a new tennis center.

Surprising Penguins Drub Kings

Tie Hawks For First In West

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

It certainly isn't surprising to see a team with a strong offense and a stingy defense sitting in first place in its particular league.

But when these qualities are displayed by the Pittsburgh Penguins, then you have every right to express surprise.

The Penguins have been one of the more disadvantaged National Hockey League teams, qualifying for the playoffs only once in their first four years. Last season they finished sixth in the West Division, a distant 45 points behind the Chicago Black Hawks.

A new season, however, has seen Pittsburgh run off a string of five consecutive victories, including an 8-1 shellacking of the Los Angeles Kings Wednesday night. Coupled with Chicago's 3-1 loss to the New York Rangers, the Penguins' victory moved them into a tie with the Black Hawks for first place in the West.

With 22 goals in six games, the Penguins have shown the second most potent offense in the league during the early going while the nine goals they have permitted is third best.

Surprised? Well, the Penguins aren't.

In other NHL games Wednesday night, the Boston Bruins edged the Detroit Red Wings 4-3, the Minnesota North Stars trounced the Vancouver Canucks 7-0, and the Buffalo Sabres beat the Toronto Maple Leafs 7-2.

Chicago dropped back into a tie for the division lead although it lost for the first time after five triumphs.

VALIANT TRY — The efforts of Los Angeles Kings' defenseman Harry Howell were not enough on this play last night against the Pittsburgh Penguins as Howell, and the puck, ended up in the net after a shot by Penguins' Jean Pronovost (right). After this goal, the Penguins went on to score seven more to win, 8-1. (UPI Telephoto)

ABA PLAY

Scott Hot; Squires Win By 3

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Charley Scott scored six of his 47 points in the final 57 seconds of play Wednesday night to lead the Virginia Squires to a 111-108 victory over the previously undefeated Floridians in one of three American Basketball Association games.

Scott clinched the Squires' second victory in three games this season and assured the Floridians' initial defeat after two wins when he made two free throws with just 10 seconds to play.

The Floridians tried a desperation three-point field goal in the final seconds but the shot went awry.

Jim Eakins chipped in with 20 points for the Squires while rookie Julius Erving added 17 points and 16 rebounds. Mack Calvin led the Floridians with 25 points.

Steve Jones scored four points in overtime to give the Dallas Chaps a 115-113 victory over the Carolina Cougars. The Chaps trailed 100-88 but rallied to tie the game at the end of regulation time.

Reserve forward Les Hunter scored two baskets in the last minute of play to spark the Kentucky Colonels to a 106-104 victory over the Memphis Pros.

periods. He made several sprawling saves, twice robbing Jacques Lemaire of easy goals.

Only 4,263 fans showed up at the Coliseum Arena to see the team which last season astounded the hockey world by bumping the rambunctious, record-setting Boston Bruins out of the Stanley Cup playoffs.

Was Garry Young, the Seals' youthful general manager, disappointed at the turnout?

"You're damn right," he said. But Young quickly added he believed more fans should be showing up to see his winless Seals, not just the potent opposition. "This is a helluva good hockey club," he said.

JACK HANLEY

Speier, Kingman, Blue Deserve Raises

Vida Blue did an excellent job during the World Series — plugging his favorite after-shave lotion in TV commercials. The rookie ace of the Oakland A's also got in a plug for himself with a charming smile.

BLUE RELATED that he was no Johnny-come-lately user of the lotion. "I used it when I was making only $4,000 in the minors and I'll be using it when I'm making a whole lot more money next year," he said.

That Blue earned a substantial salary increase this year nobody will deny. Charlie Finley, his boss, gave him a Cadillac in midseason. That was a nice supplement to his $12,800 salary, the minimum for major league rookies.

BUT $12,800 is not equitable pay for a rookie who wins 20 or more games. Charlie Finley readily recognizes that. There's no doubt that he intends to upgrade Blue's salary in the rookie's 1972 contract. But will the government permit Finley to fulfill his good intentions?

There's a wage and price freeze in effect now. Phase II of the president's emergency program against inflation will go into effect Nov. 14. Wage and price boards created by the president will set guide lines.

WILL THE guide lines be flexible enough to permit equitable pay increases not only for Blue but Chris Speier and Dave Kingman, a couple of worthy rookies with the Giants?

"Are they being promoted?" asked a lady at the regional office of the wage and price boards.

"NO, MA'AM," an inquiring reporter replied. "They'll still be doing substantially the same job. Kingman is going to have a go at third base, though. And Speier is going to try switch hitting next spring. But Blue isn't ambidextrous. He'll still be a southpaw."

"Just a minute," said the lady, "I'm switching your call upstairs."

IT DEVELOPED that "upstairs" was the Bureau of Internal Revenue which the inquiring reporter learned would be the enforcement arm of Phase II of the president's wage and price program.

The gentleman who answered the phone in IRS was a baseball fan and immediately showed an appreciation of the inquiry.

"VERY INTERESTING," he said. "Unusual equities are involved. Yes, there are unusual equities here."

But what about them? Do the rookies get the raises to which they are entitled? Or are they frozen to their 1971 salaries?

"THE GUIDE lines haven't been drawn yet," said the IRS man. "But I'm sure they will be equitable guide lines."

Equitable enough to cover Blue, Speier and Kingman?

THE IRS MAN, being a baseball fan but one without guide lines at the moment, said:

"I can't make a ruling until I get our guide lines. But I'm sure they'll be equitable."

Rams Sign Extra Backer Parish

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—For reasons known only to coach Tommy Prothro and his aides, the Los Angeles Rams have added a seventh linebacker to their roster.

He is Don Parish, a star at Stanford and the No. 4 draft choice of the St. Louis Cardinals with whom he was rookie of the year in 1970.

This year he injured a knee in the preseason and was placed on the inactive list. The Rams had their team doctor examine him and he was adjudged worth the undisclosed draft choice the Cards got in exchange.

Other linebackers with the Rams are Marlin McKeever, Jim Purnell, Isiah Robertson, Dean Halverson, Ken Geddes, and John Pergine.

Giants Get Milwaukee Vet Pitcher

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — The Milwaukee Brewers announced Wednesday they traded veteran lefthander John Morris to the San Francisco Giants for two young pitchers in the Giants' farm system.

The Brewers got left hander Gary Ryerson, 23, and right-hander Leslie Scott, 25, who both pitched more than 200 innings for Amarillo in the Texas League last season. Ryerson had a 14-9 record and a 2.61 earned run average and Scott had a 15-8 mark and a 2.24 ERA. Scott's victories included a seven-inning no-hitter.

Scott and Ryerson will report to the Brewers' American Association farm club at Evansville, Ind., where Morris finished the season.

Morris, 30, was assigned to Evansville after posting a 2-2 mark and a 3.72 ERA during the 1971 season at Milwaukee. He appared in 43 games for the Brewers, all but one in relief. Morris will report to the Giants' Phoenix club in the Pacific Coast League.

CLEMENTE HONORED

Seeks Boss Post

NEW YORK (UPI) —For Roberto Clemente, the next step is perfectly obvious.

Managing.

They asked him about that next obvious step Wednesday after Sport Magazine had presented him with a neat new evergreen colored sedan for having been named the outstanding performer in the World Series and Pittsburgh's intense, high strung superstar, whose mental as well as physical machinery is such that he's generally way ahead of most people, answered the question as if he already had anticipated it.

"I'M NOT interested in managing," he said. "Not whatsoever. A manager has to be tough with the players. I notice on a lotta clubs the players don't want to talk with the manager. I get along with the players very good. I enjoy the relationship. I want people to like me, and the way I talk with the players now I can't do that as a manager."

Roberto Clemente, in a way, is no different than Babe Ruth.

WHEN BABE Ruth was through doing everything one man could possibly do on a baseball field the next step for him was perfectly obvious also.

He wanted to try his hand managing. Why not? If he could hit all those home runs, he could manage couldn't he?

Roberto Clemente has. He managed as recently as one year ago when he handled the San Juan club in the Puerto Rican Winter League. He was more than merely a good manager. He was an excellent one.

HE CLAIMS he wasn't tough on the players and in a sense that was true. In another sense he was as tough on them as he had to be.

"Oh, I won't stand for any foolishness," he says about his basic philosophy on managing, "but I don't think a manager can treat a player rough."

There again the Pirates' 37-year-old rightfielder is giving the impression that he can be had. He can't be though. Not too easily.

SOME YEARS back Clemente was asked to manage the San Juan club temporarily and among his players was one of the American League's foremost stars. This player thought he would "test" Clemente and when the showdown came it turned out to be no contest.

"Look," Clemente told the star, "I don't care who you are or what you are up there in the American League, but when you're playing down here for me, on this club, you get here on time, you put out like everyone else and you get no special privileges that nobody else gets. If you don't like this arrangement, say so now, because as long as I'm manager you're going to do it this way or you're not going to be with this club. I guarantee that."

CLEMENTE HAD no more trouble with that particular player.

At Wednesday's session, Clemente, who says he'd like to play at least two or three more years, talked about many different things.

He was asked whom he considered the best ballplayer he ever saw and he said:

"WILLIE MAYS, no question."

Dave Bing Gets Football From Friend Lem Barney

DETROIT (UPI)—Dave Bing is finally going to get his football from Lem Barney.

Barney wanted to take the football he scored with last Sunday to Bing while the Detroit Pistons' star guard was in the hospital on Monday, recuperating from surgery to reattach the retina to his right eye.

But the star cornerback for the Detroit Lions didn't quite make it. He had to make a detour to the hospital.

It seems that while scoring on his 28-yard interception return, Barney pulled a groin muscle. He later aggravated it in the game and on Monday it was learned Barney had a little internal bleeding in the pulled muscle. So he was taken to the hospital, where he rests now.

Bing was scheduled to be released sometime before Friday night, and when he gets out he's going straight to Ford Hospital in Detroit.

To pick up his football.

Rojas Files $12 Million Law Suit

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

LOS ANGELES — A $12.4 million damage suit was filed in federal court Wednesday by Minnie Rojas, former California Angels pitcher, who was paralyzed in his arms and legs as a result of an auto accident in Florida in April, 1970.

The suit named as defendant State Farm Mutual Automobile Insurance Co.

Rojas' wife, Maria, was seriously hurt and two of their three children were killed in the accident.

Attorney Nathaniel J. Friedman, acting for Rojas, said the insurance firm tried coercing the family into accepting a far smaller sum than they were entitled to under terms of their insurance policy.

Rojas claimed the accident occurred when his car was sideswiped by a truck which left the scene. The insurance company contended no other vehicle was involved.

SAN FRANCISCO — Walter Alston of the Los Angeles Dodgers was named Manager of the Year yesterday by the Associated Press. Alston received 72 votes to 65 for runnerup Charlie Fox of the San Francisco Giants, and 57 for Danny Murtaugh. manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

CLEVELAND — James Finks. vice president and general manager of the Minnesota Vikings, testified Wednesday before the Federal Grand Jury investigating the National Football League, but he had "no comment" when he reappeared from the jury room.

The jury had been expected to question Finks about quarterback Joe Kapp, who left the Vikings after the 1969 season. Kapp is currently playing for the new England Patriots.

Following the day's session, the jury went into recess until next month.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. — University of Illinois football coach Bob Blackman says he will not oust halfback John Wilson, who was arrested Monday on charges of deceptive practices for allegedly using a stolen card.

Blackman said university regulations do not make a student charged with a misdemeanor ineligible for intercollegiate athletics.

Wilson pleaded innocent Tuesday to the misdemeanor charge of trying to use a stolen credit card to buy gas and oil at a local service station.

LANSING, Mich. — Hospital officials said Wednesday Michigan State University athletic director Clarence L. "Biggie Munn" is "in satisfactory condition, under the circumstances" and is expected to at least partially recover from a stroke suffered two weeks ago.

"There has been no significant improvement in his neurological condition, but the expectation now is that he will live but have residual effects of paralysis of the right side and inability to speak," said a hospital bulletin.

Munn suffered the stroke Oct. 7 and has been hospitalized in Lansing's Sparrow Hospital since.

TREAD WEAR EXPECTANCY
Because of variable driving habits and road conditions under which tires are used, it is impractical for Montgomery Ward, and conceivably misleading to our customers, to guarantee any specific number of months or miles of tread wear. We can, however, indicate the wear potential we have built into our tires in terms of service in normal family use. If a Riverside tire wears down to the tread wear indicators during the Tread Wear Expectancy, Montgomery Ward will upon presentation of the tire and evidence of date of purchase replace the tire for the then current regular price less the following dollar allowance:

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Reward For Holder Of Emerson Shares

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I hold close to 600 shares of Emerson Electric (NYSE) which I bought in 1945. The dividends are not attractive now that I am retired. What should I do, hold or sell part? — A.K.

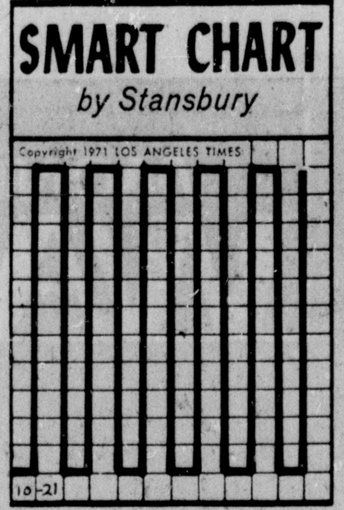
A. Emerson Electric, which you have held for 26 years, has certainly been a rewarding investment. Although you have not stated in your letter your cost or exact share holdings, a 50-share investment in Emerson made in 1945 would have cost, on average, $1,275. In the intervening years stock splits and dividends would have increased shares to 552, while price appreciation also added to your investment value which now approximates $42,000.

Acquisitions, research and agile management have all contributed to Emerson's strong growth pattern. And though the rate of increment has been at a slower pace this year and last, stronger demand, particularly if Congress enacts tax credit legislation, should revitalize Emerson's earnings trend. Equally bullish for the company is the recent sharp increase in construction.

I would advise sale of 100 shares now with the $7,500 proceeds to be banked for living expenses.

Q. Can you tell me how many times Loews Theatres, now Loews Corp., has split since the old Loews, Inc. formed twocomapnies in 1959; Loews Theatres and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer? — W.H.

A. In March 1959 Loews, Inc. was reorganized and shareholders were given ½ share in the two surviving companies for each share in the original firm. Capitalization for the two new companies did not change until 1966, when MGM split 2-for-1. In 1967 and again in 1968 this same corporation distributed 5% in stock to shareholders. The other surviving entity, Loews Theatres, now Loews, Corp., retained its equity structure intact until January 1968 when shares were split 2½-for-1; in December of that same year a 3-for-1 split was consummated. No other splits or stock dividends have occurred for either Big Board issue.



"We can't seem to shake our old image as a tobacco company."

Third Quarter Earnings Climb

HOUSTON (BW) — Marathon Manufacturing Co. has reported third quarter earnings before extraordinary items of $1,562,000, or 63 cents per share, a 70 per cent increase on sales of $38.7 million as compared to $819,000, or 37 cents per share, on sales of $20.3 million for the like period in 1970.

Net income for the three months ended Sept. 30 was $1,888,000 (77 cents per share) as compared to $990,000 (45 cents per share) for the same period in 1970.

For the cumulative nine months ended Sept. 30 the company reported earnings before extraordinary items of $3,436,000, or $1.35 per share, on sales of $102.9 million as compared to $1,683,000, or 75 cents per share, on sales of $54.7 million for the same period in 1970.

Lockheed Turnaround Is Forecast

BURBANK (UPI) —Lockheed Aircraft Corp., beset by "unprecedented problems" during the past two years, is "now on an upward track," board chairman Daniel Haughton told stockholders Wednesday at the annual meeting.

Haughton said the aerospace company has the capability to make a turnaround now that its contract disputes with the government have been settled and new financing has been arranged.

"We have big jobs to do. We have a chance to climb back up. The resources to finance our unfinished business are there. We have good talent, good customers, good technology and strong determination to succeed," Haughton said.

He forecast sales next year at approximately the 1970 level of just over $2.5 billion. He said sales so far this year, $2.35 billion for the first nine months, are running substantially above last year's $1.75 billion for the like period.

"For 1971 as a whole," he said, "we expect sales to total nearly $3 billion, a major percentage of which is booked at no profit as the result of our C5A Galaxy and Cheyenne helicopter settlements."

On Sept. 26, Lockheed's order backlog stood at $4.07 billion, about the same as the midyear figure of $4.04 billion, but below the $5 million backlog of last year.

Haughton reminded the stockholders assembled in a hangar that the company could not resume payments of dividends, prohibited by the emergency loan guarantee passed by Congress and by an agreement with creditor banks extending to the end of 1975.

New Executive

LOS ANGELES (BW) — Francis E. Rinehart, 50, has joined Cyprus Mines Corp. as a legal vice president, it has been announced by Henry T. Mudd, Cyprus board chairman. Rinehart formerly was with Newmont Mining Corp.

Gross Sales On Increase

SAN DIEGO (BW) — Royal Inns of America Inc. has reported gross sales of $2,877,317 from network operations for September, a 62.4 per cent increase over the $1,765,869 gross sales for the like period last year.

The figure represents sales for all hotels and motor hotels, Jolly King Family restaurants and Lost Knight cocktail lounges, according to Earl Gagosian, chairman of the board and president.

Number of rooms rented rose to 99,083 compared to the 69,566 rooms rented in September 1970.

Fabric Firm Has Increase In Sales

PORTLAND, Ore. (BW) — Fabric Wholesalers Inc., Portland-based wholesalers and retailers of domestic and imported fabrics, has reported a 40 per cent increase in net earnings after taxes on a 47 per cent increase in sales for the nine-month period ended Sept. 30.

Net sales for the nine months were $3,576,714, compared with $2,422,591 in sales for the same period last year.

LINE TROUBLE — NO PRICE LIST

Due to transmission trouble in New York City there is no list of New York Stock Exchange prices today.

Computer Firm's 9-Month Earnings

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — Boothe Computer Corp. has reported net income of $2,475,000 for the nine-month period ended Sept. 30, an increase of 22 per cent over the $2,031,000 net income for the same period a year ago.

This amounted to $1.29 per share (on 1,925,770 average common shares and common share equivalents outstanding), compared with $1.08 per share a year ago.

Slide On Wall Street At Far Slower Pace

NEW YORK (UPI) —The Wall Street slide resumed today but at a pace far slower than on Wednesday.

Prices moved lower on the American Stock Exchange with declines topping advances, 413 to 240. Most active issues included Arctic Enterprises, up 1-8 to 37 3-4 on 24,500 shares, and Wheelabrator, down 1-4 to 23,700.

Some issues with sizable losses Wednesday moved by a point or more in the other direction, a traditional sign of bargain hunting. Natomas, an oil drilling firm, jumped 3. It fell 9 7-8 Wednesday. Bauxch & Lomb, off 4 1-2 Wednesday, added a point.

But some losers continued sliding, notably Corning Glass, down 1-2, and IBM, off 3 5-8. On Wednesday the former gave up 14, the latter 4.

Elsewhere in the electronics, Westinghouse lost 1 1-4, General Electric 3-4. Burroughs rose 2.

Steels and autos moved lower. Du Pont fell a point in the mixed chemicals, airlines improved with American up a point. Rails and aircrafts eased.

Split Voted By Redwood Bank

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Redwood Bank directors on Wednesday voted a three-for-two split of the firm's common stock.

Approval still is needed for shareholders and regulatory agencies.

The bank has five branches in the San Francisco Bay Area.

Henry Shapiro, UPI, Moscow, dean of Western correspondents in the USSR

If you could convince the Soviets that you were HENRY SHAPIRO of United Press International you'd get in. But since you can't, better let Shapiro do it for you . . . and then write a dispatch which you can read in the I-J.

For more than 30 years Shapiro has been manager of UPI'S Moscow Bureau. He is the dean of Western correspondents there. His abilities, his writing and his honors are known and respected throughout the world – even by the Russians!

His assignment is perhaps the most difficult of any correspondent. He must maintain a delicate balance within a totalitarian world yet report to you, the reader, on events often unreported within the USSR itself. He must maintain accreditation yet maintain credibility with his audience for reliable reporting.

Such talents have enabled Henry Shapiro to cover every major event in the USSR since the treason trials of the Thirties, the siege of Leningrad, Stalin's death, Khrushchev's rise and fall from power, the Soviet space flights – the entire spectrum of the USSR.

When you read Shapiro's dispatches in the I-J you can be sure you are receiving authoritative information. He's your man in the Kremlin. In fact, one of the few men who comes out with the news . . . because he's "in."

ARREST IN MEMPHIS VIOLENCE

Police arrest a youth as violence continues to build in Memphis over the death of Elton Hayes, a 17-year-old Negro youth. Accusations of police brutality have been made into his death. The state attorney general's office has ordered an investigation. Last night black youths kept police and firemen scurrying with firebombings, vandalism and almost 300 false alarms.

Educators Say Anti-War Order Unconstitutional

BERKELEY (UPI) — The University of California's law school dean and 25 professors say the Berkeley Board of Education "flagrantly" violated the Constitution's spirit when it ordered anti-war programs in schools.

The board's action and Superintendent Richard Foster's orders to teachers "are an affront to fundamental democratic values and a gross misuse of authority," the faculty members declared in a letter made public Wednesday.

"Of at least equal importance, they flagrantly violate the spirit, and probably the letter, of both federal and state constitutions," the letter said.

The board on Oct. 5 instructed its school to support the "National Moratorium on Business as Usual" on Oct. 13 and the "National Student Strike" on Nov. 3.

First Phase Of Hearing Over

STANFORD (UPI)—A faculty board concluded the first phase of a hearing Wednesday into whether a radical associate professor should be fired from the Stanford University faculty.

A recess was called after H. Bruce Franklin, an avowed Maoist, reiterated statements that he did not heckle former ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge whose campus speech was disrupted Jan. 11.

Franklin, who has been suspended with pay, is accused of inciting students to violence.

The board is to recommend whether he should be dismissed.

3 Convicted In City Hall Fight

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A municipal court jury on Wednesday convicted three men arrested during a City Hall scuffle on charges of battery on police officers, a misdemeanor.

The three, arrested when a group tried to force its way into Mayor Joseph L. Alioto's office, are Robert D. Covington, John J. Rodelo and Mojo Tubutu.

They had been part of a group urging action on minority hiring in the construction industry. The mayor's aides said they did not have an appointment.

Treasury Secretary Hails Fiscal Policy

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—World economics has "entered a new day" in which the United States must adjust its priorities abroad in order to remain a monetary leader, Treasury Secretary John B. Connally told the nation's leading bankers Wednesday.

Connally also said the prospects were "excellent" for dismantling domestic economic controls "after a very short run."

The Treasury secretary told 14,500 bankers at the closing session of the American Banking Association Convention that President Nixon's new fiscal program has "changed the course of history" and will not soften despite bitter foreign reaction.

Connally said the U.S. would be criticized abroad, "but we should understand that their interests at this moment are not our interests."

When the international monetary system comes out of its "present limbo, the U.S. will remain one of the leaders of the world," the former Texas governor said.

"This will still be the strongest nation in the world and there will be a system that insures fair treatment for the United States," he said.

The 10 per cent foreign surcharge "is going to stay on for awhile," said Connally. When it is removed, "is up to the other nations — when we have some assurance our balance of payments is rectified or we are assured there is a mechanism whereby it can be rectified."

Domestically, Connally said "we have to break the cycle of inflation, but once we do that we can really begin to dismantle" economic controls.

At a later news conference, Connally said he was "delighted" at the latest reductions in prime interest rates touched off Wednesday after Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. of New York announced a prime rate reduction from 6 per cent to 5 3-4 per cent.

Connally's 'No Show' At Hearing Ties Freeze Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The rush legislation that President Nixon requested to help control the economy after the wage-price freeze ends suffered a temporary delay in the House today, with Treasury Secretary John B. Connally partly to blame.

Connally had been invited by Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., to appear before Patman's Banking Committee today to explain the legislative requests. Patman invited only Connally and said he wanted no substitute.

But Connally wound up instead in San Francisco, at a convention of the American Bankers Association, from which he planned to return to his home in Texas.

For a time Patman threatened to hold the hearing anyway, empty witness chair and all; but Connally called Patman Wednesday evening and Patman agreed to cancel the session. He said he was willing to hold it at any time — even Sunday night if need be — but it appeared the most likely time would be Tuesday after the Veterans Day weekend.

In the meantime, however, the timetable for the legislation has been set back several days.

Connally's attendance at the bankers convention was not expected to win points with Patman, who makes no bones of disliking the association which represents the nation's commercial banks.

In a speech Wednesday, in Montreal, Patman said the association is "the granddaddy of lobbying organizations."

"Traditionally the bankers center their sessions on three key resolutions —one, denouncing whatever Wright Patman may be doing at the moment; two, identifying the close relationship between high interest rates and patriotism; and three, outlining the critical needs to eliminate those burdensome bank regulations," he said.

Various color phases of the black bear occur. Sometimes they are rusty brown to pale cinnamon, and there even are pure white "black" bears.

Kosygin Views Nixon's Visit

OTTAWA (UPI) —Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin Wednesday described President Nixon's planned visit to Moscow as a two-sided affair in which the Soviet Union was as hopeful as the United States "to further peaceful solutions and not increase tensions."

Kosygin and his party wound up their three-day visit to Ottawa today and were leaving for a cross-Canada tour of Montreal, Vancouver, Edmonton and Toronto.

Kosygin told newsmen in Ottawa he hoped the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) would reach an agreement on limiting antiballistic missiles by early next year. He added that the Soviet Union supported NATO proposals for East-West force reductions in Europe, although details remained to be worked out.

Senate Doves Back In Action

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Senate doves have fired back two more antiwar amendments at a recalcitrant House in a shotgun effort to write a Vietnam disengagment into law.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee attached the two amendments to the Housepassed foreign aid bill Wednesday, hoping that at least one of the measures would get through. One of the amendments would cut off funds for any purpose other than the withdrawal of troops; the other would establish a national policy to disengage from Indochina by spring.

The measures represented two more Senate shots across the bow at the administration's policy of continued intervention on behalf of the Saigon government.

But the foreign aid bill itself gave the White House an unexpected victory.

In a surprise move just before the bill cleared the committee late Wednesday afternoon, members replaced half the $724.2 million in cuts the committee had made in the measure in previous weeks.

That left the bill at a level of $3.2 billion —only a moderate reduction from the $3.5 billion the administration wanted for economic and military assistance in the current fiscal year.

A glum Chairman J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., attributed the reversal to administration pressure.

"In the last 30 minutes, the committee reversed about everything it did in preceding weeks," he said.

Fulbright said he was "not very excited" about the antiwar amendments, contending they were useful as tools to educate the public on evils of the war but ineffective in changing policy.

Lawsuit Hits State On Racial Positions

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A sweeping lawsuit charging the state of California and elected officials from Gov. Ronald Reagan down with perpetuating racial discrimination was filed Wednesday in the U.S. District Court.

The suit, filed by the NAACP, said that "massive apathy and inaction by state agencies in the fields of housing, employment and school discrimination" have led to and maintained discrimination.

The suit asked the court to order the state "to formulate, adopt and execute affirmative plans on a statewide basis to eliminate discrimination in housing, schools and employment."

It cited as an example of discrimination a 3 per cent decline in the percentage of blacks employed by the state. The suit charged that the state Personnel Board used "written and oral tests, many of them totally unrelated to job performance."

NAACP attorney Nathaniel Colley cited a job test which he said asked "what time of the year the robins return."

In California, Colley said, "The robins never leave."

Colley of Sacramento, who filed the suit, said it was a new kind of lawsuit for the organization,

"We're going to do in one suit what we've been doing, up to now, in hundreds of suits," he said.

Colley said that if the NAACP tried to accomplish its goals through separate lawsuits, it would take "about 1,200 years" just to sue each individual school district.

Besides the governor, agencies named in the action included the Board of Education, Fair Employment Practices Commission, the Department of Veterans Affairs and state agencies which regulate banks, savings and loan associations and real estate brokers.

Agnew 'Dirty Work' Denied

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Chairman Dean Burch said yesterday he was "disgusted" with CBS President Frank Stanton for suggesting that the Federal Communications Commission does Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's "dirty work."

The head of the FCC told a Senate hearing into freedom of the press that Stanton "has promulgated a conspiracy theory" ever since Agnew first attacked broadcasting networks in November, 1969."

"It has become a folklore which is highly prized by broadcasters," Burch said, "and it goes like this: the vice president says something and the FCC will move in and do the dirty work by taking away licenses or whatever.

"The only thing wrong with the theory is that it is false," Burch said. "And Dr. Stanton knows it is false. He can cite no evidence that coincides with that particular theory ... I really am a bit disgusted that Dr. Stanton keeps bringing up this conspiracy theory because it simply will not wash."

Stanton, whose network was involved in a long dispute with the House Commerce Committee over the CBS documentary, "The Selling of the Pentagon," preceded Burch by two weeks at the hearings by the subcommittee on constitutional rights.

At that time, he expressed concern that "the dark shadow of surveillance" by the government inhibited broadcasters' right to free speech. He said the future of American democracy is threatened by government intimidation of the news media.

Burch, as proof that Stanton's fears were exaggerated, said "in the entire history of the FCC only three cases have been decided against net works." But Nicholas Johnson, an FCC commissioner often at odds with Burch, offered what he called "a little refutation of the chairman's suggestion that there was absolutely no conspiracy between Agnew and the FCC."

Johnson said the FCC issued its "ill-fated and notorious order" which "was widely interpreted as a ruling that rock music dealing with the subject of drugs should no longer be played on radio stations" after a White House meeting attended by Burch.

"Shortly after Agnew discovered rock music and found that he didn't like it," Johnson said, "there was a meeting at the White House at which record company executives and broadcasters were invited, at which Dean Burch was present, at which they were all urged to please not play such music any more and that shortly following that the FCC issued" the controversial order.

Johnson dissented on that issue but was overruled by the majority.

Fonda Opposes Nuclear Blast In Aleutians

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Actor Henry Fonda Wednesday criticized the underground nuclear test planned this month at Amchitka in the Aleutian Islands off the coast of Alaska.

A nuclear scientist, Arthur R. Tamplin of the Lawrence Laboratory in Livermore, also criticized the test, a five megaton blast which would be the largest ever conducted by the United States.

Both men cited a number of arguments against the test and noted that two lawsuits were pending against it, but said they felt that only President Nixon could halt the test.

Fonda said he was not an expert, but a man deeply concerned and strongly opposed to the test.

Nixon Still Silent On Atomic Test

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Justice Department assured conservationists in court today that there will be no detonation before Wednesday of a controversial underground nuclear test at Amchitka Island off the Alaskan Coast.

U.S. Attorney Edmund Clark told a U.S. Court of Appeals hearing that President Nixon still has not made a decision whether to go ahead with the five-megaton explosion —largest ever to be conducted by the United States —in a proposed test of the Safeguard antiballistic missile system's Spartan interceptor missile.

The longer the announcement is delayed, Clark said, the shorter will be the period of public notice because weather conditions worsen as the year grows longer. He said there might be only three days between Nixon's announcement and any actual explosion.

Clark's disclosure made moot a request by the committee for nuclear responsibility and seven conservation groups for an injunction against the test pending completion of their appeal. U.S. District Judge George L. Hart Jr. has set a hearing for Friday.

Michael B. Speegle, 22, rides a motorcycle and has his own apartment back East equipped with stop-the-war, end-the-draft and peace signs, black lights and beer in the refrigerator.

There is nothing unusual about Speegle's situation — many young men ride motorcycles and condemn the war and the draft — but Speegle is a specialist fourth class in the Army and his apartment is checked regularly by Army officers.

Speegle of Denver and Sp. 4 Douglas W. Reitmeyer, 22, of San Jose, are touring the country on Harley Davidson motorcycles trying to convince people that the Army is changing and they offer their experience in the Army as proof.

"The Army has a real bad image," Reitmeyer asserted yesterday in the Federal Building in San Rafael. Both men said their goal is to let people know what is happening in the Army — both good and bad. They were appearing today at Terra Linda and San Rafael high schools.

The two, who for the past month have been in more than 20 cities in 15 states, are participating in a cross-country campaign to show and to inform people what changes the Army has made through the efforts of the Modern Volunteer Army (MVA).

They explained that the MVA is a group in the Pentagon hoping to save a completely professional and volunteer Army by July, 1973. To achieve that, Reitmeyer said, the MVA is going to have to make the Army as attractive to job seekers as a large corporation.

It is somewhat ironical that the two men are campaigning for the Army because Reitmeyer said he had wanted to go to Canada escape the Army and Speegle said he tried for a conscientious objector exemption.

But both ended up "draft motivated volunteers," according to Reitmeyer, because they thought they should at least give the Army a try.

After they joined the Army last October, they said they found guaranteed schooling of their choice, no kitchen patrol or work details, no unnecessary formations (such as lining up at 4 a.m. on the whim of an officer), a regular 7 a.m. to 4 p.m. job, an opportunity for training and travel, and they could have beer in their barracks.

Both men took a 26-week course in electronics (equivalent to 30 units of college credit) and they said they can live on or off the base and have their hair long providing it doesn't hang over the back of their ears or collar.

Neither man has been in Vietnam and both say they don't want to go kill anybody. Reitmeyer said unless there is a national emergency, he and Speegle won't have to go into combat. He added, "There are plenty of guys in the Army against killing."

In remaking itself into a professional organization, Speegle said, the Army is approaching the potential soldier in much the same way business and industrial firms recruit their employees. Modeling itself on the private corporations, it seeks to make itself attractive.

Dead, according to Speegle, is the old Army of the joke that went something like this:

First soldier: "How come you're a mechanic in the motor pool?"

Second soldier: "I was a clerk-typist in civilian life."

A man can enlist for a guaranteed job training course in the place of his choice only if he qualifies and space is available, Speegle said.

If a man is accepted, he has to go through basic training for eight weeks and then attend a training school, Reitmeyer said.

The pair's tour was the brainstorm of Reitmeyer. In April, after he had been in the Army at a camp in Alabama for only six months, Reitmeyer suggested to a lieutenant-colonel that two men on motorcycles could do a better job promoting the modernization of the Army better than impersonal television advertisements.

Five days later, Reitmeyer said he found himself in the Pentagon rapping with Lt. Gen. George Forsythe, head of the MVA, about his idea.

Five months later, after he got Speegle to join him and Harley Davidson Co. donatea a Super-Glide and a Sportster motorcycles, the two left New York City for a 90-day, 9,000-mile tour.

Reitmeyer said they talk to people in high schools, colleges, the media and just about any other place they can reach young men. "We go out to pool halls and any other place young men might hang out."

"We usually walk in with our motorcycle jackets on," Reitmeyer said, "and people are surprised by our uniforms when we take them off." He said the Army gave them no briefing except to "tell it like it is" including the good and bad.

Speegle added that they are not out to recruit anyone and they don't even ask anyone to join the military. He said the purpose of the tour is just to tell people what is happening in the Army.

Speegle said, "Many people are awestruck when they find out about the changes in the Army, but they can't be skeptical because we have a couple of Harleys."

EASY RIDERS — Mike Speegle (left) and Doug Reitmeyer are Army specialists with a lot in common with today's young civilians: they hate war and are against killing. They also think a strong professional Army can help prevent all that. They were in San Rafael today to tell students at Terra Linda and San Rafael high schools about their country's new-look Army.

Angela Attorney Claims Prejudice

By MARY LEYDECKER

One of Angela Davis's lawyers, Margaret Burnham, today characterized Marin County residents as having a "long-standing prejudice and deep-seated fear of black people, especially black militants" and "ignorant fear of Communists."

Miss Burnham made the remarks during an argument before visiting Judge Richard E. Arnason in Marin Superior Court on a motion that Miss Davis's trial be moved to San Francisco.

Miss Burnham claimed that the former instructor's "already meager chance for a fair trial has been eroded by a hostile press and government."

The attorney described Marin County as a "largely white, upper middle class, tightly knit community with a small town atmosphere." She also said that people take out their resentments over increased costs at the Civic Center against Miss Davis.

The prosecutor, Albert W. Harris Jr., is opposing Miss Davis's request for a specific county, although he has not so far argued against a change of venue to a county to be named by the judge.

Another defense attorney, Howard Moore Jr., yesterday read aloud in court a long list of events beginning on Aug. 7, 1970, which he said contributed to an unfavorable climate of opinion in Marin County against Miss Davis.

Harris agreed to have the list received into the record to save court time.

Harris said, however, that although he agreed that witnesses could be called who would testify about the events he would not agree that they had the effect Moore claimed.

The list began with an account of the shoot-out in which Judge Harold J. Haley died. Moore called the judge a "well respected" community leader and said his "fellow citizens were outraged and shocked" by his death.

(Miss Davis, accused of providing the guns used in the shootout, is charged with mur-

Personal Income Growth Reflects Economic Policy

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The personal income of Americans rose by only $3.25 billion in September compared to $8.5 billion the previous month, in a sharp reflection of President Nixon's wage price freeze.

Reporting today on the third economic indicator for a full month since the freeze went into effect Aug. 16 the Commerce Department said wages and salaries totaled $580.9 billion in September for a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $870.8 billion.

The seasonally adjusted increase in income for the first nine months of this year was $851.6 billion, compared to $799.3 billion during the same period of 1970.

Earlier, the Federal Reserve Board reported a modest rise in industrial production in September aftdr three consecutive months of decline. And the Labor Department reported that unemployment dropped in September to 6 per cent from 6.1 per cent in August.

A fourth key indicator of how the freeze is working —the consumer price index —is due out Friday.

Japanese Antiwar Portestors March

TOKYO (UPI)—More than 320,000 Japanese workers, students and leftists took part in 720 rallies throughout the country to mark the annual antiwar day today, the national police said.

The rallies followed by demonstration marches were generally peaceful except in parts of the capital, the radical students' major target.

Choices For Court Are Set

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The White House announced today President Nixon had made his selections for two Supreme Court vacancies and was to announce them today in a nationwide radio-television appearance.

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said the nominations for vacancies caused by the resignations of Justice Hugo L. Black, who died eight days after his retirement, and John M. Harlan, suffering from spinal cancer, would be submitted to the Senate Tuesday.

Ziegler said that in order that he not give any inadvertent hint of who the nominees would be, he was not told himself who they were prior to telling reporters of the impending statement.

An Arkansas lawyer and a California woman judge have been most frequently mentioned as possible appointees.

Some Democratic senators as well as others, including a group of Harvard law faculty members, have criticized prospective nominees who have been mentioned in public speculation. Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott said after the White House mid-day announcement:

"I would hope that would-be critics would at least withhold their criticisms until they know who the nominees are."

Ziegler refused to comment on reports that the American Bar Association's judiciary committee had declared unqualified both Mildred L. Lillie of Los Angeles and Herschel H. Friday of Little Rock, Arkansas.

They had been frequently mentioned as the leading prospects for the two seats.

The Washington Post reported that the ABA group voted 11 to 1 against Mrs. Lillie and 7 to 5 against Friday.

Theirs were among six names submitted to the ABA last week, according to reliable sources. The qualifications of the other four apparently were not immediately scruntized by the bar group.

While refusing to discuss reports on the ABA votes, Ziegler did hint that the administration was not entirely satisfied with the committee actions.

"The Senate of the United States has the responsibility under the Constitution to give its advice and consent (to court nominations)," Ziegler said.

"The Constitution does not require the consent of the ABA; their advice is welcome, of course, but they do not have a veto power."

Ziegler said Nixon conferred frequently both Wednesday night and this morning with Attorney General John N. Mitchell.

Ziegler said Nixon has not talked personally with any of the individuals who were under consideration for the court. But he said Mitchell informed the candidates of the outcome of the President's consideration.

Ziegler said, "He has not talked to any individual who is under consideration. He has not talked to any member of the Senate about the names."

Nor, Ziegler said, had Nixon discussed the matter directly with other persons, including the ABA.

Ziegler said both nominations would be sent to the Senate Tuesday when Congress reconvenes following a Veterans Day holiday weekend recess.

Asked if the President thought the nominees would be confirmed Ziegler replied, "he would not be sending the nominations to the Senate if he felt otherwise."

Since widely published reports that the administration had submitted six names to the ABA last week, officials have insisted repeatedly that this did not mean others were not under consideration. As recently as Wednesday, Zieglerleft open the possibility Nixon might name some one without seeking ABA study.

NOBEL IN LITERATURE GOES TO CHILEAN POET

Prize Winner Is Also A Marxist Politican And A Paris Diplomat

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — Pablo Neruda, Chilean poet, Marxist politician and diplomat, today won the 1971 Nobel Literature Prize, the Swedish Academy announced.

The 67-year-old poet, who serves as President Salvador Allende's ambassador to Paris, won the prize for "his poetry that with the action of an elemental force brings alive a continent's destiny and dreams."

The award is worth $90,000 this year.

Neruda told newsmen in the Chilean Embassy in Paris that "sometimes we poets wait for miracles and here it seems that one has happened."

Neruda's wife, Mathilde, was with him as well as his longtime friend and fellow poet Frenchman Louis Aragon. "I hope he (Aragonv) does not feel I stole the prize from him," Neruda joked.

Neruda said he became a Communist at the age of 23 when he was serving as a diplomat in Madrid during the Spanish Civil War.

In recent years he has been very critical of U.S. foreign policy and has criticized U.S. policy in Latin America and the U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

When the American Academy of Arts and Letters and the National Institute of Arts and Letters elected him an honorary member in 1968, Neruda refused to receive the insignia and diplomas from the U.S. ambassador in Santiago in protest against the Vietnam War.

Nerudj, who always writes his poems with pen and green ink, has been married three times.

Neruda, considered by many to be the greatest poet ever produced by the Latin American continent, had been a candidate for many years.

Arthur Lundqvist, a Swedish Marxist poet and novelist and member of the 18-member academy, has had Neruda as his candidate for a decade, academy sources said.

The Nobel Prize winner is best known for his gigantic poem "Canto General" (general song), published in 1950. The poem, which runs into several hundred pages, describes the volcanic geography and history of Latin America from ancient times up until today.

Neruda began his career as a diplomat.

He joined the Chilean Communist Party in 1945 and became the Communist presidential candidate last year before Allende formed his Popular Front, which also includes the Communists.

Neruda, a burly man with dark eyebrows, has been credited with changing the language, meter, rhythm and rhyme of Spanish poetry.

PABLO NERUDA
Nobel literature winner

His works include "Twenty Love Poems and One Song of Desperation" (Veinte Poemas de Amor y Una Cancion Desperada) in 1924, "Earthly Residence" (Tercera Residencia) in 1943, "Song of Gesture" (Cancion de Gesta) in 1961 and his "Canto General."

He has also written poetry to his revolutionary heroes such as Mao Tse-tung, Ho Chi-minh and Fidel Castro.

When he ran for the presidency, Neruda said there would be nothing wrong with a poet as president. "After all," he said, "Chairman Mao and Ho Chiminh were both poets."

Neruda won the lenin peace prize in 1953. In spite of his criticism of Stalinism and the Moscow-led invasion of Czechoslovakia in 1968, Neruda remains a firm supporter of Moscow's ideological line.

I-J Seeking Damage Suit Against ITU

The Independent-Journal sought today to file a $12 million damage suit in connection with a violent strike against the newspaper begun in January 1970 by San Francisco Typographical Union 21.

In addition to the typographical union, the suit names five other labor organizations, 28 individuals and 200 John Does.

Judge Thomas F. Keating of Marin Superior Court took under submission a request by I-J attorney Gary T. Giacomini that he be allowed to add the damage suit to a court case containing an injunction against violence. The injunction was obtained by the I-J shortly after the strike began.

Giacomini said he wanted the damage suit in the file because the older case would have precedence on court calendars and because the fact that the union and three labor leaders violated the injunction has already been established in that case.

If his request is denied, Giacomini said, he will file the damage suit as a new action.

The suit seeks $10,604 in actual damages; $653,039 for costs to the I-J for security equipment and personnel during the strike: $532,000 to compensate for business lost during the strike; $1 million in general damages, and $12 million in punitive damages.

The union withdrew its pickets last month after a National Labor Relations Board election in which I-J employees voted 35-0 to decertify the union as their bargaining agent with the newspaper.

The five other labor organizations named in the suit are accused of urging people to attend a mass demonstration

6 Die, Many Hurt In Scottish Blast

GLASGOW, Scotland (UPI)—An explosion ripped through stores in a busy shopping area today, collapsing roofs and burying customers and shop assistants under tonsof masonry and rubble.

Initial police reports said at least six persons were killed and scores were injured in the blast which devastated shops along Clarkson Toll Road in the city.

Soldiers Refuse Patrol, Then Go

FIRE BASE PACE, Vietnam (UPI)—Another group of GI's here refused to go on patrol last week—the same thing the men they were sent to replace did—until the defense commander explained why the patrol was necessary, the soldiers involved said Thursday.

The second "refusal" in a week at this artillery support base on the Cambodian frontier lasted only an hour on Oct. 12 and involved 20 members of a 28-man infantry platoon that was part of Delta Company, 1st Battalion, 1st Air Cavalry Division.

The defense commander, Maj. Joseph D. Dye of Beaverton, Ore., told UPI the refusal was now a "dead incident" and no charges would be brought.

Delta was sent to replace Bravo Company, which was pulled out after six men refused to go on patrol Oct. 9.

Men from Delta told UPI they did carry out the mission after confrontations with the platoon leader, their company commander and the base defense commander.

Members of the 2nd Squad, 3rd Platoon of Delta Company said they knew about the Bravo incident and had decided not to take unnecessary chances.

"We were told to go on patrol and we said no," Spec. 4 Ralph Newman, 22, of Hammond, Ind., said.

After the soldiers, mostly draftees, refused, Dye, the senior officer on the base that day, was summoned. He explained the mission and its function, and said he would go with them if that was what it would take to make them go out, the men said.

Dye told UPI he explained that patrols were needed to keep down Communist pressure on the artillery battery.

Dye said the patrol went out a short time later, and that Delta Company has carried out frequent patrols since that time without problems and without casualties.

"Before we come here we were told we were not going out on any offensive patrols," said Spec. 4 Dennis Van Order, 20, of Ocean City, N.J.

"We are here for the defense of the artillery," Pfc. David Scott, 19, of San Diego, Calif., said. "We're not going to take advantage of the Army, but we're going to slow them down from taking advantage of us."

"It's not that we're scared, but every one figures the war is going to be over soon and who wants to be the last one to get

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

China Talks

BUDAPEST (UPI) — A Hungarian correspondent reported from Peking today that Chinese leaders are discussing political problems — and particularly Vietnam — with presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger.

The correspondent, Dnes Baracs, said Kissinger and Premier Chou En-lai talked not only about "technical details" of President Nixon's forthcoming visit to the China mainland but also "the political questions connected with it."

The New China News Agency (NCNA) said Kissinger conferred today with Chou, Vice Chairman of the Chinese Military Commission Yeh Chienying and Cinese acting Foreign Minister Chi Peng-fei.

After the talks, Kissinger and his entourage attended a banquet given by the three Communist leaders, the NCNA said.

Ban Upheld

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A U.S. district court panel, in a split decision, has upheld as constitutional the law which banned cigarette commercials on radio and television last Jan. 2.

Judge J. Skelly Wright issued the dissenting opinion Wednesday saying the law violated the first amendment freedom of speech even though "the overwhelming scientific evidence makes plain that the Salem girl was in fact a merchant of death, that the real Marlboro country is the graveyard."

Lawyers for six radio stations which filed the suit said they would consider appealing to the Supreme Court.

Rumor Of War

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Egyptian Vice President Hussein Shafei said Wednesday that 800,000 Egyptian troops stand ready to embark on a "battle of destiny" by the end of the year to liberate Arab territories occupied by Israel.

"I cannot disclose our military plans, but I can say that Egypt is today fundamentally different from Egypt of 1967," Shafei said in an interview published by the Tehran newspaper Kayhan. Israel was a clear winner in the 1967 war.

"Our military budget has increased five-fold and our antiaircraft defense system makes sure that the Nile Delta can no longer be attacked by the enemy with impunity," he said.

Case Rested

FT. MEADE, Md. (UPI) — The Army has rested its case in the court-martial of Col. Oran K. Henderson, the highest ranking officer to be charged in connection with the My Lai massacre of 1968.

The defense is expected to begin its arguments about Nov. 4 when motions will be made to dismiss the four counts against Henderson, a former brigade commander in the American Division.

After presenting 62 witnesses in the past two months, the Army's chief prosecutor, Maj. Carroll J. Tiechenor, announced Wednesday the government's case was complete.

Spock To Get Liberty Award

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI)—Ramsey Clark, the U.S. attorney general who initiated the prosecution of Dr. Benjamin Spock for counseling draft resistance, will present the pediatrician and peace activist with a civil liberties award this month, it was announced Wednesday.

The New Jersey chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union said Spock would be one of four persons honored at its awards dinner here Oct. 30.

Spock was convicted of conspiring to counsel evasion of the draft and was sentenced in 1968 to a two-year prison term.

A year later, after Clark had left office, a federal appeals court overturned the convictions.

Bomb Does Damage To Playboy Club

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—An incendiary bomb exploded against the door of the Playboy Club in San Francisco on Wednesday but did little damage.

Police said it was made of aerosol cans and highway flares and burned a carpet outside the door.

Tax Cut Gains

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Finance Committee has agreed to go along with the House in cutting individual income taxes for 1971 — about $20 or $30 for the average family.

The committee also approved for floor action next week a provision in the House tax bill which would increase the low income allowance for 1971 from $1,050 to $1,300. The allowance — a deduction allowed poverty level families — is designed to make certain that families living in poverty need not pay federal income tax.

The tax cut and the low income provision, in a move to speed up their passage, were removed Wednesday from a House — passed bill extending for another year permission for service men to send home duty free gifts.

Prayer Showdown

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Opponents of a proposed constitutional amendment to put prayer back in the schools, beaten on their first test in the House and for a time about to surrender, now believe they have a fair chance to beat it.

"We are encouraged," said Rep. Fred Schwengel, R-Iowa, a devout Baptist who joins many of his denomination's top leaders in opposing the amendment. "People are beginning to have second thoughts. I can see now 100 votes against the amendment. We want 150."

After a long campaign by pro-prayer forces, 218 members — a majority of the House membership — recently signed a petition discharging the amendment from the Judiciary Committee and forcing it to the floor of the House. It comes up for a vote Nov. 8.

Killer Craft

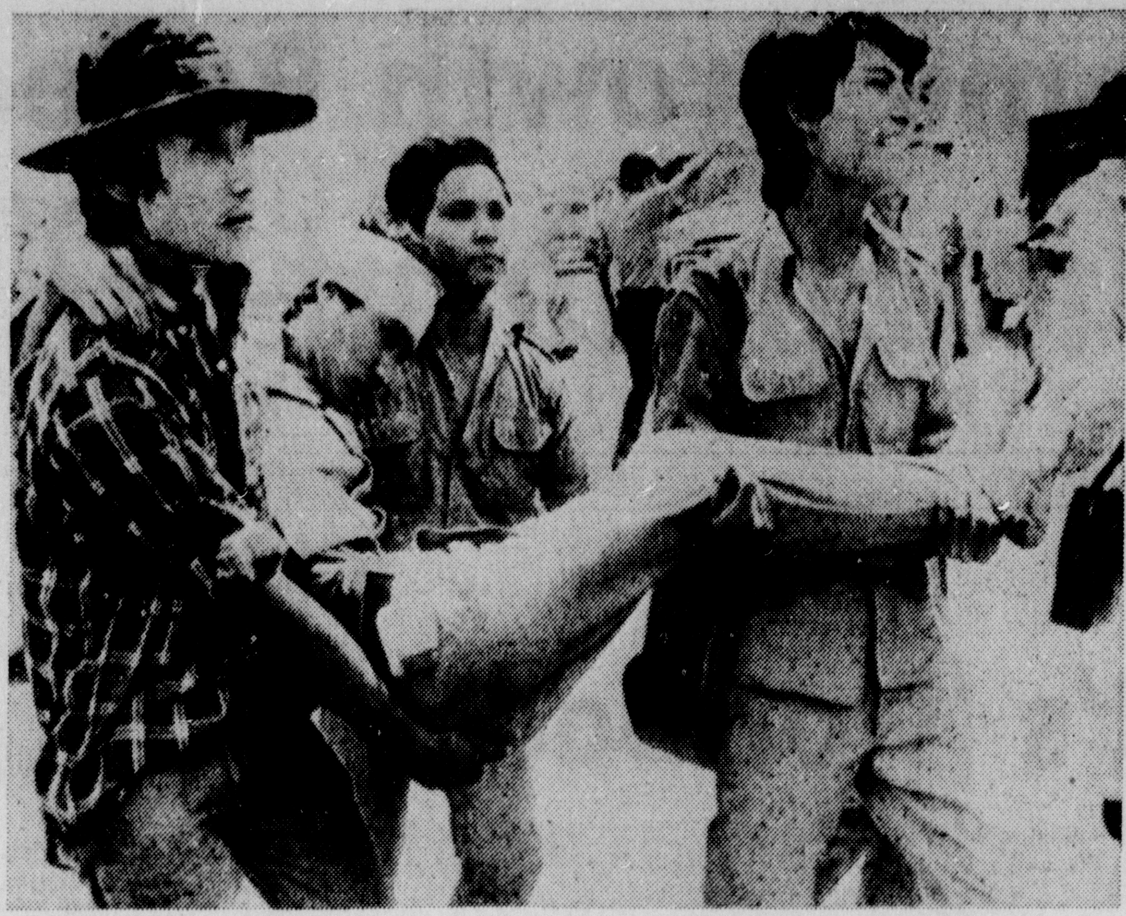
LONDON (UPI) — Soviet scientists for more than three years have been testing an earth satellite which stalks other spacecraft and destroys them, "Jane's All The World's Aircraft" said today.

In its latest edition, the authoritative manual on world aircraft listed a series of launchings of Soviet spacecraft and satellites, calling some of the flights "orbital intercept tests."

John W. R. Taylor, Jane's editor, said early launches in the interceptor program included Cosmos 249 and 252 in mid-1968.

He said other interceptors were Cosmos 374 and 375. Cosmos 397, launched Feb. 25 this year, passed near Cosmos 394 launched 16 days earlier and "was subsequently destroyed," Taylor said.

Cosmos 400, launched March 19, was "intercepted" by Cosmos 404 on April 3, the day it was launched, the editor said.



SCUFFLE AFTERMATH — A Vietnamese student, injured during a bloody scuffle in Saigon yesterday, is carried back to Manh University by friends. Nine students were hospitalized after fighting erupted between about 200 trainees at the Quang Trung Military training camp and their South Vietnamese Army drill instructors.

Police Foil Protest By Saigon Students

SAIGON (UPI) — Police thwarted an attempt by high school students to set fire to American automobiles today in what protest leaders said was a demonstration against the forthcoming inauguration of President Nguyen Van Thieu.

The demonstration failed not only because police moved in quickly but because plastic bags broke open, spilling the gasoline with which the students planned to ignite the cars.

It was the fourth consecutive day of anti-Thieu and anti-American protests. Police arrested two students and although newsmen said the air was thick with tear gas, police denied using gas.

As the students approached, a number of American cars were driven away as a precaution against the threatened firebombings.

In battlefront action, more than 2,500 South Vietnamese troops continued a sweep of a Cambodian rubber plantation without encountering resistance but further south inside South Vietnam two paratroop companies clashed with North Vietnamese units on Wednesday.

Four North Vietnamese and three ARVN troops were killed in the fighting four miles south of U.S. Fire Base Pace, astride the Cambodian border.

American GIs at Pace told UPI correspondent Donald A. Davis today that troops ordered to replace other Americans who nearly two weeks ago refused to go on a patrol also declined to go into battle until their commander lectured them on why the mission was necessary.

The GIs said the second refusal to fight lasted only an hour at Pace. It involved 20 members of Delta Company of the 1st Battalion of the 1st Air Cavalry Division. Delta was sent in to replace Bravo Company, which was withdrawn after six of its GIs refused to go on patrol Oct. 9.

There were two ways among the early Nebraska Indians by which a man could gain esteem. One was success in war or on the hunt; the other was by giving away his possessions.

Young Vandals Damage Seven Buses In City

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The Municipal Railway reported Wednesday seven of its buses were heavily damaged in an outbreak of juvenile vandalism this week.

Officials said groups of youths swung from upright poles inside the buses, smashed windows with their heels, then ripped out seats and threw them to the street.

A spokesman said in each case the bus drivers followed orders to stop and radio for help, but the vandals fled the scene before police arrived.

"The drivers have been instructed not to try to be heroes," the spokesman said. "Their main concern is the safety of the other passengers."

As part of an effort to combat vandalism, two-man teams will go to junior high schools next week to talk to students about vandalism.

Employee Art On Display

Macrames, paintings, a wind chime, needlework, woodcarvings photography and ink sketches, created by the San Rafael city employees and their relatives, are being displayed through tomorrow in city hall.

Most of the attention at the display's opening yesterday centered around an ink drawing entitled "Life" by Barbara Russell, daughter of Joan Hendrickson of the city manager's office, and a college, entitled "Venus and Vincent" by Rita Bernardi, wife of David Barnardi in public works.

"Life" first place winner in the ink drawing category, depicts a man hugging a tree resembling a woman.

"Venus and Vincent," first in the craft-collage category, is a drawing that when looked at from the right portrays Venus and from the left Vincent Van Gogh.

Other winners include:

Crafts — A wind chime by Howard Chucke in the park department.

Floral Art — Contrived flowers by Regina Buchanan in the park department.

Needlework — A flower-shaped table center by Narjorio Alford, mother of Christine Rossi in the park department.

U.S. Envoy Says Reds' Ultimatums Hurting Talks

PARIS (UPI)—The Vietnam peace talks lasted two hours and 45 minutes today, one of the shortest sessions since the stalemated talks began 2 1-2 years ago. And in a very brief statement the U.S. negotiator said there would be no progress unless the Communists reassess their stand.

U.S. Ambassador William J. Porter told North Vietnam and the Viet Cong they would get nowhere with their "ultimatums" and "preconditions".

"As matters stand, you apparently are not even authorized to explain and clarify your own proposals," Porter told the Communists at today's 133rd session.

"No progress is possible here if you continue to deliver ultimatums, to pose preconditions to negotiations and to insist that your version of the conflict should be adopted as the sole basis for setllement."

South Vietnamese Ambassador Pham Dang Lam joined in with a warning that the Vietnamese Communists through their refusal to negotiate in Paris would be universally condemned for keeping the war alive.

Today the Communists accused the Nixon administration of planning new military ventures in Indochina and said President Nixon's withdrawal promises were "sheer fallacy." were "sheer fallacy.

The charge was made by deputy Hanoi delegate Nguyen Minh Vy, who also warned — possibly with an eye toward Peking and Moscow —that the war can be settled only if the United States accepts the Vietnamese Communists' latest negotiating offers.

He told the conference that "the Vietnamese and other Indochinese peoples will never tolerate the presence of" residual armed forces, which President Nixon intends to maintain in the area.

Philippines Support Two-Chinas

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—Foreign Minister Carlos P. Romulo of the Philippines said today expulsion of Nationalist China would cause "substantial erosion of confidence" in the United Nations.

In addition, Romulo said expulsion of Chiang Kai-shek's government would have "unforeseeable and dangerous consequences in the hopeful, buc delicate" understanding developing in the Far East.

Romulo is a cosponsor of the U.S. move to save an assembly seat for Nationalist China while also seating the Chinese Communists in both the assembly and the Security Council.

He spoke as U.S. Ambassador George Bush, while scenting victory at the halfway mark in the assembly's great China debate, warned that it is not "all wrapped up and tied with a pretty pink ribbon."

Assembly President Adam Malik of Indonesia, with 37 speakers still to be heard, hoped to end the debate by Friday night and vote Monday or Tuesday.

Bush, asked about corridor reports that the United States had lined up enough solid votes for the retention of Nationalist China in the Assembly and that the debate now was academic, told UPI:

"I wouldn't want to go that far. Certainly I am very much encouraged. But I wouldn't say it's all wrapped up and tied with with a pretty pink ribbon. There is still a hard fight ahead of us."

Dance Programs Top The List

Marin Concert Association volunteer workers have indicated in a poll that dance groups are their first preference for programs in this year's concert series at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building.

The first production in the series, Nov. 22, will feature such a group — Frula, from Yogoslavia.

Other preferences indicated by the volunteers in order of choice were: piano soloists, vocal groups, chamber orchestra, symphony orchestra, violin and piano duos and vocal soloists, with sopranos, mezzos, tenors and baritones ranking equally.

Relax. New gas ovens clean themselves.
Not only do new gas ovens clean themselves, but smokeless gas broiling keeps your kitchen clean. You broil with the oven door closed and the flame consumes the smoke.
You can also relax with automatic programmed cooking. With this worksaving feature you pre-set the oven. H. RAP BROWN MYSTERY DEEPENS

Although police in New York claim they have in custody H. Rap Brown, who had been on the FBI's most wanted list, the man says he is not Brown but Roy Williams. A state supreme court justice went to a New York hospital room yesterday and arraigned the man — shown at left in a drawing by Richard Tomlinson of WNEW-TV, New York — on charges of attempted murder, robbery and illegal weapons possession. The man, wounded in a bar holdup Saturday, was identified as Brown by police through his fingerprints. At right is a 1968 photo of Brown. (UPI Telephoto)

Berkeley Taxes Remain Highest Of Large Cities

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Berkeley continues to have the highest property tax rate among California's 12 largest cities, a citizens' group reported Wednesday.

Figures from the Governmental Research Bureau put the university city's rate at $16.058 per $100 of assessed valuation.

Others: Sacramento $14.105, Fresno $13,609, Pasadena $13.37. Oakland $13,495, Los Angeles $13.1562. San Francisco $12.73. Long Beach $12.2352. San Jose $11.909, Glendale $10.9222. San Diego $10.179, Santa Ana $10.0843.

Rates can vary in some parts of some cities because of special district taxes.

Center Design Plan Approved

Designs for a community center were approved last night by directors of the Muir Beach Community Services District, chairman Bruce E. Harlow reported.

Harlow said the center, designed by San Francisco architect Tom Murphy, a Muir Beach resident. will include facilities for meetings, dinners and special events.

The structure will be built by members of the community, he said. adding that the district will purchase some materials and seek donations of others. Harlow said the district hopes to have a foundation poured before winter rains begin.

The center has been in the planning stages for about four months.

In other business, he said the board also voted to hire a full-time manager for the district.

Equipment Taken From Car

Camera equipment valued at about $500 was stolen yesterday from the auto of a San Rafael police sergeant, Corte Madera police said today.

Officers said Sft. Charles Steward Brobeck told them he had left his car for only minutes to pay a bill at a Corte Madera Shopping Center store.

When he returned at about 12:30 p.m. he discovered a wing window forced open and the camera equipment missing.

'Free Youth' Newspaper Published

The first issue of "Free Youth," a newspaper sponsored by the Marin County Youth Commission. was distributed at various high school campuses in Marin today.

The newspaper is a mimeographed single sheet printed on both sides.

The paper's statement of purpose says in part:

" 'Free Youth' has been created because most kids really get screwed over, if they get pregnant, ripped off, bored. strung out on drugs, in need of draft counseling etc., etc. It was also felt that kids needed a countywide outlet into which they could put their own ideas, uncensored on any subject. This paper is dedicated to young people and it should become their organizational and informational tool . . ."

The first issue includes articles on the teen clinic. which provides birth control information and services; pregnancy testing and counseling service: the names and telephone numbers where youth can get draft counseling; Economic Opportunity Council programs; YMCA programs; and youth counseling services such as Reach Out and a clearinghouse for youth.

Paul M. Cohen, chairman of the youth commission, said all articles should be submitted to the youth commission office in Room 163 of the Marin Hall of Justice.

Shots Fired Into Soviet Mission

NEW YORK (UPI)—Four shots were fired through a window of the Soviet Mission to the United Nations Wednesday night. The bullets slammed into the wall of a room where four children reportedly were sleeping.

Police said the shots were fired from a 14th floor parapet of Hunter College. 700 feet from the 11th floor window at the mission building on east 67th st. They recovered a high-powered Remington .243-caliber semi-automatic rifle from a 15th floor airshaft in the college building.

Four spent shells were found on the parapet and a black cello case also was found in the college building. Police said the cello case apparently had been used to smuggle the rifle into the building, where a music class was in progress at the time the shots were fired.

Newman and other members of Delta Company are being considered for decorations for heroism on Oct. 11, the day before the "refusal" incident.

Just as the company arrived at Pace on Chinook helicopters, an escort gunship was shot down. It crashed in the woods east of the base.

Several of the men dropped their packs in their helicopter as it landed and leaped to the ground to try to rescue the gunship crewmen. Newman and an unarmed medic, E4 Greg A. Cowles, 20, of Tucson, Ariz., dashed toward the burning gunship.

Other members of the company reinforced them while others set up a defensive postion as men from medical evacauation helicopters pulled the wounded crewmen to safety.

Altercation In Sausalito Bar Brings Arrest

A 27-year-old Mill Valley man was booked into Marin County Jail yesterday on suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon after he allegedly pulled a gun on a Sausalito man in Rico's Restaurant in Sausalito.

Police officers said they were called to the bar of the restaurant, at 1219 Bridgeway, at 9:55 p.m. on a complaint that a patron was brandishing a gun. Witnesses told police that Louis Ismael Alderete. of 110 Reed Street, had pulled a gun and threatened Paul O'Callaghan. 33. of 221 Richardson Street after a verbal altercation at the bar. According to witnesses, Alderete had pushed the weapon against the man's abdomen.

Alderete, who was still in the bar, was arrested by police who said he had thrown the gun under a table. According to officers, the gun was unloaded when they found it. They said O'Callaghan had left Rico's shortly after the incident, without difficulty.

Alderete was held in lieu of $1,000 bail to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Marinite Picked To Lead Panel

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Hans Schiller of Mill Valley has been named vice chairman for Northern California of the state Democratic Commission on Platform and Policy.

The membership also includes Elizabeth Gatov of Kentfield.

The commission was formed by the state central committee to develop issues for the 1972 national campaign. It was asked to write a state platform by next March for submission to the National Convention Platform Committee.

Contract Awarded For Sewer Work

Directors of the Richardson Bay Sanitary District have awarded a contract for construction of the district's Bel-Aire interceptor sewer to the Everson Construction Co. secretary Beverly Wheeler reported.

The firm's low bid, accepted at the board's Tuesday meeting, was $48,292, Mrs. Wheeler said.

Three Teens Arrested In Pot Probe

Three Novato teen-agers were arrested today on suspicion of possession of marijuana, possession of marijuana for sale and petty theft, Novato police reported.

Robert Daniel Percy, 18, of 1344 Cambridge Street; Eric Winfield Alford, 18, of 1314 Leafwood Drive, Apt. 4, and Paul Joseph Clausen, 19, of 1703 Center Road were booked into Marin County Jail with bail not set. They were scheduled to appear this afternoon in Marin Municipal Court.

A patrolman said the three tried to pry open the oil rack at Bill's San Marin Texaco at 200 San Marin Drive about 1:10 a.m. The three sped away in a 1962 model car upon noticing police approach and were caught at Novato Boulevard and Tamalpais Avenue by police.

In the car, police found 19 quart cans of oil and a 15-ounce bag of green vegetable matter in the trunk. They also fund a 1.5 ounce bag of similar material inside the car, according to reports.

After the three were booked into Marin County Jail, police found a one-ounce packet of green vegetable matter left in the patrol car.

Officer Says Policemen Are Taking Payoffs

NEW YORK (UPI)—A policeman who admitted taking payoffs until he became an undercover agent told the Knapp Commission Wednesday that plainclothesmen in New York City receive from $400 to $1,500 a month in illicit money.

The figures cited by patrolman William Phillips could amount to as much as $4 million a year for the plainclotes force.

Police Commissioner Patrick V. Murphy, in his first news conference since the commission began public hearings Monday, said the charges were "absurd" and called Phillips a "rogue cop — a corrupt policeman, a man on the hook squirming to get the best possible deal for himself."

Embezzlement Booking Made

A 22-year-old Richmond man was brought to Marin County Jail yesterday after being arrested in Oakland on a Marin warrant, charging him with embezzlement.

Harold Richmond was held at the jail in lieu of $3.750 bail to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

He was arrested yesterday by Oakland police on a Marin warrant charging he took a 1967 Volkswagen camper for a test drive from Mill Valley Volkswagen on Jan. 18, 1970, and never returned.

Details of the arrest in Oakland were not available today.

der, kidnapping and conspiracy.)

Moore went on to chronicle Miss Davis's arrest in New York as well as the Oct. 8, 1970, bombing of a courtroom at the Hall of Justice. He noted the increased security at the Civic Center since Miss Davis's arrest, reading aloud an article in the Independent-Journal describing changes there since the shoot-out.

Moore also quoted from newspaper articles discussing costs of the case in an effort to show that Marin residents "feel doubly abused having witnessed the debacle of Aug. 7 in their own Civic Center and now being required to bear the costs of the trial."

Moore mentioned the Aug. 21 violence at San Quentin in which George Jackson died, saying the Soledad Brother had been widely linked in the press with Miss Davis.

The events since Aug. 7. 1970, the widespread publicity, the costs and the fact that Miss Davis is a Communist and a "militant fighter for her people" make for a climate of opinion unfavorable to her in Marin. Moore said.

Election Slated For Chamber

The Corte Madera Chamber of Commerce yesterday set Nov. 17 at 8 a.m. at the Edgewater Inn for election of new officers.

Nominated yesterday for board offices were: Janice Valk of Pingree and Co. Realtors. president; G. M. Thomason of Bank of America. vice president; Robert F. Vogel of Apothecary-Corte Madera, second vice president: B. A. Sill of Crocker Bank. treasurer: and Barbara Packard. chamber manager, secretary.

The chamber also nominated 18 other members to serve on the board of directors next year.

According to Mrs. Packard. the chamber also agreed to take an active part in citizen studies to get greater fire protection in the town.

Bill To Require Labeling Eyed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Richard S. Schweiker, R-Pa. planned to introduce a bill today to require labeling of nutritional value on all food commodities.

Food industry leaders have favored such labeling on a voluntary basis. but want the government to set the standards.

Schweiker's bill would make it mandatory.

"Without nutritional labeling, very few homemakers would know that one wedge of cheese pizza contains as much protein as an egg and far less calories than a quarter-pound of hamburger." Schweiker said.

Loudest Prolonged Sound Made By Moon Rocket

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—The launch of a Saturn 5 moon rocket produces the loudest prolonged sound ever created by man.

The five engines on the rocket's first stage generate a sound level of 174 decibels 30 feet away when they reach full thrust about two seconds before liftoff, according to a space agency report.

Wilson R. Timmons, chief of the test analysis section at the Kennedy Space Center, said the only man made sounds louder than the Saturn 5 blastoff come from nuclear explosions and they are not sustained like the roar of the Saturn.

He said sound waves from the Saturn would cause enough physical damage to kill a man standing at the foot of the towering rocket, discounting the effects of the blast itself and the tremendous heat generated by the engines.

A human might withstand the sound wave level of the Saturn blastoff if it were only a single, split-second blast. A 12-gauge shotgun, for example, produces 165 decibels when fired.

Timmons said a more difficult sound for a human to withstand at close range without protection might be that of a powerful jet aircraft running at full power. Jets can produce up to 160 decibels on takeoff.

Sound from a pneumatic hammer reaches the 125 decibel level and a loud automobile horn might produce 115 decibels a yard away.

There is a buffer zone around the Saturn launch pad and the persons closest to the pad without protection are located at a press observation area 3.2 miles away. The average noise level there during a launch is 124 decibels.

From that site, the Saturn's rumbling roar sounds like prolonged thunder. The noise begins when the engines are ignited 8.9 seconds before liftoff and it tapers off after the rocket clears its umbilical tower, 12 seconds after liftoff.

Timmons reported that the Saturn 5 causes a tremendous variation in atmospheric pressure at the launch site—more than one pound per square inch. This is about the same as the change noted during the passage of a hurricane. The difference is that the storm pressure changes slowly while the blastoff pressure produces an immediate change that causes a vibrating effect in the atmosphere and this creates sound.

The noise decreases as distance increases and field stations showed that a Saturn 5 launch subjects residents of Titusville, 12 miles away, to about 113 decibels. Reading of 108 decibels have been recorded at Cape Canaveral beach 15 miles from the pad and a 105 decibel level has been recorded in Cocoa Beach, 19 miles away.

The sound waves produced by Saturn 5 launchings also have been recorded at the Lamont-Doherty Geological Observatory at Palisades, N.Y., 900 miles away. The sound waves recorded there were inaudible.

Dr. William Donn, a senior researcher at the observatory, said only two natural sounds recorded exceeded the intensity of the Saturn launch—the 1883 eruption of a volcano in the East Indies and the fall of the great Siberian meteorite in 1908.

Waterways Watchdog Is Approved

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON — The House has passed legislation giving the Coast Guard full authority over ship traffic on congested waterways just as federal control towers direct airplane traffic in and out of airports.

The legislation, which now goes to the Senate, is a result of the Jan. 18 collision of two oil tankers under the fog-shrouded Golden Gate Bridge.

The resulting oil spill which damaged beaches and wildlife drew strong pressure from conservation groups for laws to prevent tanker collisions.

Congressional hearings in San Francisco in February brought out that although Coast Guard radio and radar stations around the bay saw the collision coming, it lacked the authority and technical ability to prevent it.

A spokesman for the Coast Guard said traffic control systems would go into effect step by step. Ships will be required to install special radio equipment to communicate with Coast Guard controllers.

The law, for which violation is subject to fines up to $10,000 and 10 years in prison, also gives the Coast Guard authority to establish procedures for the loading, shipping and unloading of explosives and other dangerous substances. A Coast Guard spokesman said this would include oil.

Among the sponsors of the legislation is Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-First District, a ranking member of the House Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee.

Nixon Considering Middle East Visit?

JERUSALEM (UPI)——President Nixon is considering visiting the Middle East next year, the Jerusalem Post said today.

The English language newspaper said in a front page report the Middle East visit is actively under study by a group of White House experts.

Behind The Sports Scene

As with all photographic subjects, what separates the striking from the ordinary in sports pictures is a different point of view, a new way of seeing.

If you want to catch the feeling of a football game in a fresh way, look for human interest. Chances are the usual shots of cheerleaders leaping into the air, runners running, lines piling up in a tangle of arms and legs, offer little chance for new angles.

So consider the pictures that haven't been taken over and over. Examples . . . The tension of waiting in the locker room before the game . . . . That shocked moment of suspense when a player does not rise from the pile. The slumped fatigue of the big tackle on the bench waiting to go back in. The coach, pacing before the bench, glaring out at the field. Or even spend a game watching the officials perform on your film.

You don't have to have color for great impact in sports. Black and white film has a strong journalistic feeling. Either way, take plenty of film to the game, and see us for your supplies, as well as expert developing and printing. Helping you get the best from your picture is our business.

More War I Medals For Service In Italy

Two other Marin County men have been awarded veterans' medals by the Italian government for service to their country during World War I.

The men, Luigi Maggiora of Sausalito and Steve Franzini of San Rafael, were awarded the 50th Anniversary victory medal and the Cross of the Cavaliere Di Vittorio Veneto during simple ceremonies at the Italian Consulate in San Francisco.

Dominic George Vescovi of San Rafael also received the medals. (A story of that award appeared in the Independent-Journal Oct. 12)

A spokesman for the consulate said yesterday between 800 and 1,000 such awards have been given to Bay Area residents in recent months.

Maggiora, 78, of 519 Spring Street, served during the war in a special unit which was a cross between federal police and militia. He entered the service in 1915, receiving a slight wound in 1917.

He moved to the United States in 1920, and has lived in Sausalito for 48 years.

While the awards entitle him to a pension, Maggiora, a retired construction worker, said he needs no support from the Italian government.

Franzini, also 78, of 100 Clark Street, entered the Italian Army in 1913 and served six years.

During the war, he was a member of the Italian Alpine Corps which distinguished itself in fighting in the mountains between Italy and Austria.

He was on the front lines for 26 months and suffered two wounds, the last hospitalizing him for 14 months.

Born in Northern Italy, he came to this country in 1920 and worked with the Marin Municipal Water District after moving to Marin in 1927.

He applied for his medals three years ago when they were first authorized by the government but only received them last month.

The delay was caused by a shortage of the decorations and lengthy records checks by the military.

Tunney Sees Berryessa As A Nation Rec Area

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON — California Sen. John V. Tunney has recommended that Lake Berryessa be designated a National Recreation Area, a move that would take development of the lake away from Napa County.

Tunney said he will introduce legislation within two weeks to give the Department of the Interior full control over development.

However, an aide to the Democratic Senator said it is not likely that the bill could be passed before the current session of Congress adjourns.

Therefore, Tunney may request Interior Secretary Rogers Morton to take certain steps to protect the lake until legislation can be enacted, the aide said. He declined, however, to say what the steps might be.

The National Park Service, an agency within the Interior Department, previously had urged making Lake Berryessa a National Recreation Area.

Yugoslavia Gets Two More Does

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Agricuture Department and the state of Maryland have shipped two young white-tailed does to Yugoslavia as part of a move to develop deer herds on public lands in that nation.

The does will join two white-tailed bucks and two other does shipped to Yugoslavia last year by the federal government and the commonwealth of Virginia.

CASA PANEL

Marin Housing Needs Debated

By JEFF GREER

Marin's planning director and an attorney who has represented those resisting special developments for the poor or the elderly disagreed yesterday as to whether there is a need for low-income housing in Marin.

Werner Von Gundell, head of the planning department envisioned any failure to scatter such housing in the community as leading inevitably to a uniformity of population, which he called "deadly."

Attorney Joseph E. Sheeks, taking another tack at a luncheon meeting of the Citizens for Adequate Shelter (CASA) in the Depot in San Rafael, said there was plenty such low-income housing scattered about the Bay Area and hence no need to produce it locally.

"A lot of people want to live in Marin, but do they need to?" Sheeks asked. "Are we obligated to honor their wants or their needs?"

He cited surveys by the Association of Bay Area Governments which, he said, indicated a surplus of private and public low-rent housing is available in the Bay Area, if not in Marin. "I'm not sure this (provision of low-cost housing) should be done on a county-by-county basis," said the former Mill Valley city councilman and former Golden Gate Bridge District director.

He said that neighbors cannot help but fear the "impact" of low or moderate-income housing built in any residential area, in terms of lowered property values, increased traffic, more children and other problems.

Sheeks responded to a Novato woman's claim that there are rental units in any neighborhood with a declaration that no matter what rules or contracts are imposed on low-rent housing, there is no guarantee it will be kept up to neighborhood standards.

"By and large, Marin County residents of single-family neighborhood have an out-and-out antagonism to apartments," Sheeks declared. "Their emotional outpouring is hard to describe unless you've been there," said the attorney, who recently represented neighbors in a battle against more than 100 apartments for senior citizens on Laurel Grove Avenue in Kentfield.

Sheeks said he and his wife had decided to sell their own Tiburon Peninsula home, perhaps to move outside the county. He said many Marinites seem to favor a mixture of housing classes justified by desire to "promote social interaction, whatever that is. Are we feeling guilty because we live in Marin County?"

Von Gundell stressed that low-income housing was needed in Marin. Between 1960 and 1970, the number of households living on an income of less than $300 a month increased to 15 per cent of the total, he said.

He admitted that established neighborhoods fear low-income housing and listed several reasons: Crime, the risk of overcrowding, race and poverty, "to which we attach stigma."

He said Marin's relatively short experience with low-rent housing tends to prove that "where there is no panic" in the neighborhood, "property values do not decline."

The planning director particularly urged mixing housing for the elderly among other neighbors because "the deadliest thing in the world is to get into a community all the same age."

Sheeks declared that "by and large, if properly educated, the people in Marin are as generous and as willing to accept different neighbors as anywhere in the country."

Sheeks and Von Gundell agreed that key to achieving a distribution of low-income housing among established neighborhoods was "education — consistent and very patient" by groups such as CASA.

"It's the unfamiliar, the strange which causes most of the problems in these situations," Sheeks added.

Christmas Mailing Tips Come Again

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. postal service may be new, but it trotted out an old problem today —Christmas mail.

The service urged that parcels to distant states be mailed by Dec. 1 —Dec. 10 for nearby areas —and cards be mailed by Dec. 15. Airmail parcels should be sent by Dec. 15 and air mail cards by Dec. 22.

A Bookmaking Operation Hit

OAKLAND (UPI) — Local, county and state authorities said Wednesday they had smashed a $3,000-a-day bookmaking operation in seven East Bay cities and arrested 23 persons.

A series of coordinated raids, on warrants issued in Contra Costa and Alameda Counties, were aimed principally at bars where bartenders were taking bets, according to Contra Costa County District Attorney William A. O'Malley.

Arrests were made in Albany, El Cerrito, Berkeley, Richmond, Pinole, San Leandro and San Pablo, O'Malley said. Most of the suspects were charged with bookmaking although seven also were accused of conspiracy.

LBJ Reviews Struggle On Vote Rights

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Former President Lyndon B. Johnson says the "critical turning point" in the Negroes' struggle for voting rights came in 1965 when Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama asked for federal troops to protect Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.'s marchers.

Johnson said Wallace flew to Washington from Montgomery, Ala., to ask the President to federalize the Alabama National Guard because the state did not have the funds to pay for protection of the marchers from Selma-to-Montgomery.

"The meeting with Wallace proved to be the critical turning point in the voting rights struggle." Johnson wrote in his forthcoming book "The Vantage Point: Perspectives of the Presidency 1963-1969." Excerpts were published today in The Washington Post.

"So the troops went in after all. They went in by order of the President, because the governor said Alabama couldn't afford them financially. But they were not intruders forcing their way in; they were citizens of Alabama. That made all the difference in the world."

Johnson said the most disturbing thing about the April, 1968 riots "was the fact that so many of us almost instinctively expected them to happen as soon as the news of Dr. King's death was made known. Were we becoming conditioned to the violence? That prospect disturbed me far more than the initial shock of Watts or Detroit."

Johnson revealed that he first became sensitive to discrimination against Negroes when he was a U.S. senator from Texas.

Water Treatment

NEW YORK (UPI)—Chemical industry sales to the water treatment sector of the environmental market will reach $495 million by 1975, up from $320 million in 1970, according to a study of chemical companies by the research and management consulting firm of Arthur D. Little.

Criticism Follows Land Deannexation

The Larkspur City Council last night released a parcel of land, provoking accusations of piecemeal giving away of revenue-producing property and setting an unhealthy precedent.

The deannexation of the 63,518 square-foot John Oglesby property on Lucky Street came at a joint meeting of the council and the planning commission. Protests came from Planning Commissioner Leonard S. Rubin and his wife. The Rubin home at 164 Riviera Circle is opposite the property.

The council and commission were meeting to iron out matters of mutual concern and discuss ways to pep up their efficiency.

The council was prepared to vote on the land transfer after 15 minutes of discussion but protests from the Rubins stretched the discussion another half hour.

Rubin complained first about the tax loss. "Here we are giving away future tax dollars to the town of Corte Madera."

His wife agreed saying she didn't want her taxes raised to help Corte Madera.

Mrs. Rubin charged realtor Frank H. Deimel, Oglesby's representative, with preferring Corte Madera over Larkspur because of the former's "lax supervision." She did not explain the accusation.

Rubin said he was fearful that this might be the first in a series of deannexations for Larkspur.

"Isn't this an opening wedge so that when other property presents itself for development it will logically be annexed to Corte Madera?" he asked.

Councilmen repeatedly reminded the couple that the parcel — which is surrounded by county owned land —already receives essential services (sewer service, for example) from Corte Madera.

Having ended their one-item agenda, the council began a 90-minute "letting our hair down" session with the commission.

Commissioner Otto Hoefler, hospitalized at Marin General, sent a complaint via Mayor Earl J. O'Grady that he felt planning commission meetings were too long "because of nit-picking by commissioners." Commission Chairman Robert H. Lee agreed and said the commission would have to seek ways to tighten up presentations made before the group and discussions afterwards.

"We've had ten-minute presentations that stretched into an hour and a half," he said.

Councilman Neil Brixon suggested that both the council and the commission set stringent time limits. "When you're arguing first amendment rights before the Supreme Court you only get 15 minutes to a half hour," he said. He added that Larkspur could surely be as rigid.

The council was told by Lee that the city's Architectural Review Commission had helped to remove the bottleneck from the planning commission's workload.

Foreign Owned

MANILA (UPI)—Of the top 200 corporations in the Philippines, 67 are foreign-owned or controlled, according to a business survey by the Manila Chronicle. Total annual sales of these companies reach more than 6 billion pesos ($1 billion).

Leave Granted Ailing Officer

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The city's retirement board granted a year's paid disability leave Wednesday to a policeman whose psychiatrist said he was suffering from "oliceman's syndrome."

Dr. Martin G. Blinder said patrolman William L. Owens, 30, "complains of unaccustomed and irrational anxiety associated with any aspect of police work."

Owens has been on the force six years, almost three of them as an undercover narcotics agent.

Reforming Divorce Law Is Defeated

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI)—The Pennsylvania House of Delegates Wednesday defeated 112-75 the first proposal to reform the state's divorce laws to reach the House floor in 50 years.

The bill would have added consentual separation for one year as a new ground for divorce.

Does the fact that we're guaranteed twice as long, mean we're twice as good?

We can't prove it, but one thing's sure: We're twice as confident.

When you buy a new car from Volkswagen, you get a new car warranty for 24 months or 24,000 miles, whichever comes first.*

When you buy a new car from any other known company in the world (unless you're interested in a Rolls-Royce), you receive a warranty for only 12 months or 12,000 miles.

You see, we're the only ones who've stuck with one car model for 24 years. (A gutsy decision when you think we only sold 2 in 1949.)

But thanks to that one decision, we've had a chance to make over 2,200 improvements. (29 improvements on our 1972 model alone.)

And once a VW leaves the factory, we still don't stop caring.

For only an authorized VW dealer offers VW Diagnosis. A series of 4 free checkups with special diagnostic equipment so advanced, it can tell you'll have a car problem before it becomes a big problem.

And if the problem is found (and covered) during the warranty period, we'll solve it for you free of charge.

Even when it comes time to sell, we still won't let you down.

For over the years, two cars have consistently retained more of their original value than others: An old Volkswagen. And an old Cadillac.

Finally, consider price:

We're not the lowest-priced economy car you can buy. But once you thoroughly check into what you get for what you pay, you'll find very few car companies who, in reality, end up with their prices lower.

And none who start out with their standards higher.

*If an owner maintains and services his vehicle in accordance with the Volkswagen maintenance schedule any factory part found to be defective in material or workmanship within 24 months or 24,000 miles, whichever comes first, will be repaired or replaced by any U.S. or Canadian Volkswagen Dealer. And this will be done free of charge.

Inmates Granted Session

A Marin Superior Court judge yesterday granted a request by six San Quentin inmates charged in connection with the Aug. 21 violence at the prison for a conference among themselves to be attended by four attorneys as well.

The conference had been requested by the convicts during a court session last Friday.

Judge E. Warren McGuire ordered that the conference be allowed from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. Wednesday at the prison.

The attorneys are Charles Garry, John Thorne, Richard Silver and G. Douglas Vaughn.

McGuire also ordered that the attorneys may inspect the transcript of the grand jury proceedings in which the inmates were indicted.

The transcript has been sealed on McGuire's order at least until 10 days after attorneys for the inmates have appeared in court. None of the inmates has yet obtained an attorney, and McGuire warned the four that they may not publicly disclose the contents of the grand jury transcript.

On Monday, McGuire denied a request by John Larry Spain, one of the accused inmates, that Garry be appointed to represent him. Garry is representing Black Panther Party leader Huey Newton in an Oakland manslaughter trial.

John Thorne represented inmate George Jackson in another case until Jackson's death in the Aug. 21 San Quentin uprising in which two other convicts and three prison guards were also killed.

Vaughn and Silver represent two other of the accused inmates, Louis N. Talamantez and Fleeta Drumgo, in other cases.

Spain, Talamantez and Drumgo, as well as Hugo A. Pinell, David Johnson and Willie Tate, are charged, along with missing East Bay attorney Stephen M. Bingham, with murder, conspiracy and assault in connection with the prison violence.

Marnell Denies Anarchist Label

Dennis Marnell, former Corte Madera resident charged with assault with intent to murder an undercover agent in Fort Worth, Tex., said yesterday he is no longer a member of the White Panther Party.

Marnell also said he now lives in San Geronimo and that an Independent-Journal story identifying him as a "self-proclaimed anarchist" was inaccurate.

He said that he once had "anarchist leanings" but that he is a Communist, not an anarchist.

Marnell is hospitalized in San Francisco where he is undergoing evaluation and treatment of wounds suffered in Vietnam.

He had been due to go to trial in Texas on the assault charge, as well as one of illegally possessing a pistol earlier this month.

Officials Debate Court Attitudes

By WAT TAKESHITA

Two judges and several other public officials disagreed yesterday on whether the Marin judiciary is soft on criminals.

The panel discussion at the Holiday Inn in San Rafael was sponsored by the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce Court Watchers, with Rev. Charles Boman of the Christian Church of San Rafael as moderator.

Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales said in his opinion, a key factor in combatting crime is sterner sentences. "I would hope that the judges will take a tougher stance."

Lt. Albert Howenstein, juvenile officer in San Anselmo, backed Bales' "tougher stance" request. "I have heard many drug users and pushers say that Marin County is the place to be busted because of the leniency in sentencing."

Toughness alone is not the answer to combatting crime, said Probation Officer John W. Brewer and Buford L. Toney, assistant public defender. They explained that rehabilitation of a criminal is accomplished from follow-through work during probation and not from tough sentences.

Judge Samuel W. Gardiner of Marin Superior Court and Judge Peter Allen Smith of Marin Municipal Court said they believe sentencing in Marin courts is realistic and effective.

Judge Gardiner declared that Marin judges make a distinction between drug users and pushers. "There are probably 25,000 marijuana users in Marin today," said Gardiner. "We're not going to crucify all of these. But the dealers and pushers — every single one has gone to San Quentin."

The judge added that lockup is not the answer to rehabilitation because convicts locked up in prison often come out worse than before.

All panelists agreed that the system of "plea bargaining," whereby the defense agrees to plead guilty to certain charges if other charges are dropped by the prosecution, is a necessary evil.

Without the plea-bargaining negotiation, every one of the 7,000 misdemeanor charges could theoretically end up in jury trials, creating impossible court congestion, Bales explained.

Judge Gardiner said the process saves time and money, and the results are usually the same because a man would get a similar sentence whether he pleaded guilty to one count of kidnapping or two counts.

One question which went unanswered was: Is there a better method of selecting judges than through appointment by the governor.

There may be a better way, said the panelists, but they do not know of one.

Paul Ciampi, president of the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce, welcomed the panelists and the group of about 50 who attended the luncheon.

Activities Set For Halloween

Marin County library branches will offer Halloween story programs for elementary school children next week on the following schedule:

Belvedere-Tiburon — Tuesday at 3:30 p.m.

Civic Center — Tuesday at 4 p.m.

Corte Madera — Wednesday at 4 p.m.

Fairfax — Thursday, Oct. 28, at 4 p.m.

Ross Valley — Friday, Oct. 29, at 4 p.m.

The Novato branch library will have these Halloween activities:

Preschool story program at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday; film program for young adults on Friday, Oct. 29, at 4 p.m.; and after-trick-or-treat story program for elementary children on Sunday, Oct. 31, at 8 p.m.

Maddox Views Peking Exchange

PITTSBURG, Kan. (UPI)— Lt. Gov. Lester Maddox of Georgia said Wednesday that possible negotiations between the United States and mainland China should be held on the moon.

"Any talks between Red China and the United States should be conducted in a neutral place —like the moon," the former Georgia governor told an audience at Kansas State College.

Maddox said he was against the United States doing anything to strengthen China economically or diplomatically.

Mariner Right On Mars Path

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI)— Scientists have canceled plans for a second midcourse correction for America's Mariner 9 spacecraft bound for Mars because the first corrective rocket firing was so precise.

"Months of tracking revealed the first midcourse correction performed last June 4 was so precise that a second midcourse would only yield a negligible increase in the accuracy of the insertion aiming point," said officials at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory, controllers of the project.

The spacecraft, only 22 days from arrival in Mars orbit, was launched from Cape Kennedy May 3. It is traveling at 54,056 miles per hour and is expected to go into orbit around Mars Nov. 13.

Spring water has been sold in flasks or bottles since ancient times, principally for its reputed curatives powers, says the National Geographic Society.

Heavy Rain Leaves Six Dead In Texas

DALLAS (UPI) — Ten-foothigh floods caused by monsoonlike rains the past four days have left six persons drowned in Texas, which only last summer suffered through one of the worst droughts of the century.

The storms whipped the state with 12-inch rains and at least three tornadoes before subsiding Wednesday. Damage was estimated in the millions of dollars.

HATS OFF TO POLICE ASSOCIATION

Belvedere Police Chief John W. Jaeger, surrounded by police hats from foreign countries, reads a letter from a British policeman who is coming to visit the U.S. this month. Jaeger, who collects hats, badges and other police memorabilia, obtained both the hats and the letter through his membership in the International Police Association. Jaeger has founded a chapter, or "region," of the association, with members stretching from central California to Alaska. Headquarters of the new region is Novato.

College Trustees Turn Down New Sir Francis Drake Plans

Marin Community College District Trustees, long at loggerheads with the Marin County Public Works Department on the widening of Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, last night turned down the latest proposal of the county for the intersection at College Avenue.

Lawrence H. Lader of the Marin County Public Works Department explained the latest plan of the county to have two left turn lanes from Sir Francis Drake Boulevard onto College Avenue.

Dist. Supt. John A. Grasham countered that no other intersection on that portion of Sir Francis Drake had a double left turn lane, which he said would funnel more traffic by the college.

He said the college has 1,400 parking spaces which were not all filled, so the traffic now on College Avenue was not all generated by the college.

Trustee Theodore C. Wellman said that the department of public works was using the college to start the controversial Highway 17 to connect Highway 101 and West Marin.

Diane Wickstrom, president of the College's academic senate, said that diverting the traffic down College Avenue would encircle the college in traffic.

"We don't want that kind of traffic around the college," she said, explaining that much of it would be traffic from Larkspur and Kent Woodlands.

The board voted to ask the county to come up with an alternate plan for only one left turn lane on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

Marin Community College Trustees Also:

AUDIO-VISUAL — Approved the purchase of $1,200 in audio-visual material for Indian Valley Colleges.

CLASSES — Authorized the addition of two new adult education classes, off-shore navigation for yachtsmen and environmental crisis.

CENTER — Approved renting central School in Sausalito for $600 for an adult education center.

PLANS — Approved preliminary plans for an outdoor physical education facility. These were presented to the board Sept. 15. Complete plans will be approved by the campus planning committee, the budget and finance committee and college cabinet prior to being submitted to the board.

PARKING — Accepted the $8,500 improvements to Parking Lot 15.

TRAFFIC — Adopted a resolution changing motorcycle parking from the data processing building to the area between the service road and Corte Madera Creek; requiring permits for parking Lot 15 and opening Parking Lot 1 underneath the science center.

DELEGATES — Named Trustee Martin J. Dean to represent the College of Marin and Frances Compton the Indian Valley Colleges on the California Junior College Association.

POSITIONS — Authorized positions for a laboratory clerk at $596 to $726 per month, an administrative secretary at $640 per month, a biology laboratory technician each at $706 per month.

HIRED — Hired Sancra Lundholm as typist clerk at $276 for half time work per month and William Trenchard as custodian at $640 per month.

CONTRACTOR — Named A. B. Cline Glass Co. as subcontractor for the library.

REQUIREMENTS — Discussed but took no action on general requirements for junior college students to enter state colleges.

FREEZE — Discussed how the national wage freeze had affected school districts in the state and agreed to wait for further action. There are 20 certificated, 10 classified and all part time faculty members affected by the freeze.

RETIREMENT — Authorized Grasham to write Gov. Ronald Reagan that the board supports Senate Bill 543 on the state teachers retirement fund.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned to 7 p.m. Nov. 2 at the board room on the Kentfield campus for discussion on future building plans.

Students Play Big Retail Sales Part

EAST LANSING, Mich. (UPI)—College and university students are assets rather than liabilities in the communities where they are located as shown by the fact that the 40,000 students at Michigan State University are expected to spend $10 million on food in the coming school year. That accounts for 8 per cent of area food store sales.

In all, MSU students will spend approximately $132 million during the current fiscal year over and above tuition, on campus room and board and other fees. In that figure is $1 million in liquor and party stores, an average of about $30 per student.

'Uppers' And 'Downers' Are Most Abused Drugs

NEW YORK (UPI)—"Uppers"—or amphetamines—and "downers" & or barbiturates — will be the most frequently abused drugs of the 1970s unless possession of them in large quantities is made a serious crime, the chairman of a state commission evaluating drug laws said Wednesday.

Commission Chairman Chester B. Hardt said although the drugs can be sold legally, criminals often get hold of a large quantity of them and sell them illegally.

Hardt, a Republican state assemblyman from Williamsville, N.Y., said the commission had drafted legislation to make possession of 300 or more pills a felony punishable by a minimum of four years in prison and the possession of 600 or more punishable by a possible seven-year sentence.

The commission also has drafted new laws which would reduce the severity of the penalty for possession of less than a quarter ounce of marijuana.

Michigan leads the states in salt production.

Harbor Plan Is Advanced In Sausalito

After nearly four months of study and considerable discussion and revision, the Sausalito Planning Commission last night approved, in principle, a far-reaching development plan for the Sausalito Yacht Harbor, commission chairman Robert L. Nissen reported.

The complex development proposal, by Architect Roland Mays, includes expansion of the existing yacht harbor from 425 to 826 berths, Nissen said.

Also in the plan are a hotel-boatel complex in the vicinity of Humboldt and Johnson streets, a boatyard and repair shop, additional boat storage areas and three commercial and office buildings. The plan includes expanded yachts sales and chandlery operations, public restrooms, harbor offices and maintenance and storage facilites.

For public use harbor owner Herbert Madden Sr. plans a series of boardwalks, a variety of observation points along the bay, a mini-park and several public plazas.

The development plan also calls for 207 additional parking spaces for harbor support and a parking area under the hotel-boatel. It will require about one quarter-acre of fill to widen Humboldt Street near the bay.

Nissen said the proposal now will be submitted to the Sausalito City Council and Bay Conservation and Development Commission for their approval.

Beer In Finland

HELSINKI (UPI)—More than 100 million quarts of beer—80 quarts for every Finn—were consumed in Finland in 1970, according to the Breweries Association. The sales increased by 8 per cent over 1969.

Snow Tread Tires Due Winter Tests

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Passenger cars and light trucks equipped with snow-tread tires will be permitted on all mountain state highways this winter on a trial basis, the Division of Highways announced today.

However, the division said each snow-tired vehicle must carry conventional tire chains for use in case road conditions change due to storms.

The division said that when chain controls are in effect, these three conditions must be met at chain control points before drivers relying solely on snow tires will be permitted to proceed:

—Snow tires must be in good condition with tread deep enough to provide good traction.

—Snow tires must be mounted on drive wheels.

—Tire chains must be carried.

Motorists using such tires will be required to drive at reduced speeds.

Deputy State Highway Engineer Sam Helwer said storm conditions suddenly could make it necessary to require chains on snow-tired vehicles.

A 'Singing' Contest

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (UPI) — Seventy-two turtledoves recently fought it out in a singing contest organized by the Aquarists and Aviarists Society on Penang, an island city 210 miles north of here. The winning burd was imported from Bali by policeman Leiw Eng Peow, at a cost of $1,300.

MAKING ONE THING PERFECTLY CLEAR

Lines painted down the center of the road are there to guide motorists, right? That's what everyone in Schenedtady, N.Y., thought, but complaints were pouring in to the city on the curvy and somewhat confusing lines on this major thoroughfare. So, city officials decided to clear up the confusion — at least as far as they're concerned — by straightening the center line and x-ing out the old one. As far as the motorists are concerned, though, the new markings are worse than the old ones. (UPI Telephoto)

Attack On Remap By Behr

Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, said today the current Democratic plan to redistrict state Senate boundaries probably couldn't withstand a court test.

He said the plan, which would force an election between Behr and Sen. Fred W. Marler, R-Redding, minority leader in the upper house, probably is illegal because it fails to meet state constitution reqirements that districts be contiguous in all parts.

Under the Democratic proposal for reapportionment in the wake of the 1970 census — the second redistricting plan by the majority party in two weeks — Behr's Furth District would run from the Tiburon Peninsula, where the former Marin supervisor lives, up the eastern portion of Marin and stretch all the way to Shasta County, Marler's home base.

Red Rock, in San Francisco Bay, would serve as the axis for two other Senate districts, Behr explained, and Vallejo would be carved off from the present Fourth District to join a district to the west.

"For imagination and derring-do," Behr said on radio KTIM's "Marin Sounding Board," "it exceeds the wildest dreams of the drawers of lines on maps."

The senator, attacking the plan as implausible and an insult to Marinites, said he was pledged to keep the county "as much intact as possible." He noted that whatever redistricting plan finally is approved, it is bound to have long-range effect because of easing of the population growth in the state.

Noting that Marler represented his district well and was close to Gov. Ronald Reagan, Behr said he would be "hard-pressed to take him one, even with a speedboat." The reference was to the expanse of water separating Marin from the rest of the proposed Fourth District.

The possibility was raised during the program that Behr could move back to Mill Valley, where he formerly resided, and run against Sen. Milton Marks, R-San Francisco, in a district which would include, under the Democratic plan, ty rest of Marin, western San Francisco and part of San Mateo County.

While Behr declined to close the door on that option, he saw little agreement in "life-style" among Marinites, San Franciscans and San Mateo residents.

The program, moderated by Kitty Oppenheimer, will be repeated at 10:05 a.m. Sunday.

Weather Satellite Falls From Orbit

VANDENBERG AFB (UPI)—A weather satellite which cost the United States $10 million was launched from this Southern California coastal air base today, but failed to go into orbit.

The third in a series of Improved TIROS Operational Satellites (ITOS-B), which would have been named NOAA 2, achieved preliminary orbit but its small control jets failed to maintain stability while coasting in preparation to restart its upper stage engine.

Foster City Man Booked; Drug Probe

A 24-year-old Foster City man was arrested yesterday on suspicion of possessing dangerous drugs after Larkspur police stopped him on a routine traffic stop.

Officers said Ronald Gregory Wiggins was arrested at about 10 p.m. last night in the 500 block of Magnolia Avenue.

Their investigation began, officers said, when Wiggins became reluctant to open a strange looking container lying on the floorboard.

Inside the container, officers said, they discovered a quantity of suspected LSD, speed, heroin and methamphetamine.

He was booked into Marin County Jail where a search located a ring which contained a powdery substance and a bullet casing which contained a spoon.

Wiggins remained in jail in lieu of $2,500 bail and was scheduled to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Eight out of 10 people living in mainland Southeast Asia are villagers.

Suspect In Heroin Sales Arrested In Pot Case

A Los Ranchitos man, out on bail on a heroin sales charge, was arrested again yesterday on suspicion of possessing marijuana and dangerous drugs.

Donald Gilliam, 27, of 50 Merrydale Road, Apt. 17, was held at Marin County Jail in lieu of $3,500 to appear in Municipal Court today.

County drug abuse agents said Gilliam was arrested about 4 p.m. yesterday when a county agent and two state agents went to his residence on a routine investigation.

When the door of Gilliam's apartment was opened, the agents said, they saw a package of suspected marijuana on a table next to the door.

Gilliam was outraged by their presence, agents said, grabbed a knife and told an agent who had drawn his gun to "go ahead, shoot me."

The knife was taken away and Gilliam placed under arrest.

Agents said they found four plastic bags of suspected marijuana and 42 capsules containing an unidentified substance at the residence.

Gilliam has a charge of selling heroin pending against him in Marin Superior Court stemming from alleged sales of the drug to a narcotics agent on March 9 and 15.

Identical Twins Of The Future

FRESNO, Calif. (UPI)—Within 20 years science might make commonplace a technique of non-natural birth resulting in exact duplicates of individuals, according to an embryologist.

Through a process called cloning, "a piece of skin tissue will be taken from a man, the cells will be isolated and allowed to grow, and they will develop into an identical twin, minus the man's age," Dr. Robert T. Francourer told a college audience Tuesday.

Francouer, professor of experimental embryology at Fairleigh Dickinson University in New Jersey, said cloning will be occurring regularly within two decades and warned of the resultant social danger.

Strike View In Daly City Supported

A resolution supporting a Daly City School District in its stand against striking teachers was introduced by a trustee at Tuesday night's meeting of the Reed School District Board, Supt. Ralph Giovanniello reported.

The board agreed to consider Trustee Kenneth G. Wells's resolution at its Nov. 2 meeting.

In the document, Wells commended the Jefferson Elementary School District in Daly City for it "courageous stand" in the recent teacher strike in that city. "Your . . . action has done much to preserve the rights and powers of school boards the country over," the resolution states.

It also commended the district for "accepting a disruptive teacher walkout" rather than an employment contract which would have "subjected your board and community to the shackles of binding arbitration."

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Fire raced through two apartments Wednesday, inflicting $50,000 damage. Two women in adjoining flats were rescued by firemen.

Mills Calls Gianelli Remarks Derogatory

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Senate leader James R. Mills has accused state Water Resources Director William Gianelli of making "derogatory, sarcastic and destructive" statements about him.

Gianelli denied the remarks were personally directed at Mills and added that his comments were misinterpreted by the San Diego Democrat.

The outburst came yesterday during a hearing before the Senate Rules Committee on Gianelli's reappointment by Gov. Ronald Reagan to the top water job. Mills is chairman of the panel, which must recommend full Senate confirmation or rejection of Gianelli.

"You've got some problems coming into a member's district and attacking him in the public press and then when he defends himself you attack him again," Mills said.

"I considered it derogatory, sarcastic and destructive of my position in my district," the lawmaker added.

Mills said the comments were related to his support of legislation to declare three North Coast rivers as wild rivers which cannot be dammed. The bill was defeated.

Gianelli has maintained that the rivers—the Eel, Klamath and Trinity—may be necessary as sources for the State Water Project.

Mills recommended the hearing be delayed a week and then both he and Gianelli present correspondence they sent each other to fellow members of the committee.

Mills told newsmen after the hearing that he intends to vote against Gianelli's reappointment.

"He's a man who suffers from beaver fever," Mills said. "He sees a river and wants to dam it."

Gianelli told newsmen his remarks came during last August's meeting in San Diego of the state Water Commission and did not mention Mills by name.

"I said I was very surprised that senators from Southern California would vote for the wild rivers bill because of its effect on the integrity of the State Water Project," he said.

"I think the reason he's upset is that the senator did get some criticism from water people down there (San Diego County)," Gianelli added.

"I think I should be able to talk about legislation that vitally affects our department," Gianelli told newsmen.

Embargo Lifted On Non-Priority Pacific Mail

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Postal Service said Wednesday it was lifting its embargo on transportation of non-priority surface mail across the Pacific.

Such mail still is embargoed from shipment to Europe, Africa, Central and South America.

The embargo was placed in effect Oct. 1 after East Coast dock workers went on strike. West coast longshoremen already were on strike, but since have been ordered back to work under a Taft-Hartley court injunction.

The embargo affects mainly civilian bulk mail. Unaffected is all mail for North American points, and all military mail, airmail, and air parcel post.

Concert Organizer's Job A 'Way Of Life'

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

Alma Lauritzen is a San Francisco business woman who may have a big impact on the cultural life of Marin if the membership drive conducted this week for the new Marin Concert Association she has organized is successful.

It can mean that Marin will have its own concert series of top musical artists and productions presented in the theater of the Veterans Memorial Building and the creation of one of the largest performing arts organizations in the county. Potential membership of the group is 2,088, the capacity of the theater.

The white-haired Miss Lauritzen is the proprietor of the Lauritzen Concert Service, which she started in 1956 in San Francisco and has operated since then with the help of one secretary.

"I go into communities where there is a desire for top quality music, set up the organizational structure, instruct volunteers on how to conduct the drive to create memberships and audiences. Then I provide a list of artists and productions available, and after the board of directors has made a selection, I engage the artists and deliver them and see that all details, such as printing of programs, are taken care of. It is a complete concert service.

"You may be surprised to hear that 80 per cent of the concerts presented in this country are handled in this manner.

"No," she explained, "I'm not an impresario, because my interest is in creating audiences and a permanent organization that members themselves run. The money is all collected and deposited in a local bank, and expenses paid before artists are engaged. In that way there are no deficits."

ALMA LAURITZEN organizer of the new Marin Concert Association works on records in connection with the membership campaign being conducted by 146 volunteers this week throughout Marin. Concerts will be in the new Veterans Memorial Building with the first one, "Frula," a Yugoslavian dance production set for Nov. 22.

HER OWN fee, Miss Lauritzen noted, is paid by the artists, so that she has the double function of creating audiences while also in a sense serving as an agent for performers.

At present Miss Lauritzen is serving 11 cities, from Pacific Grove in the south to Napa in the north, with the largest association in Richmond having 3,500 members and the smallest in Hollister with 500 members.

Is the new association likely to be successful in Marin?

Miss Lauritzen thinks so. She said that the plan usually is a success where fine teachers and music teaching exist in the schools and community, and where there are many local performing groups whose members appreciate hearing top performers in their field.

Marin meets these conditions, she believes.

"Oh, I know," she says, "that people in areas near big cities say they will go there for the big names, but the fact is they don't."

With traffic congestion and parking problems being what they are today, they are all the more likely to patronize events locally if they are really good, she said.

Audiences she analyzes into four kinds:. "the esoterics who go to everything and take it or leave it; the hypochondriacs who tear everything apart (fortunately disappearing, she thinks), the musicians who may be analytical but enjoy the concerts; and the lay public who just come to enjoy themselves and make up about 75 per cent of the audiences.

"This is the group to aim toward and I think there are a great many of them in Marin."

MISS LAURITZEN herself grew up in a small town where there was no good music.

"I was born in the little town of Wood Island near Rio Vista," she said, "and I actually had to go to school by boat. I had always loved music, but I had never even heard a concert until I was a grown woman teaching junior high school in Oakland. (She had graduated from San Francisco State Normal School before it became San Francisco State College.)

"After I heard that first concert," she continued, "one of the great string quartets, I became a crusader for music, and my interest grew to include all the arts."

Miss Lauritzen's first step in her lifelong career came when on a visit to New York she was offered a position with the Columbia Artists Management, the largest concert booking agency in the world. She worked in the community concerts division of Columbia and spent 13 years organizing concert associations in the towns around New York and in New Jersey.

The concerts organizer does not claim any special business acumen.

"YOU HAVE to have a sense of business and ability to work with figures," she says, "but I never feel I'm a business woman.

"High powered sales techniques are not involved," she says." Though you do have to love people and have the ability to persuade them, sincerity is the highest form of persuasion," she insists.

Qualifications for success in the field, she believes, are "a lot of courage and physical energy because of extensive traveling and long hours, a love of music and the performing arts arts and considerable knowledge about them.

"It helps too, she admits, "if you have the feeling of a crusader. My work is not just a job to me — it's a way of life."

THE SPOUSE GAP

Mating Game Is Explored Further

(Condensed from the book, "The Spouse Gap")
By ROBERT LEE and MARJORIE CASEBIER

The patterns of interaction developed in marriages are, of course, many and varied. Our interviews have revealed at least four types of middle-aged marriages which can be described as having arrived at the climax point of deadlock. We call these forms of the mating game Cellmates, Checkmates, Roommates, and Stalemates.

We invite you to consider whether or not you and your spouse have entered into a variation of one of the mating games described in these four portraits. If your marriage is troubled, we hope you will face it like it is, and then imagine it like it might be if pressed to the kind of deadlock these situations exemplify.

CELLMATES: Howard and Rosie have been married for 20 years, but both confess that their marriage is meaningless. Both reason, however, that since they have been together this long, they might just as well stick it out. At least they know what to expect from one another and have made peace with their situation.

Besides, they feel that their situation leaves them little choice. Howard is pastor of a conservative Lutheran church and thinks that his congregation would be shocked if they suspected that all is not well in the parsonage. Surely they would not condone a divorce. Howard presumes it would mean his leaving the ministry if he and his wife ever separated.

Rosie does not really care what the church would think, since she never really wanted Howard to become a clergyman in the first place. Rosie prefers to turn her efforts toward her own world of art and music, and is an accomplsihed pianist. She has decided to have a life of her own in which she can find satisfaction. She takes music lessons from a highly gifted concert pianist and, in turn, gives private instruction to six or eight advanced pupils. At the same time, however, she is fearful about her ability to support herself entirely without Howard, so she has no plans to leave him.

Howard and Rosie are resigned to being cellmates, locked in their "morbidity marriage," condemned to each other for the rest of their lives.

CHECKMATES: Gloria and Peter have two teen-age children, a boy anda girl. Their marriage seems held together by a constant contest of wills in which each antagonizes the other. Yet there is also a deep affectionate bond, and nearly every quarrel is followed by torrid lovemaking.

Both are strong willed and reluctant to give in or compromise. Each, it seems, is out to score debating points on the other. They argue over everything. The name of their game is one-upmanship.

For the most part, however, their incessant arguments are over trifling matters. If he accuses her of not being a good mother, she charges that he is a lousy provider, "a penny-pinching miser." If he nags her to balance the checkbook stubs, she purposely lets it go until their checks start bouncing. If he gives the son a bad time, she is likely to pick on the daughter.

Gloria's and Peter's arguments are the talk of the neighborhood. Several times the neighbors have called in the police to quiet things down when noise from the shouting and bickering became excessive.

Outside observers may think that Gloria's and Peter's marriage is ripping apart at the seams. Yet they are bound closely together in their "lovers' quarrel." There is a checkmate relationship. Locked in combat, their marriage amounts to a competitive arms race with neither one winning or losing.

ROOMMATES: Bill and Donna have a marriage of convenience characterized by little more than simply living together in the samesplit-level suburban house. They are fairly formal and cool with one another. However, their relationship was not always this distant.

Beginning during a long, three-year engagement period while Bill was finishing medical school, the two were accomplished lovers and indulged their passions frequently. The big change came when Bill discovered Donna was keeping company with other men. He suddenly lost interest in sex and threw himself ever more intensively into his medical practice. Bill is vaguely aware of the fact that Donna is satisfying her sex needs elsewhere and doesn't seem to mind.

Bill and Donna have developed a tolerable division of labor: she keeps house, cooks the meals, provides him with clean shirts and socks, and he "brings home the bacon" in ample supply. They have both agreed to care for and nurture their four children as best they can.

Bill and Donna have not openly said so, but one suspects that when the children grow up and become independent Bill and Donna will end their marriage of convenience as roommates and seek more satisfying relationships.

STALEMATES: Jean's and Walter's marriage is downright dull and tedious. Walter is 45 and drives a bakery truck six days a week. He is dog-tired when he comes home from work. Nearly every night after dinner he plops in front of the TV set and watches one program after another until he dozes off to sleep.
awhile. Then it's off to bed they go for a night's sleep, to be followed by the same repetitive work-eat-TV-sleep routine, day in and day out.

It frightens Jean somewhat to think of rocking her marriage boat, since she has little self-esteem. For the most part, neither Jean nor Walter dares comment on the other's behavior or the nature of their marriage. Each is afraid of what the other might do or say in response to criticism. Both Walter and Jean are caught in a lockstep — stalemated. In their marriage they are like two robots going through the motions of life in a habitual, senseless pattern.

There are other forms of the mating game, but these will serve as examples of the deadlock which can arise when genuine communication is lost in marriage.

The Neat Look For Spring

By PATRICIA MC CORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI)—Designer Mollie Parnis, a kind of fashion weathervane in the nation's garment diatrict, Tuesday showed a spring collection chock full of pretty and neat clothes.

The pretty touches included bows on daytime costumes and dresses, bare backs and floral prints for evening. The neat was underlined in a group of navy and black suits and costumes, many with white collars and cuffs. Small gold buttons adorned some of these outfits.

THE ANKLE-LENGHT dress is the big surprise for spring, according to Miss Parnis.

This is "for those occasions when the hostess says, 'don't dress'," Miss Parnis said.

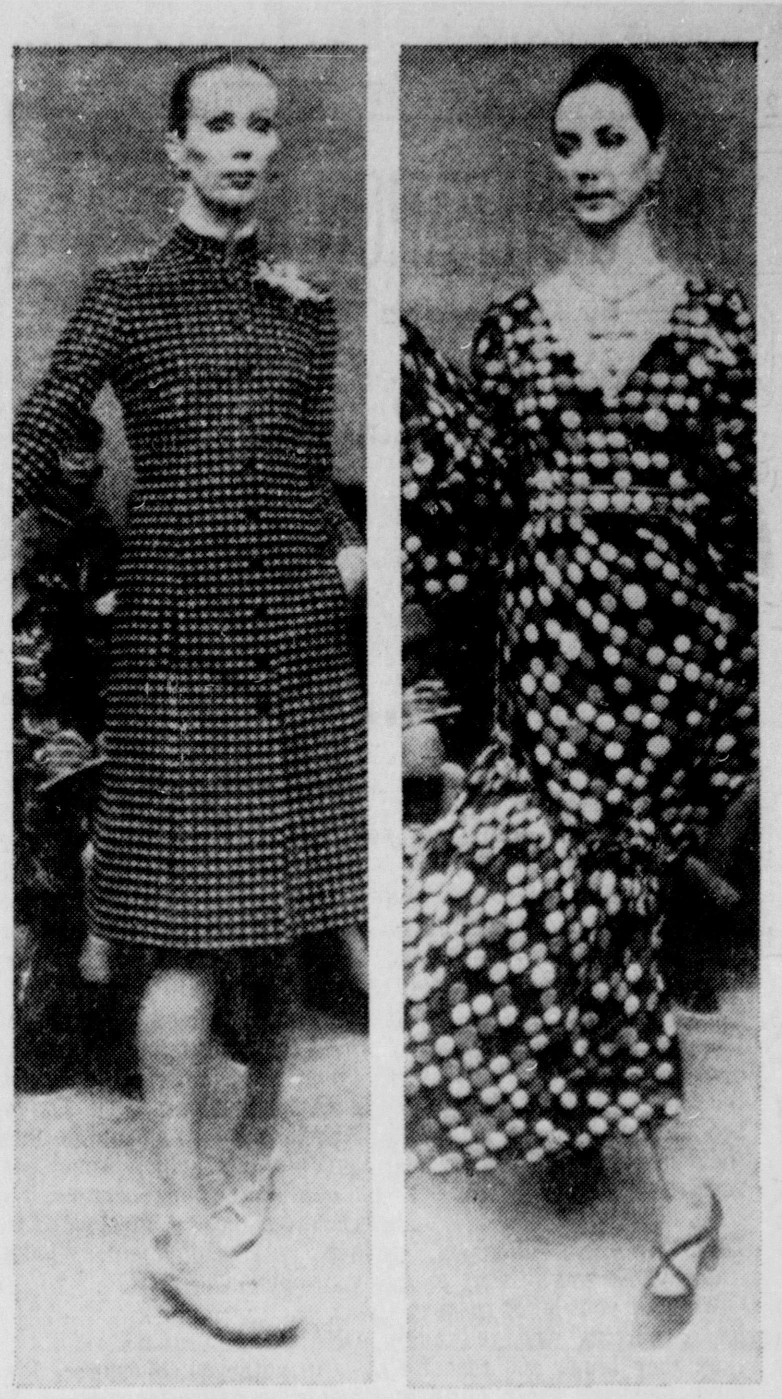
She showed many in floaty floral printed chiffons with portrait necklines, long sleeves and soft ruffling at hem and writs.

The Parnis retail price range, from $200 to $600, also must be right. The clothes are selling.

"The ladies seem to like the clothes we're making," she said. "They wanted to stop dressing like their children. Suddenly, they want complete outfits —the dress with its jacket, the dress with its matching coat."

SHE FAVORED the princess silhouette for dresses, almost all of them having long sleeves and high necklines, accented by a Buster Brown bow.

Aside from the chiffon floral prints in the ankle lengths, Miss Parnis liked clingy jersey dresses in hot colors such as shocking pink or orange, the skirts slit up the sides to the thigh.



IF DESIGNER Mollie Parnis has her way spring clothes will be pretty and neat for next spring. From her collection previewed in New York come (left) a neat daytime costume with white at the neck and wrist and a Mandarin collar. For evening (right) Parnis did a floating floral print ankle-length gown with portrait neckline and long soft ruffles at the hem and wrist.

(UPI Telephoto)

PARTICULARLY PRETTY were long taffeta dresses, puffed out to below the elbow and jackets bordered with stiff ruffling almost a foot wide. One in light purple was a vision of the old fashioned girl in a romantic era. It seemed transported from a plantation of the old South party.

A twin of that one, in red, had a matching floor length cape, that billowed out from a tightly-tucked yoke.

Miss Parnis said some of the chiffon prints, ankle to floor length, were hand painted.

Jewelry for wearing with the after-five clothes was massive. Earrings dangled to the collarbone. And one pendant looked like a breastplate studded with a couple of handfuls of the crown jewels.

The Butterfly Print Is Big

The butterfly print in bold pastels has edged out last fall's elephant, according to Women's Wear Daily.

While the elephant was a popular design on fall fashions the spring butterfly will compete with sailboats, anchors and just about anything nautical, the ready-to-wear-trade newspaper predicts.

A Wrench Into Fashion Shows

For the first time New York and Italian ready-to-wear fashion showings are going on at the same time, and, according to Women's Wear Daily, the New York spring openings have thrown a monkey wrench into the showings in Rome.

Buying teams from the large stores are split between the simultaneous presentations, causing Italian designer Irene Galitzine, who presented her spring collection last week, to remark, "Everyone is delayed in coming here because of the Seventh Avenue showings. It's too spread out. I'm going to have to show my collection to individual stores over the next month.

"What a bore . . ."

THE GENERATION RAP

——by Helen and Sue Bottel

Parents Who Yell All The Time Ought To Try Laughing More

DEAR GENERATION RAP:
This is probably the corniest letter you ever got, but here goes:

My parents yell at each other a lot, but I love them anyway. I even think they love each other under their shouting and grumbling. It's just that sometimes they don't think they love each other.

You see, we kids know our folks a little better than they think we do. We watch and wonder why they don't smile or laugh more when it's easier to be nice than to always try for the last and meanest word. If they gave compliments instead of slams and tried not to look at the dark side of life, they might see us and how we feel. And they might stop shouting! — ANN

DEAR ANN:
Corny? No way!

We hope your letter reaches a lot of parents who yell more than they laugh and then feel hurt because their children would rather be anywhere else but with them. — SUE

NOTE FROM HELEN:
Battling parents often don't realize that screamers breed screamers or the reverse, quiet mouse types. They may be setting lifelong patterns in their children.

And that's a pity, for a smile takes so much less effort.

DEAR HELEN AND SUE:
I'm 14 and disgusted.

In school, we're constantly being drummed about the "evil" of drugs and how disappointed our folks would be if we turned on. At home, the same.

Today I overheard my mother talking about the grass that goes around at their parties. Then she started in about how one of my adult cousins (her age) had freaked out on dope.

Why don't older generation members start living up to their sermons? — DISAPPOINTED TEEN

DEAR TEEN:
Some do. But most can't live up to the "perfect" image children expect of parents. After all, your mother only talked of being where grass is, and knowing others who use dope. You could probably say the same.

Isn't it kind of comforting to know she's human? — SUE

DEAR TEEN:
. . .And maybe you can be more honest with each other, if she knows you know. — HELEN

DEAR HELEN:
This is for you because you're a parent.

Mine are too much. They expect me to get straight A's in school, do three or four hours of homework every night, and if I don't make valedictorian they'll probably die of shame. What chills me is they don't care how much I know, just what I make on my grade card.

I'd rather spend some of my time reading and learning things that interest me — not necessarily school work. That's REAL learning. I could do this and pull B's, which would get me into any college. But no, it's grind out those A marks and to heck with enjoyment. What's your opinion? — A.R.

DEAR A.:
I'm with you, of course. It's better to enjoy learning at B level than take the A-train, fueled by quickly-forgotten memory work, leading to resentment.

Consider this: I was pushed into straight A's in school. Sue has never been overly pushed. I became a syndicated columnist after 40. Sue made it at age 16.

Let's hope your parents relax . . . but they won't! — HELEN

Survival Center At College

By DYANNE FORTNER

Ten years ago most college coeds concerned themselves with little more than sororities, student government and finding an eligible mate. Drugs, unmarried women with children and male roommates were not unheard of but ignored. Those who participated in such activities were usually shunned.

At Sonoma State College a handful of women has acknowledged these situations exist as do others for the liberated woman and they have formed a Women's Survival Center, a rather dramatic title for what the student director and student assistants refer to simply as a switchboard or referral source.

MRS. PAT AGNEW, a divorcee in her 30s, is the center's director and makes her office in a cubicle loaned by the sociology department in Stevenson Hall. She is a senior, majoring in sociology, and is aided in her efforts by other students.

The center's tasks are directing women to available information and assistance in such specific areas as child care, family planning, natural child birth, women's health advice, free schools, abortion, and exchange skills.

A male research assistant is seeking funds to enable the women to relocate their office off campus to better assist the entire community. Already the center can count 13 women referred to them by the Sonoma County Welfare Department for assistance in divorce, since the center opened a month ago.

Mrs. Agnew emphasized that she cannot represent any woman in the courts but will assist in paper work and help the person seek legal advice should there be children and/or property involved.

THE INSPIRATION for this project is Ann Neel, a sociology instructor at Santa Rosa Junior College. Miss Neel is also in the doctorial program at the University of California at Berkeley.

She and Mrs. Agnew met during a summer class the former was teaching entitled "Women and Social Change in the United States."

"When the class ended it was inevitable that the instructor would throw out the challenge, 'O.K., where do we go from here,'" said Mrs. Agnew. "I picked it up from that point and began setting up the center. There's no limit to what women can do."

Acknowledging there are hassels for today's women, those present felt the women studies program at the college is another step that will lead to a greater understanding of the female species. The survival center is open to anyone, men included, and encourages rap sessions of a wide diversity.

"THERE SHOULD be no party line," said Miss Nell, yet there is a larger than life size protrait of Angela Davis hanging on the opposite wall. "We want to allow for diversity and develop the concept of discovering each woman's needs," Miss Neel said.

Without funding, the center manages to print a newsletter to keep the campus' female population aware of what is available to them through the office. Distribution of the publication is made at the weekly meetings of the study program.

9 Pct. Of Doctors In U.S. Are Women

The Independent-Journal erred yesterday in quoting Dr. A. Lois Scully saying that 19 per cent of American doctors are women.

Dr. Scully, in a talk Tuesday at Dominican College, said that 9 per cent of American doctors, are women.

BEING HONORED by the American Gas Association at its annual meeting in Boston is Mrs. Peggy Hopkins of San Rafael, home economist at the Pacific Gas and Electric Company office in Marin. Mrs. Hopkins is shown conducting a demonstration lecture for physically handicapped persons for which she received the award.

Honors For Peggy Hopkins

(I-J Special Report)

BOSTON, MASS. — Peggy Hopkins of San Rafael, home economist for the Pacific Gas and Electric Company in Marin, is one of five home economists honored yesterday at the annual meeting of the American Gas Association in Boston.

Mrs. Hopkins received an award for the series of lectures she conducted instructing handicapped persons how to cook. The demonstrations were given in the company's North Bay division headquarters in San Rafael and were co-sponsored by the Easter Seal Society of Marin County and community volunteers.

Included in the programs were cooking and shopping hints for the physically handicapped instructions on how to prepare low-cost main dishes, deserts and some Chinese meals. Part of the luncheon served at each session included items prepared by the participants, who ranged in age from young adult to 88. Two blind men also participated. Assisting the 23 handicapped persons was a volunteer occupational therapist.

Mrs. Hopkins joined P.G. and E in 1963 and has been on the staff of the North Bay Division since 1967. The division also serves customers in Sonoma, Mendocino, Lake, Napa and Solano Counties.

She is a graduate of the University of Massachusetts and has studied extensively in the United States and in the Far East. She has a diploma from St. Benedictine's School of Chinese Cooking, in Tokyo and is a member of the American Dietetic Association, the American Home Economics Association, the Bay Area Home Economists in Business, the Marin Inter-Agency Nutrition Council and the Business and Professional Women's Club of Marin County.

Couple Wed At Church In Fairfax

Gary Louis Pfaff wed Lauren Diane Wilson Saturday at St. Rita's Catholic Church in Fairfax. A reception followed at the San Geronimo Golf and Country Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Wilson of Fairfax are the bride's parents, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Pfaff, also of Fairfax.

Matron of honor for her sister was Sherry Huffman of Pleasant Hill, and bridesmaids were Sue Hageman and Jean Kopfer of San Francisco, Gail Gittseson of Sausalito and Marie Vervals of Sacramento.

Best man for his brother was Glenn Pfaff of Fairfax, and guests were ushered to their seats by Dick Hageman of San Francisco, Al Huffman of Pleasant Hill and Mark Bernel and Dennis Drislane of Sacramento.

Following a wedding trip to Hawaii the couple will live in San Francisco.

Lauren was graduated from Sir Francis Drake High School, College of Marin and San Francisco State College. She is employed at I. Magnin's in San Francisco. Mrs. Vera Wilson of San Rafael and Mrs. Mae Boyce of Fairfax are her grandmothers.

ITALIAN DESIGNER Emilio Pucci offers the classic swimsuit with cutout areas. The one-piece suit, shown at Pucci's spring collection showing in Florence, Italy, this week, has a shoestring strap at the back.

Bikinis Taken Out Of The Water And Put To Use On The Dry Land

By BRENDA W. ROTZOLL

FLORENCE, Italy (UPI)— The bikini appears to be on the way out as swimwear in the Italian ready-to-wear collections for next spring and summer, but Emilio Pucci has moved it into nonswimming uses.

Both knitwear houses and the Marchese Pucci Monday showed classic one-piece bathing suits with moderate V or scooped necks and not-so-low backs—the type you really wear into the water.

PUCCI, SHOWING his once-a-year high fashion collection in the family palace, also had heaps of bikinis. But the bottoms were appearing in lieu of underware beneath waist-slit dressed, and the tops were substituting for dress bodices. All were of sturdy enough fabric in which to jump into the pool, but that was not the basic idea.

The leisure look was the theme of his collection, which he said was designed to provide a complete change of pace for women when they leave their office or factory jobs.

Everything was soft and clinging or drifting, with shoulders bared by shoestring straps in most cases. Many dresses had bikini tops attached to the skirts by more shoestring straps.

PET FABRICS were silk jersey and a print terrycloth sheared to look just like velveteen but tough enough for sportswear. Green, brown and violet were the favorite Pucci colors.

He put his geometric prints onto terry velvets cut into blazers, for beach or city wear, and onto hugely full-hooded cloaks that could top a bikini or a ballgown with equal ease.

A few silk jersey and organza gowns had drifting skirts, but in most Pucci suspended skinny tubes of jersey from shoestring straps for a look both soft and slinky. For presidential balls and the like, the print evening gowns were solidly embroidered with mock jewels, a time-consuming work that boosted their price to $2,500.

READY-TO-WEAR collections from the high fashion houses were largely adaptations of earlier collections for private buyers. Most designers agreed — you had to have a white suit for spring, preferably in double faced wool, with a pleated skirt ending near the top of the knee.

There also was unusual unanimity about hats. Nearly everyone showed them and nearly all hats were fine-weave straws with huge brims, some tilted up all around, like the bowl of a radar station.

Mrs. Sinna Elected As President

An 11-year member of the Social Service Auxiliary of Marin, Mrs. Thomas J. Sinna of San Rafael is the group's new president. She has served as both first and third vice-president.

Primary purpose of the auxiliary is to raise funds for the programs sponsored by the Catholic Social Service Agency of Marin County and to perform services such as agency clerical assistance and provideng transportation, according to Joan Sinna.

Fund-raising activities and social events planned by the auxiliary include the annual Christmas tea, a day at the races in March and a theater party in May.

Membership is open to any person interested in the programs sponsored by the Catholic Social Service Agency, according to the new president.

Mrs. Sinna is a native San Franciscan and a graduate of Convent of the Sacred Heart in San Francisco and San Jose State College. She is a member of the Sacred Heart alumnae, Alpha Phi alumnae and the Little Children's Aid Junior Auxiliary of San Francisco. Her husband is the controller at Marin General Hospital. Twelve-year-residents of Marin, the Sinnas are parents of Jennifer, 9, and Elizabeth, 6. Reading and sewing are her hobbies.

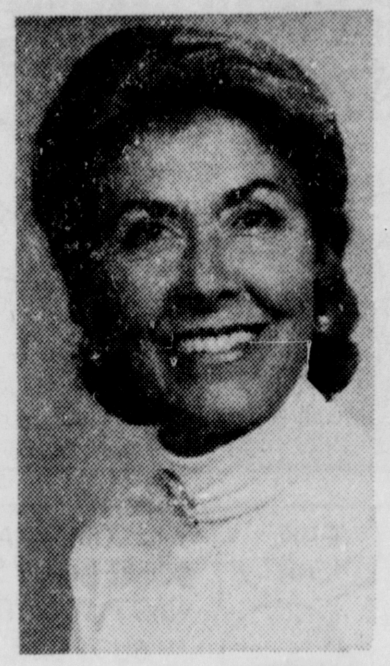
Other officers are Mmes. Robert Patocckí, first vice-president; Constantine Bricca, second vice-president; Louis Bernardoni, and Vincent Sullivan third vice-president; William Flinn, treasurer; Lawrence Arntz, recording secretary; Michaels Collins, corresponding secretary; John H. Bruns, financial secretary; William Losee Jr., parliamentarian; and Albert Scott, public relations.

Ecological Fashion

One fashion in ecology: Giving furniture, clothing and appliance to Goodwill Industries instead of assigning them to the trash heap. The old things add to pollution when you throw them out. By donating them to Goodwill you not only provide work for the handicapped, who recondition them like new at Goodwill workshops, but you can claim their estimated value as an income tax deduction.

Mrs. Lesoine Elected To Head Music Chest

Mrs. John A. Lesoine of Ross is the newly elected president of the Marin Music Chest.



MRS. JOHN A. LESOINE
Music Chest president

Florence Lesoine has lived in Marin for more than 20 years and is a native of Montreal, Canada, where she began a singing career on radio.

For the past two years she has been first vice president of the Marin Music Chest and is also a member of the Marin Chest Artistic Council and the board of directors. Mrs. Lesoine is a past president of the Thursday Musical Club and the Marin Symphony Association and has appeared in many of the Ross Valley Players musical productions. She is also a member of the Marin Society of Artists.

Her hobbies are painting, golf and raising orchids, for which she has received several blue and red ribbons. She has a son, Robert E. Lesoine of San Francisco.

The Music Chest presents a series of musical programs during the summer at Forest Meadows in San Rafael and provides scholarships for young musicians.

Other Music Chest officers are Mmes. Peter Palmer, first vice president; Leland Jordan, second vice president; Charles Davies, third vice president; Robert Woodward, treasurer; and Melville Oppenheimer, secretary.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON GREB

Guess who was born today, October 21, and became:

1. A famous American jazz musician? This composer, singer, and combo leader, who introduced "bebop" in the mid-1940's, appears regularly at the Monterey Jazz Festival and is said to be our greatest living jazz trumpet player: (A) Dizzy Gillespie; (B) Louis Armstrong; (C) Harry James.

2. An influential American dance teacher? After illness left him partially paralyzed as a youth, doctors advised him to take up ballet, which launched him on a dancing career that brought international fame and led him to found a dance university: (A) Arthur Murray; (B) Edwin "Ted" Shawn; (C) Fred Astaire.

3. A United States Senator? This Air Force veteran returned to Philadelphia after World War II where he was elected the city's mayor and then the state's Democratic senator for the years, 1957-68: (A) Hugh Scott; (B) Joseph S. Clark; (C) Edmund Wooley.

4. An English poet, philosopher, and literary critic? In 1798 he published jointly with William Wordsworth a volume of poetry, "Lyrical Ballads," containing his own "Ancient Mariner," and their work is considered to this day to be an English masterpiece: (A) John Dryden; (B) Alfred Tennyson; (C) Samuel Taylor Coleridge.

ANSWERS

1-A (Dizzy Gillespie); 2-B (Edwin "Ted" Shawn); 3-B (Joseph S. Clark); 4-C (Samuel Taylor Coleridge).

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Make A Note On Your Calendar — Bridge Tourney In Bermuda

If you're the kind of bridge player who plans ahead, make a note on your calendar of the regional tournament at the Bermudiana Hotel in Bermuda next January 22-30. The people are friendly, the climate is delightfully mild, and the quality of the bridge may be seen from today's hand, played in last year's regional by Tony Saunders, chairman of the tournament committee.

EASY TO SEE

It's easy to see how the hand would be played by the average experienced player. He would win the first heart, cash the king of clubs, draw one round of trumps "for safety" and then would cash the other top heart and try to ruff a heart.

East would overruff, of course, and then a trump or a spade return would force declarer to give up a total of two hearts and two spades. Down two.

Not very distinguished when the contract is actually unbeatable. See if you can find the way Saunders played the hand before you read on.

SAME START

Saunders began just as any experienced player would. He took the king of hearts and the king of clubs. Then he cashed the ace of hearts and led a third heart.

West covered with the nine, and Saunders discarded a spade from dummy instead of vainly trying to ruff the heart. West returned a trump, and Saunders promptly led his last heart and discarded another spade from dummy.

West returned another trump, vainly trying to reduce dummy's ruffing power. Now declarer cashed the ace of spades, ruffed a spade in dummy and discarded his last spade on dummy's ace of clubs. Five diamonds bid and made.

It's interesting to note that leading one round of trumps is far from safe. This would lose if West had three trumps, since he would manage to get all of the trumps out of the dummy before South could ruff a spade.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with 1-NT (16 to 18 points) and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ - Q 8 3
♥ - Q J 10 9 4
♦ - 6 4
♣ - Q 7 2.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two hearts.

Partner will probably pass, and you should have an easy time at your part-score contract. If partner has a good fit for hearts and 17 or 18 points, he will rebid; and then you can go to game.

Symphony Auction Set On Saturday

Have you always wanted to conduct a symphony orchestra? Or do you think having the Guckenheimer Sourkraute Band play for a party would be fun?

You will have an opportunity to satisfy these ambitions if you are a high bidder at the Marin Symphony Association's Whole Works Auction Saturday at the Forest Farm Camp, Forest Knolls. Gates open at 4 p.m.

The chance to be guest conductor in the Marin Symphony Orchestra's pops concert in the spring and the band performance are among a wide variety of musical programs and services up for grabs in the auction.

Other services offered are the performance at a wedding by the symphony orchestra's assistant conductor and concertmaster Charles Meacham, violinist; an evening of Scandinavian music in costume by a trio composed of Mabel Pittenger playing the Norwegian hardanger fele with flutist Jean Chandler and pianist Dorothy Nordstrand; a program by the Lydian Trio consisting of Elizabeth Birnbaum, viola; Beverly Bellows, harp, and Jean Chandler, flute, and an evening of "you name it — I'll play it" of music from the 1930s and '40s played on the piano by Mrs. Robert L. Schultz, symphony association manager.

Also offered are a "ragtime gig" by pianist Fae McNally, founder of the Inverness Festival; vocal concerts by James Gettys and the husband-wife team of Marian Marsh and David Wade; a classical guitar program by Philip DeFremery, and many kinds of music lessons.

Finch Takes Prison Passes

CHINO, Calif. (UPI)—Dr. Bernard Finch, who has served 12 years in jail for the love triangle slaying of his socialite wife, has taken two 72-hour passes from prison as a prelude to his formal parole Dec. 6.

Finch, who returns from his second pass today, was allowed the liberties under a new state law which provides that inmates are eligible to leave prison to arrange details for life after parole.

Finch and his voluptuous red-haired nurse, Carole Tregoff, were tried three times—the first two trials ending in hung juries—before they were found guilty of shooting Mrs. Barbara Jean Finch in 1959 ;in one of the most sensational murder cases of the century.

Miss Tregoff, now 34, was paroled in May, 1969 after serving 10 years in prison.

Series of College Tests Holding Promise Of Cutting School Costs

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Under an experimental program at San Francisco State College, 280 entering freshmen have earned the equivalent of an entire year of college credit by taking a series of summer tests.

The experimental tests, if successful and widely used, hold the promise of saving considerable time and money for students, parents and taxpayers.

The series of five tests, known as the College Level Examination Program (CLEP), was sponsored jointly by the College Entrance Examination Board and the California State College system.

Of 873 students who took the tests in English composition, history-social science, humanities, mathematics and natural science, 331 passed all five tests. Of those, 280 enrolled at the college.

The students earned six units of credit for each test they passed, or a total of 30 units—one year of college—for all five tests.

"We are naturally pleased with the results," said Dr. Urban Whitaker, dean of undergraduate studies and in charge of the program. But he cautioned that it was too early to draw conclusions from the experiment.

Whitaker said studies are under way to determine the value of the tests and whether such credit by examination tests might be used in other colleges.

"There is a potential for considerable savings to students and taxpayers," said Donald L. Garrity, academic vice president.

"If CLEP and other types of tests are widely used and students can accomplish the same amount of academic work in less time, the cost of college education will be less for individuals and the colleges can serve, large numbers of people over a span of several years."

The tests "further confirm that many students enter our state colleges with greatly dissimilar backgrounds," said Glenn S. Dumke, chancellor of the California State Colleges, whose office inaugurated the experimental program.

"There are indications that certain courses, typically required of all students, may, instead, be applicable to only some students."

Dumke said the state colleges would continue to explore "a variety of approaches that challenge traditional time serving, lock-step requirements for higher education."

Rail Wants To Close Berkeley Agency Station

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Southern Pacific has asked for permission to close its agency station at Berkeley because it no longer provides passenger service to the East Bay city.

SP told the California Public Utilities Commission yesterday it wanted to discontinue the agency station, remove it from public service and maintain it as a non-agency station starting next Jan. 1, or as soon thereafter as permitted by its labor contracts.

The firm's petition said Berkeley area customers could be adequately served at an agency station in neighboring Oakland.

Youth Commission Chairman Selected

Aline Beban has been elected chairman of the Fairfax Youth Commission and Julie McDermott, secretary.

The commissioners have decided to decorate the Fairfax Women's Clubhouse as a haunted house for a Halloween party Oct. 30, and to charge 25 cents admission.

Extension Of Moratorium On Land Is Urged

The Petaluma Planning Commission has called for a three-month extension of the moratorium on land use changes to allow more time for development of a city environmental design plan.

Planning Director William C. McGivern said the commission recommended the city council extend the moratorium to at least Jan. 24 at its meeting Tuesday. He said chairmen of committees working on the design plan reported that work was progressing well but slower than anticipated. All said more time would be needed before the city resumes consideration of rezonings, subdivisions and annexations.

The design plan under study by citizen groups and professional planners will update the city's 1972 general plan.

Leontyne Price Set In Verdi Opera

By JAMES E. WILLIAMS

Soprano Leontyne Price, one of the opera world's most popular singers, returns to the San Francisco Opera House on Saturday night as Leonora in Verdi's "Il Trovatore."

Miss Price will be joined by tenor James King as Manrico.

The popular opera will be performed seven times with Miss Price in the first four performances and King in the first five.

In the final three performances Ljiljana Monar-Talajic will take the role of Leonora and tenor James McCracken, a San Francisco Opera Company favorite, will sing Manrico in the last two performances.

DRAMA

The celebrated Black Light Theater of Prague, a company of 18, will perform Friday and Saturday nights at Zellerbach Auditorium on the University of California campus at Berkeley. Formed in 1961, the company, which combines mime, movement and music into an evening's entertainment, is currently making its North American debut.

ART

"Dough in Bronze" a cast relief sculpture of mermaids by Ruth Asawa, is one of the new works to be seen in the Rental Gallery Fall 1971 exhibit at the San Francisco Museum of Art.

Approximately 170 recent paintings, sculptures, graphics and drawings by both young and established Bay Area artists comprise the collection.

Other attractions:

Little Fox — "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest," Tuesday through Friday, 8:30 p.m.; Saturday, 7 and 10:30 p.m.; Sunday, 7:30 p.m.

Rockefeller And Lindsay Friends

NEW YORK (UPI)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and Mayor John V. Lindsay smiled and said nice things about each other Wednesday. Then they shook hands.

The unusual harmony occurred at the 26th annual Alfred E. Smith memorial dinner, a yearly banquet named after the late governor and held for the purpose of raising money for about 20 hospitals.

Rockefeller, a Republican, and Lindsay, a Democrat since this summer after being a lifelong Republican, have often been political enemies, battling over the relationship between the city and the state.

A Kandinsky Oil Brings $300,000

NEW YORK (UPI)—An early abstract painting by Vasily Kandinsky, the Russian artist who fled the young Soviet Union's demands for artistic realism in 1922, brought $300,000 Wednesday night — setting a new world auction record for nonobjective art.

The painting, a swirl of dramatic color entitled "Picture with Three Spots," was bought by an unidentified Swiss dealer at a $2 million ParkeBernet Galleries Inc. sale of 68 works by Kandinsky and two other modern artists. Its price was second only to the auction record set several years ago for a work by a 20th Century artist — $520,000 for a Picasso.

Los Angeles industrialist Norton Simon jumped an early bid on the painting from $80,000 to $200,000, but he failed to carry off the prize. He and his wife, actress Jennifer Jones, had to be content with a $155,000 Kandinsky oil, "Open Green" painted in 1929.

The 47 Kandinsky oils and water colors in the sale were placed on the block by New York's Guggenhiem Museum to week out its vast collection of the Russian master's works. An unidentified Milan, Italy, dealer paid $140,000 for a 1921 painting titled "White Oval" and Heinz Berggruen, a French dealer paid $105,000 for a 1926 painting, "Loose Dense."

Berggruen bought 11 Kandinskys for a total of $235,000.

The sale brought $500,000 more than the highest estimate of the auction gallery's experts.

Brown Jr. Does Bit For Election Purity

Ever since 1913, there have been laws on the books in California requiring that candidates for public office file statements of campaign expenditures. The present law, specifying what the statements must contain and making failure to file a misdemeanor, dates back to 1961.

Until this year, however, many who ran for election unsuccessfully ignored the law. And successive secretaries of state also ignored it except for those elected — who could not take office until the statement was filed.

SECY. OF STATE Edmund G. Brown Jr. has changed all that. From now on, candidates will know they have to file their statements or face prosecution — at least as long as Brown is in office.

This week "Pat" Brown Jr. filed suit against nine candidates in last year's primaries who had filed no statements of campaign expenditures despite repeated warnings. It asks for superior court injunctions against them, with jail for contempt if they ignore the injunctions — probably a more feasible route than misdemeanor prosecutions under Section 12054 of the Election Code.

The suits climax a campaign to require filing of the statements that Brown started immediately after taking office (he filed his own expense statements for primary and general elections, you may be sure).

WHAT GOOD ARE the campagin expense statements?

Well, they let the public know how much the candidates spent trying to get elected, and how much came out of their own pockets. They don't go far beyond that, as contributions can be concealed behind dummy committee names or even reported as anonymous.

But, as Brown noted, reports filed by 118 office seekers as result of his pressure showed contributions of $434,131.58 which "was never disclosed or even hinted at before" plus a much larger amount — over $2 million — previously reported to his office but not officially recorded so it would be open for public inspection.

For one example, Raymond H. Shone, who unsuccessfully sought the Republican nomination for state senator from Marin, Napa and Solano counties last year, filed a statement as result of Brown's pressure showing expenditures of some $65,000 in his primary campaign.

"The reports," said the secretary of state, "show that candidates who spent substantial amounts of money believed they could hide behind a wall of financial secrecy and evade our election laws with impunity. They now know this will no longer be allowed."

IT SEEMS PRETTY unsavory for a man to seek public office and then fail to comply with laws governing candidacy for such office. The nine against whom Brown filed suit may find, even if they avoid going to jail for defying court injunctions, that voters are not likely to regard them with complete trust if they should ever want to run for office again.

Purity of elections may be unobtainable. But at least the junior "Pat" Brown's effort is a step in that direction.

BY RUS WALTON:

Time Has Come To Test Voucher Plan In Schools

SACRAMENTO — When you want a physician, you look for the best one around. Same thing when you need an attorney. Or, an accountant, or a mechanic, or whatever. Right?

But, when you want to educate your kids what happens?

Unless you have a bundle and can afford a private school you take what there is at the public school. No shopping around. No freedom of choice. You pay your taxes. Plenty of taxes. And then you take your chances.

That's because public education, at least from kindergarten through high school, is a closed shop. A monopoly.

Add to that the impact of the recent State Supreme Court decision that there must be a change in the financing and funding of public education.

WHAT DOES IT ALL say? That now is the time to get moving on the school voucher plan. At least, to give it a test.

Briefly, the voucher plan would subsidize the student rather than the system. It would put the dynamics of customer-producer relationship into the process of education, K through 12.

The parents of a school child would receive a voucher worth a set amount of dollars. The face amount of the voucher would cover the cost of education. The parents could "spend" that voucher at the school of their choice.

If one school seemed to be doing a sounder job of educating students, that's where the parents could spend their voucher and send their child. Other parents might prefer another school for different reasons.

Faced with the give-and-take of such an open market school boards, administrators and teachers might try harder for excellence. That is the theory, at least.

THE VOUCHER PLAN is controversial. No one knows for sure whether it is as good as supporters promise or as bad as its detractors contend. And, that's the point at issue right now: why not test the plan and see if it works?

AB 150, by Assemblyman Leo J. Ryan D-South San Francisco, would do that. It would permit up to four school districts in the state to test the voucher plan — using federal OEO funds for the experiment. School districts in San Diego, San Francisco and San Jose have applied for funds and approval to make the tests.

Where are the long-winded reformers in this move for an innovative experiment? Faded in the heat of debate, . As Plunkett of Tammany Hall once said, "they is only morning glories."

THE STAUNCHEST supporters of the voucher test are so-called "traditionalists": State Sen. John Harmer, Assemblymen Bill Campbell and John Stull, and Congressman Vic Veysey.

And, the source of its stiffest opposition? The California Teachers Association. The CTA contends the plan would violate the First Amendment. What they really mean, and will not say, is that it might jeopardize tenure for incompetent teachers. It might shake up the education empire.

The promise of the voucher plan is not to make private schools public but to give public schools some of the zing and the zest of competitive private institutions.

Ryan's bill has passed the Assembly and the State Senate Education Committee. It is now before Senate Finance. Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka, is chairman. Since the rise of "Ecology Now," he has been working to change his image. Known as the "father of the freeways" he wants to become the "father of public schools."

If he really means it, he can unlock the schoolhouse door and let in the air of innovation and improvement by working to see that AB 150 is passed by his committee.

Illegality Alleged In Ballot Measure

It appears that Measure B (MMWD contract approval measure) will be on the November ballot illegally.

Election code Section 3784 requires that the county clerk publish notice of the date for submission of arguments. This the county clerk refused to do.

Why? Could it be because the whole thing smells bad? Investigate, Marinites, why you should vote no on B!

China Switch Major UN Charter Change

Referring to the proposal to remove Nationalist China, one of the five permanent members, from the UN Security Council, this is a major change in the UN charter.

The UN charter was established by agreement among nations. For the United States this means a treaty, negotiated and signed by or for the President and ratified by the Senate. Any basic change should be by the same process.

Is the United States prepared to surrender its basic rights as a permanent member of the UN Security Council to a majority vote in the General Assembly? We could be next — except that they will probably keep the U.S. taxpayer to pay all the bills as in the past.

Newcomer Finds Fair Disappointing

As a relative newcomer (one year) to Marin County I want to express my disappointment with the Marin County Fair. I had heard so many good things about the old Art and Garden Shows in Ross, and the article in your paper last Saturday sounded so glowing that even with the change in location I expected something outstanding. Instead it was a terrible letdown.

The fair people did a fine job preparing the site from scratch, but where were all the exhibits and activities? One tent full of flower and fruit arrangements and one art-photography display, and I counted exactly two operating art-in-action booths. The rest was a dreary array of commercialism, the kind of stuff a fair needs to produce some income but no one really wants to look at, as well as a minimum amount of edible food, some uninspired folk dancers and the deadly dull NASA display — a total waste of a dollar and 45 minutes of our time.

The Marin County Fair looked especially bad in comparison with the Mill Valley Art Festival, which was not only delightful in every respect but showed what can be done with less pretentiousness and more imagination. Just because there are no trees, does that mean the show itself has to be dismal and boring? I'm afraid many people who came this year will find something better to do next year.

Renaissance Faire Finds A Supporter

The Renaissance Pleasure Faire is something I look forward to each year. The entire experience is a thorough delight, and I believe that Marin County is far the better for having it happen here. I am amazed that there is so much opposition to the fair's purchase of the land in Lucas Valley for a permanent location for the fair.

I hate the thought of Lucas Valley Road being widened and made into a four-lane highway, but it's going to happen, whether there's a Renaissance Cultural Center up the valley or not. As a matter of fact, we're already battling, in our Mont Marin area, a county plan to straddle Miller Creek with a four-lane Lucas Valley Road.

It seems to me that if a Renaissance Cultural Center, with 900 acres left natural, goes into Lucas Valley, this is going to reduce the number of new houses that will be built in the valley, and automatically reduce the year-round traffic. The traffic for the four or five week ends of the fair itself could easily be handled by having all the parking at the Civic Center or some other easily accessible location and using busses to carry people to the fair site. I wonder whether a lot of traffic for four or five week ends a year would be worse than a lot of traffic every day from hundreds or thousands of new houses in the same area.

I hope the board of supervisors, when they are deciding on the rezoning application, will consider the opinions of people through out the county regarding the fair. I believe the people of the county love the fair and what it stands for.

Claims Many Horses Kept In San Rafael

I resent your inference that we want the City to prosecute other horse owners. That is not true. If anything, I would like to see the city change that ridiculous ordinance. It is lousy, and the city is fully aware of it. Furthermore, I question the right of the city to use our testimony in court to now go after Mr. Scettrini.

I brought to court a list of 26 corrals, all within the city limits (which by the way does not include Los Ranchitos, which is loaded with horses). The list is in no way complete. It lists only corrals perfectly visible from the street. Judging from the horse trailors and droppings of manure, I believe the number of corrals to be at least twice as large, but since I have no authority to trepass on peoples property, I have no way to know for certain. It would not surprise me, if the number of horses in this town well exceded 500.

Repeatedly you neglect to mention, that we did in fact have a permit. First under the old ordinance and twice we were given a permit by the planning commission under the new ordinance, only to have it revoked by the city council.

Mr. Hotchner's testimony that he only prosecuted us because there was a complaint is sheer nonsense. He cannot tell me that none of the other horse owners have had complaints. It is absolutely impossible to keep horses without some kook, possibly in the other end of town even, complaining. I happen to know for a fact that our next door neighbors, who have since left this miserable town, had complaints that were reported to the city, but they were never prosecuted. . .

This procedure by the city council is not unlike the witch trials in Massachusetts or the Spanish Inquisition, when the individual was found guilty merely by an unfounded and malicious accusation, with no way to prove his innocence. This kind of procedure is barbaric and unbecoming of a democratic society.

Rockefeller Reportedly Seeking Escape From Troubled New York

NEW YORK — The legend both here in New York and in Washington is that Gov. Nelson Rockefeller is looking for an escape hatch. The nation's only fourth-term governor's troubles are piling up with a state deficit of $470 million and a bigger deficit for this harassed, troubled city

He would like to be secretary of state (the office is currently filled) and he is hopeful of second place on the Republican ticket in 1972, so the legend goes. The governor squares his stubborn jaw and says that nothing outside the state would interest him until after 1972

ATTICA, WHERE a prison rebellion was put down with an armed attack costing the lives of 40 prisoners and guards, was a grievous blow Rockefeller was widely criticized for failing to go to the prison to confront the rebels face to face. His associates insist that his presence would have made no difference and might even have further inflamed the prisoners who held guards as hostages.

It comes down to ancient prisons and a penal system that is hardly more than penning men up like animals in a stockade. It would take, by. the governor's estimate, $200 million to replace overcrowded dungeons with modern prisons. A subsidy of $50 million a year is essential for programs to raise the level of the correctional system above mere armed custody.

That money is nowhere in sight. A certain amount of aid comes from the federal government under the heading of correctional reform. But none of this is for capital construction and so 41-year-old Attica, the state's newest prison. The noisome Tombs in New York City, and the other miserable schools for crime and violence will go on trying to repress what ultimately, as Attica showed, is irrepressible.

For child day-care centers, hospitals, nursing homes, and schools for retarded children there is constant agitation by concerned citizens. But for those who fall afoul of the law and are shut up out of sight there is no lobby.

ROCKEFELLER SEES the dilemma of the big-city states as deeply rooted in the New Deal era. The formula of federal aid was based on rural states where millions of farm workers had been dispossessed. Since then many of these millions have migrated to the cities where the relief load constantly grows and the ghettos continually decline

The federal government takes out of New York state $22 billion a year by way of the federal income tax In various forms of federal help the state gets back 11 cents out of each dollar In contrast Arkansas, where, incidentally, Winthrop Rockefeller was governor for two terms gets back 29 cents out of every dollar that goes to the federal treasury That is the New Deal formula that is now outmoded by the cities with their burden of poverty

Rockefeller is just now concentrating on putting over at the next election a $2 5 billion bond issue It would go for mass transit to try to ease the fearful congestion in the metropolitan area, for upstate transit, and for highways A considerable part of the money spent in this way would be matched by federal funds

But the bond issue is snarled in the fierce in-fighting between city and state. New York City Controller Abraham Beame, a candidate for mayor, wants most of the proceeds to go to save the 30-cent subway fare. Without a subsidy it would go to 40 cents or more, and that would stir the wrath of the millions who each day jam into subways badly in need of repair and modernization

FROM THE PERSPECTIVE of the governor's office, the whole system of state governments has a precarious look. This state has a graduated income tax up to 14 per cent and a stiff corporate tax. Adjoining Connecticut and New Jersey have no income tax. So industry and business are lured away and the tax base goes down. New York City has a 3.6 per cent income tax. Sales taxes are near the top. There is little confidence here that the Nixon revenue-sharing proposal will get through Congress or that, if it does, the big-city states will receive sums of any magnitude.

When the governors held their annual conference recently in San Juan, Puerto Rick (Rockefeller was absent as the Attica rebellion moved to a fearful climax), the feeling was one of powerlessness. A governor pleading with Washington for help is not exactly a commanding figure.

WINDOW ON THE WORLD

Peking Driving Wedge Between U.S. And Japan

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

More than any fear the Communist Chinese may have of the United States is their concern over Japan.

Some China students believe this concern may be the real reason behind the Communist regime's invitation to President Nixon to visit Peking. According to this theory the Chinese hope to drive a wedge between the United States and Japan and reverse what they believe is a growing Japanese trend toward militarism.

A COMMUNIQUE signed by the Chinese and a visiting group of Japanese legislators went into unusual detail in outlining the kind of relationship the Chinese would like to have with Japan.

The communique demanded that Japan break relations with the Natio alist Chinese on Formosa and sign a new peace treaty with Peking.

It declared that the "United States must withdraw its armed forces and military installations from Indochina and other areas in the Far East."

It expressed the hope the Japanese people would establish an "independent, democratic, peaceful, neutral and prosperous Japan."

It rejected the "two China" concept and expressed "deep regret" that the government of Japanese Premier Eisaku Sato had agreed to co-sponsor U.S. resolutions in the United Nations which would preserve a U.N. seat for the Nationalists while at the same time seating the Peking regime and giving Peking China's seat in the security council.

THE COMMUNIQUE will be the subject of careful study in Tokyo.

The makeup of the Japanese delegation included members of Sato's own Liberal Democratic party, pointing up a deep split involving not only Sato's future but also selection of his successor. The demand that the United States dismantle all its Far Eastern military installations goes farther than the Red Chinese had gone in past declarations outlining their conditions for establishing diplomatic relations with the United States.

Those conditions demanded total U.S. withdrawal from Indochina and Taiwan (Formosa) but made no mention of Japan.

The conditions set forth for Japan apparently also include American bases on both Japan and Korea, and presumably the Philippines as well.

The communique made no mention of Japanese war reparations to be paid to Peking, but the Chinese themselves have said they simply are waiting to prefent the bill. The Chinese Nationalists asked no reparations.

THE JAPANESE have good relations with the Nationalists and do not want to see them lose their seat in the United Nations. On the other hand, Japanese trade with the mainland came to $825 million in 1970 and Japanese businessmen are eager to expand it.

Historically, China has reason to fear an aggressive militaristic Japan.

But there is a real irony in the Chinese insistance on total U.S. military withdrawal from the area.

A Japan standing alone certainly would be more tempted to develop military muscle than now under her mutual defense treaty with the United States.

Male Chauvinist Sexist Pigs Plot Answer To Women's Lib

NEW YORK — A group of male chauvinist sexist pigs met here recently at a black-tie stag dinner to see if they could do anything about stopping the Women's Lib movement.

As the only newspaperman present I was sworn not to reveal the names of the participants. But I was told that I could print anything I wanted regarding the discussion.

The men, all in their early forties and mostly in the communications and financial fields, felt the only chance that they had of reversing what they considered this country's "permissive" attitude toward women was to repeal the 19th Amendment — which gives the female sex the right to vote.

They said all the problems now confronting the United States could be traced to the 19th Amendment, and there was no sense trying to reverse the direction of the country unless the country came to its senses and took the vote away from women.

THE MALE CHAUVINIST sexist pigs said they had nothing against women personally (a few even admitted to living with one) but it was their opinion that giving females the vote had engendered false hopes in their breasts which had led to unrest and even violence in the home.

In a fervent speech, given after cigars and port were served, an advertising man said:

"We fought in 1776 for liberty, in 1861 for freedom, in 1917 for democracy. . . then women got the vote, and every war since then has been lousy!

"Women have no judgment in such matters. If we are ever to get out of Indochina, the men must take over again."

There were cheers from the partisan all-male audience.

A BANKER who had just returned from Liechtenstein reported that women in that country did not have the vote, and he found them to be the happiest people in Europe.

"All the women smiled at me as they churned their butter," he reported. "They laughed as they milked the cows and sang as they dumped grapes into the huge wine vats. And the men — from their mountain vastnesses to their fertile valleys, from their sun-dappled sloopes or wherever they lived, the men of Lichtenstein stood fast. We're bigger than Liechtenstein, stronger, more easily spelled. Surely our women deserve to be as happy as their women. They can be, providing they don't vote."

An art director held up a poster he had just designed which read "Stop and Think — What would Thomas Jefferson, Abraham Lincoln and Rutherford B. Hayes have thought about entering a political dialogue with Bella Abzug? Makes you wonder, doesn't it?.

. . Could Bella have happened back in the days when we had only 18 amendments? or better still, 17?. . . 'Let 'em vote,' they said. 'What harm can it do? . . Well, now we know!"

The entire room rose as one to toast the poster.

FINALLY, A MAN who identified himself only as general secretary of the Bull Moose Party got on his feet. "We are not opposed to Women's Lib," he said as everyone gasped. "We say equal pay for equal work. . . unconstrained bosoms, if that's the way they want them. . . day care centers for every child in America. . . free beer for ladies at the men's bar at the Biltmore — they can have 'em all and tiparillos, too. . . but not the vote!

"Political thinking is peculiarly masculine. It involves game plans, southern strategies and Phases I and II through God knows what. Women are not up to understanding these things. What's happening to the Supreme Court could happen to all of us. Stop the rot."

Allocation Of Special Job Fund Angers No. State Congressmen

By BENJAMIN SHORE
I-J Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Seven Northern California congressmen — all Democrats — are accusing Labor Secretary J. D. Hodgson of possible political motives in allocating all of California's special job-producing funds to Southern California areas.

They say Hodgson ignored his own guidelines in earmarking the entire $50 million state share for Southern California high-unemployment areas.

The Labor Department declined immediate comment.

Signing a joint letter to Hodgson and a similar telegram to Gov. Ronald Reagan were Reps. Robert L. Leggett of Vallejo, Don Edwards of San Jose, Jerome R. Waldie of Antioch, John E. Moss of Sacramento, John J. McFall of Manteca, Harold (Bizz) Johnson of Roseville and B. F. Sisk of Fresno.

Hodgson last week announced that the Riverside, San Bernardino and San Diego areas would receive $30 million in special Emergency Employment Act funds to establish quick demonstration job program to show the impact of the recession-fighting plan.

In addition, Los Angeles and Orange counties will receive $20 million to demonstrate the effect of the job program on welfare recipients.

The total $50 million is in addition to the job funds allocated to the entire state by the recently passed legislation.

In the joint letter, the congressmen point out that Hodgson previously announced that the $50 million would have wide geographic distribution, go to isolated areas of high unemployment, go to small- and medium-sized areas where the funds would have major impact, and favor areas with large welfare rolls.

"By concentrating all projects in the tight area of San Diego, Orange County, Los Angeles County and the Riverside-San Bernardino area, it is difficult to understand how meaningful test results could be obtained," the congressmen wrote.

"There are many areas throughout the state which, if selected, would more appropriately meet the ground rules for allocation which you have announced."

"Failure of the Department of Labot to explain the criteria for allocation of funds raises suspicions that the decision was made for political pruposes," they said.

They also urged Reagan to direct the state Department of Human Resources to overrule the federal plan and allocate some of the $50 million to Northern California.

Comedienne's Son Arrested

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Perry Diller, 21, son of comedienne Phyllis Diller, was arrested on suspicion of felony drunken driving following a traffic collision in which a teen-ager was seriously injured.

Police said Paul Weisman, 16, was hurt when his car collided late Tuesday with an auto driven by Diller at a Brentwood intersection.

Weisman was taken to Los Angeles County-USC Medical Center with head injuries. A passenger in Diller's car, Christiane Eden, suffered minor injuries. Diller was not hurt.

Chivalry Still Around In '70s

SARASOTA, Fla. (UPI)—If you think chivalry is dead, ask the lady teller who was robbed by a young gunman Wednesday.

Lorraine Butler said the man entered the branch office of a savings and loan association, handed her a paper bag and a note demanding money.

She filled the bag with money and gave it to the gunman.

He kissed her hand and walked from the building.

Environmental Panel Sets Hearing On Aqueduct

I- J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — The controversial Marin-Sonoma Aqueduct will be examined by the state Environmental Quality Study Council in a special hearing Wednesday in the Marin Civic Center.

The council, the state's environmental watchdogs, announced the hearing was called "to explore all aspects of the controversial water project."

The hearing, to be conducted by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, will run from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Behr's office previously reported incorrectly that the hearing would be next Tuesday.

Orange County Supervisor David L. Baker, chairman of the council, said the hearing will give citizens and officials a chance to testify "on the need for the project and the environmental changes which may result."

The 17-member state council, appointed by the governor and the Legislature, was created in 1968.

The hearing comes only six days before the Nov. 2 election in which Marin Municipal Water District is seeking voter approval for the project.

The National Wildlife Federation has offered a reward of $500 for "information leading to the conviction of anyone shooting a bald eagle anywhere in the U.S."

California Approves A 'Chemical Cowboy'

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A chemical cowboy to round up oil spills has been licensed for use in California.

The chemical could mean that San Francisco Bay never again will suffer a recurrence of the severe environmental damage it did in last January's oil spill.

Its use has been licensed by the State Water Resources Control Board after tests by the Department of Fish and Game verified that it caused no environmental harm if used properly.

The chemical, trademarked Oil Herder by the Shell Chemical Co., would cost less than $25 to treat a spill one mile in circumference, according to Shell.

Oil spills spread like wildfire on water because the surface tension of water is roughly twice that of oil. Oil Herder, however, spreading in a layer one molecule thick over the water, has a very low surface tension.

The interaction of the oil on the surface thus reverses, and the oil recoalesces like balls of mercury joining to make one large globule.

Once the oil is herded together into an area hundreds of times smaller than the full spill, it can be soaked up by polyurethane foam, which soaks up 50 times its own weight. The foam then can be reused like a sponge after the oil is squeezed out.

The conventional method of picking up spilled oil has been to throw hay on it, but hay can soak up only six times its own weight, can be used only once, and sinks in a few hours if not raked up.

The chemical, except in very small spills, also can replace booms, mechanical barriers to contain oil on water. Booms often prove worthless in rough water.

Rough water, extremely cold water and high winds also can limit the effectiveness of Oil Herder, Shell acknowledged in a press statement announcing its state license.

The chemical was developed a year ago in Shell's Pipe Line Corporation's research and development laboratories in Houston, Tex., and then tested to show it was harmless to fish, shrimp, oysters and water fowl.

Shell stressed that the chemical also was fully biodegradable, breaking down into simple compounds, and does not sink or disperse oil.

It also can be used to protect marinas and harbors and beaches by pushing back approaching oil slicks.

Shell said Oil Herder was the first oil spill clean-up chemical to be approved by California. The state barred use of chemicals in the January spill on the bay because of a history of bad effects from toxic dispersant chemicals, which merely hide oil by emulsifying it.

The state license requires that use of Oil Herder be supervised by the Department of Fish and Game.

An Invitation To Hirohito?

TOKYO (UPI)—A Tokyo newspaper said today that California Gov. Ronald Reagan delivered an invitation from President Nixon for a visit to the United States by Emperor Hirohito next year.

"I can confirm that Governor Reagan gave Prime Minister Eisaku Sato a letter from President Nixon," Reagan's new secretary, Paul Beck, said. "The contents of it are private. We are in no position to say one thing or another."

The financial newspaper Nikkan Kogyo, in a page one report attributed to "government sources," said that Reagan sounded out the Japanese government on an exchange of official visits by the American and Japanese chiefs of state.

Little Cairo Wins $20,000 Settlement

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Little Cairo has won 20,000 green backs to salve her hip pains that reduced her from a toprate belly dancer to a go-go girl.

Little Cairo, whose real name is Elaine Kranidiotis, 26, won the $20,000 judgment in U.S. District Court Wednesday. The jury awarded the payment for injuries sustained in an auto accident.

Breakdown Of Dollar In Tax Bills

More than 75,000 Marin County tax bills mailed out last week show for the first time a detailed breakdown of taxes paid to each government entity such as schools, county, cities, and special districts.

County Tax Collector-Treasurer Stanley J. Fontez said the first installment laxes are payable now and will become delinquent on Dec. 10. The second installment will become delinquent on April 10 next year.

Because of the detailed breakdown this year, Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell said the county is getting an unprecedented number of telephone calls and letters.

"We certainly encourage any taxpayer to ask questions," said Mitchell. He explained that questions on tax rates and budget information should be addressed to him. Questions concerning the tax bill should be directed to the tax collector-treasurer, while uestions on assessed valuations or homeowners and veterans exemptions should be addressed to the county assessor.

Among the earliest attempts at home air-conditioning was the Egyptian practice of soaking the walls with water. As dry desert winds evaporated the moisture, the houses grew cooler.

National City Bank Is Honored By Stamp

Four Seeking Positions As Tam Valley Fire Panelists

(One of a series of articles to be published this week and next by the Independent-Journal, outlining the issues and presenting the candidates in the local elections Nov. 2)

Four persons — including two women — will be on the ballot Nov. 2 for two vacant seats in the Tamalpais Valley Fire Protection District.

The seats are held by Commissioner William K. Gealey, whose term is expiring but who has not filed for reelection, and Commissioner Byron O. Boulware, seeking his third term on the board.

The polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. for the district's 3,983 registered voters to cast their ballots.

Boulware, 61, is chairman of the district board.

He and his wife, Mildred, live at 412 Shoreline Highway. They have no children. A native of Perry, Mo., Boulware retired as a Navy Reserve commander after nearly 13 years of service throughout the world, including command of an attack transport ship during World War II. He later was head of heavy construction for a major grocery chain and inspected building programs for the Marin County and Oakland housing authorities.

Boulware wrote in a campaign statement that "it is my desire . . . to achieve a very high degree of fire protection in this district. The taxes . . . required to reach this goal are pretty well balanced by . . . lower insurance rates."

Jeanne M. Creemer, who served from last October through June as Marin County's only woman volunteer fireman, resigned from the department and as secretary of the Tamalpais Volunteer Firemen's Association to run for the district board.

Mrs. Creemer, a grandmother, is active with the League of Women Voters of Southern Marin, the Babe Ruth League and other groups. She is the wife of J. Lloyd Creemer, a lumber firm manager. They live at 351 Jean Street.

Mrs. Creemer said she became involved in Tam fire district problems in mid-1970, when directors expressed concern over a dearth of volunteers. She proposed that women be allowed to join the volunteers. She was accepted for training, and answered fire calls along with the men volunteers.

"I would like to see more women in politics at all levels," she reported.

Wendell Marten Joost Jr. will be on the election ballot for the second time. He also ran for the fire board in 1969, but failed to win election. The 30-year-old funeral home manager is past president and vice president of the Tamalpais Volunteer Firemen's Association. Joost lives at 808 Smith Road. He is divorced, and he and his former wife have two children.

He has been involved with volunteer firefighting for 12 years, since his days as a College of Marin student. He is a member of the California State Firemen's Association, Native Sons of the Golden West and American Red Cross.

Enola Walls will be the other woman candidate on the fire district ballot. Mrs. Walls has lived at 311 Robin Road since 1960. She is 64, the youngest of nine children in a pioneer Centralia, Wash., farming family. She is a great-grandmother.

Mrs. Walls is a member of Tamalpais Valley United Methodist Church, church women's groups, Tamalpais Valley Improvement Club and Blythedale Rebekah Lodge 305 of the Odd Fellows.

Mrs. Walls said that "with the rapid growth of the fire district, I believe that upgrading the fire equipment is an important factor, and the cost should be shared by developers."

She also is on the ballot for a seat on the Tamalpais Community Services District.

Aqueduct Is Issue In Board Race

(One of a series of articles to be published this week and next in the Independent-Journal, outlining the issues and presenting the candidates in the local elections Nov. 2)

With two veteran directors retiring and a $1.6 million bond proposal before voters, a field of nine candidates is competing for three seats on the North Marin County Water District board at the Nov. 2 elections.

The bond proposal to finance facilities to import water, either through the proposed Sonoma-Marin Aqueduct or a separate line, has become a major issue in the directors' race.

(The $1.6 million, together with $1.3 million in previously authorized bonds, would finance additional transmission lines from the Russian River. The bond proposal is Measure C on the ballot.)

One candidate, an ecologist, has claimed additional water will bring more growth than the public wants, while another has said growth is here and the water is needed.

Two of the openings were created by the resignation of Directors Emil Renati, after 16 years, and Arnold Heise, with 14 years' service. The third seat is occupied by Franklin Gustafson, a rancher, who is seeking reelection.

The candidates are:

Robert R. Bergis, 48, a real estate dealer who lives at 177 Crest Road, Novato. Educated in engineering and engineering sales, he now owns a real estate business in San Rafael.

Gustafson, 67, of 1970 Indian Valley Road, Novato, who has been on the board for 13 years.

. Patrick Heffernan, 28, of 44 Hillside Terrace, Black Point, a director of the Marin Ecology Center and founder and director of the Regional Institute for Environmental Research.

Louis I. Larson, 40, of 422 Via Herbosa, Loma Verde, an educator in Oakland.

Edward H. Levine, 30, of 7 Hune Court, Novato, a sales account executive.

Wallace R. Lonsway, 35, of 15 Stirrup Lane, Novato, an electrical engineer at Mare Island Shipyard, Vallejo.

M.E. (Babe) Silva, 64, of 837 Sweetser Avenue, Novato, a retired field representative for Borden Milk Co. and former Novato mayor.

Lawrence J. Walters of 65 Via del Vista, Inverness, engaged in land management.

William W. Wright, 42, of 100 Black John Road, Novato, an engineering geologist with Cooper Clerk and Associates in Novato.

Strongest criticism of the water agency has come from Heffernan, who said, "District directors, born in another age with another philosophy, and in some cases an interest in spurring more growth, refuse to consider the public outcry for less growth and lower taxes."

The board should reconsider its plans to join the Sonoma-Marin Aqueduct — a project to bring Russian River water to Marin — before committing taxpayers money, Heffernan said. Furthermore, he said, "Water use is an environmental question and at least one member of the district should be representative of the environment of the North County area." Heffernan is running as a Marin Alternative candidate.

An opposite view is held by Silva, who believed that "the district is run in a very good manner and there doesn't appear to be any real issues in this campaign."

Silva said he favored the bond measure. "I think water is essential and many people think it is essential for growth and development, and growth is here," he said.

Levine saw a need for the district to keep the public informed of every aspect of important actions. The current bond measure "was hurriedly put on the ballot without the full facts on the issue being made clear to the public," he declared.

He said the "bond issue is urged with vague claims of a water crisis in the near future and increased population figures."

Levine believed the district has "adequate facilities to expand to meet any water crisis or population boom if these facilities are used properly and planning with foresight occurs."

Larson said the population of North Marin is expanding "by leaps and bounds," and cited the need to plan for more water and improve engineering and services without financial burden on consumers.

Wright, son of a former district director and former Marin County supervisor, said the "major problem facing our district is potential lack of water."

"The idea that no more water means no more people isn't valid and can be compared with saying no more maternity wards mean no more babies," Wright said.

"Growth can only be limited by proper planning," Wright said. He backed continuation of the district's policies and foresaw eventual recycling of waste water and one or two combined water and sanitary districts for all of Marin.

Said Gustafson, "We have had good management and good engineering in the district." Except for a lack of mains in Black Point, he said, the district is in "good shape."

"I favor the bond issue because it is just following through on a commitment we made in 1960 with Sonoma County," Gustafson added.

"The present board is doing a good job and if elected I will continue their policies," said Bergis, who also supports the bond issue.

Neither Lonsway nor Wallace could be reached by the Independent-Journal for comments on the campaign, and neither responded to written requests for remarks on the issues.

Home Care Director Paints A Bleak Picture Over Finances

The executive director of Marin Home Care Inc. nursing service has warned that unless immediate financing is found the agency may fold.

According to Patricia Ferjancsik, "it is very doubtful" that the nonprofit agency in San Rafael will be able to meet its payroll next month without outside financing.

Directors of the agency will meet Nov. 9 at the Marin General Hospital to discuss the agency's plight and chart some course of action to relieve its financial crisis.

The agency, created in 1965, offers nursing service to both private and publicly supported patients who require acute, post-hospital care and those suffering long-term illnesses.

Basically, it operates at a loss throughout the year but is reimbursed each January byhhe federal government for losses incurred on Medicare patients.

According to Ray K. Bolinger, first vice president on the agency board, the nursing service has operated with reserve funds reimbursed at the end of each year.

However, he said, this year the reserve has been depleted due to inflation and increased costs in operation. Thus the agency is broke until January when the government will reimburse it for its loses on Medicare patients.

He said about $25,000 is expected in January but there is no way of getting it before.

Mrs. Ferjancsik added that expenses have been "cut in every way" including the laying off of an employee and field work by the nursing supervisor.

"We knew it was coming," she said, adding that the agency had to reach a poor financial position before asking for help with any hope of getting it.

"I'm sure we will," she said.

The options open to it are a loan, if anyone will give it based on the $25,000 of expected income, a fund drive or private grant, or through backing by the county board of supervisors, she said.

Adding to the agency's problems, she said, is the federal government's cutback of the Medicare program.

She said the government last year drastically reduced the number and kinds of patients it will support through home nursing services. The result has been a drop in the number of patients and closing of 48 similar agencies in the state.

Marin's two other nursing agencies — Clarke Home Nursing Service and Kaiser Home Nursing — could not be reached yesterday for comment on their financial status.

Novatan Injured; Auto Strikes Deer

A 43-year-old Novato man was slightly injured, but refused hospital treatment, when his car struck a deer last night northbound on Highway 101, north of San Pedro Road, the California Highway Patrol, reported.

Officers said Robert B. Hanna, of 76 Orchard Way, complained of pain following the accident which occurred at 10:50 p.m. when the animal jumped into the road in front of his auto.

An Early Start For Youngsters

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — A few of the state's youngsters may be starting school just a little earlier from now on, thanks to a new law signed by the governor this month.

The bill, AB 1965, authored by Assemblyman Leroy F. Greene, D-Sacramento, will allow admission of pupils to the first grade regardless of age if the pupil has completed a year of kindergarten and is determined to be ready for first grade work.

It also allows admission into the first grade of pupils who have completed a year of kindergarten at either a private or a public school, rather than only at a public school.

Plea For Angela Fund Bill

An Assembly bill to get the state to pay for the costs of the Angela Davis-Ruchell Magee cases is stalled in Sacramento and needs individual support from citizens of Marin County, Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell said today.

He suggested that citizens write to the governor, asking him to keep the bill, AB 644, moving.

The bill was introduced June 18 by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, and coauthored by Sens. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael; Milton Marks, R-San Francisco, and Fred W. Marler, R-Redding.

The bill would amend a State Penal Code section to require state reimbursement to Marin for the costs stemming from the Aug. 7, 1970 shoot-out at the Marin Hall of Justice.

"We're talking about a million-dollar cost," said Mitchell. "What is needed is continuing pressure on the governor to keep the bill moving." Mitchell suggested that citizens also write to friends and relatives in other California counties, asking support for AB 644 from their legislators.

Examination Of Suspect Ordered

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — A psychiatric examination was ordered yesterday in Sonoma County superior court for Mark D. Souza, 32, accused of attempting to murder his estranged wife.

Judge Joseph P. Murphy Jr. directed Souza to be examined by two psychiatrists and scheduled a report for Oct. 29. Souza was arrested Oct. 11 after allegedly stabbing his wife, Carolyn, 21, with a knife during an argument at her home at 101 Burlington Drive, Petaluma.

Garry Claims U.S. Courts Biased Against Minorities

By MARY LEYDECKER

Charles Garry, the San Francisco attorney who represents the Black Panther Party, last night answered a resounding "no" to the question of whether justice is possible in American courts.

Speaking before a largely white crowd of more than 200 persons at the First Presbyterian Church in San Anselmo, Garry said that it is not possible "under our present setup with our establishment and economic setup" for people in ghettoes to receive justice.

Garry, repeatedly demonstrating the hard-hitting advocacy which has made him a famous defender of radical causes, said that he has no faith in the adversary system in courts today.

"The adversary system is a fiction," he said, because the state has more power than the defense, particularly in its ability to grant immunity to witnesses who testify for the prosecution.

"Ascertainment of the truth" should be the goal in the courtroom, he said, with both sides also having the same economic strength.

"With the prosecution spending $1 million, why should the Angela Davis defense have to beg, borrow and steal all over the country to get money," Garry asked.

Garry called American society racist, saying two-thirds of Americans are "overt racists" who say in effect, "I don't want no niggers around here."

The other third, according to Garry are "subjective racists," who say, 'I'm for Negroes, but they've got to make it on their own.' "

"People who say they are not racists are either lying or fools," Garry said.

He added that in a racist society, "What chance does a black man or a brown man or a yellow man have to get a fair judge and a fair jury?"

The attorney, a hollow-eyed gray-haired man, saw social problems as the basis for much crime, saying that the fictional character Jean Valjean (who went to prison for stealing a loaf of bread when he was hungry) "is my hero."

"The absolute standard of 'guilty or not guilty' is no standard," he said, explaining his view that the ghetto resident who can't get a job "resorts to self-help" and moves from "the minimum security of the ghetto to the maximum security of the prison."

Garry also attacked judges who belong to "that blatant racist club," the Elks Club. "How can any judge who belongs to any all-white organization expect to have the confidence of black, brown, red or yellow defendants?" he asked.

"Plea bargaining" he condemned as a practice that "sells 60 million Americans down the river." Garry said that many persons plead guilty to lesser charges rather than go to trial because of lack of money and then later find "that little deal can be a real problem" on their record.

"I am not saying, however," he added that "people who have violated the law cannot find plea bargaining helpful to them."

As for his own clients, Garry said he had not received "one dime" from the Black Panthers or others he has defended for the past four years.

For this reason, he said, he will not take cases of those accused of crimes stemming from the Aug. 21 violence at San Quentin unless he receives a court appointment.

He condemned a Marin judge (E. Warren McGuire) who earlier this week refused to appoint him to represent one of the convicts, saying, "If they don't get lawyers of their own choosing, they're not going to have any lawyers."

"Then there will be more chaos in the courtroom and who is going to be responsible?" he asked.

Garry, a man of Armenian descent who said he grew up in Selma without "ever seeing a black man," concluded that until "a way is found to feed 16 million hungry Americans it doesn't matter who the judge is."

County Tax Rates Compared

Of 58 counties in California, 35 have tax rates that are higher than Marin's $2.89 per $100 assessed valuation, and 22 have lower rates.

Marin County Auditor--Controller Michael Mitchell said the tax rate comparisons are made in a report received from the state controller's office.

In the Bay Area, only San Mateo County with a rate of $2.069 is lower than Marin's. The tax rates in other counties are $3.19 in Alameda; $3.026 in Contra Costa; $2.92 in Napa; and $3.85 in Sonoma County. In San Francisco, the combined city and country rate is $12.73 which means that the county rate comes to about $3.50, said Mitchell.

Kol Shofar Sets Two Special Events

Congregation Kol Shofar, which meets in the Marin Jewish Community Center on North San Pedro Road, will host a group from Dominican College at tomorrow's regular 8:15 p.m. Shaboth service.

On Saturday the congregation will hold a "get acquainted" reception for new members, beginning at 8 p.m.

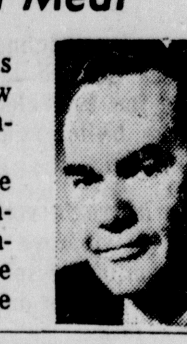
Many Women Don't Know How To Prepare A Balanced Meal



Most women know that a balanced diet is essential to health. However, surveys show that many homemakers believe this is accomplished by serving a variety of foods.

According to an article in the Journal of the American Dietetic Association, when a number of women were asked to define nutritionally balanced meals, only 50 per cent came close. Dr. Howard Bauman, quoted in the article, believes that much of the trouble stems from lack of consumer education.

Knowledge of foods usually comes from custom, newspapers and what the mother learned in grade school or high school. Ten plausible, but not quite accurate, ideas are mentioned. The first is that milk contains calcium and builds bones and teeth. No mention is made of the fact that milk is an excellent source of protein. Second, that protein comes from meat and poultry. What about cereals and vegetables?

THE THIRD is that orange juice contains the vitamin that prevents colds. Another false notion is that potatoes and bakery goods are filling and fattening. The next involves sugar — a source of quick energy, but a food that is fattening and bad for the teeth. The sixth is that iron is a blood builder, but sources other than liver are not known.

Seventh on the list is that fats are bad for you and cause heart disease. This is only half the story and at best, controversial. Next is that breakfast cereals are full of vitamins and should only be eaten at breakfast. And the ninth centers on vitamins. All the women surveyed agreed that vitamins were necessary to good health. However, the only specific actions of these substances centered on vitamin C in orange juice to prevent colds and vitamin A in carrots to improve the vision.

AND LAST on the list was the statement that calories contribute to overweight. To the ladies all calories were bad and these women knew very little about the relationship of calories to nutrition and energy requirements.

FACIAL BUTTERFLY

L. S. writes: My son has a butterfly design across the bridge of his nose and upper cheeks. Our doctor says it is lupus erythematosus. Is this condition due to infection?

REPLY

We do not know. The collagen disease has followed infection, injury, or exposure to the sun. The connective tissue is affected and symptoms include the butterfly lesion on the face that you describe, as well as fever, loss of appetite and weight, and fast pulse. Send stamped, addressed envelope for our leaflet on this disorder.

DETECTING LUNG CANCER

H. U. writes: How is lung cancer detected?

REPLY

The initial indication comes from the chest X-ray. Definite proof is obtained by searching the sputum for cancer cells, removing certain neck glands, or obtaining a biopsy of the tumor with a special tube — the bronchoscope. Coughing is a common symptom but is seldom recognized as such because most of the victims have a smoker's cough.

CONVERTIBLE AND PREGNANCY

Mrs. T.writes: Is it harmful for a pregnant woman to ride in a convertible with the top down?

REPLY

No, including the trip to the hospital for delivery.

DIABETES INSIPIDUS

G.S. writes: Can diabetes insipidus be cured?

REPLY

No, but it can be controlled with a pituitary hormone that curtails the manufacture of urine. Several products are available; some are administered hypodermically and others are inserted into the nose or mouth. This form of diabetes is a disorder of the pituitary gland in which two or three times the normal amount of urine is passed daily.

RELIEF FOR ITCH

F.T. writes: What takes the itch out of insect bites?

REPLY

Apply baking soda, household ammonia, cold compresses, or very hot water. Applications of an antihistaminic or cortisone cream will help. If the discomfort is severe, it may be advisable to take a tablet containing an antihistamine.

CRACKLING IN EARS

I.M. writes: What causes one or both ears to crackle and crunch when I swallow?

REPLY

The muscles used in swallowing open up the eustachian tubes that lead to the ears. Crackling sounds follow movements of the eardrums due to changes in pressure.

DISTORTED IMAGE

A.R. writes: How does astigmatism affect the eyes?

REPLY

In this condition vision may not be reduced but the image lacks sharpness in both near and distant vision. The distortion varies with the severity of involvement.

DILUTING BEER

A reader writes: Is it true that diluting beer or soda pop with water can be harmful?

REPLY

No, If anything, dilution may delay the absorption of the alcohol in beer. Regardless of this possibility, both will dilute after they reach the stomach.

Today's Health Hint — Glare of any kind is irritating to the eyes.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

Death Blow Given Property Tax Bills

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislative leaders today pronounced the death of property tax relief for the 1971 session, acknowledging it is far tougher to change the tax system than to control welfare.

"All you have in welfare reform is the taxpayers vs. the poor," shrugged one veteran Republican. Tax reform, he added, pits the taxpayers against each other.

With the Legislature's killing Wednesday of two major property tax relief bills — one sponsored by Democrats and the other by Republicans — welfare reform remained the 1971 session's major accomplishment.

It appeared certain the legislature again would fail to provide the property tax relief both political parties have been promising voters since 1964.

"For the last seven years you've been going to the people of this state telling them how you're going to Sacramento and do something about property tax relief," Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, D-Van Nuys, admonished his colleagues during floor debate.

"Well, you lied. You know who you are protecting. You're protecting the people who gave you the big campaign contributions ... the banks, the corporations, the oil companies and the tremendously wealthy."

Moretti's angriest words were reserved for the man he hopes someday to succeed.

"There is only one man killing tax relief in this legislature today and that man is Gov. Ronald Reagan," the Democrat charged.

Senate leader James R. Mills, D-San Diego, later told a newsman "the most we now could pass would be enough to cover the budget deficit—and we might not be able to do that."

Both legislative houses figured in Wednesday's doubleheader tax killing.

In the most dramatic action, Assembly Republicans voted in a bloc against a $1.1 billion Democrat plan. The bill needed 54 votes—a two-thirds majority—for passage. It went down to defeat 37-27 in the legislature's first major floor fight of the session over taxes.

Later, the Senate Revenue and Taxation Committee rejected by one vote a $1 billion tax shift program carried with Reagan's blessing by Senate Republican Caucus Chairman John L. Harmer of Glendale.

Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, announced he will ask the same senate committee next Wednesday to approve his "mini-package" — a half-billion dollar program designed primarily to balance the state's budget and resolve an acute cash flow problem through income tax withholding.

"It's now time to be realistic and balance the budget—not affect major social policy," said Bagley.

It was Bagley, a veteran of both tax and welfare negotiations, who candidly spelled out the difference between the two.

"Tax reform is much more difficult than welfare reform," he said during floor debate. "All you have in welfare reform is the taxpayers vs. the poor." In tax fights, he continued, the issue boils down to this: "To whom do you give relief and from whom do you extract the money to finance it?"

He added, "It's sort of a cruel hoax to give (tax) relief on the one hand and take (taxes) away on the other."

Democrats said 90 per cent of California's citizens would have benefitted from their plan.

It would have generated $460 million for homeowner property tax relief, erased a $330 million deficit in the $6.8 billion state budget, financed $265 million in capital outlay and provided an extra $316 million for schools next year. It also would have raised income, sales and business taxes and enacted a withholding feature that initially would have required double income tax payments.

Reagan's office had opposed the measure as a "monstrous tax increase" and said it failed to provide permanent property tax relief.

PORNOGRAPHY

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—A bill to excuse California developers of obscene movie film from state pornography laws has been vetoed by Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke.

In rejecting the measure Wednesday, Reinecke cited a "marked increase" in the number of film developers "whose entire business is that of developing and producing pornographic films."

The bill, by Sen. George Moscone, D-San Francisco, would have freed the developers from prosecution if they have no financial interest in the film.

WELFARE

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke says the Reagan Administration is responsible for the continuing decline in the number of Californians on welfare.

The acting governor said Wednesday that administrative reforms put into effect by Reagan prior to the legislature's enactment of a welfare reform law are reflected in the six month drop.

Reinecke, serving as acting governor during Reagan's trip to the Far East, released figures showing there were 2,178,569 persons on the state's welfare rolls in September, about 10,000 less than in August.

"I want to emphasize that the six-month drop in the number of welfare recipients reflects only the administrative reforms we put into effect," Reinecke said.

"The impact of California's new welfare reform law will not be felt until November or December."

He told a news conference the federal, state and county governments saved $18 million in August alone and have saved $60 million since the decline began six months ago.

BEACHES

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation to help preserve public access to California beaches was signed Wednesday by Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke.

The measure prohibits the sale or lease of property owned by local agencies which lies between the ocean and the nearest street unless the public is guaranteed access through the property to the ocean.

The bill was authored by Assemblyman Kenneth Cory, D-Garden Grove.

SMOG DEVICES

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke Wednesday signed a bill increasing the maximum cost that can be charged in California for motor vehicle smog control devices from $65 to $85.

Backers of the measure by Assemblyman W. Craig Biddle, R-Riverside, said the price boost was needed because of inflation.

Bishop Hits Greed Of Businesses

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—A Canadian bishop assailed international business giants today for monopolistic and greedy practice in poor countries and called for Vatican diplomatic pressure as one way of curbing them.

Bishop Alexander Carter told the third International Synod of Bishops that multi national corporations operate in poor and weak nations in an unjust way —"...taking too much and leaving too little, crushing local competition and gaining monopolistic power."

He called for the Vatican to order its diplomatic corps to exert political pressure on governments to curb business abuses. He also said an international authority—"representing both capitalist and socialist nations" —should set up a review board to hear complaints from poor countries and draw up a code of business conduct.

Carter, one of 18 speakers at the synod session on justice in the world, said the history of foreign corporations was filled with injustice, with efficiency, profits and loyalty to the home country taking priority over needs and aspirations of local people.

Cardinal John J. Carberry of St. Louis asked the synod to take action on abortion, racial discrimination, prison inmates and prisoners of war.

"We ought to urge justice towards prisoners of war," he said. "Both sides in a war treat these prisoners unjustly and cruelly."

He did not cite any specific examples.

He scored injustices in penal systems, where he said human dignity was crushed out of a desire to avenge the crime rather than to correct and rehabilitate the criminal.

Carberry also said there were "very frequent" racial injustices in the United States and elsewhere in the world and he deplored this.

Closure Asked

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Southern Pacific Co. asked the State Public Utilities Commission for permission Wednesday to close its station at Berkeley, where it no longer provides passenger service.

NOTICE TO BIDDERS
TOT LOT PLAY AREA
PIONEER MEMORIAL PARK
PROJECT NO. 69-008
CITY OF NOVATO
MARIN COUNTY, CALIFORNIA

Sealed proposals will be received at the office of the Finance Director, City of Novato, California, until 4:00 o'clock p.m., on Thursday, November 4, 1971, for the furnishing of all plant, labor, materials, tools, equipment and machinery necessary for the construction of a "Tot Lot" Play Area in Pioneer Memorial Park, PROJECT NO. 69-008.

The proposals will be publicly opened and read in the office of the Finance Director on the date and at the time mentioned above. Plans and Specifications (but not including City Standard Specifications or other documents included by reference) and proposal forms may be obtained at the office of the City Engineer upon payment of a printing and service charge in the amount of five dollars ($5.00) which amount shall not be refunded. All checks shall be made payable to the City of Novato and should be mailed to the City of Novato, Public Works Department, P. O. Box 578, Novato, California 94947.

The work to be done includes, but is not necessarily limited to: construction of a play area, Project No. 69-008, and all appurtenances necessary for the successful completion of the projects as shown on the plans and specifications.

Notice is hereby given that on December 8, 1970, the City Council adopted a resolution determining the general prevailing rate of wages applicable to the work to be done, which shall be the minimum rates paid on this project, a copy of which wage scale is attached hereto.

The City reserves the right to reject any or all bids, to waive any informality in a bid, and to make award as the interests of the City may require. This notice is given by order of the Council of the City of Novato, California.

No bid will be received unless it is made on proposal form furnished by the City Engineer. Each proposal must be accompanied by a certified or cashier's check or bid bond in the amount of ten percent (10%) of the estimated aggregate amount of the bid as a guarantee that the bidder, if the award is made to him in accordance with the terms of his proposal, will promptly execute a contract in the required form, secure payment of workmen's compensation insurance, and furnish a satisfactory faithful performance bond and a labor and material bond. Each of said bonds shall be in the sum of not less than one hundred percent (100%) of the estimated aggregate amount of the payments to be made under the contract, computed on the basis of the price stated in the proposal. In addition to the above, and if requested by the City, the bidder shall furnish a financial statement of recent date. Failure to comply with this requirement will render a bid informal and shall be sufficient cause for rejection.

The contractor shall complete the construction of the total project within thirty (30) working days, the first day of which shall be the date of the City Engineer's Notice to Proceed.

SHE WANTS TO BE A SERGEANT

Flying in the face of tradition, 19-year-old Rosa Mar, a co-ed at the University of California at Davis, is applying for a job as a sergeant-at-arms in the California legislature. If she's hired, she'd be the first female to hold such a job. Miss Mar drew support yesterday from Sen. Mervyn M. Dymally, D-Los Angeles, who "could use some beauty." No decision has been made on her application.

AGRICULTURAL PRESERVES

Owners Of 444 Parcels Due Savings On Taxes

Marin Assessor Bert W. Broemmel yesterday released the names of owners of 444 parcels, who, this fiscal year, will save a total of $605,769 under agricultural preserve agreements.

Nearly 87,000 acres are included in the county's agricultural preserve, meaning that landowners are entitled to tax breaks in return for an agreement to leave the property as ranchland for 10 years.

The list of property owners, including acreage of their property and tax savings, follows:

Ecumenical Association Will Administer Housing

The Ecumenical Association for Housing in Marin probably will administer 21 units of low and moderate income housing planned at the 136-unit townhouse development at Miller Creek gardens in Marinwood.

Martin Mackey, executive director of the ecumenical association, made this announcement at last night's meeting of the association board of directors at Pilgrim Park community center at Merrydale Road and North San Pedro Road, San Rafael.

The townhouse development, by Kaiser Aetna Co., will be built on 18 acres at the corner of Miller Creek Road and Las Gallinas Road. The Marin County Planning Commission approved 136 units on Oct. 11, with 21 of the units to be low to moderate income housing to be administered by a nonprofit organization like the ecumenical association.

The Ecumenical Association for Housing in Marin also:

REVOLVING FUND — Heard from Richard Rosenberg that $24,000 had been pledged toward the $50,000 revolving fund to be created to help finance low and moderate income housing.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE — Elected Hazen Goddard of Terra Linda to the executive committee to replace Douglas P. Ferguson, who resigned because of pressure of work. Ferguson remains on the board of directors.

BY LAWS — Named Ferguson and Kay Scheaffer of Mill Valley to review the association bylaws for possible revision.

NEW DELEGATE — Welcomed Richard Enos as delegate reprsenting Our Lady of Mt. Carmel Church in Mill Valley. He succeeded Charles P. Semple, who moved away from Mill Valley.

NEXT MEETING — Set the next meeting for 8 p.m. Nov. 17 at the Pilgrim Park community center.

Board To Eye Other Financing

Trustees of the Marin Community College District, responding to concern that the $16.7 million bond proposal Nov. 2 amounted to voter "blackmail," decided last night to explore all school financing avenues in the event the bond issue failed.

Previously, the board had said voters would certainly be faced with pay-as-you-go taxes if the bond proposal — designed to complete the College of Marin campus and help construct the new north campus in Novato — was defeated.

But last night the board unanimously passed a resolution giving it a variety of financing options. A pay-as-you-go tax was included, the others being: another bond issue before next July 1 and if that failed, still another next November; a higher tax rate or discontinuing programs and services.

The resolution was in answer to an editorial in the Independent-Journal Tuesday, calling for the board to examine all other possible courses of finance if the bond issue failed.

Board President Donald K. Felt said the Independent-Journal had done the district a service in bringing out in the open at this time. He said that the same questions had been asked at various meetings. He said that the board had no intention of imposing "an undue burden on the taxpayers."

Betty Machado of 1424 Dawes Street, Novato, termed the resolution "blackmail" because the board was telling the voters either to pass a bond issue or they would be taxed higher for the construction of the colleges.

"You have a lot of angry citizens in Novato," she said.

Trustee Charles Best, who has worked on the bond committee, gave a glowing account of the endorsement of the bond issue by 50 organizations and many individuals.

He said that approximately $13 million of the $16.7 million bond issue is slated for construction of the Indian Valley Colleges. This would be matched by state funds bringing the total to $20 million for the construction of the campus in Novato.

The board then set 7 p.m. Nov. 2 for a workshop on planning future buildings. The workshop will be held at the board room on the Kentfield campus. The board then will go to the bond headquarters at Third Street and Tamalpais Avenue in San Rafael to hear the election results.

War Toll At Six-Year Low

SAIGON (UPI)—The U.S. military command said today five Americans were killed in the Vietnam war last week for the lowest weekly combat toll in more than six years.

It was the second consecutive week in which less than 10 GIs were killed with eight killed the previous week.

It brought to 45,577 the number of Americans killed in fighting in Indochina since Jan. 1, 1961. The toll last week was the lowest since Aug. 7, 1965 when three Americans died in combat.

FIRE CALLS

YESTERDAY:

Radio Hinges On Foot Patrol

The Marin County Housing Authority board last night agreed to purchase an expensive piece of radio equipment for the Marin City sheriff's substation in exchange for a foot patrol in the community, authority deputy director Keith Kelly reported.

He said the board asked the authority staff to request the foot patrol from the Marin sheriff's department with the understanding that, if the patrol is approved, the housing authority will buy an $1,800 walkie-talkie system for the substation.

A foot patrol through the community, to improve police protection for residents, has been a long-time dream of many Marin City people.

Purchase of the radio transmitter-receiver system would guarantee that such a system was always available in the community, according to Kelly. He said the walkie-talkie system now used at the substation is often called out for use in other areas of the county.

Marin County Housing Authority Board Also:

CLOSED SESSION — Met in closed session for about 30 minutes to discuss hiring a senior accounting assistant.

EMPLOYMENT — Voted to hire Mrs. Betty Gray as senior accounting assistant at a salary of $717 per month. Mrs. Gray, a former employee of the Department of Housing and Urban Development in Washington, D.C. will assist the authority's comptroller in general accounting work.

REMODELING — Heard a detailed report on plans for remodeling of administrative offices in Marin City to centralize administrative and maintenance staff now working out of offices around the county. The remodeling, which must be approved by the Department of Housing and Urban Development, has already won endorsement from the housing authority board.

MODERNIZATION — Authorized purchase of $5,200 worth of playground equipment as part of the first phase of improving the community's nine small playgrounds.

BUDGET HEARING — Set a special hearing for a budget for the low-rent and leased housing program for Wednesday at 8 p.m. in Manzanita Center.

Oldster Dies

LOS BANOS (UPI)—Esther Hollister Gould, 103, the oldest resident of this Merced County community, died Wednesday in a local convalescent home.

Board Sets Tax Election For January

Lagunitas School District trustees decided last night to add a tax rate election to the trustee ballot scheduled for Jan. 11, 1972.

The district's voters will be asked to approve a two-year extension of the special 90-cent tax rate that is due to expire June 3, 1972.

The district's general purpose maximum tax rate is $2.65 per $100 assessed valuation. Voters in 1970 approved the additional 90-cent rate that will expire next year unless extended. Bond repayments and overrides brought the total rate to $4.40 per $100 assessed valuation this year.

The district already had scheduled a special election Jan. 11 to fill the seat from which Trustee Eugene Di Basilio has resigned. The trustees voted 4-0 to combine the tax election and trustee ballot to save taxpayers' expense, according to the office of Supt. William E. Johnson.

The special tax extension is needed to continue the present educational program, the trustees declared last night.

Ransom Paid In Viet Accident

DA NANG, Vietnam (UPI)—Vietnamese slum dwellers, angered when a 5-year-old boy was hit by a U.S. Army vehicle, held two American soldiers and their truck for ransom Wednesday in the second incident of its kind in 10 days.

The two GIs were held for three hours then released unharmed. But the Vietnamese refused to move barbed wire ringing the truck until U.S. authorities paid 250,000 piasters — equal to $900-compensation 5½ hours later.

The incident occurred where Highway 1 runs through a huge slum area known as "Dogpatch" beside the sprawling Da Nang air base. It involved a truck belong to the U.S. Army's 196th Light Infantry Brigade, American Division.

Stinson Fire Board Reelects Chief

Stinson Beach Fire District directors elected George H. White as chief for another year, at their meeting last night. The board will elect officers at its November meeting.

Directors also voted to buy a portable resuscitator for the community, using volunteer and donated funds, White reported.

You are looking at Robert Musel, UPI correspondent for the I-J, who is looking at the familiar London scene. London today has been called the "swinging-est" city in the world. But it also swings with significant news which is Musel's forte as a correspondent.

Musel owns London

BUT HE'S MORE THAN WILLING TO SHARE IT

Robert Musel, our man in London, seems to have a mortgage on everything that happens of great moment in Britain's mother city. Which means not much will happen which you, in turn, won't know about by reading the I-J.

As UPI's senior editor there he has covered three wars. He was one of the first World War II correspondents to ride into combat with fighter pilots. He came under fire in two Arab-Israeli wars.

Inquisitive, aggressive, Musel has reported from every European country and most of the Middle East and Africa. He covered the German blitz of London in World War II, war crimes trials at Darmstadt, the Berlin airlift, the death of King George, the coronation of Queen Elizabeth. He has interviewed George Bernard Shaw and Albert Einstein, even the stripteasers of the Folies Bergere.

A confidante of entertainment personalities, Musel is also a top song writer. His "Band of Gold" ballad sold over one million records, and he did the background music of "To Paris With Love," starring Alex Guinness.

A man of many sides, Musel has unerring direction in homing in on matters of interest and concern to our readers. For news "Made in London", we suggest you turn to the I-J.

Kent State Probe Asked In Petitions

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Two Kent State University students went to the White House Wednesday with petitions signed by more than 10,000 students and faculty at the school. They asked President Nixon to order a federal grand jury to investigate the slaying of four students by National Guard troops at the university in 1970.

They met with a Nixon aide and said they asked for a decision before Dec. 1. Attorney General John N. Mitchell already has said there would be no such investigation.

Magee Petition Is Back In Lower Court

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The state Supreme Court yesterday bounced back to a lower court Ruchell Magee's latest effort to act as his own lawyer in his murder, kidnapping and conspiracy case.

Chief Justice Donald Wright sent Magee's petition for a writ of mandamus or prohibition to the state Court of Appeal for further action without giving a reason for his action. The court of appeal last year rejected a similar petition.

Magee filed an appeal by mail Monday from San Quentin Prison. He long has sought to serve as his own attorney, blaming lawyers for his imprisonment.

He was turned down on his request early in the case but Magee said the denial "was contrary to established law."

He currently has a court-appointed lawyer, Ernest L. Graves of Los Angeles.

Billy Casper's Golf Game Problems Perplexing

NAPA, Calif. (UPI)—Billy Casper can't explain what has happened to his game, except that it has gone sour.

Casper, who has won his share of tourney titles since turning pro way back in 1959, is working on a shutout for 1971. He didn't plan it that way but that's the way things have gone.

"I can't put my hand on exactly what is wrong," Casper said Wednesday on the eve of the $150,000 Kaiser International Open. "It seems that every week that I've played something else has gone bad. One week it's been my short game and another it's been my putting."

Casper, who won $200,000 two years ago to join Arnold Palmer as the only golfing millionaires, has picked up "only" $77,072 thus far this year. He has yet to win a tourney title and if he fails in the two or three remaining events he is scheduled to play in, it will be the first time that has happened to him since his rookie year on the tour.

The closest Billy has come to winning this year was in the very first tourney—the Los Angeles Open way back in January. He finished in a tie for the lead after the regulation 72 holes and then lost out to Bobby Lunn on the fourth extra hole. Casper turned up for the Kaiser by shooting a two under par 37-33—70 over Silverado's North course in Wednesday's pro-am prelude and that encouraged him.

"I made some pretty good shots" Casper said. "Maybe I can keep it going."

Ken Still is the Kaiser defending champion and he's back to see if he can make it two in a row as the PGA tour picks up after a two-week layoff. Still and Casper are among a big field of 154 shooting for a winners prize of $30,000.

Lee Trevino winner this year of the US, British and Canadian opens, did not pick up a single dollar in official money since rejoining the tour following an apendectomy this summer. However, the self-styled "Merry Mexican" says he is ready to pick up now where he left off in June.

"I've regained my strength and shooting eye," said Trevino, "and I hope to do well this week. I've never won the Kaiser although I've always played well in theis tourney. Maybe this is the year I win it."

Trevino is shooting for the 1971 money winning title and he has a good shot at the lead if he can finish in the first three here.

As of the moment, Jack Nicklaus leads with $207,080 to $197,219 for Trevino.

Nicklaus has passed up the Kaiser this year to play in a series of tournaments in Australia. Palmer too is missing. He won the Lancome tourney—an event limited to eight players—at Paris last Sunday and is home resting this week.

Because of the big Kaiser field, play today and Friday will be from both the North and South courses at Silverado and from both the first and 10th tees. After Friday's second round the field will be cut to the low 70 and ties for the final two rounds which will be played over the North course only. Of the top 20 money winners this year missing from the Kaiser event in addition to Nicklaus and Palmer are Gary Player, Bruce Crampton, Gene Littler and Dave Stockton.

DALTON IN LINE

Angels Dismiss General Manager

ANAHEIM (UPI)—To the surprise of no one, the California Angels have fired general manager Dick Walsh and seek as his replacement Harry Dalton, director of player personnel for the Baltimore Orioles.

If Dalton is lured from the American League champion Orioles, it was indicated he will have a large role in selection of a field manager.

Harold "Lefty" Phillips was fired Oct. 7 after holding the manager's job for almost three full seasons. He replaced Bill Rigney May 27, 1969.

Walsh, 45, has four years remaining on a seven-year contract as general manager and will be paid in full, according to board chairman Gene Autry and president Bob Reynolds who announced his dismissal.

Autry and Reynolds acknowledged that "exploratory talks" have taken place with Dalton who is credited with numerous trades and development of young players in the rise of the Orioles to championship status.

One report said Dalton would bring along his own choice as manager—Billy Hunter, a Baltimore coach.

There were several known candidates for the job of field manager. These include Hank Bauer, former manager at Baltimore, Kansas City and Oakland; and Del Rice, former Angel catcher and successful farm club manager at Salt Lake City.

It was rumored also that Leo Durocher would not be averse to leaving the Chicago Cubs and taking the Angel job. Another report said Dick Williams, Oakland manager, might be available. Williams was publicly chastized by owner Charles Finley when the A's lost to Baltimore in the American League playoffs.

The Angels finished fourth in the American League West in 1971 after third place finishes the previous two years.

Wilson To Cover 49er End Sunday

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—If Gene Washington, the San Francisco 49ers all-pro wide receiver, is able to play Sunday against St. Louis, he will get special attention from the Cardinals' free safety Larry Wilson.

Wilson has been tabbed by many football observers as the best in the business when it comes to defense. He has been in the Pro Bowl eight of the last nine years, has been named the Cardinals' most valuable player twice, and holds the St. Louis record for interceptions, return yardage and longest return.

A Washington - Wilson matchup would be a classic battle, but the San Francisco pass receiver has been hampered with a deep thigh bruise and may miss the contest.

"He could play, but I won't know for a couple of days," said San Francisco coach Dick Nolan.

Without Washington, the 49ers still have two top receivers in Ted Kwalick and Bob Windsor, but St. Louis also has another top defender in cornerback Roger Wehrli.

Raiders To Face Rookie Quarterback Anderson

OAKLAND (UPI)—The Oakland Raiders will be facing a rookie Cincinnati quarterback Sunday, but they will be unusually careful.

Two years ago the Bengals went with a rookie quarterback (Greg Cook) and beat Oakland.

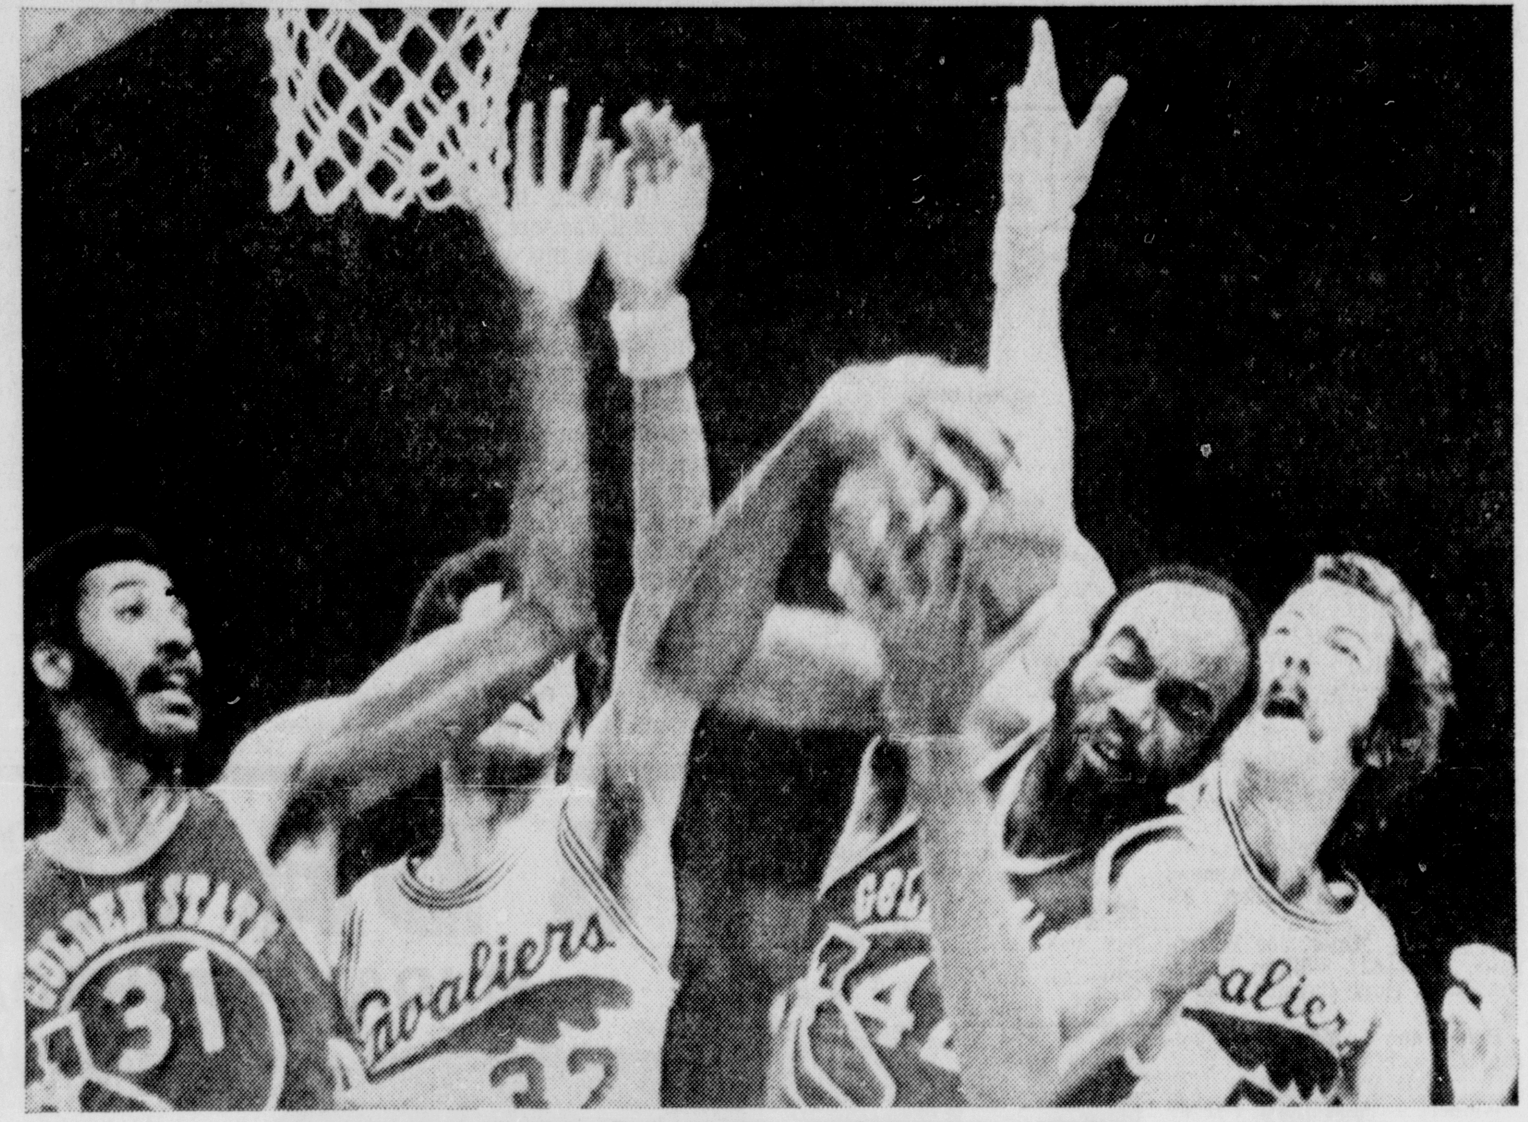
"I don't think we'll be taking the rookie quarterback too lightly," said Raiders defensive end Ben Davidson. "Not after what happened in Boston against a rookie quarterback (Jim Plunkett)."

The Cincinnati rookie—Ken Anderson—has done a creditable job since taking over for the injured Virgil Carter, completing 33 of 62 passes for 400 yards and two touchdowns.

Davidson and Raider coach John Madden compared Anderson to Pittsburgh's Terry Bradshaw.

"He runs a 4.7 40," Madden said, "which is running back or receiver speed. They have some plays designed for him to run and others where he takes off on his own."

The Raiders spent much of Wednesday working on a defense to contain Anderson's running and passing with backup quarterback Ken Stabler playing the role of the rookie Bengal quarterback.



A REBOUND FOR NATE

Golden State Warriors' Nate Thurmond pulls in a rebound between Cleveland Cavaliers John Johnson (32) and Steve Patterson (50) while Warrior Joe Ellis watches. The Warriors won last night's game in Cleveland, 115-98, and wound up the road trip with a 2-2 record. See story on page 34.

Indians Regain Shockley

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

STANFORD — Stanford coach John Ralston was wearing a smile after the Indians' workout Wednesday because veteran fullback Hillary Shockley returned to action.

Shockley has been out for the last two games.

"He was running as hard as he ever was," Ralston said.

The Indians emphasized their goal line offense and defense as they prepared for Saturday's game against Washington State.

California

BERKELEY — The Califor-

showed up in an earlier film session as they prepared for their contest Saturday night against UCLA in Los Angeles.

Coach Ray Willsey said the Bears will be as healthy as they have been all season for the game against the Bruins, but said he was still undecided about who will start in a few of the offensive line positions.

Oregon State

CORVALLIS, Ore. — Oregon State drilled on field goals and extra point conversions. Wednesday in the last full workout before Saturday's game at Seattle against Washington that could upset the Beavers' bid for the Rose Bowl.

While the Beaver defense drilled against Husky pass formations, the offense worked on its passing game and then ended the workout with a goal line scrimmage.

OSU will hold a workout Friday afternoon at Highline Community College in Seattle.

Southern California

LOS ANGELES — The University of Southern California Trojans concentrated on passing Wednesday for the second day in a row but coach John McKay said this does not mean they will not try to run on Notre Dame Saturday at South Bend.

"We're going to have to have a balanced attack," said McKay. "They're too big to just run on. We can't neglect our running attack, however, because if it should rain we won't be able to do much passing."

McKay said the shortest Irish lineman on defense rises to a height of 6 feet 4 inches. The best lineman, he said, is Walt Patulski who stands 6-5 and is listed at 235 pounds in Irish publicity.

Washington State

PULLMAN, Wash. — Pass protection offense and overall recognition of Stanford's offensive sets were stressed by the Washington State University Cougars in Wednesday's practice session.

Coach Jim Sweeney said his offensive line worked hard on pass protection in hopes of maintaining Stanford's famous "Thunder Chickens" at Palo Alto Saturday.

"Quarterback Don Bunce poses the biggest threat the Cougars have faced this year because he is dangerous as a passer and a runner," Sweeney said. "If we allow him operating room, we're in for a long afternoon."

New Hockey League Plans 1972 Start

CHICAGO (UPI)—The World Hockey Association expects to begin operations in the 1972-73 season with major league programs in pension, insurance and medical treatment, president Gary Davidson said Wednesday.

Davidson said that the league would announce final plans, including location and owners of franchises, in New York Nov. 1. He said the league would not have a reserve or option clause in player contracts and that it would hold a draft of all potential players within 90 days.

Davidson said the league would not attempt to sign National Hockey League players under contract after the current season.

Franchise holders must post a performance bond of $1.2 million at the time of organization in New York, Davidson said.

He said options for 11 locations for franchises had been granted covering New York, Chicago, Miami, St. aul, Milwaukee, Ohio, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Calgary, Edmonton and Winnipeg, and that six cities, Providence, Hackensack, N.J., Greensboro, N.C., Atlanta, Indianapolis and Louisville, were under consideration for the 12th franchise.

Santa Clara To Play Florida A & M Nov. 6

SANTA CLARA, Calif. (UPI)—The University of Santa Clara will face Florida A&M University in a football game Nov. 6 in the Oakland Coliseum in place of Southern University, it was announced Wednesday by Oakland promoter Henry Winston.

It will mark the first meeting ever in any sports competition between Santa Clara and Florida A&M of Tallahassee, a perennial small college football power that produced Dallas Cowboys star Bob Hayes.

Poly-Turf Firm Acts On Field

MIAMI (UPI) — American Biltrite has four representatives in Miami scraping and steaming the Orange Bowl's slippery poly-turf and trying to soothe nettled public officials.

Movies of the last two Miami Dolphins football games have shown 114 slips and falls on the synthetic surface manufactured by American Biltrite and sold to Miami for $200,000, resulting in a rash of demands that they repair it.

Officials said they would.

"We will guarantee that this field will be playable for the rest of the season," said Fred Piermattei, vice president and manager of the Boston firm after meeting with Miami City Manager Melvin Reese.

"By Monday of next week, we will be on our program to rejuvenate the field," he said. "We feel very confident."

The dismay over the slippery condition of the field resulted in a court suit filed Wednesday by Miami Beach attorney Ellis Rubin and Mrs. Brownell Harrell.

The suit, filed in circuit court, asks the court to demand that the field be either repaired or replaced by real grass. It asked that if the firm does not take action, the city be told to stop making its $4,750 monthly payments on the surface.

The suit said the surface is in a "poor, disintegrating, matted down, slippery and worn out condition."

STILL WINLESS

Seals Bow 4-2 To Montreal

By DAVID DIETZ

OAKLAND — Burly Vic Stasiuk has been coach of the California Golden Seals for less than a week, but you don't have to tell him who the Montreal Canadiens are.

As a National Hockey League player for 13 years and later as coach of the Philadelphia Flyers, Stasiuk is as familiar with the Stanley Cup champions as Charles O. Finley is with money.

"Man, they got speed and then some," Stasiuk enthused in the dressing room last night after his Seals had lost to Montreal, 4-2. "You're not going to catch many Canadiens."

Until the third period at least, the Seals indeed were left behind as Montreal built a 3-0 lead on two goals by Frank Mahovlich and one by his brother, Pete. Speed certainly helped, but the Canadiens also checked vigorously and passed crisply.

The Seals, meanwhile, were having difficulty getting out of their own end of the rink, and Montreal goalie Ken Dryden, hero of the 1971 Stanley Cup playoffs, often struck his characteristic pose of leisurely resting on his hockey stick. When the Seals did clear their own ice, passes that should have been converted into goals went under, over — and what sometimes appeared through — waiting sticks.

During the break before the final period, Stasiuk had — well, a little talk — with his squad. "I told them," he said innocently, "that I was damn disappointed."

His disgust apparently made an impression. The Seals came out hustling, knocking in two goals — by Gary Croteau and Ernie Hicke — to the Canadiens' one and outshooting Montreal, 12-5.

Stasiuk, however, wants a 60-minute hockey team, and he made it clear last night he planned extra work for his squad. "Let's face it, there are quite a few guys who are not in shape," he said.

One who is in shape is Lyle Carter, the rookie goaltender who prevented the Canadiens from running out of the rink with the game in the first two

Cleveland Site Of Davis Cup Net

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Bob Malaga, executive director of the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association (USLTA) announced today the American zone finals of the Davis Cup competition will be held here next July, marking the 13th consecutive year international tennis will be played in Cleveland.

"We gambled in 1968 when we scheduled the inter-zone finals here with Spain and everything worked out," Malga said. "I'm confident again this time."

The Davis Cup format changes next year when the defending champion will compete in every round instead of standing by until the challenge round. In its quest to retain the Davis Cup, the U.S. will start from scratch.

Earlier in the challenge round at Charlotte, N.C., the U.S. defeated Romania, 3-2, over the three-day plus one match with rain plaguing the matches throughout the weekend. It forced the postponement of one singles match.

Stan Malless, secretary of the USLTA, announced Wednesday in Indianapolis the site for the American zone finals of the Davis Cup have not yet been set—but that it would not be held at Harold T. Clark Stadium here as has been in the past.

Malles said the city of Indianapolis has purchased all A.S, electric scoreboards, press box and fencing of the Vlagk Stadium for an undisclosed five-figure amount.

Facilities from Clark Stadium will be incorporated into a new $250,000 indoor-outdoor tennis complex planned for completion in time for the U.S. Clay Court Open in Aug., 1972.

OLYMPIC FUSS

French Ski Team May Withdraw

GRENOBLE, France (UPI)—Jean Beranger, France's Olympic alpine ski team manager, said Wednesday his whole squad would drop out of the Winter Olympics if a single member was banned for not being an "amateur."

Beranger's tough stand over the amateur status rule came in the wake of the latest flareup between Avery Brundage, head of the International Olympic Committee (IOC) and the International Ski Federation (FIS).

Brundage has written to the FIS making clear that any skier who does not conform to the IOC's strict rules governing amateur status will not be allowed to take part in the games at Sapporo, Japan, FIS sources said.

The letter dashed hopes of a compromise between the two bodies over the question of professionalism in skiing, they indicated.

"Either they take everybody or nobody at all," Beranger said in an interview with L'Equipe newspaper, adding he hoped other skiing nations would join his stand.

"But I am worried because I fear some federations will be ready to send their reserve teams for the sake of appearances," added Beranger.

Mark Holder, the FIS president, said its members would be consulted before a reply is given to Brundage's letter.

Beranger said there was now much uncertainty and confusion among skiers about what the outcome of the latest clash would be.

The FIS last summer passed rules at its meeting in Yugoslavia cutting down on the amount of publicity skiers could give in an effort to find a compromise solution with the IOC, which has maintained, among other things, that the pay skiers get from advertising classes them as professionals.

Brundage's letter, written from the Mediterranean Games at Izmir 10 days ago, was a concrete sign there was trouble ahead for the Winter Olympics.

FIS sources said the problems created for the Japanese organizers will now depend upon just how strictly Brundage and his IOC committee intend to enforce the amateur status and whether national ski federations will agree to the possible banning of some of their members without pulling out completely, as already threatened by Beranger.

Sullivan, Cerrudo In Kaiser Tourney

By RALPH CHATOIAN

The long golfing weekend for those nomads in brightly colored alpaca sweaters got started today at the Silverado Country Club in Napa.

The Kaiser International Golf Tournament is always a big draw for the North Bay area and pulls in golf fans from throughout the Bay Area and parts north and south.

A UNITED PRESS International story in yesterday's I-J left out a key word in announcing that four Northern California golfers were competing in the Kaiser. The story should have said four Northern California TOUR golfers were competing. That way we wouldn't have been leaving out the likes of Buddy Sullivan, the pro at Marin Country Club in Novato. Although not a tour regular, Sullivan qualified for the tourney for his consistent showings on the Northern California pro golf circuit.

Marin County's other "local angle" to the tournament is Ron Cerrudo. Ron lived in San Rafael a short time after graduation from San Jose Sate College, and his mother, Mrs. John Cerrudo, still lives in San Rafael.

Cerrudo is one of three golfers who will be playing out of their back doors in the tourney. Cerrudo, Johnny Miller and Jimmy Wiechers all live at the Silverado Country Club, their homes overlooking the fairways. They just might know that course fairly well and if the pace slows down they might even stop off for lunch at home. ("I'll have a hot lunch, honey, but make it quick. I'm third off the No. 4 tee.")

Getting most of the ink in tournament advance stories have been slumping Billy Casper, Lee Trevino and defending champ Ken Still. Not entered this year are Silverado crowd favorites of past years, Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus. It's too bad, because any tournament is lacking when these two superstars don't show up.

And if you're worried abut tickets, you don't have to have advance ones. You can buy them at the golf club entrance at $5 each.

IT IS SELDOM hard to find a clear cut favorite in the Marin County Athletic League football race three weeks into the campaign but it's tough to do this year. Between Novato, Redwood, San Rafael and Terra Linda high schools, there is no solid choice. It's going to be extremely tough, darn-near impossible, for any of the teams to go through the league slate undefeated. My guess is that there will be two, maybe three, or even four co-champion teams this year.

ONE OF THE really old-time western football rivalries will be resumed this weekend when St. Mary's and University of San Francisco clash Saturday at Moraga. The series dates back to 1919.

Jim Peters, who did his high school playing at Redwood High and then played at College of Marin, received a few kind words in the latest news release from St. Mary's.

"Peters has shown well in drills during the past week and is expected to share more time at quarterback with Jerry Murphy," said the release. "Peters appears more at home with the Gael offense and has been right on target with his passing.

THE GOLDEN State Warriors will be opening their home schedule Saturday night against the Detroit Pistons in Oakland Coliseum Arena. It will be a good game to see, but you stay-at-homes can listen to the game on KTIM-FM, beginning at 7:45 p.m.

Caz Russell Sizzles In Golden State Win

CLEVELAND (UPI) —It doesn't take Cazzie Russell very long to adjust to his new team.

Russell, who was obtained by the Golden State Warriors in an off-season trade with the New York Knicks, pumped in 29 points Wednesday night to lead the National Basketball Association club to a 115-98 victory over the Cleveland Cavaliers.

The Warriors now return to the San Francisco Bay area with a 2-2 mark in the new season and play their home opener Saturday night in the Oakland coliseum against Detroit.

In sparking Wednesday's victory, Russell was helped by Jeff Mullins and guard Ron Williams. Mullins chipped in 27 points and Williams, who scored only 23 points in the Warriors' first three games, poured in 13 of his game-total of 23 in the first period as the Warriors moved to a 35-27 lead.

Russell and Mullins combined for 14 second-period points to lead the Warriors to a 60-51 halftime advantage.

Three quick baskets by Cleveland guard Charlie Davis after intermission cut the Golden State lead to 60-57, but the Warriors outscored the Cavaliers, 12-2, in the next three minutes and Cleveland never caught up.

Tim Rossovich Shaves Mustache Under Orders

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Tim Rossovich without a mustache?

That's like seeing Tiny Tim with a crew cut, or Yul Brynner in shoulder-length locks.

But that's exactly what the New York Giants will see on Sunday when they face Rossovich and the new hairless Philadelphia Eagles.

Ed Khayat, who has coached the Eagles to their fourth and fifth straight losses since taking over for Jerry Williams three weeks ago, ordered all players with mustaches to shave them off "or else."

No one waited to find out what the "or else" meant. On Wednesday, Rossovich showed up at practice without his bushy Fu Manchu, and more than a dozen other players were also clean shaven.

"Good grooming is one of the many facets of discipline," said Khayat.

Janusch Gets Ace At Peacock

John H. Janusch lives right off the Peacock Gap golf course at 64 Peacock Drive in San Rafael, so doesn't have to go too far to play a round of golf.

Next time he plays he might take only his nine iron. That's the club he used to score a hole-in-one on Peacock Gap's 140-yard 10th hole last Sunday.

Scores from the past week of Marin County golf action:

Mat Snell At Crossroads

NEW YORK (UPI) — Matt Snell knows the time is rapidly approaching when he must make a decision on his future as a professional football player.

The last two years have not been good ones for the 30-year-old fullback of the New York Jets. His magnificent body, which has rushed for 4,285 yards and dealt an infinite number of punishing blocks in seven seasons, has begun to let him down.

Last year Snell missed virtually the entire season with a ruptured achilles tendon. This year, determined to make a comeback, he was off to a fine start in training camp when he was whacked in the knee by Willie Lanier's helmet during a pre-season game with Kansas City. The injury caused a separation of two bones resulting in skin splints and an inflammation of the knee joint.

It was at first thought Snell would miss only three weeks, or four at the most, but it has now been seven and he has yet to play a regular season game. He is not certain when he will be ready to play again.

"I just have to wait. Yesterday was the first day in seven weeks that it hasn't hurt," Snell said Wednesday prior to the Jets' afternoon workout. But then this morning it was sore again. It wasn't throbbing like it did before, but it was sore. Maybe if it feels all right this week and I can get some practice taking handoffs, I could play Sunday. But I'm playing it by ear. If a running back can't go all out, what good is he?"

There has been some speculation Snell should have undergone surgery on the knee the day he injured it, and that he might be back in the lineup now if he had. However, Snell doesn't feel an operation was necessary.

"Dr. (James) Nicholas is a great one for operating right away, and if he thought something should be done I'm sure he would have ordered an operation," said Snell. "But there was no damage to the cartilage or ligaments. The knee didn't even swell up until the next day."

While Snell has watched from the sidelines his place in the lineup has been taken by John Riggins, a rookie from Kansas, who has been one of the bright spots for the Jets in an otherwise depressing season. Riggins is only 22 and the Jets are tabbing him for great things. So, where does that leave Snell in the team's future plans?

"Weeb (Ewbank) and I have an understanding," said Snell. "We talks things straight out. If I didn't fit into their future plans he would tell me. He wouldn't drop subtle hints.

"I like to see John play well. Before I had to do all the work. He's got to help me if I can ever get healthy again. We're not competing against each other. I been playing eight years. John is a guy with his future ahead of him."

But as the pain in his knee persists, there are the nagging fears in Snell's mind that this might be his last year. He wants desperately to play but wonders if it is really worth it anymore. He would like very much to reach the 5,000 yards rushing plateau — a figure that has been reached by only 15 players in history — but he is 715 yards short and that's a full season's work.

"I'm not saying I'm not coming back next year, but there's always a possibility," said Snell. "You don't always have control over those things. I would like to make those 5,000 yards, though. With the speed of the game like it is today and the injury rate as high as it is, there aren't going to be many guys around that will do that."

TO INDIANAPOLIS

Big Tennis Facility Move Set

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) —Indianapolis soon will have the nation's second-largest tennis facility, according to the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association.

Officials of the association said Wednesday that the 6,300 seat Harold T. Clark Stadium in Cleveland will be dismantled and shipped here in plenty of time for the 1972 U.S. Open Clay Courts Championships.

The stadium, which can be expanded to seat 8,000, is second only to Forest Hills, N.Y., site of the U. S. National Championships, which can accomodate about 13,000 fans.

The facility, to be composed of eight or nine courts, will eventually be the site of some Davis competition, Malless said. He said dismantling and trucking the stadium 300 miles to its new home would cost about one-third of what a new facility would cost.

The stadium at Cleveland is seven years old and must be moved because it is located on school board property. Cleveland plans to build a new tennis center.

Surprising Penguins Drub Kings

Tie Hawks For First In West

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

It certainly isn't surprising to see a team with a strong offense and a stingy defense sitting in first place in its particular league.

But when these qualities are displayed by the Pittsburgh Penguins, then you have every right to express surprise.

The Penguins have been one of the more disadvantaged National Hockey League teams, qualifying for the playoffs only once in their first four years. Last season they finished sixth in the West Division, a distant 45 points behind the Chicago Black Hawks.

A new season, however, has seen Pittsburgh run off a string of five consecutive victories, including an 8-1 shellacking of the Los Angeles Kings Wednesday night. Coupled with Chicago's 3-1 loss to the New York Rangers, the Penguins' victory moved them into a tie with the Black Hawks for first place in the West.

With 22 goals in six games, the Penguins have shown the second most potent offense in the league during the early going while the nine goals they have permitted is third best.

Surprised? Well, the Penguins aren't.

In other NHL games Wednesday night, the Boston Bruins edged the Detroit Red Wings 4-3, the Minnesota North Stars trounced the Vancouver Canucks 7-0, and the Buffalo Sabres beat the Toronto Maple Leafs 7-2.

Chicago dropped back into a tie for the division lead although it lost for the first time after five triumphs.

VALIANT TRY — The efforts of Los Angeles Kings' defenseman Harry Howell were not enough on this play last night against the Pittsburgh Penguins as Howell, and the puck, ended up in the net after a shot by Penguins' Jean Pronovost (right). After this goal, the Penguins went on to score seven more to win, 8-1. (UPI Telephoto) periods. He made several sprawling saves, twice robbing Jacques Lemaire of easy goals.

Only 4,263 fans showed up at the Coliseum Arena to see the team which last season astounded the hockey world by bumping the rambunctious, record-setting Boston Bruins out of the Stanley Cup playoffs.

Was Garry Young, the Seals' youthful general manager, disappointed at the turnout?

"You're damn right," he said. But Young quickly added he believed more fans should be showing up to see his winless Seals, not just the potent opposition. "This is a helluva good hockey club," he said.

ABA PLAY

Scott Hot; Squires Win By 3

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Charley Scott scored six of his 47 points in the final 57 seconds of play Wednesday night to lead the Virginia Squires to a 111-108 victory over the previously undefeated Floridians in one of three American Basketball Association games.

Scott clinched the Squires' second victory in three games this season and assured the Floridians' initial defeat after two wins when he made two free throws with just 10 seconds to play.

The Floridians tried a desperation three-point field goal in the final seconds but the shot went awry.

Jim Eakins chipped in with 20 points for the Squires while rookie Julius Erving added 17 points and 16 rebounds. Mack Calvin led the Floridians with 25 points.

Steve Jones scored four points in overtime to give the Dallas Chaps a 115-113 victory over the Carolina Cougars. The Chaps trailed 100-88 but rallied to tie the game at the end of regulation time.

Reserve forward Les Hunter scored two baskets in the last minute of play to spark the Kentucky Colonels to a 106-104 victory over the Memphis Pros.

Speier, Kingman, Blue Deserve Raises

Vida Blue did an excellent job during the World Series — plugging his favorite after-shave lotion in TV commercials. The rookie ace of the Oakland A's also got in a plug for himself with a charming smile.

BLUE RELATED that he was no Johnny-come-lately user of the lotion. "I used it when I was making only $4,000 in the minors and I'll be using it when I'm making a whole lot more money next year," he said.

That Blue earned a substantial salary increase this year nobody will deny. Charlie Finley, his boss, gave him a Cadillac in midseason. That was a nice supplement to his $12,800 salary, the minimum for major league rookies.

BUT $12,800 is not equitable pay for a rookie who wins 20 or more games. Charlie Finley readily recognizes that. There's no doubt that he intends to upgrade Blue's salary in the rookie's 1972 contract. But will the government permit Finley to fulfill his good intentions?

There's a wage and price freeze in effect now. Phase II of the president's emergency program against inflation will go into effect Nov. 14. Wage and price boards created by the president will set guide lines.

WILL THE guide lines be flexible enough to permit equitable pay increases not only for Blue but Chris Speier and Dave Kingman, a couple of worthy rookies with the Giants?

"Are they being promoted?" asked a lady at the regional office of the wage and price boards.

"NO, MA'AM," an inquiring reporter replied. "They'll still be doing substantially the same job. Kingman is going to have a go at third base, though. And Speier is going to try switch hitting next spring. But Blue isn't ambidextrous. He'll still be a southpaw."

"Just a minute," said the lady, "I'm switching your call upstairs."

IT DEVELOPED that "upstairs" was the Bureau of Internal Revenue which the inquiring reporter learned would be the enforcement arm of Phase II of the president's wage and price program.

The gentleman who answered the phone in IRS was a baseball fan and immediately showed an appreciation of the inquiry.

"VERY INTERESTING," he said. "Unusual equities are involved. Yes, there are unusual equities here."

But what about them? Do the rookies get the raises to which they are entitled? Or are they frozen to their 1971 salaries?

"THE GUIDE lines haven't been drawn yet," said the IRS man. "But I'm sure they will be equitable guide lines."

Equitable enough to cover Blue, Speier and Kingman?

THE IRS MAN, being a baseball fan but one without guide lines at the moment, said:

"I can't make a ruling until I get our guide lines. But I'm sure they'll be equitable."

Rams Sign Extra Backer Parish

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—For reasons known only to coach Tommy Prothro and his aides, the Los Angeles Rams have added a seventh linebacker to their roster.

He is Don Parish, a star at Stanford and the No. 4 draft choice of the St. Louis Cardinals with whom he was rookie of the year in 1970.

This year he injured a knee in the preseason and was placed on the inactive list. The Rams had their team doctor examine him and he was adjudged worth the undisclosed draft choice the Cards got in exchange.

Other linebackers with the Rams are Marlin McKeever, Jim Purnell, Isiah Robertson, Dean Halverson, Ken Geddes, and John Pergine.

Giants Get Milwaukee Vet Pitcher

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — The Milwaukee Brewers announced Wednesday they traded veteran lefthander John Morris to the San Francisco Giants for two young pitchers in the Giants' farm system.

The Brewers got left hander Gary Ryerson, 23, and right-hander Leslie Scott, 25, who both pitched more than 200 innings for Amarillo in the Texas League last season. Ryerson had a 14-9 record and a 2.61 earned run average and Scott had a 15-8 mark and a 2.24 ERA. Scott's victories included a seven-inning no-hitter.

Scott and Ryerson will report to the Brewers' American Association farm club at Evansville, Ind., where Morris finished the season.

Morris, 30, was assigned to Evansville after posting a 2-2 mark and a 3.72 ERA during the 1971 season at Milwaukee. He appared in 43 games for the Brewers, all but one in relief. Morris will report to the Giants' Phoenix club in the Pacific Coast League.

CLEMENTE HONORED

Seeks Boss Post

NEW YORK (UPI) —For Roberto Clemente, the next step is perfectly obvious.

Managing.

They asked him about that next obvious step Wednesday after Sport Magazine had presented him with a neat new evergreen colored sedan for having been named the outstanding performer in the World Series and Pittsburgh's intense, high strung superstar, whose mental as well as physical machinery is such that he's generally way ahead of most people, answered the question as if he already had anticipated it.

"I'M NOT interested in managing," he said. "Not whatsoever. A manager has to be tough with the players. I notice on a lotta clubs the players don't want to talk with the manager. I get along with the players very good. I enjoy the relationship. I want people to like me, and the way I talk with the players now I can't do that as a manager."

Roberto Clemente, in a way, is no different than Babe Ruth.

WHEN BABE Ruth was through doing everything one man could possibly do on a baseball field the next step for him was perfectly obvious also.

He wanted to try his hand managing. Why not? If he could hit all those home runs, he could manage couldn't he?

Roberto Clemente has. He managed as recently as one year ago when he handled the San Juan club in the Puerto Rican Winter League. He was more than merely a good manager. He was an excellent one.

HE CLAIMS he wasn't tough on the players and in a sense that was true. In another sense he was as tough on them as he had to be.

"Oh, I won't stand for any foolishness," he says about his basic philosophy on managing, "but I don't think a manager can treat a player rough."

There again the Pirates' 37-year-old rightfielder is giving the impression that he can be had. He can't be though. Not too easily.

SOME YEARS back Clemente was asked to manage the San Juan club temporarily and among his players was one of the American League's foremost stars. This player thought he would "test" Clemente and when the showdown came it turned out to be no contest.

"Look," Clemente told the star, "I don't care who you are or what you are up there in the American League, but when you're playing down here for me, on this club, you get here on time, you put out like everyone else and you get no special privileges that nobody else gets. If you don't like this arrangement, say so now, because as long as I'm manager you're going to do it this way or you're not going to be with this club. I guarantee that."

CLEMENTE HAD no more trouble with that particular player.

At Wednesday's session, Clemente, who says he'd like to play at least two or three more years, talked about many different things.

He was asked whom he considered the best ballplayer he ever saw and he said:

"WILLIE MAYS, no question."

Dave Bing Gets Football From Friend Lem Barney

DETROIT (UPI)—Dave Bing is finally going to get his football from Lem Barney.

Barney wanted to take the football he scored with last Sunday to Bing while the Detroit Pistons' star guard was in the hospital on Monday, recuperating from surgery to reattach the retina to his right eye.

But the star cornerback for the Detroit Lions didn't quite make it. He had to make a detour to the hospital.

It seems that while scoring on his 28-yard interception return, Barney pulled a groin muscle. He later aggravated it in the game and on Monday it was learned Barney had a little internal bleeding in the pulled muscle. So he was taken to the hospital, where he rests now.

Bing was scheduled to be released sometime before Friday night, and when he gets out he's going straight to Ford Hospital in Detroit.

To pick up his football.

Rojas Files $12 Million Law Suit

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

LOS ANGELES — A $12.4 million damage suit was filed in federal court Wednesday by Minnie Rojas, former California Angels pitcher, who was paralyzed in his arms and legs as a result of an auto accident in Florida in April, 1970.

The suit named as defendant State Farm Mutual Automobile Insurance Co.

Rojas' wife, Maria, was seriously hurt and two of their three children were killed in the accident.

Attorney Nathaniel J. Friedman, acting for Rojas, said the insurance firm tried coercing the family into accepting a far smaller sum than they were entitled to under terms of their insurance policy.

Rojas claimed the accident occurred when his car was sideswiped by a truck which left the scene. The insurance company contended no other vehicle was involved.

SAN FRANCISCO — Walter Alston of the Los Angeles Dodgers was named Manager of the Year yesterday by the Associated Press. Alston received 72 votes to 65 for runnerup Charlie Fox of the San Francisco Giants, and 57 for Danny Murtaugh, manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

CLEVELAND — James Finks, vice president and general manager of the Minnesota Vikings, testified Wednesday before the Federal Grand Jury investigating the National Football League, but he had "no comment" when he reappeared from the jury room.

The jury had been expected to question Finks about quarterback Joe Kapp, who left the Vikings after the 1969 season. Kapp is currently playing for the new England Patriots.

Following the day's session, the jury went into recess until next month.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. — University of Illinois football coach Bob Blackman says he will not oust halfback John Wilson, who was arrested Monday on charges of deceptive practices for allegedly using a stolen card.

Blackman said university regulations do not make a student charged with a misdemeanor ineligible for intercollegiate athletics.

Wilson pleaded innocent Tuesday to the misdemeanor charge of trying to use a stolen credit card to buy gas and oil at a local service station.

LANSING, Mich. — Hospital officials said Wednesday Michigan State University athletic director Clarence L. "Biggie Munn" is "in satisfactory condition, under the circumstances" and is expected to at least partially recover from a stroke suffered two weeks ago.

"There has been no significant improvement in his neurological condition, but the expectation now is that he will live but have residual effects of paralysis of the right side and inability to speak," said a hospital bulletin.

Munn suffered the stroke Oct. 7 and has been hospitalized in Lansing's Sparrow Hospital since.

TREAD WEAR EXPECTANCY
Because of variable driving habits and road conditions under which tires are used, it is impractical for Montgomery Ward, and conceivably misleading to our customers, to guarantee any specific number of months or miles of tread wear. We can, however, indicate the wear potential we have built into our tires in terms of service in normal family use. If a Riverside tire wears down to the tread wear indicators during the Tread Wear Expectancy, Montgomery Ward will upon presentation of the tire and evidence of date of purchase replace the tire for the then current regular price less the following dollar allowance:

Tread Wear Expectancy	Tread Wear-Out Allowance

Lockheed Turnaround Is Forecast

BURBANK (UPI) —Lockheed Aircraft Corp., beset by "unprecedented problems" during the past two years, is "now on an upward track," board chairman Daniel Haughton told stockholders Wednesday at the annual meeting.

Haughton said the aerospace company has the capability to make a turnaround now that its contract disputes with the government have been settled and new financing has been arranged.

"We have big jobs to do. We have a chance to climb back up. The resources to finance our unfinished business are there. We have good talent, good customers, good technology and strong determination to succeed," Haughton said.

He forecast sales next year at approximately the 1970 level of just over $2.5 billion. He said sales so far this year, $2.35 billion for the first nine months, are running substantially above last year's $1.75 billion for the like period.

"For 1971 as a whole," he said, "we expect sales to total nearly $3 billion, a major percentage of which is booked at no profit as the result of our C5A Galaxy and Cheyenne helicopter settlements."

On Sept. 26, Lockheed's order backlog stood at $4.07 billion, about the same as the midyear figure of $4.04 billion, but below the $5 million backlog of last year.

Haughton reminded the stockholders assembled in a hangar that the company could not resume payments of dividends, prohibited by the emergency loan guarantee passed by Congress and by an agreement with creditor banks extending to the end of 1975.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Reward For Holder Of Emerson Shares

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I hold close to 600 shares of Emerson Electric (NYSE) which I bought in 1945. The dividends are not attractive now that I am retired. What should I do, hold or sell part? — A.K.

A. Emerson Electric, which you have held for 26 years, has certainly been a rewarding investment. Although you have not stated in your letter your cost or exact share holdings, a 50-share investment in Emerson made in 1945 would have cost, on average, $1,275. In the intervening years stock splits and dividends would have increased shares to 552, while price appreciation also added to your investment value which now approximates $42,000.

Acquisitions, research and agile management have all contributed to Emerson's strong growth pattern. And though the rate of increment has been at a slower pace this year and last, stronger demand, particularly if Congress enacts tax credit legislation, should revitalize Emerson's earnings trend. Equally bullish for the company is the recent sharp increase in construction.

I would advise sale of 100 shares now with the $7,500 proceeds to be banked for living expenses.

Q. Can you tell me how many times Loews Theatres, now Loews Corp., has split since the old Loews, Inc. formed twocomapnies in 1959; Loews Theatres and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer? — W.H.

A. In March 1959 Loews, Inc. was reorganized and shareholders were given ½ share in the two surviving companies for each share in the original firm. Capitalization for the two new companies did not change until 1966, when MGM split 2-for-1. In 1967 and again in 1968 this same corporation distributed 5% in stock to shareholders. The other surviving entity, Loews Theatres, now Loews, Corp., retained its equity structure intact until January 1968 when shares were split 2½-for-1; in December of that same year a 3-for-1 split was consummated. No other splits or stock dividends have occurred for either Big Board issue.

Gross Sales On Increase

SAN DIEGO (BW) — Royal Inns of America Inc. has reported gross sales of $2,877,317 from network operations for September, a 62.4 per cent increase over the $1,765,869 gross sales for the like period last year.

The figure represents sales for all hotels and motor hotels, Jolly King Family restaurants and Lost Knight cocktail lounges, according to Earl Gagosian, chairman of the board and president.

Number of rooms rented rose to 99,083 compared to the 69,566 rooms rented in September 1970.

Fabric Firm Has Increase In Sales

PORTLAND, Ore. (BW) — Fabric Wholesalers Inc., Portland-based wholesalers and retailers of domestic and imported fabrics, has reported a 40 per cent increase in net earnings after taxes on a 47 per cent increase in sales for the nine-month period ended Sept. 30.

Net sales for the nine months were $3,576,714, compared with $2,422,591 in sales for the same period last year.

LINE TROUBLE — NO PRICE LIST

Due to transmission trouble in New York City there is no list of New York Stock Exchange prices today.

Computer Firm's 9-Month Earnings

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — Boothe Computer Corp. has reported net income of $2,475,000 for the nine-month period ended Sept. 30, an increase of 22 per cent over the $2,031,000 net income for the same period a year ago.

This amounted to $1.29 per share (on 1,925,770 average common shares and common share equivalents outstanding), compared with $1.08 per share a year ago.

SMART CHART

"We can't seem to shake our old image as a tobacco company."

Third Quarter Earnings Climb

HOUSTON (BW) — Marathon Manufacturing Co. has reported third quarter earnings before extraordinary items of $1,562,000, or 63 cents per share, a 70 per cent increase on sales of $38.7 million as compared to $819,000, or 37 cents per share, on sales of $20.3 million for the like period in 1970.

Net income for the three months ended Sept. 30 was $1,888,000 (77 cents per share) as compared to $990,000 (45 cents per share) for the same period in 1970.

For the cumulative nine months ended Sept. 30 the company reported earnings before extraordinary items of $3,436,000, or $1.35 per share, on sales of $102.9 million as compared to $1,683,000, or 75 cents per share, on sales of $54.7 million for the same period in 1970.

A Name Change For Utah Mining

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — A change in the corporate name of Utah Construction & Mining Co. to Utah International Inc. and the merger of Eccles Investment Co. into the company have become effective.

Under terms of the merger, shares of Eccles Investment Co. are converted into not more than 1,167,521 shares of Uah Common Stock which has been listed, in addition to other common stock of Utah, on the New York and Pacific Coast stock exchanges. The ticker symbol continues unchanged as "UC."

Motorcycle Accessories, Parts To Be Sold In New Marin Store

A new store selling motorcycle accessories and parts for all makes of motorized two-wheelers soon will open at 804 Fourth Street, San Rafael under the name of Marin Cycle Supply.

This is in a way a return to downtown Fourth Street by Marin Motorsports, Inc., which for several months has been in its new building at 1101 Francisco Boulevard. But this store will not carry cycles — only accessories and parts for all makes, not just those for the vehicles for which it is a dealer. The Francisco Boulevard location will continue to operate.

Lease transaction was handled by Harry Abras of Don Timmer, Realtor.

A NEW SMALL BUSINESS venture called Karl Milliken Ceramics has opened upstairs at 691 Bridgeway in Sausalito.

Owner Karl Milliken of Mill Valley has been doing pottery work for the past year and has built up a stock of quite a few pieces. He also does custom work to order and the public is invited to watch him at his wheel. He does his kiln work in Mill Valley.

Hours are from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Mondays through Saturdays.

A NEW CREDIT UNION, known as the Hamilton Air Force Base Federal Credit Union, has opened offices in a remodeled building adjacent to the Hamilton base exchange and is now operating Mondays through Fridays. Membership is limited to active and retired service personnel and civilian defense workers.

Attorney Frederick T. Graham of Northgate Industrial Park is president.

TIBURON VINTNERS, INC. has appointed Frank Martin-Vegue Jr., formerly financial planning manager of the Ampex Corp. instrumentation division, to the position of winery controller. He will be headquartered at the company's winery in Windsor, Sonoma County.

A ONE-DAY WORKSHOP for office personnel on administrative training will be held Saturday, Nov. 6 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the art gallery of the Mill Valley Public Library, 373 Throckmorton Avenue. Registration, including program materials, is $20.

Winifred Stetson, business instructor at the College of San Mateo, will conduct the class. She has had wide experience in conducting in-service programs for industry and workshops for business teachers, secretarial staffs and personnel groups.

Full details may be obtained from the University of California Extension Center in San Francisco or the extension's campus office in Berkeley.

REGISTRATIONS are still being taken for the remaining two sessions in the Small Business Administration's Tuesday evening management development course in San Francisco.

On Oct. 26 the subject covered will be record keeping. The last session on Nov. 2 will be on the "Vanishing Work Week." Hours are from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Classes are being held at the National Cash Register Co., 9 Peter York Way, San Francisco.

INSURANCE: David S. Patterson Jr. of Santa Rosa, field sales representative for Employers Insurance of Wassau for Marin, Sonoma and Mendocino Counties, has been awarded the Chartered Property Casualty Underwriter designation by the American Institute for Property and Liability Underwirters.

Slide On Wall Street At Far Slower Pace

NEW YORK (UPI) —The Wall Street slide resumed today but at a pace far slower than on Wednesday.

Prices moved lower on the American Stock Exchange with declines topping advances, 413 to 240. Most active issues included Arctic Enterprises, up 1-8 to 37 3-4 on 24,500 shares, and Wheelabrator, down 1-4 to 23,700.

Some issues with sizable losses Wednesday moved by a point or more in the other direction, a traditional sign of bargain hunting. Natomas, an oil drilling firm, jumped 3. It fell 9 7-8 Wednesday. Bauxch & Lomb, off 4 1-2 Wednesday, added a point.

But some losers continued sliding, notably Corning Glass, down 1-2, and IBM, off 3 5-8. On Wednesday the former gave up 14, the latter 4.

Elsewhere in the electronics, Westinghouse lost 1 1-4, General Electric 3-4. Burroughs rose 2.

Steels and autos moved lower. Du Pont fell a point in the mixed chemicals, airlines improved with American up a point. Rails and aircrafts eased.

Split Voted By Redwood Bank

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Redwood Bank directors on Wednesday voted a three-for-two split of the firm's common stock.

Approval still is needed for shareholders and regulatory agencies.

The bank has five branches in the San Francisco Bay Area.

Henry Shapiro, UPI, Moscow, dean of Western correspondents in the USSR

If you could convince the Soviets that you were HENRY SHAPIRO of United Press International you'd get in. But since you can't, better let Shapiro do it for you . . . and then write a dispatch which you can read in the I-J.

For more than 30 years Shapiro has been manager of UPI'S Moscow Bureau. He is the dean of Western correspondents there. His abilities, his writing and his honors are known and respected throughout the world – even by the Russians!

His assignment is perhaps the most difficult of any correspondent. He must maintain a delicate balance within a totalitarian world yet report to you, the reader, on events often unreported within the USSR itself. He must maintain accreditation yet maintain credibility with his audience for reliable reporting.

Such talents have enabled Henry Shapiro to cover every major event in the USSR since the treason trials of the Thirties, the siege of Leningrad, Stalin's death, Khrushchev's rise and fall from power, the Soviet space flights – the entire spectrum of the USSR.

When you read Shapiro's dispatches in the I-J you can be sure you are receiving authoritative information. He's your man in the Kremlin. In fact, one of the few men who comes out with the news . . . because he's "in."

ARREST IN MEMPHIS VIOLENCE

Police arrest a youth as violence continues to build in Memphis over the death of Elton Hayes, a 17-year-old Negro youth. Accusations of police brutality have been made into his death. The state attorney general's office has ordered an investigation. Last night black youths kept police and firemen scurrying with firebombings, vandalism and almost 300 false alarms.

Educators Say Anti-War Order Unconstitutional

BERKELEY (UPI) — The University of California's law school dean and 25 professors say the Berkeley Board of Education "flagrantly" violated the Constitution's spirit when it ordered anti-war programs in schools.

The board's action and Superintendent Richard Foster's orders to teachers "are an affront to fundamental democratic values and a gross misuse of authority," the faculty members declared in a letter made public Wednesday.

"Of at least equal importance, they flagrantly violate the spirit, and probably the letter, of both federal and state constitutions," the letter said.

The board on Oct. 5 instructed its school to support the "National Moratorium on Business as Usual" on Oct. 13 and the "National Student Strike" on Nov. 3.

First Phase Of Hearing Over

STANFORD (UPI)—A faculty board concluded the first phase of a hearing Wednesday into whether a radical associate professor should be fired from the Stanford University faculty.

A recess was called after H. Bruce Franklin, an avowed Maoist, reiterated statements that he did not heckle former ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge whose campus speech was disrupted Jan. 11.

Franklin, who has been suspended with pay, is accused of inciting students to violence.

The board is to recommend whether he should be dismissed.

3 Convicted In City Hall Fight

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A municipal court jury on Wednesday convicted three men arrested during a City Hall scuffle on charges of battery on police officers, a misdemeanor.

The three, arrested when a group tried to force its way into Mayor Joseph L. Alioto's office, are Robert D. Covington, John J. Rodelo and Mojo Tubutu.

They had been part of a group urging action on minority hiring in the construction industry. The mayor's aides said they did not have an appointment.

Treasury Secretary Hails Fiscal Policy

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—World economics has "entered a new day" in which the United States must adjust its priorities abroad in order to remain a monetary leader, Treasury Secretary John B. Connally told the nation's leading bankers Wednesday.

Connally also said the prospects were "excellent" for dismantling domestic economic controls "after a very short run."

The Treasury secretary told 14,500 bankers at the closing session of the American Banking Association Convention that President Nixon's new fiscal program has "changed the course of history" and will not soften despite bitter foreign reaction.

Connally said the U.S. would be criticized abroad, "but we should understand that their interests at this moment are not our interests."

When the international monetary system comes out of its "present limbo, the U.S. will remain one of the leaders of the world," the former Texas governor said.

"This will still be the strongest nation in the world and there will be a system that insures fair treatment for the United States," he said.

The 10 per cent foreign surcharge "is going to stay on for awhile," said Connally. When it is removed, "is up to the other nations — when we have some assurance our balance of payments is rectified or we are assured there is a mechanism whereby it can be rectified."

Domestically, Connally said "we have to break the cycle of inflation, but once we do that we can really begin to dismantle" economic controls.

At a later news conference, Connally said he was "delighted" at the latest reductions in prime interest rates touched off Wednesday after Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. of New York announced a prime rate reduction from 6 per cent to 5 3-4 per cent.

Connally's 'No Show' At Hearing Ties Freeze Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The rush legislation that President Nixon requested to help control the economy after the wage-price freeze ends suffered a temporary delay in the House today, with Treasury Secretary John B. Connally partly to blame.

Connally had been invited by Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., to appear before Patman's Banking Committee today to explain the legislative requests. Patman invited only Connally and said he wanted no substitute.

But Connally wound up instead in San Francisco, at a convention of the American Bankers Association, from which he planned to return to his home in Texas.

For a time Patman threatened to hold the hearing anyway, empty witness chair and all; but Connally called Patman Wednesday evening and Patman agreed to cancel the session. He said he was willing to hold it at any time — even Sunday night if need be — but it appeared the most likely time would be Tuesday after the Veterans Day weekend.

In the meantime, however, the timetable for the legislation has been set back several days.

Connally's attendance at the bankers convention was not expected to win points with Patman, who makes no bones of disliking the association which represents the nation's commercial banks.

In a speech Wednesday, in Montreal, Patman said the association is "the granddaddy of lobbying organizations."

"Traditionally the bankers center their sessions on three key resolutions —one, denouncing whatever Wright Patman may be doing at the moment; two, identifying the close relationship between high interest rates and patriotism; and three, outlining the critical needs to eliminate those burdensome bank regulations," he said.

Various color phases of the black bear occur. Sometimes they are rusty brown to pale cinnamon, and there even are pure white "black" bears.

Kosygin Views Nixon's Visit

OTTAWA (UPI) —Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin Wednesday described President Nixon's planned visit to Moscow as a two-sided affair in which the Soviet Union was as hopeful as the United States "to further peaceful solutions and not increase tensions."

Kosygin and his party wound up their three-day visit to Ottawa today and were leaving for a cross-Canada tour of Montreal, Vancouver, Edmonton and Toronto.

Kosygin told newsmen in Ottawa he hoped the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) would reach an agreement on limiting antiballistic missiles by early next year. He added that the Soviet Union supported NATO proposals for East-West force reductions in Europe, although details remained to be worked out.

Senate Doves Back In Action

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Senate doves have fired back two more antiwar amendments at a recalcitrant House in a shotgun effort to write a Vietnam disengagment into law.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee attached the two amendments to the Housepassed foreign aid bill Wednesday, hoping that at least one of the measures would get through. One of the amendments would cut off funds for any purpose other than the withdrawal of troops; the other would establish a national policy to disengage from Indochina by spring.

The measures represented two more Senate shots across the bow at the administration's policy of continued intervention on behalf of the Saigon government.

But the foreign aid bill itself gave the White House an unexpected victory.

In a surprise move just before the bill cleared the committee late Wednesday afternoon, members replaced half the $724.2 million in cuts the committee had made in the measure in previous weeks.

That left the bill at a level of $3.2 billion —only a moderate reduction from the $3.5 billion the administration wanted for economic and military assistance in the current fiscal year.

A glum Chairman J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., attributed the reversal to administration pressure.

"In the last 30 minutes, the committee reversed about everything it did in preceding weeks," he said.

Fulbright said he was "not very excited" about the antiwar amendments, contending they were useful as tools to educate the public on evils of the war but ineffective in changing policy.

Lawsuit Hits State On Racial Positions

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A sweeping lawsuit charging the state of California and elected officials from Gov. Ronald Reagan down with perpetuating racial discrimination was filed Wednesday in the U.S. District Court.

The suit, filed by the NAACP, said that "massive apathy and inaction by state agencies in the fields of housing, employment and school discrimination" have led to and maintained discrimination.

The suit asked the court to order the state "to formulate, adopt and execute affirmative plans on a statewide basis to eliminate discrimination in housing, schools and employment."

It cited as an example of discrimination a 3 per cent decline in the percentage of blacks employed by the state. The suit charged that the state Personnel Board used "written and oral tests, many of them totally unrelated to job performance."

NAACP attorney Nathaniel Colley cited a job test which he said asked "what time of the year the robins return."

In California, Colley said, "The robins never leave."

Colley of Sacramento, who filed the suit, said it was a new kind of lawsuit for the organization,

"We're going to do in one suit what we've been doing, up to now, in hundreds of suits," he said.

Colley said that if the NAACP tried to accomplish its goals through separate lawsuits, it would take "about 1,200 years" just to sue each individual school district.

Besides the governor, agencies named in the action included the Board of Education, Fair Employment Practices Commission, the Department of Veterans Affairs and state agencies which regulate banks, savings and loan associations and real estate brokers.

Agnew 'Dirty Work' Denied

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Chairman Dean Burch said yesterday he was "disgusted" with CBS President Frank Stanton for suggesting that the Federal Communications Commission does Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's "dirty work."

The head of the FCC told a Senate hearing into freedom of the press that Stanton "has promulgated a conspiracy theory" ever since Agnew first attacked broadcasting networks in November, 1969."

"It has become a folklore which is highly prized by broadcasters," Burch said, "and it goes like this: the vice president says something and the FCC will move in and do the dirty work by taking away licenses or whatever.

"The only thing wrong with the theory is that it is false," Burch said. "And Dr. Stanton knows it is false. He can cite no evidence that coincides with that particular theory ... I really am a bit disgusted that Dr. Stanton keeps bringing up this conspiracy theory because it simply will not wash."

Stanton, whose network was involved in a long dispute with the House Commerce Committee over the CBS documentary, "The Selling of the Pentagon," preceded Burch by two weeks at the hearings by the subcommittee on constitutional rights.

At that time, he expressed concern that "the dark shadow of surveillance" by the government inhibited broadcasters' right to free speech. He said the future of American democracy is threatened by government intimidation of the news media.

Burch, as proof that Stanton's fears were exaggerated, said "in the entire history of the FCC only three cases have been decided against net works." But Nicholas Johnson, an FCC commissioner often at odds with Burch, offered what he called "a little refutation of the chairman's suggestion that there was absolutely no conspiracy between Agnew and the FCC."

Johnson said the FCC issued its "ill-fated and notorious order" which "was widely interpreted as a ruling that rock music dealing with the subject of drugs should no longer be played on radio stations" after a White House meeting attended by Burch.

"Shortly after Agnew discovered rock music and found that he didn't like it," Johnson said, "there was a meeting at the White House at which record company executives and broadcasters were invited, at which Dean Burch was present, at which they were all urged to please not play such music any more and that shortly following that the FCC issued" the controversial order.

Johnson dissented on that issue but was overruled by the majority.

Fonda Opposes Nuclear Blast In Aleutians

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Actor Henry Fonda Wednesday criticized the underground nuclear test planned this month at Amchitka in the Aleutian Islands off the coast of Alaska.

A nuclear scientist, Arthur R. Tamplin of the Lawrence Laboratory in Livermore, also criticized the test, a five megaton blast which would be the largest ever conducted by the United States.

Both men cited a number of arguments against the test and noted that two lawsuits were pending against it, but said they felt that only President Nixon could halt the test.

Fonda said he was not an expert, but a man deeply concerned and strongly opposed to the test.

Nixon Still Silent On Atomic Test

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Justice Department assured conservationists in court today that there will be no detonation before Wednesday of a controversial underground nuclear test at Amchitka Island off the Alaskan Coast.

U.S. Attorney Edmund Clark told a U.S. Court of Appeals hearing that President Nixon still has not made a decision whether to go ahead with the five-megaton explosion —largest ever to be conducted by the United States —in a proposed test of the Safeguard antiballistic missile system's Spartan interceptor missile.

The longer the announcement is delayed, Clark said, the shorter will be the period of public notice because weather conditions worsen as the year grows longer. He said there might be only three days between Nixon's announcement and any actual explosion.

Clark's disclosure made moot a request by the committee for nuclear responsibility and seven conservation groups for an injunction against the test pending completion of their appeal. U.S. District Judge George L. Hart Jr. has set a hearing for Friday.
